NOT BAD AT ALL

Kerri Kirst of Kentfield, comes up smiling after a head first plunge into the snow. Twelve-year-old Kerri was among a group of young people who trekked Saturday from snowless Marin to the powdery stuff of the Sierra. Her plunge here was made with the assistance of friends who shoved her from a rock as the youngsters romped during a bus breakdown on Highway 80. Story and more photos on page 30. Demo Remap Plan Passes — Legislature Adjourns

Legality Questioned; Reagan Veto Predicted

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A weary California Legislature adjourned for the year at 2:17 a.m. today after passing Democratic reapportionment bills of questionable legality that Gov. Ronald Reagan vowed to veto.

Bitterly divided to the end after a record 348 calendar days in regular and special sessions that outlasted Congress, the 1971 legislature anticlimactically wrapped up its affairs in an unprecedented week-end-before-Christmas meeting spread over odd hours.

Holiday cheer was noticeably absent from the legislative chambers, which reverberated with anger and name calling.

"This heavy handedness has not been equalled since (former speaker Jess) Unruh locked up the Assembly in '63," charged Senate Republican Caucus Chairman John L. Harmer of Glendale.

"That's just a damn lie," snapped Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys. "I was never heavy handed with anybody."

Moretti added, "Not only am I not ashamed of this session of the legislature, but I'm proud of it."

The legislature will convene its 1972 session in just two weeks, on Jan. 3.

The reapportionment bill for the Senate was designed to preserve the upper house's 21-19 Democratic majority, with special emphasis on protecting all Democrats. The Assembly plan would boost that House's 42-37 Democratic domination (one vacancy) to 44-36.

The congressional plan would increase California's seats from 38 to 43 because of the population boom of the '60s. It would politically protect the present 20 Democrats and 18 Republicans. Of the five new districts, Democrats said two were designed for themselves, two for Republicans and one was a tossup. Republicans argued the plan was more heavily weighted toward Democrats.

The voting took place long after midnight.

The Senate plan passed the Assembly 41-26, then the Senate 21-17. The Assembly plan was voted final passage by the Senate 21-17. And the congressional bill cleared the Senate 22-16, then the Assembly 42-24.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-4th Dist., voted against the assembly reapportionment plan, the senate reapportionment plan, and the senate plan for congressional reapportionment. Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-7th Dist., voted against the Democratic-sponsored reapportionment plan for California's congressional delegations, and against the Democratic plan for Senate reapportionment.

Only one Republican in the legislatuure voted for any of the plans. Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, supported the congressional bill, explaining that Republican Rep. William S. Mailliard of San Francisco favored it.

During a brief floor debate, Harmer said "I guess we've proven by this debacle that the legislature is incapable of reapportioning itself. We're a colossal failure."

Harmer told newsmen, "My recommendation to the governor is to veto all three bills." He predicted Reagan will follow that advice. The governor already had said he would veto the Senate and Assembly plans.

There was little doubt, however, the final arbiter of reapportionment would be the courts.

Democrats declared they will contest Reagan's promised vetoes, contending the legislature can reapportion itself without gubernatorial interference.

"This is a legislative prerogative," said Moretti. "It is not for the governor to tell us what we can and cannot do. What we are really fighting for now is the right to know whether the legislative branch of government is a separate and equal branch."

He added, "I think there is a landmark decision in the making. We're going to establish freedom for legislatures across the country."

Republican Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke maintained the legislature forfeited its reapportionment rights by not passing bills

10 Pct. Import Surcharge Ended

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) —President Nixon conferred with British Prime Minister Edward Heath today in the last of his "little summit" meetings and announced that he had removed the 10 per cent surcharge on imports.

Nixon's action removing the levy on foreign goods imposed to help shore up the U. S. balance of payments, was effective immediately. Nixon started his two days of talks with Heath within a half hour after arriving from Washington at this British-owned island resort.

A few minutes after their first meeting, Nixon emerged and told newsmen gathered on the lawn of the Government House on a hilltop overlooking the island that he had signed a proclamation removing the surcharge.

"I have today made the first decision implementing the agreement that was reached over the weekend by the group of ten in their meetings in Washington, Nixon said.

The United States agreed to cancel the surcharge Saturday night as part of a far-reaching international monetary agreement by the major free-world trading partners.

"I have just had my first meeting with the Prime Minister," Nixon said. "He felt that it would be well that I make this announcement prior to the time that we go into our more extended meeting this afternoon," Nixon said.

Nixon imposed the surcharge Aug. 15. It was levied across the board, making no distinction between the major powers and the underdeveloped nations.

The administration had argued that the surcharge was a temporary tool that would speed movement toward freer world trade. But opponents said its effect was the opposite — that other nations would have

BETTER THAN PUTTING FOOT IN HIS MOUTH

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — A secret Service agent, checking the rafters of Government House before the start of the Nixon-Heath summit, put his feet through the ceiling of the Prime Minister's bathroom, it was reported today.

The incident occurred before Prime Minister Edward Heath arrived late Friday to meet today and tomorrow with President Nixon, sources said. The ceiling was quickly repaired.

A white House staff member said the report was amusing but untrue, but both British and Bermuda sources confirmed it.

3 On C-7 Survive Sea Crash

An Air Force pilot who had brought his cargo plane more than 500 miles on one enging before ditching it in the sea was pulled to safety yesterday moments before the aircraft sank in the Pacific. (See photo page 10.)

The pilot, Capt. Donald Henderson, 25, tried to bring the disabled plane to land but 22 miles off the California coast he ran out of fuel and had to crash. The crash forced metal against Henderson and he was trapped in the cockpit.

Staff Sgt. Michael Fish, 25, of Oswego, Ore., one of a team of paramedics from Hamilton Air Force Base there to help with the rescue, jumped into the water, shattered the cockpit window and pulled out Henderson from water which had already reached his chin.

"Just as we pulled him out of the airplane the water came over the airplane and we were just sitting in the water on top of the plane," Fish said.

The two other crewmen aboard, Lt. Jim Breitenstine, 24, Akron, Ohio, and Staff Sgt. Richard E. Jackson, 23, Elizabeth City, N.C., stepped out the back of the ditched air plane into a waiting life raft. They were not hurt.

The propeller-driven cargo plane, originally from Cam Ranh Bay in Viet Nam, was one of 12 heading back to the United States for overhaul. It had stopped at Hickham Air Force Base, Hawaii, and was scheduled for another stop at McClellan Air Force Base near Sacramento, before going to its final destination of Langley Air Force Base, Va.

After taking off from Hawaii and about 500 to 700 miles from the California coast, Breitenstine said the plane developed engine trouble. One engine was turned off and the plane went the rest of the way on the other engine.

Yahya Quits; Bhutto Takes Over

KARACHI (UPI)—President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan resigned today on a wake of unpopularity brought by the loss of East Pakistan in the war with India. Anti-Yahya demonstrations broke out in Karachi and Rawalpindi where a mock trial sentenced him to hang.

Leftist political leader Zulfiqar Ali Bhutto took over as president and chief martial law administrator, technically ending 13 years of military rule, but his takeover had no effect on the crowds who stoned the Russian Aeroflot office, set three bars on fire and tried to march on the Indian High Commission (Embassy).

In Rawalpindi, the capital, about 500 persons converged in cars and trucks on Yahya Khan's residence and held a mock trial. They listed his crimes—principally leading Pakistan into a losing war with India—and sentenced him either to hanging or to be given to India in exchange for Pakistani troops being held as prisoners of war.

The crowds expressed anger, frustration and puzzlement by Yahya's agreement last Friday to a cease-fire on the 2,000-mile western front after losing all of East Pakistan to Indian troops the day before.

A crowd of several hundred in Karachi tried to march on the Indian high commission building and the Soviet consulate but were turned back by police. Police also cordoned off the Empress Market area to prevent demonstrations from converging there into a mass movement that could get out of control.

The fact that Bhutto was named as martial law administrator was strong indication that Pakistan's generals were still in control as they have been since 1958.

Bhutto, who returned this weekend from the United States where he staged a dramatic walkout from the U.N. Security Council at the height of the India-Pakistan War, began im-

Judge Smallman In Fuss Over Contempt Of Court

Marin Municipal Court Judge Robert A. Smallman today faced the possibility of a jail term for contempt of court in refusing to appoint a private attorney for a burglary suspect.

However, the jail term appeared unlikely, as County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney moved in to defend Judge Smallman against an order by Superior Court Judge Henry J. Broderick.

Judge Broderick himself conceded that he has no intention of citing Judge Smallman for contempt, although that was one of two possibilities. "The other alternative is to have him take an appeal to the district court of appeals, and I understand that is what the county counsel plans to do," said Broderick.

The wrangle started in October in the case of Stone Marston Uhl, 20, of San Geronimo, who is accused of burglary of a Fairfax home and concealing stolen property.

Uhl said he could not afford a

New Development Battle At Seashore

By ERIK M. INGRAM

New battle lines for yet another fight between developers and conservationists appear to be forming along the border of Point Reyes National Seashore.

The prize at stake this time is Inverness ridgeland overlooking the 64,000-acre park, with panoramic views of the Pacific Ocean to the west and Tomales Bay to the east.

To the developers who own the properties, the hillcrests are financial plums ripe for picking. Only interim county zoning and lack of approved access stand in the way.

To conservationists and park officials, development of the ridgeland looms as a threat to the serenity and beauty of the seashore.

In a letter to county officials, park superintendent John L. Sansing last week urged the drafting of a specific plan for the properties to prevent "inordinate development."

Of immediate concern, he said, are private lands adjacent to the park between Inverness Park and Inverness. Development would be readily visible from inside the park.

"This plan," Sansing wrote, "hopefully would enhance the esthetic values (of the park) by preventing inordinate development and by providing the proper controls for access, sanitation and erosion control."

The idea for such a plan drew support from county planning director Werner Von Gundell, who said county controls on development in the area are now "uncomfortably weak."

A specific plan, he said, would give the county greater control over what could be developed and at what density.

The proposal, however, drew a bitter reaction from West Marin developer David S. Adams Sr., a veteran of many battles with conservationists over the seashore park.

"They want to make the whole damn county a park," the 68-year-old developer told the Independent-Journal. "I'm almost to the point where I

Jackson Forms New Unity Group

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Rev. Jesse Jackson officially ended his three-year feud with the Rev. Ralph Abernathy and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference during the weekend by announcing the formation of his own civil rights organization —operation PUSH.

Jackson's announcement came Saturday —15 days after he was suspended as head of the SCLC's Operation Breadbasket by Abernathy for alleged "administrative improprieties". Thousands of Jackson's supporters lined the halls and balconies of the south side Metropolitan Theater to hear the announcement.

PUSH—People United to Save Humanity—will formally come into being next Saturday, Christmas Day, Jackson said, and will be as active and militant as necessary.

"This organization will unite people, provide action, urgency, and pushing," the young minister said. "When people see us picketing and ask 'who are they?' say they are people united to save humanity. A movement is about to be born. The umbilical cord was broken (when he was suspended from SCLC) two weeks ago. We feel the pain. The blood has been spilled ... we are gathered in the waiting room, waiting for the baby to be born."

Jackson left little doubt that his group will be economically and politically orientated.

"We have too many sociologists in the community studying the family structure when what we need are economists," Jackson said.

"Power must not be blind, it must be used ... to picket, vote, and, if necessary, to engage in civil disobedience," he said. "The courts are too slow, the judges are too corrupt. We are going to move in direct actions. We will be as nonviolent as we can be, and as violent as we must be."

'Bigfoot' Believer Tracks Russians

MOSCOW (UPI) —A persistent Canadian with a suitcase full of giant footprints sought Russian help today in tracking down the elusive "abominable snowman."

Rene Dahinden of Vancoucer, B.C., has spent a week in Moscow calling on Soviet scientists to present evidence of the existence of a giant, hairy manlike species of beast which roams remote mountain wildernesses from northern California to the Soviet Caucasus.

Such half-man, half-gorilla creatures have been reported in the Soviet Union, and some Soviet scientists have carried out expeditions to the Pamirs and Caucasus ranges, the highest mountains in the Soviet Union.

"They are skeptical, but open-minded," Dahinden said. "They are willing to look, to listen, and they will analyze the evidence to see if there is anything there. That is all I ask."

Dahinden said officials of the Soviet Academy of Sciences have arranged for experts to study a film of an alleged snowman, taken in 1967 by a California rancher named Roger Patterson. The film clip shows a black-haired creature loping across a forest clearing.

Dahinden said analysts in Canada and the United States judged the beast, if he is genuine, to be seven and one-half feet in height, and 800 pounds in weight. But no scientists have been willing to declare that they believe the beast to be genuine, he said.

Dahinden, 40, said he spends most of his time and money in trying to track down the snowman.

Short Truce Times Set By Saigon

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu announced plans tonight for a 24-hour truce throughout South Vietnam for Christmas, New Year's Day and the Tet lunar new year.

A communique issued by Thieu rejected a Communist proposal for three-day truces for Christmas and New Year's Day and four days for Tet.

The president accused the Communists of asking for extended cease-fires "to take advantage of the truce to recover their fighting potential, and at the same time to increase their infiltration in men and weapons from the north."

Thieu singled out "large infiltrations" in recent weeks in the Central Highlands.

Allied intelligence experts have predicted a major Communist thrust in the highlands around Tet, which falls on Feb. 15.

Thieu, in the communique, reiterated his frequent calls "to the Communist side to end the fighting immediately and completely to have prompt and serious discussions in order to seek leads to peace."

Open Briefings Urged On Labor Statistics

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House Government Operations Committee has advised the administration it should resume its controversial monthly briefing on unemployment statistics and avoid any appearance of using the official figures for "partisan purposes."

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson ordered the briefings halted on March 19 to "avoid the awkwardness of subjecting the professional staff of the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) to questions with policy implications." But he said the staff would be available for telephone interviews with newsmen.

"It is the conclusion of the committee, however, that the press and the public are better served by the use of press conferences as previously, than by individual telephonic inquiries," the House panel said in a report.

The committee said the order was "criticized in the press and elsewhere as being politically motivated."

The report, based on hearings by the panel's freedom of information subcommittee, said a BLS economist described the January statistics, which showed a 0.2 per cent drop in unemployment, as "marginally significant," while Hodgson was telling a White House news conference the drop had "great significance."

"The committee is concerned over the implications of the BLS action," the report said. "It (the committee) similarly stresses the absolute necessity to keep data free from any cloud of suspicion of management of government statistics for partisan purposes."

The report called on Hodgson to "immediately reinstitute the monthly press briefings."

However, five committee Republicans rejected the panel's conclusion and filed a minority report which was written by Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Ill. It said the subcommittee hearings failed to produce any evidence that the public's right to know was violated or affected by Hodgson's order.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Blasts In Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A chain of explosions ripped through stores and offices in downtown Belfast today, scattering crowds of Christmas shoppers, the army said.

An army spokesman said "miraculously" only three persons were injured.

He said there were at least 13 explosions, seven of them in the downtown shopping area.

The spokesman said two bombs went off at the front and rear of a television rental firm office in Linenhall Street, only a few blocks from Belfast City Hall. firemen arrived within seconds to put out a blaze which swept the block.

Other blasts heavily damaged an antique shop, an automobile showroom, a furniture store, a cafe and part of an insurance firm.

Berlin Pact

BERLIN (UPI) — West Berlin and East Germany signed an agreement today that will give West Berliners the right to make regular visits to the east for the first time since the wall was built 10 years ago.

The agreement will not go into effect until some time next year after Big Four approval, and the wall will remain closed over Christmas for the sixth year.

West Berliners will not get holiday wall passes to visit their East Berlin relatives.

Tito Warning

BELGRADE (UPI) — President Tito is prepared to use troops and police to put down regional strife in Yugoslavia but has warned the Soviet Union not to intervene.

Tito said Saturday that unless local Communist party leaders in the Yugoslav Republic of Croatia had been purged "perhaps in six months even shooting would have broken out" and the region would have been plunged into "civil war."

He said the ouster of Croatian party leaders last week was his government's "first blow to the class enemy" in his drive to keep Croatia and the other Yugoslav republics united as one nation.

Asked To Quit

CHICAGO (UPI) — Cook County State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan, under indictment on a charge of conspiring to obstruct justice in the Chicago Black Panther case, has been asked by Democratic leaders to withdraw from the 1972 ticket.

Hanrahan, who was endorsed by the Democratic slatemakers on Dec. 7 over strong objections from many blacks and white liberals, met yesterday for more than two hours with party leaders.

Withdrawal papers were presented but party leaders had received no reaction from Hanrahan on the request.

Caroler Killed

BOYD, Tex. (UPI) — A car plowed into a group of children singing Christmas carols outside a church late yesterday, killing a 9-year-old girl. Seven other children and a 19-year-old girl were injured.

"They were scattered all over the ditch," said the Rev. R. L. Swanner, pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church in this town north of Fort Worth.

The group was standing between the church and the state Highway 114, and some were near the shoulder of the highway. They planned to sing carols for about half an hour.

Carolyn Irene Blevins, 9, was killed by a car driven by a 19-year-old who was questioned and released. The case will be sent to the grand jury.

Supreme Court Appoints Marshal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today announced the appointment of Frank M. Hepler, 52, a marine corps colonel and native of Pennsylvania, to be marshal of the court effective Jan. 1.

Hepler, who ended active military service in 1968, has been serving as director of administration for Federal Judicial Center, a research and training agency for the federal court system.

Dilemma: Too Many Army Men

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Army, which only a few years ago was rounding up as many men as it could recruit and draft, now finds itself with too many men —and is forcing thousands of them out up to six months before their scheduled discharges.

Some of them don't especially want out early, both because it's tough to find a job these days and because military pay rates have been going up.

The early retirement, which will affect at least 60,000 soldiers, covers only men in their first year of duty — two-year draftees and three-year volunteers. They can avoid being tossed out six months early if they re-enlist, which usually means at least two more years in uniform.

"A few years ago men were trying to find loopholes to get out of the Army," said one personnel planner. "Now they're trying to find loopholes to stay in."

Unemployment nationally stands at 6 per cent, although it is higher —8.2 per cent —for veterans in the 20-29 age bracket.

The cut is being made because Congress approved a manpower ceiling for the Army, the first such limit ever put into law. The Army had a Vietnam war high of 1.6 million men in 1968 but now is down to just over 1 million. It had planned to chop its size to 942,000 by next June 30 but Congress ordered an even bigger reduction.

Those being forced out early receive neither severance pay nor advance notice.

Almost 3 million tons of barge traffic moved along the Missouri River in 1970, says the National Geographic.

Diggs Quits U.N. Delegation

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Rep. Charles C. Diggs, D-Mich., resigned as a member of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations Friday because of President Nixon's recent announcement to continue maintaining an American military base in the Azores.

Diggs, who is chairman of the house subcommittee on Africa, said the base would give Portugal a "bonus" of a half billion dollars a year and help it pursue its "colonial war" against blacks in Africa.

Diggs said the U.S. delegation to the United Nations, acting on instructions from the White House, has been casting votes against blacks that would help eliminate white minority regimes in Southern Africa and fight apartheid—South Africa's segregation policy.

For years the Portugese have fought African guerrillas in their territories of Angola, Mozambique and Bissau.

Environmental Design Plan Due Review

The proposed environmental design plan will be reviewed by the Petaluma Planning Commission tomorrow at 7: 30 p.m.

Planning consultants William and Mocine of San Francisco will present the plan based on recommendations by six citizen study committees. All suggested that the plan set maximum city growth at 500 new homes per year so that planning and financing of schools, parks and other city services can keep pace with development.

U.S., Cuba In A Test Of Nerves

MIAMI (UPI)—The United States and Cuba maintained their tough positions today in a test of nerve over the free use of international shipping lanes around the Caribbean Island.

There was no word so far on the fate of 28 crewmen aboard two Panamanian-registered cargo ships seized by Cuban gunboats this month, including Cuban-born skipper Jose Villa of the Johnny Express, a naturalized U.S. citizen.

The Department of Defense ordered U.S. Naval and air units in the Caribbean area on alert following the machine-gunning and seizure of the unarmed Johnny Express last Wednesday in the Bahamas.

In response, Cuba's Communist party newspaper announced that some Cuban air and naval units were placed on alert. Cuban Defense Minister Raul Castro, brother of Premier Fidel Castro, said in a speech reported by Radio Havana that "not even the littlest of our pioneers (a preteen Communist youth group) loses any sleep over Mr. Nixon's threats."

President Nixon had expressed personal concern for the fate of Villa and the United States has requested his return through the Swiss Embassy in Havana. Villa had radioed his home office shortly before capture that he and several others among the 14 crewmen were wounded.

A State Department spokesman said Friday the United States "is prepared to take all measures under international law to protect U.S. citizens and freedom of the seas" against attacks in the Caribbean area.

An official Cuban government statement following the seizure of the Johnny Express acknowledged the action took place 120 miles from Cuba's coast, but accused the ship of "pirate" activities against the island. The statement said Cuba would seize such ships anywhere it found them. Earlier this month, a sister ship, the Layla Express, was captured in the same general area. Both are owned by a Miami firm operated by Cuban exiles.

In Miami, several hundred enraged Cuban exiles staged a protest march in the city's "Little Havana" section Saturday night, chanting "Guerra, Guerra, guerra" (War, war, war) and demanding U.S. permission to wage war on Cuba.

Tire, Tools Stolen

A tire and tools worth $257 were taken from the car of Diana R. Lefebure of 11 Highland Court, Larkspur, between Wednesday and Friday, Larkspur police said today.

U.C. Is Taking Applications In Some Categories

BERKELEY (UPI) —The University of California announced Sunday all campuses are taking applicants in some categories for fall 1972 admissions with the exception of UC Santa Cruz.

Berkeley is closed for freshmen and lower division transfer students applying to the College of Letters and Science. It is also closed for lower division transfers in the School of Environmental Design.

Upper division transfers are closed in criminology, forestry, optometry, and for the College of Letters and Science except languages, literature and physical sciences.

Davis is closed at all levels for the College of Letters and Science but is open at all levels in engineering. It is closed to all lower division applications in the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences while open to most upper division applications.

Irvine is open except for Freshmen in the schools of Biological and Physical Sciences and advanced standing applications for biological sciences.

UCLA, Santa Barbara and Riverside are open until quotas are reached and Santa Cruz is full.

FDA Commissioner To Intensify Criticism Of Consumer Activists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Charles C. Edwards, commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), indicates he has no intention of letting up he has no intention of letting up on his recent criticism of consumer activists such as Ralph Nader.

"Who kicks us in the rear the hardest?" Edwards asked rhetorically in an interview. "You name me one so-called consumerist who has ever gone before Congress and asked them to do something for the FDA."

Industry groups such as the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, the Grocery Manufacturers of America and the National Canners Association have gone to bat for the FDA, urging Congress to give the agency more funds, he said.

"While I'm not pro industry, I've been around long enough to know they're not all bad. You have to work with the responsible leaders in industry. We've got the Naders on one side and industry on the other and somehow we have to straighten it out," Edwards said.

Edwards, in his prepared texts, does not name individuals; but he departed from a printed speech Nov. 17 to single out Nader and Washington Post investigative reporter Morton Mintz.

Edwards said Nader and his allies were leading con-sumers "down the primrose path" toward an impossible goal of completely safe foods and drugs. In this speech and others, he said such a goal would cripple scientific development and product innovation.

Edwards did not cite specific issues on which he felt Nader or Mintz erred, although Nader has criticized a number of FDA decisions.

to build higher tariff barriers in self-defense.

Nixon told newsmen it would now be possible to move on to other trade agrements that are involved in the whole revision of the international monetary system.

Nixon, accompanied by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr., landed in the "spirit of 76" jetliner at the U. S. Naval Air Station at Kindley Field on St. George's Island after a one hour 42 minute flight from Washington.

Four U. S. Marine helicopters ferried the presidential party the 10 miles from the airport to the grounds of government house, the hilltop residence of Bermuda Gov. Lord Martonmbe where the two heads of state meet today and Tuesday.

Nixon touched down in balmy weather with temperatures in the 60s. A wind ruffled the two union jacks, one bearing the coat of arms of Bermuda flying from the 79 year old Italianinate mansion of gray Bermuda limestone. Royal marines, Bermuda bobbies and U. S. Secret Servicemen kept all but authorized personnel from the 70 acres of landscaped grounds which slope down to the Azure Ocean.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters aboard the jet that "We think there is a solid basis for a new and more equal partnership in which the interests of both sides are benefited."

It was the fourth in a series of consultative meetings Nixon has scheduled throughout yuletide with major allies before he travels to Peking and Moscow next year. Still to come are talks with West German Chancellor Willy Brandt in Key Biscayne, Fla. Dec. 28-29 and with Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato in San Clemente, Calif. Jan. 6-7.

JUDGE

lawyer, and on Oct. 4, Smallman referred him to the public defender. But deputy public defender Peter Muzio said he could not represent Uhl because of a conflict of interest with other defendants that the public defender must defend. Muzio explained he could not reveal the nature of that conflict because this would be a breach of the confidence between clients and their attorneys.

When Judge Smallman still refused to appoint a private attorney for Uhl, Muzio asked Superior Court for a writ of mandate ordering Smallman to act. Judge Broderick, on Nov. 16, asked Judge Smallman to reconsider, and on Dec. 6 issued a writ of mandate ordering Smallman to appoint a lawyer for Uhl or else.

The "or else" will probably not be carried out, at least for a while, because Maloney said he has asked for a time extension to prepare for Smallman's defense.

"Yes, technically Judge Smallman could go to jail if the order is refused, but that's highly unlikely," smiled Maloney. He said there is a legal precedent handed down by another Marin Superior Court judge, Samuel W. Gardiner, which sustains the right of the Municipal Court judge to get an explanation of a conflict of interest before a private attorney is appointed at public expense.

Countywide Plan Before Council

The preliminary countywide plan for Marin will be the subject of further discussion by the San Anselmo City Council when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow at city hall.

The council gave a vague general approval to the plan at a meeting last month, but may make specific recommendations for changes in the plan at tomorrow's meeting.

The council is also scheduled tomorrow to award a bid for purchase of a new fire engine and discuss a proposed ordinance regulating the use of motorcycles on private property.

Schools Survey May Circulate

San Anselmo School District trustees will consider a survey of district residents when they meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the library at Red Hill School.

District students would circulate a questionnaire asking residents' opinions on district affairs.

Other items to be considered by the board include the appointment of a citizens study committee, taxation of unused school lands, a report on the general fund and approval of a salary schedule.

Superintendent Report Is Due

A formal evaluation report on the performance of Fairfax School District Supt. H. Reginald Hammond will be made at a meeting of the district's board at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow at White Hill School.

The board agreed following an evaluation of Hammond last month to renew his contract, but continued until tomorrow discussion of details, including salary, of the contract.

The evaluation report will be made by the board president, Dr. George C. Stone.

BATTLE

don't give a damn what they do. . ."

Adams, who won a court case against the county over his right to build the controversial Paradise Estates subdivision near Inverness, owns about 400 acres of the choice Inverness ridgeland property.

"We have no immediate plans for our property," he said. Adams added, however, that he would like to see it developed someday with single-family homes on small lots.

(Subdivision maps for the Adams property already have been drafted but development is stalled due to lack of county approval for roads to the property.

(The property is zoned for agricultural use with minimum lot size ranging from two acres to 60 acres under the county's interim zoning ordinance.)

"I'm disgusted with Marin County and its goddam subdivision ordinance," Adams said.

"The park ends at the boundary (the ridge)," he continued, adding that his property is designated in Inverness area county plans for expansion.

The developer said pressure from conservationists to keep the property as open space was unfair to him. "If they want it, let them buy it."

Harold Gregg, executive director of the Marin Conservation League said, "Any development there would be a tremendous tragedy."

He said a valley leading down from the ridge is matched in beauty and lush growth only by south sea islands.

Gregg was supported by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni, who said high-density development — as proposed by Adams — would be "over my dead body."

Besides the visual impact of any future development, both Gregg and park superintendent Sansing expressed concern over the traffic which new developments would generate.

"We know there are owners of property outside the park boundary who have automobile access to it from within the park," Sansing wrote. "This will not be particularly inappropriate until the owners subdivide and sell their land."

He urged the county to insist that developers provide outside access before subdividing their land.

When the county will actually begin specific planning for the area is not known.

Planning director Von Gundell said limited staff time may delay the project for some time unless other project priorities are shifted.

CRASH

ton Air Force Base met the crippled plane and escorted it toward land for four hours. Other aircraft concentrated along the California coast in case they could help.

Stinson Beach had been cleared for a possible emergency landing there. But the sputtering aircraft could not get close enough and dropped in the sea approximately 22 miles from the mainland.

"It was just one big splash and that was it," Breintenstine said. "We walked out the back and jumped into the life raft."

Coast Guard and Air Force rescue had massed eight ships and two helicopters in the area. They quickly picked up the crewmen in their little raft.

Fish, riding in an Air Force helicopter, said he could see Henderson waving his arm out the window.

"I went down the hoist first and into the water and slammed through the windshield of the airplane," he said. "The water level was up to his chin."

Henderson gasped, "Do you have any air?" Fish said, "he was taking a lot of water through his mouth. I told him I didn't have any air and that I was going to get him out as fast as I could."

Henderson was wrenched free of the cockpit and ferried by helicopter to waiting medical facilities at Hamilton.

CAPITOL

during the regular session, which ended Dec. 4, and now a special commission he chairs holds jurisdiction.

The State Supreme Court, acting at the request of Democrats, has ordered Reinecke's commission at least temporarily not to adopt a redistricting plan.

"The average citizen, following this confusing drama in his local newspaper, could be forgiven for likening state government to a three-ring circus," said absent Assembly Republican Leader Robert T. Monagan in a prepared statement.

Reapportionment — required by law every 10 years to bring districts in line with changing population figures—was added by Reagan to the agenda of a special session he originally called in hopes the legislature would pass a withholding tax bill, which it did.

The Senate reapportionment plan would create a predominately Mexican-American district in East Los Angeles and throw Republicans Peter H. Behr of San Rafael and Milton Marks of San Francisco into the same district where they would have to run against each other or retire.

Under the Assembly plan, Republicans Charles Conrad of Sherman Oaks and Floyd Wakefield of South Gate—who has been advocating that legislators' salaries be reduced — would be reapportioned out of office. So would Democrat John F. Foran of San Francisco because of declining population in the Bay City. Republicans Kenneth L. Maddy of Fresno and Ernest M. Mobley of Sanger would be placed in the same district.

The congressional plan would create new districts in San Mateo-Santa Clara-Santa Cruz counties, central Los Angeles, San Bernardino-Riverside-Los Angeles counties, Orange-San Diego counties and San Luis Obispo-Kings-Kern counties.

The Senate and Assembly on straight party line votes passed their own reapportionment plans Saturday and sent them to the opposite house for final action.

The legislature met Sunday night and formally "read" the bills. Then lawmakers patiently waited until midnight—officially the next legislative day—when they were entitled to vote final passage to the measures.

"As long as we're here we might as well keep going," Moretti told newsmen when asked why the legislature didn't just recess until mid-morning today. "There's no use spending another day around here staring at each other."

Democratic leaders, however, had trouble rounding up votes from some of their balky brethren until after 2 a.m.

Assemblyman Walter W. Powers, D-Sacramento, refused to vote for the Senate bill in an effort to apply pressure on fellow Democrats to carve out a senate district for Foran, who was losing his Assembly seat. The strategy didn't work.

WAR

mediate consultations today with the U.S. and Communist Chinese ambassadors.

Bhutto, a long time foreign minister, is head of the Pakistan People's party, the most powerful political group in the country. He had been famous for his strong pro-Peking policies and his anti-American stance but swung toward the United States when Washington supported Pakistan's position in the 14-day war.

He called in the chief of the Pakistan Air Force and the chief of the general staff of the Pakistani Army and announced he would address the nation tonight.

There was sharp contrast to life in Pakistan and India: Radio Pakistan announced that the blackout would be continued; India reported life returning to normal with international flights resuming to Calcutta's Dum Dum airport and domestic flights resuming to Srinigar, the capital of Kashmir.

Turmoil continued in what was once East Pakistan and which calls itself the People's Republic of Bangla Desh, and All India Radio said 21 intellectuals in Dacca have demanded trial by a military tribunal of the West Pakistanis responsible for the recent mass slaying of East Pakistani intellectuals outside Dacca.

Sporadic revenge slayings have been reported in the East as the Bangla Desh people turned their wrath on those who had collaborated with the West Pakistani army. But today the Bangla Desh government asked all employes who left their jobs after West Pakistan's military crackdown last March to return to their jobs.

OBITUARIES

Yacht Club Land Donor H. J. Prien

Funeral for Henry J. Prien of San Francisco, donor of the land on which the San Francisco Yacht Club now stands and the oldest member of the club, will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Carew and English Funeral Home, San Francisco.

Burial at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park, Colma, will follow the service at the funeral home, 350 Masonic Avenue.

Prien died Saturday at a San Francisco hospital. He was 91.

Prien donated the land at 98 Beach Road where the century-old yacht club built its present facility, about 1934.

He was a bank executive for 50 years before his retirement in 1946.

In 1908, he was an engineer on the first steam car built in California.

Prien was born in San Francisco and was the only son of a ship-builder who came to California in 1852.

Surviving are a son, Henry I. Prien, and a daughter, Antoinette Madill, both of San Francisco.

MRS. BADER

Funeral for Franziska A. Bader of Novato will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, Novato.

Mrs. Bader, 78, died Friday in a local hospital following a long illness.

She was born and reared in Mainz, Germany. She and her husband, the late Franz Bader, moved to New York City in 1930 where he opened a tailor shop. Five years ago she moved to Novato and made her home with her daughter, Elisabeth Manske, at 275 Corte Colina.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. William Mueller of Long Island City, N.Y., and two grandchildren.

Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael.

O. R. BUCHANAN

Ormond R. Buchanan, 66, of 8 Ellis Street, Petaluma, died yesterday in a local hospital following a long illness.

He was born in Sedan, Kan., and was a farmer there. He moved to California 35 years ago, then to Petaluma five years later. He was a heavy equipment operator, working for Moberly Construction Co. of Concord until he retired seven years ago due to illness.

He was a member of Operating Engineers Local 3 of San Francmsco.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Buchanan; a daughter, Gretta Fay Callinan; two sons, Jack D. Buchanan of Rohnert Park and Robert O. Buchanan of Antioch; two brothers, Bernard Buchanan of Petaluma and Ellis Buchanan of Westmoreland, Kan.; a sister, Clair Buchanan of Topeka, Kan., 11 grandchildren and a great grandchild.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Burial will be in Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

Contributions to the Peter Callinan Jr. Trust Fund in care of Rohnert Park Exchange Bank would be preferred by the family.

MRS. BARSOTTI

A Requiem Mass for Chonita M. Barsotti of Petaluma was held today at St. Vincent's Catholic Church in Petaluma.

Mrs. Barsotti, 67, of 116 Payran Street, died Friday in a local hospital following a long illness.

She was born in Santa Maria, San Luis Obispo County. She had lived there until moving to Petaluma 33 years ago.

She is survived by her husband, Gino D. Barsotti, a baker at the Petaluma French Bakery; a son, Gerald M. Bockting of San Francisco; two brothers, Alfonso Rameriz of Santa Maria and Edward Rameriz of Colton, San Bernardino County; a sister, Marguerite Stanley of Torrence, Los Angeles County, and a grandson.

Burial was private.

ERNEST WOLFE

Ernest W. Wolfe of Mill Valley died yesterday in a local hospital following a brief illness. He was 86.

A native of Iowa Falls, Iowa, he had lived in California 65 years and in Marin County 19 years, residing at 15 Monte Cimas Avenue. Prior to his retirement he worked with his brothers as a contractor with the firm of Douglas and Wolfe contractors. He was a member of the Woodsmen of America.

Wolfe is survived by two daughters, Eleanor B. Wolfe of Mill Valley and Mrs. Walter Cram of Bellflower, Los Angeles County; two brothers, Rollin Wolfe of Piedmont and Raymond Wolfe of Oakland and three grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Russell and Gooch Funeral Home, Mill Valley.

The family prefers contributions to a favorite charity.

MRS. FELLOWS

Edna G. Fellows, a former surgical nurse, wife of a physician and a Mill Valley resident since 1935, died today at home after a long illness. She was 63.

She was born in Oakdale, Stanislaus County, and graduated from the Stanford University School of Nursing in 1932. She had worked as a surgical nurse at the Stanford University Hospital.

She and her husband, Frederick D. Fellows, had lived at 281 Molino Avenue, Mill Valley, since 1935. He is a practicing physician in San Francisco.

Mrs. Fellows was a member of the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club and the San Geronimo Women's Golf Club and a former member of the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission and the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Edna Piner of Novato, and two sons, Frederick D. Fellows Jr. of San Francisco and Edward A. Fellows of Sparks, Nev.; and three brothers, Joseph A. Rydberg, San Francisco, William T. Rydberg, Stockton, and James T. Rydberg, Oakdale.

Memorial service will be at 1 p.m. Sunday at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley. Private burial will be in Oakdale.

The family prefers contributions to the American Cancer Society or a favorite charity.

MRS. HICKLIN

Funeral for Faith D. Hicklin of Novato, wife of College of Marin trainer Harry Hicklin, will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo, followed by burial at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Mrs. Hicklin died Saturday at a local hospital after a long illness. She was 52.

Born in Des Moines, Iowa, she lived there until 1939, two years after she married Hicklin, who was then stationed with the army at Fort Des Moines.

The couple moved to Virginia and Utah before settling in Marin County in 1950. They had lived at 1999 Center Road, Novato, for four years.

Mrs Hicklin was a secretary for Charge Key Stores Inc. in San Rafael for 12 years and was active in a bowling league at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael and the Senior Citizens Club of Novato.

Also surviving are a son, Merle Hicklin of San Rafael; two daughters, Jo Ann Scenical of New York and Karen Newton of Vallejo; a sister, Dallas Dickson of Des Moines; and eight grandchildren.

CHP drinking driver arrests UP . . . . accident rate DOWN

California Highway Patrol Officers approach a vehicle stopped after the officers observed it weaving in and out of the middle traffic lane.

For your own protection, if you drive don't drink

In order to assist and protect the individual from the "other" driver, the California Highway Patrol has a hard-hitting enforcement program aimed at the primary accident causing violations. We know this to be an effective weapon. For example, in Marin County during the past two years we have increased drinking driver arrests from 879 in 1969 to 1824 in 1971. During the same period reportable accidents have been reduced each year. Further, 253 fewer persons were killed or injured last year than in 1969. This is in the face of a 13% increase in traffic. To us this is a very real and tangible aspect of traffic safety.

The year 1972 promises to be even safer for Marin's motorists. As of this date, accidents are down 8% over 1970. Coincidentally, drinking driver arrests are up nearly 40% over last year.

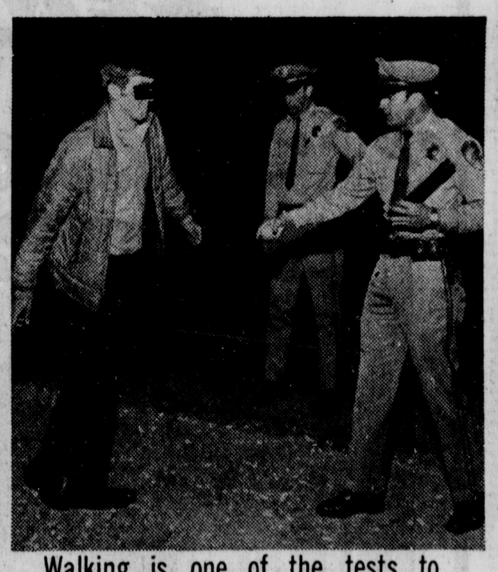
WILLIAM S. BLOOMER, Captain
Commander
Marin-Golden Gate Bridge Area

23102 DRIVING UNDER INFLUENCE
(a) VC It is unlawful for any person who is under the influence of intoxicating liquor, or under the combined influence of intoxicating liquor and any drug to drive a vehicle upon any highway. (misdemeanor).

What happens when a driver is stopped for suspected drunk driving:

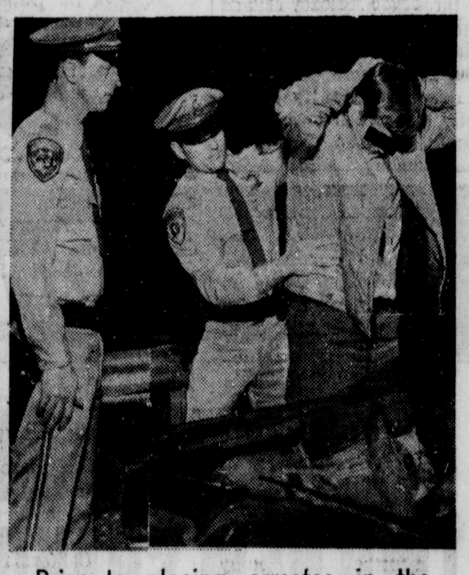
After being advised of why he was stopped the erratic driver is requested to produce his driver's license.

Upon obtaining driver's license, driver is asked to get out of his vehicle and submit to field balance tests (with eyes closed — touch top of index finger to tip of nose).

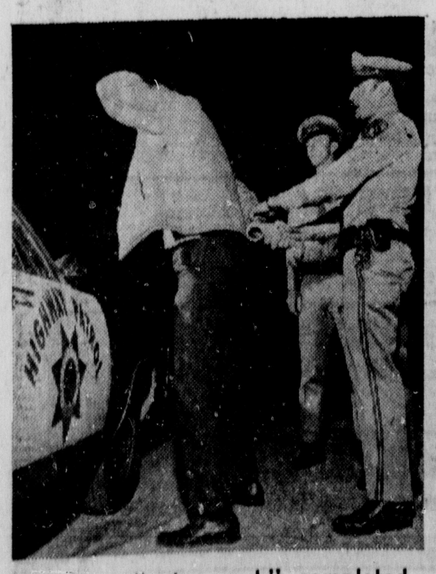


Walking is one of the tests to determine the driver's balance and coordination (walk approx. straight line placing heel of one shoe against the toe of the other).

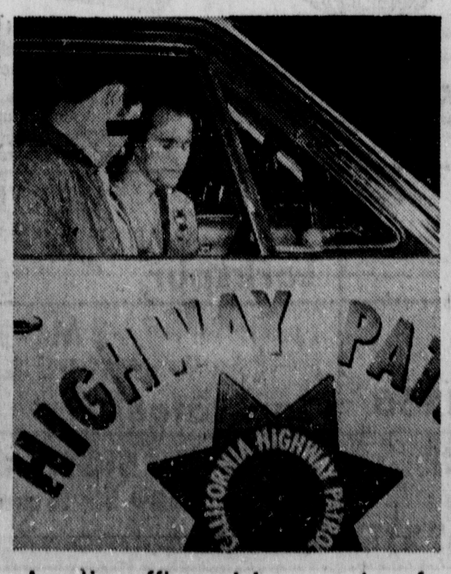
Officer arrests driver for driving under the influence of an intoxicating liquor. He advises driver of his constitutional rights.



Prior to placing arrestee in the patrol car, he is "pat searched" for possible weapons.



With the "pat search" completed, he is handcuffed.



Arresting officer advises arrestee of the implied consent law requirement of submitting to a chemical test of his blood, breath, or urine.

The breathalyzer is used to obtain and analyze a breath sample for blood alcohol content.

After complete test arresting officers stand by while Marin Co. Deputy Sheriffs book arrestee into jail facility.

BUILDING A BALL FIELD

A fleet of earth moving equipment, looming as large as prehistoric monsters, moved across the Olive School playground in Novato Saturday to create a little league ballfield. Labor and about $500,000 worth of equipment was contributed by members of the Engineering Graders Contractors Association with 11 Marin and Southern Sonoma firms participating in the joint project with the city public works department.

Cave-In Breaks Water Main

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Part of a street caved in Sunday night and hundreds of homes were without water when a 16-inch water main broke near the Laguna Honda Home for the Aged.

The break caused a 25-by-40 foot section to collapse and sent thousand of gallons of water rushing down the street.

Larkspur Man, 24, Found Dead In Home

A 24-year-old Larkspur man was found dead in his home yesterday, apparently having taken his own life, according to police.

Larkspur police said they found David Markham dead on a bed in the master bedroom of his home at 160 Madrone Avenue at 8:15 a.m. after a telephoned report of a possible suicide.

The cause of death was unknown today, according to coroner's deputy Donald L. Cornish. An autopsy was to be performed.

Markham's friend, Lynne C. Blaikie, 26, of the same address said he had been despondent over losing custody of his daughter and the impending loss of his home, police said. She said Markham had been threatening suicide for about a month saying he would take "Big Reds," but no pills were found, police said.

She told police she awoke about 5 a.m. and heard Markham breathing oddly, but thought nothing of it because he had broken his nose recently. However, she said she tried to wake him at 7:30 a.m. and was unable to.

She told police she then went to a friend's home and called them.

Markham is survived by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Rex Mincheff of Los Angeles.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Avoid traffic. Swim to Dominic's.

If we're to keep up with the competition in the restaurant business these days, we have to offer an advantage of some kind besides just truly superior food and drink. One day someone noticed that our location on the San Rafael Yacht Harbor meant customers could swim directly to our private docks from almost any point in the Bay Area. We checked to see if any of our competitors were stressing this, and none were. So if you don't want to fight traffic getting to a fine restaurant, now you know what to do.

Dominic's

507 Francisco Blvd., San Rafael. 456-1383.
Only twelve or fifteen hours, by breaststroke, from most Bay Area communities.

Hub Residents In Hospital After Crash

Two San Anselmo residents injured Saturday in a one-car crash on Highway 101 were reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital.

The driver, Kevin J. Fitzpatrick, 20, of 17 Morningside Avenue, suffered a fractured left arm and shoulder. A passenger, Deborah Privitt, 13, of 9 Lansdale Avenue, suffered a fractured spine.

The California Highway Patrol said their car was northbound on Highway 101 in Greenbrae at 11:50 p.m. Saturday at a high rate of speed when it braked to avoid another vehicle.

The patrol quoted witnesses as saying the car swerved to the left, then to the right, crashing through a guardrail and coming to rest on its side against a utility pole.

The patrol said Fitzpatrick was pinned behind the wheel briefly before being freed and taken to the hospital.

There's Still A Santa Even Though Virginia Gone

By WILLIAM S. STEVENS

NORTH CHATHAM, N.Y. (UPI)—A bright link with Christmases past is gone, but Laura Virginia O'Hanlon Douglas would not in any way want the joy of this season diminished because of it.

Mrs. Douglas was the 8-year-old girl who wrote a letter 74 years ago to the New York Sun saying her friends told her there was no Santa Claus and received the famed reply, "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus."

She died May 13 of this year at the age of 81. She had lived with relatives here for about 15 years before her death, and one of the annual pleasures of the season for this reporter was a discussion with her about Christmas and her contribution to its beauty.

A cheerful and witty woman who frequently suffered ill health in her later years, Mrs. Douglas always insisted that it was Francis P. Church, the editorial writer who replied to her letter, who most deserved remembrance. Church, an assistant editor for the former New York Sun, died in 1916.

Mrs. Douglas always said it was Church who spelled out the "philosophy of hope and love," but persons who spoke to her about it years later always came away from the conversation believing that she too expressed and felt that same philosophy.

A school teacher in New York City for about 45 years before she retired and moved to upstate New York, Mrs. Douglas once said, "The Christmas season is one of such great joy and the sharing of it makes me very happy and contented. If only the spirit of it were all over the world, what a wonderful place it would be."

That, she explained, was an adult way of saying what Church had told her nearly three-quarters of a century ago in his editorial:

"Is There a Santa Claus?

"We take pleasure in answering at once and thus prominently the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of the Sun:

"Dear Editor:

"I am 8 years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says 'If you see it in the Sun it's so.' Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?"

Virginia O'Hanlon
115 West 95th Street

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except what they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable their existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

"You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, not even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

"No Santa Claus! Thank God he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart."

Brandeis University Has Named New President

WALTHAM, Mass. (UPI) — Marver H. Bernstein, former dean of Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, was named Friday as next president of Brandeis University.

Bernstein, 52, a native of Mankato, Minn., will take over in September, 1972, with the resignation of Charles I. Schottland, who has served as president of Brandeis since March 1970.

Bernstein was dean of the Woodrow Wilson School from 1964 to 1969 and has directed the school's graduate program. He has served in a number of governmental and academic posts and has written three books.

"Dr. Bernstein will not only bring to Brandeis an excellent background and profound knowledge of the American university but, additionally, a knowledge of the American Jewish community," board of trustees chairman Jacob Hiatt said Friday in making the appointment.

Yacht Clubs Burglarized

Two Belvedere yacht clubs were burglarized on consecutive days, police reported Saturday.

In almost identical burglaries, $155 was taken from the San Francisco Yacht Club between 9:30 p.m. Thursday and 7 a.m. Friday and $198 was taken from the Corinthian Yacht Club between 2 and 8 a.m. Saturday, police said.

In each case, the burglar pried open an outside door hidden from general view, then jimmied doors and cabinets inside looking for money, police said.

$70 Million Jolt For Parents In New Tax Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There's a $70 million jolt in the new tax law for parents who have been providing for their children's education while cutting their own tax liability.

Affected by the change are those who have set aside funds for childrens' use by outright gifts of money, securities or property, or by setting up certain kinds of trust funds.

Under present law, all or some of the investment's return could be sheltered from taxation because the child, in filing a tax return, could claim both a personal exemption for himself and a standard deduction.

In 1971, up to $1,700 per child escape the taxman that way. The maximum of tax-free income would have reached $2,050 in 1972.

The new law signed by President Nixon Dec. 10 whittles the tax-free income down to no more than $750 per child per year. The change is effective on 1972 income.

If a child is under 19 or a college student of any age, and if his parents provide more than one half his support, both he and his parents can claim him for a personal exemption.

He qualifies whether his income is earned by his own labor or is "unearned" —that is, income from investments held in his name.

But under the new law, he no longer will qualify for a standard deduction taken against unearned income or for a standard deduction that exceeds the amount of his income from wages.

To see how these provisions operate, take a student named Joe, who has $2,500 income from securities given to him and who, by working next summer, earns $600.

Against his total $3,100 income, Joe under present law could have claimed a $750 exemption plus a minimum standard deduction of $1,300. That would have left him with a taxable income of $1,050 — and taxes of $153.

Under the new law, however, Joe can claim only the $750 exemption plus a $600 deduction —since his deduction can no longer exceed his wage income. That leaves him with a taxable income of $1,750 —and taxes of $276.50.

Joe's father probably still gets quite a tax break by transferring securities ownership of his son because in most cases he would be in a higher tax bracket than the son.

Ties With Media Are Severed

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier says he will no longer answer any questions asked by reporters from the Milwaukee Journal, the Milwaukee Sentinel or the Journal company's television and radio stations.

His announcement Friday put Maier completely out of touch with Journal Co. reporters. Since May, 1969, reporters for the two Journal-owned papers have had limited access to Maier, who has been critical of the way the Journal covers city government and his administration.

The final break with all Journal reporters was sparked earlier this week when Maier told the Journal he was going to discontinue his weekly column in the paper because Journal editors deleted two paragraphs from one of those columns.

Journal editor Richard H. Leonard said Thursday the paragraphs were deleted and an editors' note inserted because the material was considered libelous by Journal attorneys. It was a criticism of Joel McNally, a Journal city hall reporter.

RESCUED FROM DITCHED PLANE

Capt. Donald Henderson, 25, is carried from a rescue helicopter at Hamilton Air Force Base after being pulled from a disabled Air Force light cargo plane which ditched in calm seas 20 miles off the Golden Gate. Two other crewmen left the floating plane — which ditched yesterday afternoon — and jumped into a raft. Carrying Henderson are T/Sgt. Lou Craig (left) and Mike Fish, an Air Force paramedic. More U.S. Jobs Seen In $ Change

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The administration believes the new agreement to devalue the dollar and adjust international currency exchange rates will eventually produce more than half a million new jobs for American workers.

President Nixon, in hailing the weekend settlement as "the most significant monetary agreement in the history of the world" stressed international economic stability rather than domestic dividends.

But members of his administration stepped in to offer the unemployment-fighting aspects of the arrangement under which the United States will devalue the dollar by 7.89 per cent and the major free world traders will up the exchange value of their currencies by an average of 12 per cent. The dollar devaluation —to be accomplished by raising the price of gold from $35 an ounce to $38 —will take place once Congress approves, presumably early next year.

Both Peter B. Peterson, Nixon's assistant for international economic affairs, and Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Cost of Living Council, agreed that between 500,000 and 667,000 American jobs could be created. Peterson said the total might eventually reach three-quarters of a million.

Peterson told newsmen Sunday he based his jobs estimate on the theory that 60,000 to 80,000 jobs will be created for every $1 billion improvement in the U.S. trade balance.

Most estimates of the impact of Saturday's agreement among the 10 wealthiest noncommunist nations calculate a $9 billion improvement in the U.S. trade balance. This should occur once the country starts selling more than it is buying from abroad.

The devaluation of the dollar and upward valuation of the other currencies are intended to narrow the gap that has existed for years between the dollar and other currencies when it comes to international exchange. The development will have little impact on what the dollar is worth domestically — although imports ranging from German cars to Japanese color TV sets will cost American buyers more.

Travel overseas will cost Americans more also —but that may persuade more people to take stateside vacations, improving both the trade balance and the domestic economy. Exporters will find U.S. products more competitive in overseas markets, a situation which should result in more sales and more jobs.

Dr. Paul A. Samuelson, Harvard professor and Nobel prize winner, said the increase in valuation for foreign currencies is important "because now American factories and workers will become 12 per cent more competitive in selling goods abroad. American jobs at home can better be preserved against competition from Japanese or German imports now that the dollar is no longer an overvalued currency."

More foreign exchange markets in the countries party to the new agreement were closed today while the impact of the decisions was absorbed and studied. The executive directors of the international monetary fund met in Washington Sunday and agreed to establish a temporary set of standards under which currency exchange rates will be allowed to fluctuate under the new agreement.

$51,000 Grant For Mill Valley

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The California Division of Highways has approved $51,000 for improvements to Dolan's Corners in Mill Valley.

The project specifications call for widening Almonte Boulevard to provide two southbound lanes, widening shoreline Highway and installing a traffic signal system.

The Marin County Public Works Department is to administer the work at the busy junction and the county will chip in $15,000, according to the state Department of Public Works.

Blaze In L.A.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Fire erupted shortly after midnight today in a two-story brick commercial building and caused an estimated $20,000 damage, officials said.

Man, Woman Arrested; Speed Cache Seized

A Tamalpais Valley man and a young woman volunteer worker for the San Francisco probation department were arrested early Saturday after drug agents seized speed valued at $27,000 in street prices and equipment for manufacturing it.

Marin and San Francisco narcotics officers raided the home of William Roger Adair, 23, and Nancy Ellen Flyer, 22, at 396 Pinehill Road after a long investigation.

The agents, who had a search warrant, said they found about a pound and a half of methamphetamine and a small quantity of marijuana. Also seized was laboratory equipment.

An agent said Adair had been under investigation since September in connection with the sale in the East of large quantity of a chemical used in making speed.

Both Adaire, who has a prior conviction for sale of drugs, according to agents, and Miss Flyer, who does volunteer work in connection with releasing persons from jail on their own recognizance, were booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing speed for sale and possessing pot.

She posted $2,500 bail and is to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow. He was held in lieu of $12,500 bail and was to go to court today.

ACCIDENTS TRIGGERED BY WOMAN

While Patricia L. Mantele, 28, of 718 B Street, Apt. 6, San Rafael, lies beneath coats and blankets (top photo) on D street, an ambulance on the way to get her stood at the intersection of D and Second streets (bottom photo) following a collision. Police said the accidents were triggered when the woman walked into a car driven by John F. Roberts, 20, of Petaluma, shortly after 10 a.m. yestereday near Antonette Avenue. She was treated at Marin General Hospital for a scraped right knee. The United ambulance, driven by Kenneth A. Kristensen, 17, collided minutes later with a station wagon driven by Dennis C. Hoaglin, 31, of 12 Upper Fremont Drive, San Rafael. A 10-year-old boy in Hoaglin's car was reported in "fair to satisfactory" condition today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco, and three other children in the car were treated at the Kaiser hospital in San Rafael.

'SURGE OF CREATIVITY'

New Hollywood Film Freedom

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"The public howls for family movies, but nobody will pay to see them at any price."

The words are those of producer-director Ralph Nelson whose "Flight of the Doves," a worthwhile film made for the family trade, failed to attract large audiences.

One explanation, Nelson and other knowledgeable film makers agree, is that the motion picture theater has lost its place as a suitable rendezvous for entire families.

In the shifting morality and standards of society, movies are made today by a new breed bent on overthrowing tradition.

Right or wrong they are succeeding.

In 1972 all pretense of observing the so-called "rating system" will be abandoned. Perhaps the move is warranted.

Three films almost certain to be recognized by Motion Picture Academy voters—"The French Connection," "The Last Picture Show" and "Klute"—signal what lies ahead for movie-goers.

Call it 'cinema verite,' realism or "telling it like it is, baby," brutality, clinical sex, profanity and vulgarity have become acceptable picture fare to today's audiences.

Post-pubescent middle class Americans have accepted films which treat base subjects with a touch of esthetic verisimilitude—an attitude long since adopted by intellectuals and avant-garde youth.

Thus a naked Jane Fonda at sex play on the screen is accepted, and so is the language of a teen-age actress mouthing obscenities formerly restricted to restroom walls. The 1970s promise more of what is being called "artistic freedom" in movies, while simultaneously inviting government censorship.

The nub of the matter, the argument goes here, is that motion pictures have been forced into daring, sometimes tasteless, often astounding areas by television. Films, the producers say, must give audiences entertainment or exhibition which cannot be seen on the tube. If not, they claim, feature films for theaters will perish.

This thrust has created a curious dichotomy in Hollywood. Major studios have been reduced for the most part to rental agencies for feature films to independent producers and into production of monotonous television movies for the home viewer.

The new-found freedom has brought a fresh surge of creativity to Hollywood, wresting leadership from Italy, England and Sweden. Young producers, writers, directors and actors are flooding the city.

If Hollywood has been in the doldrums for a decade, it is looking to brighter horizons. European production is at an all time low.

Resurgence of activity on the old lots will mean less production abroad, partly because the cost of movie-making in Europe has approached parity with Hollywood.

More rigid censorship abroad, too, has inhibited picture makers.

Many a GP or R rated American film would be banned in Italy, for instance. And the X rated movie has become an absurdity.

When does a sex act, photographed by respected directors with name stars, become pornographic? Neither movie czar Jack Valenti nor anyone else can say.

Independent producer Walter Seltzer says, "I think gratuitous nudity and vulgarity are on their way out. But the language and sex emphasis will be with us for a long time. Pictures reflect our society. Television doesn't. That's the difference."

Seltzer indicated today's movies are not seeking to reconvert former movie-goers but are creating new audiences, especially among young adults.

Elmo Williams, production chief of 20th Century-Fox, recognizes the trendy quality of movies but says he sees a diminishing boxoffice value in sex and nudity.

"We have to rely on entertaining people instead of shocking them," he said. "Eventually they become shock-proof. Movies still have more latitude on subject matter, language and nudity than television but these elements will be played down to some degree in the coming year."

The wife of a Los Angeles architect hopes so: "I stay home and watch television movies because they're getting better. I'd rather go to a theater and see a good picture just to get out of the house and away from the numbing effects of TV. But I can't find good movies."

A 24-year-old housewife in Westwood, Calif., near the UCLA campus, took an opposing point of view:

"Thank God for movies. Television is for kids and idiots. Flicks are the only medium that has its head on straight. The cameras look inside people and tell you what they're all about. Books, magazines and television don't have anywhere near as much relevancy."

An engineer at Lockheed Corp., is 50 years old and fed up with current movies.

"I'm no square," he said. "I've been around, heard all the words and so has my wife. But I'll be damned if I want to sit in a theater with hundreds of strangers while my wife and I are assaulted by filth on the screen. I've just quit going to movies."

Otto Preminger, always in the van of controversy, will release "Such Good Friends" in 1972. It is the story of a young widow who discovers a diary of her dead husband's conquests among her friends.

Jews Planning Hunger Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Union of Councils for Soviet Jews said today that 23 Soviet Jewish prisoners convicted in the Leningrad hijacking trials would stage a 24-hour hunger strike Christmas Eve.

Union Vice Chairman Harold B. Light said he raceived word of the protest action from a Tel Aviv woman in communication with Jews in Russia.

Light said the 23 prisoners were appealing their sentences and were requesting the Soviet supreme to renounce their Soviet citizenship so they could emigrate to Israel.

The prisoners are in Potma Prison 300 miles east of Moscow, the vice chairman said. They were convicted on Dec. 24, 1970, for an attempt to hijack a Russian airliner.

Mercedes-Benz of North America, Inc./158 Linwood Plaza/Fort Lee, New Jersey

"If you judge all the cars in the world on the basis of engineering, construction integrity, reliability and the degree of perfection with which they fill their intended function, then the ten best cars in the world are probably all built by Mercedes-Benz."

That was the opinion of one of Road & Track's editors as they pooled 93 years of automotive experience in compiling a list of the world's ten best cars.

His five associates were, in their words, "not prepared to go quite that far." Other factors such as list price, they insisted, would have to be considered.

Still, the panel agreed that two Mercedes-Benz models, the legendary 300SEL 6.3 and the new 350SL belonged among the ten best. The only manufacturer to be so honored. And a third Mercedes-Benz, the 280SE, was judged the world's best sedan in the $6,000 to $10,000 price category.

But don't simply take Road & Track's word, or ours. Come in. Look at any model on the basis of engineering, construction integrity, reliability and the degree to which it fulfills its intended function.

Judge for yourself.

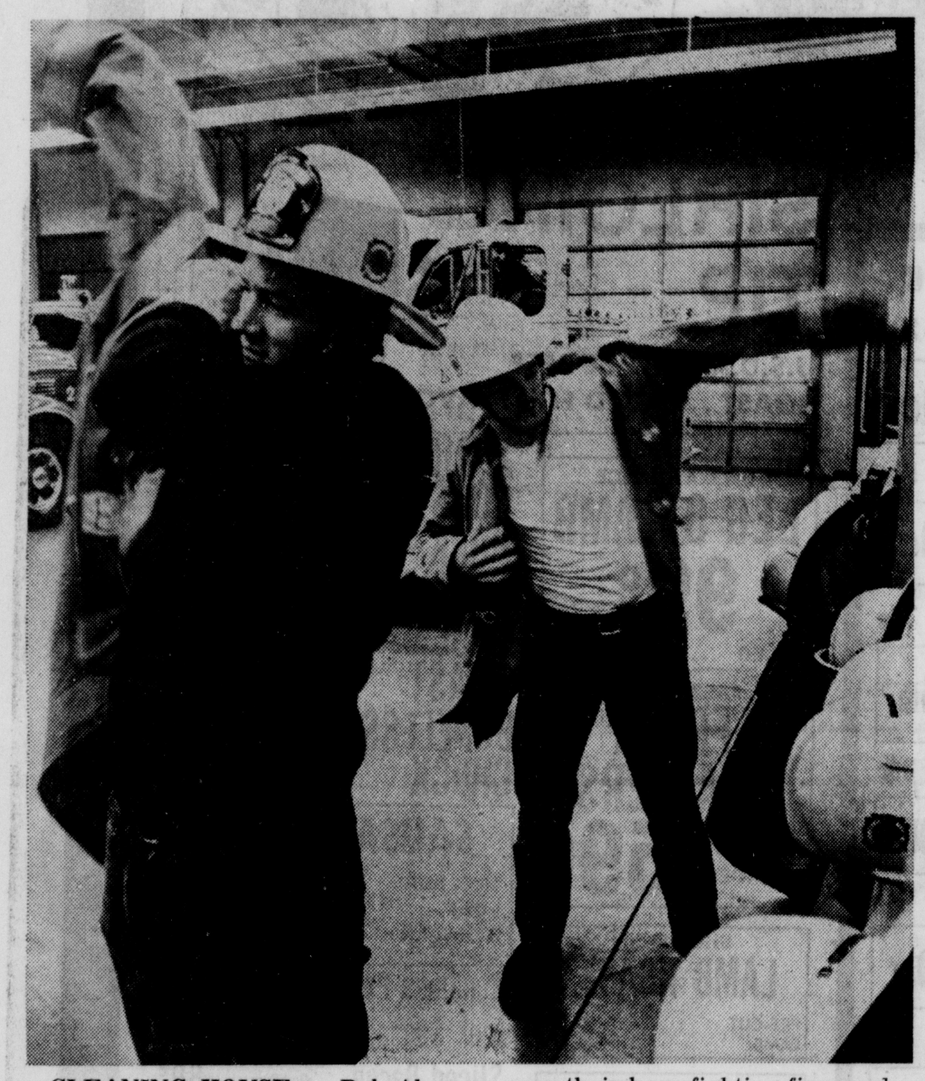
PRACTICING — Kevin Meiswinkel and Roger Backstedt, two College of Marin students living at the Kentfield fire house, practice preparing for a fire with fireman Rodney Biddleman, taking the driver's seat of a fire engine. The two students earn their keep at the fire department as volunteer firemen while they get an education across the street.



CLEANING HOUSE — Bob Ahrens straightens a bedspread leaving the mopping to Bill Andrade as the two clean up their quarters at the Kentfield fire station. They and four others earn their keep fighting fires and cleaning up around the fire station. Four of the live-ins go across the street to the College of Marin for classes each week day. HOP, SKIP AND A SLIDE

Students As Firemen— Marriage Of Convenience

By LARRY MOWELL

The trip to school is just a hop, skip and a short slide down the fire pole for four students at the College of Marin.

The students are live-in volunteer firemen for the Kentfield Fire Department.

It is a marriage of convenience for both sides. The fire department gets volunteer firefighters available at all times. The students get a free bed across the street from the college.

Actually, six college-age volunteers live at the department, but one is waiting to start College of Marin and another has transferred from the junior college in Kentfield to San Francisco State College, according to Fire Chief Kenneth T. Kamp.

The six bunk in a neat little dormitory on the second floor of the department's three-year-old station. They must get up at 8 a.m. daily to clean the kitchen, television room, meeting room and their quarters, but this minor irritant doesn't deter applicants, Kamp said.

"I've got a whole file in there full of applications from students wanting to be sleepers," Kamp said pointing to his filing cabinet. "If I had a barracks out back, I could fill it."

It is a good deal for the students, who save rent money and the considerable difficulties of finding a place to live in Marin's tight housing market. But it is also a bargain for the fire department, Kamp said.

The live-in program began in 1961 because the department couldn't enlist enough volunteers otherwise, Kamp said.

Traditionally the manpower shortage for volunteer departments comes during daylight hours because a lot of the volunteers are working, in many cases out of town. However, the Kentfield department has filled this gap in fire protection with college students. Of the 22 volunteers, Kamp said, four are live-ins from College of Marin and four others also attend the college.

"If they are at school and there is a general alarm, they respond to the fire," Kamp said.

Kevin J. Meiswinkel, 19, and Roger W. Backstedt, 20, two of the live-ins, said they have arrangements with their teachers to leave class when the alarm sounds at the station across the street, but have not had to do so to date.

Backstedt has been living at the firehouse since July; Meiswinkel slightly longer. Two others, Victor and Melvin Saulenas, have been volunteers for three or four years, the chief said.

The live-ins cook their own meals at the firehouse and have use of a television set and a pool table. They even have a room set aside for studying.

The live-in volunteers are trained each Tuesday night with the other volunteers and in at least two cases have gone on to become full-time firemen in other departments, Kamp said.

Meiswinkel and Backstedt, both sons of San Francisco firemen, hope to follow in their fathers' footsteps. They are studying fire science at the college as well as learning on the job.

Meiswinkel is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School. Backstedt went to Novato High School.

Backstedt said he has always wanted to be a fireman, but Meiswinkel did not make up his mind until he moved into the firehouse. He said he was studying to be a dentist and as late as the summer was thinking about returning to a four-year college.

However, he said he decided the fireman's life is better than the student's. "The pay is not much, but the people are happy," he said.

12 Jailed In Bookie Raids

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A dozen persons —including an employe of the California Highway Patrol—have been arrested in a crackdown on bookmaking.

Sheriff's deputies and police made the arrests in coordinated raids Saturday. A spokesman for the sheriff's office said the raids broke up gambling operations believed to be grossing $1 million annually.

Most of the gambling, according to authorities, was in illegal football pools, horse racing and major sporting events. The alleged bookmakers were described as "independent operators" by police and not as members of a gambling ring.

Among those arrested was Mrs. Norma Jane Sanders, 44, an auditor with the Highway Patrol, who was taken into custody aboard a converted minesweeper docked on the Sacramento River.

Theft Suspect Due In Court

An 18-year-old Black Point youth, arrested Friday on suspicion of vehicle theft, was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

The California Highway Patrol said Herbert Daniel Rama, of 50 Glenn Road, was stopped by officers at 5:20 p.m. on Glenn Lane. Officers said he was on a motorcycle stolen Wednesday from the William Nelson residence, 187 Crest Road, Black Point.

He was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of vehicle theft and engaging in a speed contest and was held in lieu of 1,350 bail. Officers were unable to say why he was booked on the latter count.

A second youth, Danny Asa Judd, 16, of 1207 Chase Street, Black Point, said by officers to be an accomplice of Rama, was booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall, also on suspicion of vehicle theft.

Extension Of Ferry Plea On Tap

A request by the Golden Gate Bridge District for a 120-day extension of its conditional use permit to operate a ferry to and from Sausalito will be considered by the Sausalito Council at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

The bridge district is seeking the extension to gain more time to complete plans for two ferry terminals, one in downtown Sausalito and another in the Marinship area.

The original permit was granted in July of 1970. Since that time the district has asked for and received several extensions.

The council will also hold a public hearing on an appeal by Joseph Duffel of a planning commission denial of his request for a 12-month extension of a conditional use permit to construct a 431-unit apartment development in Sausalito.

Duffel, whose original permit was issued in February of 1970 and extended for six months in March of this year, hopes to build the development on the site of the old American distillery property in Marinship.

The council will hold a second public hearing on a variance application from Joseph Scoma seeking relief from city off-street parking requirements upon increasing the floor area of Scoma's restaurant by 53 feet and the seating capacity by 16.

RARE OLD FIRE ENGINE

A real antique, this 1922 Arrens Fox fire engine is one of the more rare types of fire engine around. Dr. Harvey L. Carter, of Shreveport, La., who now owns the truck, cleans part of the pump before the engine is towed into a firehouse behind his home where it will be put back into working condition. The truck was found by accident a few weeks ago inside a Longview, Texas, garage.

Court To Rule On Sex Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court agreed today to determine whether California state officials may prohibit live entertainment and films depicting sexual conduct in places holding liquor licenses.

Arguments on a lower court opinion banning such a prohibition will be heard later in the term. A written opinion will follow.

The opinion by a panel of three judges was appealed to the high court by the California Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, which defended its regulations as a proper exercise of the state's police powers.

The panel of three U. S. District Court judges, in a 2-1 opinion handed down on April 7, said the state agency was trying to circumvent U. S. and California Supreme Court decisions defining obscenity.

The lower court said the state could prohibit obscene movies and live entertainment if it could show they were obscene under standards set by the courts. But it said the state department's regulations were prompted by "improper motives" in an effort to make it unnecessary for state officials to get proof of obscenity.

The court said further that the California Supreme Court had held that dancing and live theatric performances were protected by the free speech provisions of the Constitution.

In a brief, state officials disputed the lower court's finding. They contended the lower court had erred in assuming that dancing and entertainment were "speech" and "expression" protected by the First Amendment.

In prohibiting certain sexual conduct in entertainment provided in bars and nightclubs, the state's brief said, the department was merely seeking to prevent conditions resulting in "serious and grave injuries to the public welfare and morals of the people of California."

The brief said the department's regulations prohibited certain "non-verbal acts" on premises licensed to serve liquor. Such prohibited acts included sexual intercourse and other sexual activities as well as films depicting such acts.

Acts and conduct which the department sought to prohibit, the state's brief said, had followed the advent of so-called "topless waitresses" in state-licensed bars and nightclubs. It said the progression "to nudes, to live sexual acts and conduct, and to visual displays (by motion pictures) of such sexual acts and conduct" had resulted in increased "public welfare and morals problems" in places where liquor is sold.

Ackbarri, Fisher Enter Innocent Pleas

John Ackbarri, 33, of Novato, and Rochelle Louis Fisher, 21, of San Rafael, have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of concealing stolen property.

A preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 4.

They are accused of concealing carloads of furniture stolen in San Francisco between April and September this year. San Francisco police said they found some of the loot at Ackbarri's home on Oct. 14.

TOP COURT RULING

States Cannot Hold U.S. Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court declared unanimously today that states using federal funds for aid to dependent children and other social security programs must abide by the eligibility standards set up under federal law.

Specifically, the Court held that Illinois was not entitled to restrict help under the Aid to Dependent Children program to eligible 18 to 20 year olds who attended high school or vocational school but deny it to those attending college.

The Social Security Act allows use of federal funds for needy youths in that age group who are full-time college students. The Health, Education and Welfare Department (HEW) has interpreted the law as not mandatorily listing those who must be included under state programs but merely as a broad definition of those for whom the government was willing to make matching payments.

Illinois authorities argued that the federal law permitted states to vary their eligibility requirements from federal standards.

A special three-judge federal court in Chicago held in April that there was a rational basis for Illinois to distinguish between the different categories of students.

This was reversed by today's Supreme Court opinion. It said there was no basis to believe that Congress gave the states the option of "tailoring" their eligibility standards within a specific group and exclude those entitled to payments under federal standards.

The Court took these other actions:

Refused to hear an appeal from lower court rulings which held that consumers who are victimized by fraudulent advertising or shoddy products are not entitled to sue for damages under a 25-year-old federal law. A group of students from Hempstead, N.Y., brought suit against a ski tour operator under the 1946 Lanham Act which allowed a businessman to obtain damages against an unscrupulous competitor. Lower federal courts ruled the law was designed "exclusively" to protect businessmen even though it says "any person" may sue.

Affirmed an order revoking federal tax exemptions of white academies in Mississippi unless they can establish they are pursuing non-discriminatory racial policies. The lower court order, which had been unsuccessfully appealed twice before to the Supreme Court, was challenged by Dan Coit, a white parent from Meridian whose children were sent to an all-white academy. A three-judge appeals court held that such schools are denied tax exemption on their profits if they perpetuate segregation nor can parents or other donors claim deductions on their income taxes for payments made to the schools.

The challenge of the Illinois law was brought to the high court by Georgia Townsend and Loverta Alexander of Chicago, whose children attended junior colleges.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr., in delivering the unanimous decision, noted that Illinois state officials claimed that Congress authorized states to vary eligibility requirements from federal standards.

"Our examination of the legislative history has uncovered no evidence that Congress granted the asserted authority," Brennan declared. "On the contrary, we are persuaded that the history supports the conclusion that Congress meant to continue financial assistance for AFDC programs for the age group only in states that conformed their eligibility requirements to the federal eligibility standards."

"There is no legislative history," Brennan added, "to support the proposition that Congress also gave to the individual states an option to tailor eligibility standards within the age group, and thus exclude children eligible under the federal standards."

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said in a separate concurring opinion that in some instances "Congress has used the 'power of the purse' to force states to adhere to its wishes to a certain extent."

But he said state participation under the social security act was not mandatory and the only question to be considered was "whether the state has indeed adhered to the provisions and is accordingly entitled to utilize federal funds in support of its program. I agree that the answer to that inquiry in this case must be in the negative."

Carmen McRae To Sing Here

Singer Carmen McRae will make her first Marin appearance with two New Year's Eve performances at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The two shows, at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m., will feature songs from 1945, according to the show's producer, Melvin L. Goldblatt of Tiburon.

Each performance will last about 80 minutes, he said.

The singer has appeared all over the world and on television, but never before in Marin.

Tickets went on sale today at the Marin Civic Center auditorium's box office at Macy's, at Greyhound terminals in Novato, Mill Valley and Petaluma, and at other box offices in San Francisco, Oakland and Sonoma County.

Cook County Hearing Barred

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI)— The Illinois Supreme Court Friday barred a planned Cook County criminal court hearing to determine whether a special prosecutor exerted undue pressure on grand jurors to indict state's attorney Edward V. Hanrahan and 13 others on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice.

The court, on a 4-3 vote, upheld the contention of prosecutor Barnabas Sears that criminal court Judge Philip Romiti would violate the sanctity of the grand jury if he allowed defense attorney to question grand jurors in court.

The ruling was a setback for Hanrahan, political protege of Chicago mayor Richard J. Daley, in his court battle to quash the charges that he, an assistant state's attorney and 12 policemen conspired to cover up the facts of a police raid in which Black Panther leaders Fred Hampton and Mark Clark were killed on Dec. 4, 1969.

INVITE FRIENDS for brunch and serve them elegant leftovers. Cubed turkey or chicken in a rich wine sauce surrounded by delicate crepes, makes a marvelous Brunch Casserole. Pour plenty of sparkling champagne and you have a party.

FOR A BRUNCH PARTY

Crepes, Casserole, Wine Sauce

A midday brunch makes a good change-of-pace party. Preparations are not as elaborate as those for lunch often are. Brunch can be a good starting point for an afternoon activity. And it offers a good excuse to fix a dish that's a little out of the ordinary - and to pop the top on some champagne.

A casserole of chicken or turkey-filled crepes is delicious to eat and easy to make. The thin French pancakes are baked in a small skillet from a simple batter which you can make in your blender or by hand. Delicate as they seem, the crepes are hearty enough to spend the night in the refrigerator if you find it convenient to make them the day before the brunch.

The creamy filling is a good way to use up leftover turkey or chicken. Cubed, sauced and flavored with sauterne, it's barely recognizable as the bird which graced the festive board a few days ago. With canned mushroom soup, mayonnaise, and chicken stock base to speed things along, the rich sauce only tastes as if you've been cooking since dawn to please your guests.

BRUNCH CASSEROLE

(Serves 6)

1 can cream of mushroom soup (10½ oz.)
½ cup sauterne
½ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon chicken stock base
½ teaspoon basil, crushed
¼ teaspoon celery salt
Dash pepper
3½ cups diced cooked turkey or chicken (1-inch cubes)
2 tablespoons diced pimiento
10 (6-inch) crepes

Turn undiluted soup into saucepan, and stir in sauterne, mayonnaise, chicken stock base, basil, celery salt and pepper, and stir over moderate heat until smooth. Add turkey and pimiento and mix well. Line a shallow 1-quart baking dish with crepes, letting them turn out over edge of dish. Fill center with turkey mixture. Fold crepes loosely over top. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees) about 25 minutes, until thoroughly heated.

Crepes: Combine two eggs, two-thirds cup milk, one-half cup sifted all-purpose flour, two tablespoons melted butter or margarine, and one-half teaspoon salt and beat until smooth. Heat a seven-inch crepe pan, and brush lightly with butter. Turn in two tablespoons batter, and tilt quickly to spread over bottom of pan. Cook over moderate heat until top is set and bottom lightly browned. Turn out, and repeat until all batter is baked. Crepes may be made a day ahead, layered with squares of waxed paper between, and placed in a plastic bag in refrigerator. Makes about 10 to 12 crepes.

Your favorite fruit salad makes a good go-along with the brunch casserole. Or fix a spicy compote of fresh and dried fruits sparked with sauterne or port.

Creole Nut Treat For Coffees

In the bayou country of south Louisiana, the hospitality of the holidays in many families is extended with the simple pleasure of coffee and cake. A traditional favorite of the area is in the recipe below for Creole Pecan Cake with Brown Sugar Frosting.

CREOLE PECAN CAKE

This has been a holiday favorite with Southern families for many years, delightful to serve with chicory coffee.

¾ cup butter
2 cups sugar
3 egg yolks
3 cups cake flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
6 egg whites
1¼ cups pecans, chopped
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves

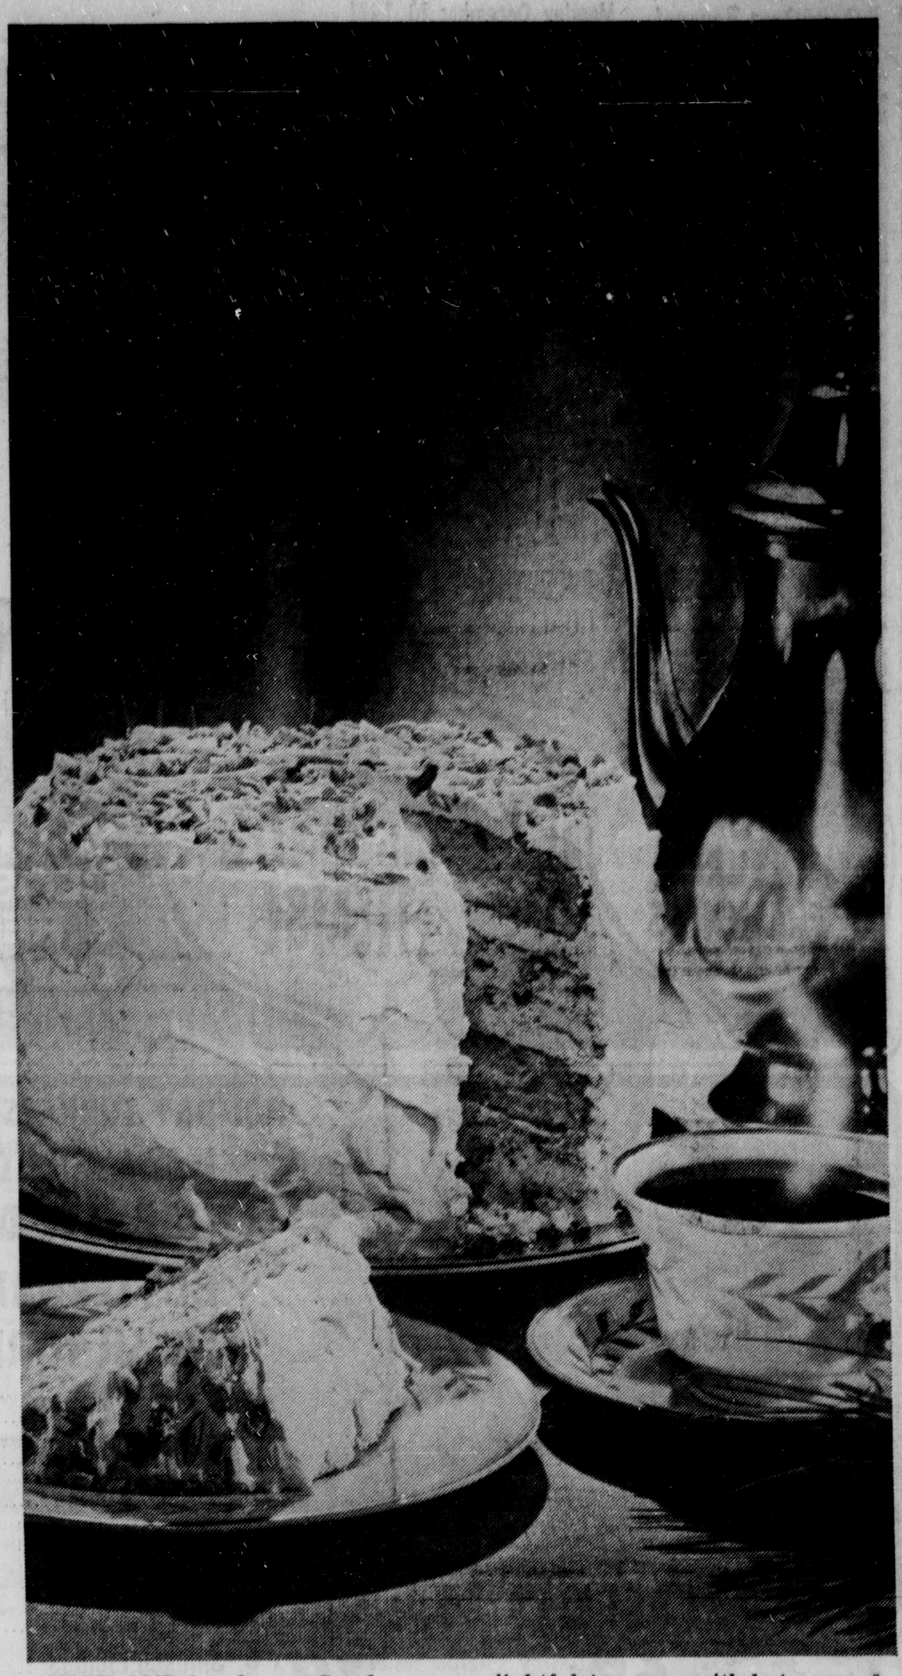
Cream butter, gradually add 2 cups sugar. Cream together well. Beat in egg yolks. Sift flour three times - the last time with the salt and baking powder. Add to mixture alternately with milk and vanilla. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Now, divide dough mixture in half. Add chopped pecans to one half dough. Add cinnamon and cloves to remaining half. Grease and flour four 8-inch round layer pans. (Put nut batter in two pans, spice batter in the other two.) Bake at 375 degrees 25 to 30 minutes. Frost when cool with the following:

BOILED BROWN SUGAR FROSTING

Boil four cups brown sugar and one-half cup water water just past the soft ball stage. Beat into stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Add one teaspoon vanilla. After frosting sprinkle top and sides of cake with finely chopped pecans.

Dry Milk Idea

Added nutrition needed for hurry-up-and-go youngsters? Add equal quantities of non-fat dry milk and cereal when preparing hot cereal for an extra nutritious breakfast.



HIGH AND handsome Creole pecan cake with brown sugar frosting, a Southern favorite, is delightful to serve with hot cups of chicory coffee.

A COOK'S REPUTATION can be built on a steamed cranberry pudding, yet the secret to success with this holiday favorite is yours for the trying. Plenty of fresh cranberries, packaged mincemeat and a judicious eye on the clock while it steams in the oven are the chief ingredients for this dramatic dessert. Serve warm with hard sauce; add a bright garnish of candied cranberries.

Late? Try This Quick Fruit Cake

If you're late in making your fruit cakes this year, this recipe is the one for your. It mellows quickly, so it will be at its flavorful best in a very few days, When baked in muffin tins, instead of in one large cake, this batter produces rich little confections called fruitcake bon bons.

FRUITCAKE BON BONS

(Makes 4 dozen tiny cakes, 1 loaf cake.)

1½ cups raisins
1½ cups currants
1½ cups candied cherries
1½ cups candied pineapple
1½ cups citron
1 cup pitted dates
2 cups pecans
½ cup California Port
¾ cup soft butter or margarine
1 cup dark brown sugar
3 teaspoons cinnamon
1½ Teaspoons nutmeg
½ teaspoon allspice
½ teaspoon ginger
3 eggs, well beaten
2¼ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup molasses
1 cup (10-oz. jar) strawberry jam

Rinse and drain raisins and currants; quarter cherries; thinly slice pineapple, citron and dates; chop pecans. Pour on wine and mix well with fruits and nuts; set aside. Cream butter, sugar and spices together until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs thoroughly. Resift flour with baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture; blend in molasses and jam. Add fruit mixture and stir until well combined. Spoon about 5 cups batter into a well greased and floured 8½ x 4½ x 2¾ inch loaf pan. Spoon remaining batter (about 3 cups) into tiny well greased muffin tins 1¾ x ¾ inches. Bake loaf in a slow oven (300 degrees), two and one-half hours; bake tiny cakes about one hour.

Cranberry Pudding Is Elegant For Yule Dinner

For those with an eye for the traditional and the elegant, here is the finish to your Christmas dinner.

CRANBERRY MINCEMEAT PUDDING

(Makes eight servings)

2 cups boiling water
2 cups fresh cranberries, halved, rinsed and drained
1 package (9 ounces) concentrated mincemeat, crumbled
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup molasses
3½ cups sifted regular all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking soda

Combine water, cranberries and mincemeat; let stand 10 minutes. Cream butter, then stir in sugar and molasses. Sift dry ingredients and stir into butter alternately with cranberry mixture, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Pour mixture into a greased 2½-quart mold.

Cover with greased lid or foil. Bake at 350 degrees for about one and one-half hours or until pudding tests done. (Cake tester inserted in center will come out clean.) Cool in mold about 15 minutes, then tap to loosen and unmold on a serving platter.

Serve warm with hard sauce, garnished with spiced or candied cranberries, if desired.

Marin Women

Monday, December 20, 1971 Independent-Journal, 1

IDENTICAL WAILS were let out by 2-year-old twins Melissa and Stephanie Clark when hoisted to Santa's knee. The pair were among the twins at the Christmas party given by the Marin Mothers of Twins Club in Novato. They are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Clark. Santa Claus (Edward Weber of Novato) took the tears in stride.

GIRLS FROM the YWCA Youth Program in Marin made cookies for the "Sweet Shop" they ran at the Holiday Fair of the YWCA in San Francisco. Here a trio — Debby Friedman, Cheri Bell and Carol Anderson — get the cookie baking underway at Cheri's home in Sleepy Hollow. Girls from the Marin City Y Debs also participated in the "Sweet Shop".

AHOY: SANTA arrives by boat to bring gifts and Christmas cheer to the youngsters during the Loch Lomond Yacht Club's Christmas party for children. Santa's arrival by water has become a Yuletide tradition for yacht club children in Marin.

CATHOLIC COMMUNITY Service of Petaluma sponsored "A Visit to Santa's Cottage" last week for the public. Treats for the children, a wishbook and pictures with Santa were available to visitors. Andrew Crinella, left, is reminding Santa he wants a toy while his brother, Peter Crinella, is offered a cookie by Mrs. William Bianchini, Santa's helper. The boys are sons of Dr. and Mrs. Francis Crinella of Petaluma.

A HOLIDAY house tour to benefit the junior class of St. Vincent de Paul High School of Petaluma was held yesterday in Petaluma. Seen here is Dr. and Mrs. John Bihn's formal living room decorated for Christmas week. One of five homes on the tour, the two story, Victorian house at 920 D Street was built in 1879 and contains 23 rooms.

FOOD FADDISM

Nutritionists At Fault?

By FREDRICK J. STARE, M.D., CHAIRMAN, AND CYNTHIA FORD, M.S.
Department of Nutrition
Harvard University

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Why is food faddism flourishing with millions being spent on health foods and phony diet schemes? Highly successful food and nutrition columnist Dr. Frederick J. Stare has produced a series of five articles analyzing the current craze. In his first installment he warns against the hazards of following food faddists whose claims have no supporting scientific evidence.)

For years nutritionists have emphasized the importance of diet for good health. Now people are concerned. America seems to have discovered nutrition. While many people are beginning to realize the importance of consuming certain essential nutrients, they are unsure of just which nutrients they may lack, how much of each they need and just what they do.

Unfortunately nutrition education has not been very successful in providing answers to these questions. Concern, without knowledge, creates an atmosphere in which the quack or food faddist most effectively functions. Quick to capitalize on the slightest public interest, he adapts scientific information to suit his personal whims and for profit.

A faddist, according to Webster, is "one who indulges in fads." And a fad is defined as "a silly thing, followed for a time with an exaggerated zeal."

A QUACK, according to Webster, is "a boastful pretender to medical skill, a medical charlatan. One who professes skill or knowledge in any matter of which he knows little or nothing." Why do so many people turn to quackery instead of to common sense nutrition?

Quackery directs its appeal to the emotions rather than to the intellect and offers both a promise of hope and the apparent understanding of the victim's needs. Not all who succumb to the lure of the quack are ill. Many are suffering from emotional upsets that manifest themselves in an overconcern for their physical health. A basic fear or uncertainty is usually present, whether real or neurotic. Food is a means by which many individuals seek temporary releif.

Eating habits are deeply rooted in our past. In early childhood food becomes associated with security. When one is physically sick and/or emotionally upset, childish feelings frequently return and the person is easily vulnerable to the faddist's appeal. Assurances, even "guarantees" to "protect," "strengthen" or to "purify" suddenly become significant.

FAD DIETS may appear to offer a shortcut to health, playing upon superstition, personal fetishes or the ever-continuing search for youth. Dissatisfaction with one's image may cause a person to fall prey to the faddist who convinces his followers that he alone can provide the "magic" formula for beauty and success.

For those facing serious or fatal illness, the allure of the quack may represent an attempt, however futile, to do something in a positive way — to seek improvement or to find new hope — beyond that which medical science can provide.

Easy for the faddist and quack is the task of assigning magical curative powers for a wide variety of essential nutrients. Hard for the scientist is the task of establishing proof of such power. Quick to capitalize on the scientific tenet that requires careful verification of data, the pseudoscientist utilizes the advantage of being able to extol the virtues of a food or nutrient without a shred of proof.

This allows the food cultist to make extravagant claims which, though completley unproved, make him appear to have some vast secret knowledge of which nutritional or medical scientists either choose to ignore or have not yet discovered.

The self-styled nutritional expert can promote miraculous cures for nearly any condition or disease and imply that many special foods have magical properties over and above their nutritional value. He frequently has the pills or the foods for sale.

THE PSEUDOHEALTH specialists, as well as those who collect and promote their teachings, are doing you no service. The valuable time and money wasted in following their silly advice serves only to delay people from receiving adequate medical treatment that might spare their suffering or save their lives. These quasi-scientific experts prey on the emotions of people, already fearful of illness or even death, and who are willing to try anything that offers even a hint of cure.

Proponents of food faddism can count many individuals from all income groups among their followers. A fad is usually followed only for a time, but then another one comes along. While new approaches in nutrition education can play a part, along with improved social and economic conditions, further understanding of elementary behavior patterns will help deter a person from following the quack.

Nutritionists may have depended too much on a factual approach and have not presented nutritional information in terms of personal needs.

We're not out to sell a cause — only to expose some myths and methods common to the faddist and the quack. From this you may be better able to evaluate their claims and to determine, for yourself, their merits.

Canada Trip Follows Nicol-Saunders Rites

Stephanie Page Saunders of Larkspur and Robert Stewart Nicol of Mill Palley were married Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Saunders, in Greenbrae.

The bride's sister, Sharon G. Shope of Corte Madera, was matron of honor, and Barrett W. Nicol of San Anselmo was his brother's best man.

Following a reception at the Saunders' home the couple left on a wedding trip to British Columbia, Canada. They will live in Larkspur.

Stephanie was graduated from Redwood High School and attends College of Marin and Sonoma State College. She is employed by Red Robin Caterers. Stuart D. Saunders of Travis Air Force Base is her brother.

Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur D. Nicol of San Anselmo. He was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School, attended College of Marin and is a student at Sonoma State College. He is employed by White Glove Maintenance in San Rafael and Red Robin Caterers. Stephen O. Nicol, who is in the Navy, is also his brother.

San Diego Is Site For Marriage Rite

The Kensington Community Church in San Diego was the setting for the marriage Saturday afternoon of Kathryn Kopf of San Diego, formerly of Mill Valley, and Craig Schroers of San Diego. A reception was held at the church immediately after the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Brown of Nairobi, Kenya, East Africa, formerly of Mill Valley, and the parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schroers of San Diego. Mrs. Brown flew from Nairobi for the wedding.

Kathy Schroers of San Diego, the bridegroom's sister, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. John H. Griffin Jr. of San Diego and Janet Oates of Mill Valley, the bride's sisters.

Best man was Larry Ayo of Lemon Grove. Ushers were Dave Flock of San Diego and Dave Barkin of Beverly Hills.

After a wedding trip to Sun Valley, Idaho, the couple will live in San Diego.

A graduate of Redwood High School, the bride attended Tamalpais High School and San Diego State College. She is employed with John Lenore and Co. in San Diego. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Ruth Doud of Nairobi, formerly of Mill Valley.

The bridegroom was graduated from Crawford High School in San Diego, attended San Diego State College and is employed with Stanley Andrews in San Diego.

Ross Family Spending Holidays In Mexico

By MOLLY MARIN

Mr. and Mrs. William Richardson of Ross and their four children are in La Paz, Mexico, and will spend Christmas there with Mrs. Richardson's parents, who have come from Cincinnati.

The Richardsons, who will return the day after Christmas plan a New Year's Eve party for friends and neighbors. Children are invited in the early evening for refreshments and a pinata breaking and then will return home. Their parents will stay for dinner and champagne at midnight.

THE WEEKEND was a busy one for holiday party-goers. Many Marin families opened their homes to relatives, friends and neighbors, sharing the warmth of the festive season . . .

Forty-four guests at a punch bowl party Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stotter in Tiburon enjoyed the sophisticated humor of an adult puppet show . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Middendorf celebrated their first Christmas in Tiburon's Reedlands by giving an open house for 36 neighbors yesterday afternoon . . .

The John Burnhams of Mill Valley also had an open house yesterday and hosted friends from the entire Bay Area . . .

Yachting friends and neighbors were invited for cocktails Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Witzel to their home in Belvedere . . .

Also hosts at a cocktail party Saturday were Dr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of Mill Valley . . .

Mrs. Harrison Leppo entertained a group of friends at a luncheon Friday at her home in Mill Valley . . .

And a party held Wednesday at the Belvedere Tennis Club for the team mates of Mrs. Judy Haskins expanded to a gather for 60 friends who later had a cocktail buffet at Mrs. Haskin's home in Belvedere.

PLANS FOR next weekend include a Boxing Day open house for 75 friends, relatives and neighbors Sunday from 4 to 7 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Quinn Jr. in Tiburon.

The host's father, Cmdr. (ret.) David Quinn of Washington, D.C., will be the guest of honor.

Boxing Day is a traditional British holiday. It began in Medieval England when peasants were given the day after Christmas as a day off. The lord of the manors, who had celebrated on Christmas Day, boxed up leftovers and gave them to the servants.

PARTIES PLANNED for the New Year's weekend include a buffet dinner on New Year's Eve at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Denis Rice in Tiburon.

Members of the San Francisco Yacht Club are planning a New Year's Eve party featuring dancing, snacks, steaks and breakfast and will come in a variety of dress to the party at the clubhouse in Belvedere.

Vows Are Repeated In Denver

Frederic dePeyster Teller III of Ross wed Carol J. Haasis of Davis on Sunday in a ceremony at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Denver, Colo. A reception followed at the Cherry Creek Inn in Denver.

The bride's attendants were Kate Lawson of San Diego, Johnni Prince of St. Louis, Mo., and Michele Stone of Kentfield. The bridegroom's brother-in-law, Joseph Stone of Kentfield, was best man.

Carol is the daughter of Lt. Col. (ret.) and Mrs. L. C. Haasis of Denver. She was graduated from Drury College and is a graduate student at the University of California at Davis.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic dePeyster Teller of Ross. He was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and U.C. at Davis. Frederic is the brother of Mrs. Joseph Stone of Kentfield, Peter Ivancovich Teller of Hawaii and Anne Ornani of Bologna, Italy.

The couple will live in the Bay Area.

Seattle Church Is Scene Of Wedding

Jill C. Yates of Kirkland, Wash., became the bride of Joseph C. Tafoya of Espanola, N.M., Saturday in a ceremony at Blessed Sacrament Church in Seattle, Wash.

Mrs. Jaxan Christensen of San Carlos was matron of honor, and bridesmaid was Mary Pearson of Seattle. Francis Tafoya of Espanola was his brother's best man, and another brother of the bridegroom, Leon Tafoya, also of Espanola, ushered.

A reception in the parish hall of the church followed the ceremony.

Jill is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School. She is employed by the U.S. Office of Education in Seattle. Jeff S. Yates of San Anselmo is her brother.

Joseph was graduated from high school in Santa Fe, N.M., and attended New Mexico Highlands University. Charles Tafoya of Alburquerque, N.M., and Gilbert Tafoya of Espanola are also his brothers.

The newlyweds are living in Seattle.

Sour Cream

Use dairy sour cream as a topping or dressing for fruits and vegetables; in a sauce or gravy for poultry and meat. Experiment by adding different seasonings you may rarely use. Try a touch of dill weed, a sprinkle of celery seed with a dab of honey, or a spoonful of chili sauce for starters.

Ham, Chive Dip

For a tasty chip or cracker dip, combine finely diced ready-to-serve meat, ham or dried beef with sour cream and chopped chives.

Patricia Garland Is A Bride

A nuptial mass Saturday at St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur united in marriage Patricia Frances Garland of Corte Madera and Gregory Robert Smith of San Francisco.

Attendants for the bride were Susan Lynn Smith of Oakland, maid of honor, and Susal Low of Pleasant Hill, Roberta Sauls of Corte Madera, Kathy Shields of Day City and Judy Smith of San Francisco. Judy is the sister of the bridegroom.

Lenwood Shields of Daly City served as best man. The guests were seated by Barry Smith of Pleasant Hill, Grant Smith of Oakland, Lee Rifkin of Daly City and James Sauls III of Corte Madera.

The reception was given afterward at Hamilton Air Force Base Officers' Club.

The newlyweds will live in Larkspur when they return from their wedding trip to Mazatlan, Mexico.

Patricia, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Martin Garland of Corte Madera, is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School. She attended the College of Marin and was graduated from Bay City College. She is employed by Kaiser Hospital as an electroencephalograph technician in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith of San Francisco are Gregory's parents. He was graduated from Balboa High School and is a senior at the University of San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Schaffer of San Francisco are his grandparents.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Sunday School Mishaps Irk Grandmother Dressmaker

DEAR HELEN:

I spend days making beautiful dresses for my granddaughter and love seeing her look pretty.

But after a trip to Sunday school, she comes home with a ruined dress. Why do Sunday school teachers feel children must have orangeade, grape juice — food or drink that permanently stains clothes? After all, they are only there for an hour or so, and they get food at home. — GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA:

If you can't turn off the juice (after all, fruit drinks are good for kids) then how about sending along a plastic dress protector with your granddaughter? It would come in handy for other Sunday school activities too — youngsters no longer sit quietly and listen to Bible verses these days. They participate! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Each time I read about another appropriation for some idiotic thing or some monumental mistake that has cost us taxpayers money, I think: if over half our congressmen and senators were women, I'll bet the country would not be running in the red. This goes for state and local government, too.

Women are budgeters. They like to get their money's worth, and they are sharp bargainers. They also, for the most part, see how ridiculous it is to throw good money after bad — and they wouldn't be so susceptible to lobbyists for they've had great experience in "seeing through" men's little con games.

If women would only start trusting other women, they could join forces and elect female candidates — for we surpass men in population as well as brains. Come on, gals, get political! And men, if you want your taxes lowered, vote for women! — LEAGUE MEMBER

DEAR MEMBER:

I'm all for the women in politics — but before we can vote for them, we must persuade them to run for office. Many won't — though they are highly qualified — because they're convinced a woman can't win that their own sex won't stand behind them.

Until we females learn to see each other as persons, not adversaries, we haven't got much chance at the polls.

. . . Pity! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm the confused and frustrated wife of a man I recently learned is a homosexual.

He is a devoted father (we have three lovely children), a good provider, and appears very masculine in every way. I couldn't ask for a better husband — and I continue to love him — but, though he's tried psychiatry and prayer, and has continuing affection for me, he can't change.

He has tired to make me understand his feelings. He goes once a week. All other times, he is a devoted family man.

When I first learned about it, we separated. Now we're back together, for I realize how much the children and I need him. They were devastated when he left — and of course they'll never know why. To them, he's the greatest Dad of all.

Presently, we're "just friends." My husband is very good to me. I know I could never be happy with another man, for my whole life revolves around him and the children. I can't hate him. But can I continue to live this way ? And am I the only wife in the world with this problem? — CONFUSED WIFE

DEAR WIFE:

More wives than you realize face this situation — and many, like you, stay with it — for the same reasons which brought you and your husband together again.

The question you may ask yourself is: "Can I live with my problem or will it eventually destroy me?" If the good in your life outweighs the misery, then perhaps you can — but only you can make the decision. — H.

Christmas Trees Need Special Coat

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — It is an unfortunate fact that the number of household fires goes up every Christmas because of the extra fire hazards presented by holiday decorations.

Some accidents will happen regardless of all precautions taken. But many mishaps could be prevented and much damage could be avoided if certain simple precautions are taken.

One of the simplest and most effective steps is to reduce the flammability of the Christmas tree by letting it sit in a special solution. Tests conducted by the National Fire Protection Association have proven the value of the solution.

THE FORMULA is relatively simple: To one gallon of boiling water, add and mix four teaspoons of chlorinated bleach, two cups of light sugar syrup and four tablespoons of micronized iron. The last item is availabel at most garden supply stores, florists and hardware outlets.

For best results, the trunk should be cut again at the base and slashed freely with a hatchet in order to open up the fibers. The tree also should be allowed to stand in the solution, starting out hot, for about 12 hours before decorating is begun.

The discoverer of the process is Harold C. Cook of Dixon, Ill. He says the formula not only reduces the fire hazard but makes a tree look better and last longer.

He explains that the bleach keeps the water fresh without formation of algae, the syrup acts like glycerine in the preserving process and the micronized iron activates elements in the tissues of the tree and tends to keep the needles soft and pliable.

Another way to reduce the fire hazard is to coat the tree with a flame retardant. But neither method would be likely to eliminate any fire hazard, only reduce the possibility. Some artificial trees — but not all — are resistant to flames.

Even a metal tree can present a shock hazard when trimmed with electric lights, according to the Fire Journal, a monthly publication of the NFPA.

SOME LIGHTS are safer than others. Perhaps the least hazardous are the miniature bulbs that often come in the shape of tiny candles. They use less electricity than larger bulbs and can thus burn at lower temperatures. This reduces the chance of fire if a piece of tinsel makes an electric contact.

But the wire should be relatively heavy, according to experts on the subject at Underwriters' Laboratories Inc., home of the famed "UL" seal that signifies that products bearing it meet certain safety standards. Make sure that any artificial tree or set of lights has a "UL" tag.

UL experts also caution against stringing too many sets of lights together on one circuit. No more than 10 strings of eight miniature lights (80 bulbs in all) or 50 of the regular (7.5-watt) bulbs should be combined on a single electric socket.

Overloading can increase wire temperatures to the point where insulation is melted away. This process may occur gradually and may not become known until a shock or fire results.

Columnist Clarifies Indictment Target

The indictment for mail fraud in selling magazines, described in the Smart Shopper column for Dec. 8, was directed against a franchise of the Hearst Corp., not the corporation itself.

The franchise is International Magazine Service of Mid-Atlantic, Inc., based in Baltimore, Md., according to the columnist Arthur E. Rowse.

DANCE REVIEW

Fine 'Nutcracker' By Civic Ballet

By MARIE RAMEAU

Marin Civic Ballet is getting bigger and better all the time, as measured by the opening of its annual "Nutcracker" yesterday at Marin Veterans' Memorial Auditorium. An enthusiastic, near-capacity audience, some coming from as far away as Berkeley, also indicated that this young, growing company is finally beginning to get the support it deserves and needs.

The Christmas party of scene one was well put together, the pantomime being well co-ordinated and the production itself smoothly integrated with the action on stage. The little ones were well-rehearsed as the children, and were lively in their dancing and acting.

The Harlequin (Craig Randolph) and Columbines (Mindy Jones, Christina Rolling and Michelle Shibata) were pert and precise, even though the latter were difficult to see from my seat toward the side. The petite heroine Clara (Michelle Sabella) and her naughty brother Fritz (Lauren Doyle) were particularly spirited, with never a pause in their animated movements. Being merely youngsters, too, they related surprisingly well to the rest of the cast.

Unfortunately a lighting and sound gap marred the potentially fluent transition from the party scene to the snow scene, with which the first act ends. Even larger companies must often solve this built-in problem by the use of extra scenery so that the audience isn't left wondering in the dark. It was not a serious shortcoming, and was soon followed by the enchantingly wintry snow forest designed by Charles Hoeppner.

The corps de ballet as snowflakes were quite light, although not being on pointe somewhat diminished this interlude's other-worldliness. As they did not dance much, they did not quite succeed in evoking the image of a flurry of snowflakes in a soft, yet blizzardy snowfall. Their arm movements, however, were beautifully coached, combining numerous ports de bras with changing directions of the body.

With the Snow pas de deux I was less happy. Kathi McCormick as the snow queen, with her splendid extensions and classical lines, could have provided more brilliance, and I would have enjoyed her performance more if she had not looked so careful. With a little more warmth and abandon, she could be a very exciting dancer. Charles Perrier as the snow prince gave the part his cool, reserved best and was completely at ease, due to his outstanding skill as a partner and a strong stage presence.

Act two was somewhat brief, but I applauded until my hands were sore for two very professional-looking young ballerinas, Cynthia Harvey and Jane Thelen. The latter was seen only later in the principal role of the sugar plum fairy, but the former introduced the act as the soloist who subsequently dazzled the audience with her leaps in the "Waltz of the Flowers." Miss Harvey is an up-and-coming artist of exceptional talent, who projects a joyousness through everything she dances. With her fine placement and huge arches, too, she should soon be a spectacular performer.

Some very theatrical and exciting divertissements followed — Spanish, Chinese, Arabian, Russian, Ribbon Candy and a Circus to top it all. The Spanish dancers (Debbie Farb, Martha Fietz and Bridget Mullens) gave their fiery number all the style and temperament it needs, and the delicate Ribbon Candy dolls (Jody Martin and Laura Przetak) displayed refined, intricate pointe work in the catchy steps of this "Nutcracker" favorite.

At last came the demanding pas de deux of the sugar plum fairy and her Prince Charming (Jane Thelen and David White). Miss Thelen has come a long way since I first saw her last year, and she attacked both pas de deux and variation with the utmost assurance and grace. White was also very professional, with never a flaw in their many lifts and turns, and he rendered his own variation with brilliance and aplomb. Both these dancers are also unusually musical, as evidenced by their split-second timing in the fireworks of the coda.

One aim of this company is to bridge the gap between the ballet school and the professional performing company, and judging from yesterday's performance, they are well on their way to fulfilling this goal. Marin Civic Ballet's "Nutcracker" will be repeated tomorrow at the Veterans' Auditorium at 2 p.m. matinee.

Resigned Nixon Aide To ABC Post

NEW YORK (UPI) —Eugene S. Cowen, who resigned last week as a deputy assistant to President Nixon, was elected Sunday as a vice president of the American Broadcasting Co.

Cowen will head the Washington, D.C. office for the broadcasting division, replacing Alfred R. Beckman, who is retiring.

All men grapple with the questions... Why poverty in a land of plenty? Why loneliness in a world that would join hands? Why war when the impulse of the heart is to love? The aching chasm between the real and the ideal, everywhere provokes the question...

WHY?

In a world looking for answers maybe God is the place to start. God is hope. God is now.

PLAY WILL BE SATIRE ON SUPERVISORS

A satirical play about the Marin County Board of Supervisors will be presented by Marin Alternative Dec. 29 when the group celebrates its first birthday.

The musical review, "B.O.S. Superstars," by Judy Ainsworth of San Anselmo, will debut at 9 p.m. at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley. Preceding the show will be a refreshments hours.

The cast includes David Zakim as Papa John (John F. McInnis), Stewart N. Boxer as Pistol Pete (Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.), Parland R. Johnstone as Bud Bark (Louis H. Baar), Kenneth Howard as Sir Michael (Michael Wornum,) Dennis R. Beall as Fair-Haired Arnold (Arnold Baptiste, Lewis W. Stewart as Doug Malarkey (County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney) and Richard R. Seminario as Sheriff Lou (Louis P. Mountanos, county sheriff.)

Admission will be free to members, but there will be a charge for nonmembers, according to Mrs. Johnstone, corresponding secretary of the group.

Blacks In Israel May Be Deported

JERUSALEM (UPI)—A government official said today self-styled members of the American Black Hebrewite Nation could appeal deportation orders served on them Sunday within three days.

"They have to go to the supreme court," an Interior Ministry spokesman said, "They have three days to do so."

The spokesman said Interior Minister Joseph Burg signed deportation orders on Friday.

The orders apply to eight American Negro familes who arrived in Israel in October and received one-month tourist visas, but failed to renew them.

Burg said deportation orders soon would be served on seven more such families that were detained Sunday on charges of taking up residence in a restricted military area. They had lived in Jericho, in the occupied west bank of the Jordan.

$1.12 Million Robbery Gang Knew The Bank's Operation

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI)—The four "polite" bandits who staged Canada's biggest bank robbery—$1,129,000 in Canadian and U.S. curency--apparently new the operation of the Royal Bank of Canada down to the smallest detail.

The four, wearing ski masks and brightly colored coveralls, were in and out of the downtown bank in less than 15 minutes Saturday morning and had a 90-minute headstart on police. The best clue police had today was the green station wagon they were seen in after leaving through a side entrance.

"It was a high professional job," said Police Chief Gordon Preston. "These men knew exactly where to go, and exactly what to do. The whole thing had obviously been planned well in advance."

The $1,129,000 was the receipts of the Windsor Raceway which normally draws large crowds from Detroit and neighboring U.S. cities across the Detroit River. The bandits missed another $800,000 which had already been counted and put in a vault in the bank which was not open for public business.

The four, once in the bank, did not refer to each other by name, but rather by the numbers "one" through "four".

"This thing was beautifully planned. There's no question about that," said Preston. A number of houses here were searched and a number of persons "who could have been involved in this type of crime" were questioned, Preston added.

It was the biggest cash theft in Canadian history. A robbery in 1970 from a Toronto bank netted $6.7 million in nonnegotiable bonds and $1.2 million in bonds was taken from a Montreal bank in 1965. The money in both those holdups was recovered.

Despite being robbed, the bank empgoyees—11 women and two men—had praise for how polite the men were.

"They could have done anything to to us, but they were very nice," said employe Coleen Bielich, 20, of Windsor. She said they joked with the women and wished them a merry Christmas before taking them upstairs and handcuffing them to water pipes.

The bank's manager, Kenneth Moore, walked into the middle of the robbery and thought one of the four men serving as a lookout outside the counting room was an employe. Then the man pulled down his stocking mask which had been partially lifted and Moore saw his gun.

"They were very polite to me," Moore said.

The four apparently knew the receipts from the track were to be delivered by armored truck at 9:30. They showed up five minutes after it left. They entered the bank building without being challenged, apparently with keys that got them through two locked doors and into the counting room. There the women — hired specifically to work on Saturday mornings when the track receipts were brought to the bank—were counting the money and stacking it.

Sex Perversion Innocent Plea

William Thomas Hutchings, 28, of Woodacre, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of sex perversion and indecent exposure.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set Jan. 11 for a preliminary hearing.

Hutchings was arrested Dec. 7 and charged with committing lewd acts upon a 13-year-old girl in San Anselmo last March and exposing himself to an 11-year-old girl in San Rafael on Nov. 21.

Tactics 'Appall' Young Mayor

NEWCOMERSTOWN, Ohio (UPI) — Ron Hooker, the teenage mayor-elect of this community of 4,300, says he has turned down bribes and job offers of up to $28,000-a-year since he won last November's election.

The 19-year-old college student, who was elected by a landslide write-in vote last November, will be sworn in tonight. He says he is shocked and appalled by such practices.

"I've been approached by people offering me money to see that something was done," he said Sunday. "People have offered me money to mention their names during interviews and things of this sort.

"Well, I didn't do it and I'm not going to do it. I couldn't believe it happened. It shocked me. I was appalled."

Thief Smashes Window, Takes Cash

A San Rafael youth told Corte Madera police yesterday that a thief smashed a window of his car and took his wallet and $120 in cash from the front seat late Saturday.

Thomas W. Magliulo of 170 Alpine Drive told the police the theft occurred between 9 p.m. and midnight while he attended a function at the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

HOMEWARD BOUND — Four-year old Dana Wagner leads parents Ron and Carol Wagner out of the thicket, heading home with the trophy of their annual hunt: a Christmas tree. Unlike many families the Wagners search for a tree was a matter of a few minutes this week, questions of size and shape vanishing on sight of this five-footer at the Bolinas Bay Christmas Tree Ranch.

Selecting A Tree In Stinson Beach

By PAT ANGLE

Like Santa Claus, Charles E. Hancock of Stinson Beach spends all year preparing for Christmas.

His "workshop" is the Bolinas Bay Christmas Tree Ranch, a verdant stand of pines, firs and redwoods nestled in the hills above the Bolinas Lagoon about two miles north of Stinson on Highway 1.

Although tree hunters come to the ranch from as far away as the East Bay, according to Hancock, the trip was only a hop, skip and a jump for the Ronald Wagner family of Stinson Beach who had just arrived for their first tree cutting experience.

"In the past, we've always bought live trees and planted them, but now our yard is being overtaken by old Christmas trees," Mrs. Wagner said with a smile.

The Wagners found plenty of trees to choose from since the personable Hancock said a year's worth of weeding, trimming and spraying has paid off in a bumper crop of trees.

As the big holiday approaches, an almost steady stream of persons makes its way to the ranch, all inspired to choose and cut their own trees.

On clear, crisp December weekends, Hancock said the graveled entrace to the ranch resembles a supermarket parking lot with a definitely festive air as as many as 200 persons set off into the hills in search of the perfect tree.

Hancock and his crew of four, which includes his two sons, Mike and Dries, hand out saws and maps and give directions to the choicest stands of various kinds of pines and firs, but he tries to stay away from families choosing their "green things."

The selection of Christmas trees can be a pretty controversial matter, Hancock said with a grin, and there can be heated discussion about the merits of one tree over another. "I try to stay out of fights," he said with a laugh. "Whenever I hear loud voices in the distance, I make it a policy to walk the other way."

He learned the hard way. "I used to go up to the couple or family and try to restore the holidy cheer, but I found myself called on to intervene in the fights as a 'Christmas tree expert' and now I steer clear of the whole thing."

The Wagners, however, had no such difficulties and spent only five minutes finding "their tree," a five-foot fir. "Everyone, even our dog, knew that was the tree we wanted as soon as we saw it," Mrs. Wagner said. They left about 20 minutes later, pausing only long enough to lash the tree to their camper and eat homemade cake and drink coffee which Mrs. Wagner had prepared for the jaunt.

Fortunately, he said, even the most vivid arguments usually work themselves out as soon as a tree is agreed upon and the people always leave —well, almost always — "happy, smiling and satisfied."

The leaving process, complete with motor vehicle and tree, has provided some of the most humorous moments for Hancock and his workers. "You'd be absolutely amazed at what people try to fit into their cars," he said.

CHARLES C. HANCOCK
Avoids being referee

Last weekend, for example, a couple in a Volkswagen sedan with a sun roof bought two large trees (each tree on the ranch is $5.95 no matter what size or kind) and spent the next hour and a half trying to fit the trees to the vehicle. "It was incredible," Hancock recalled. "It was really touch and go for a long time and, frankly, I didn't think they'd make it."

The Christmas tree rancher is still bemused and amused by the man who labored diligently — but unsuccessfully —to put a 25-foot tree into a camper. Hancock still bursts into laughter when he thinks about what happened that time: "After wrestling with the problem for a long, long time, he proceeded to cut every branch off the tree and stick them into the camper. He even cut the stump in two because it wouldn't fit, then smiled and drove away. It was a real mind blower!"

Barney the goat, which went to a new home last week, also used to offer a few laughs, according to Hancock. Barney's peak performance, however, came when he climbed onto the roof of an auto and began eating the Christmas tree tied there while the lady buyer was paying for it. "That lady really screamed when she saw him," he said.

Although he gave Barney to a Los Ranchitos couple who were delighted to get him, Hancock has a strong hunch that the popular goat will indeed return. "By this time he has probably eaten all the trees in their backyard and they'll really be sorry they took him," he said.

Despite the fact that almost all activity on the 840-acre ranch takes place between Thanksgiving and Christmas Eve, there are some surprising off-season sales, occasionally to individuals films Christmas commercial for television months in advance.

Once Hancock, who is acting chairman of the Bolinas-Stinson School District board, air-freighted about a dozen trees to Australia in August and is still puzzled about why they were wanted. "Maybe they were filming Australian Christmas commercials," he quipped.

But one of his favorite customers is the fellow who buys two Christmas trees a year, one at the regular time and another in July. "He keeps his tree up all year round because he has a real thing on Christmas trees," he said. "He assures me a tree will last for six months if it's kept in water.

"This guy is convinced having a tree up all year keeps him in a loving Christmas spirit," Hancock said and added with a grin: "You know, I should probably check that out; if it's true, think what it would do for business."

'Drastic' Smog Measures Needed, State Warned

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — State officials were warned today that California cannot meet federal clean air requirements without "drastic measures" such as rationing gasoline or banning vehicles from urban areas.

The warning came from Frank M. Stead, former state head of environmental health, in a hearing before the state Air Resources Board.

The hearing was one in a series on blueprints by Bay Area and state smog officials to clean up air pollution.

Stead, in testimony prepared for the hearing, said the combined state and local programs will "fall far short" of meeting the deadline for federal air quality standards by 1975.

Underscoring Stead's argument was separate testimony by the top administrator of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, D. J. Callaghan, who said all of the federal standards would not be met in the Bay Area until 1985.

Stead, representing the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association of California, said new federal law no longer would allow California to compromise air pollution control on the basis of economics, politics or industiral impact.

"The federal standards together with their timetable, are now the law of the land, and both the state and local air pollution control agencies in California are now, for the first time, facing an inflexible mandate," he declared.

The board also was warned by Stead that California could lose its right to have independent air quality standards if it fails to meet the federal time table.

Arguing for the need to rewrite California's air pollution control program to meet the 1975 deadline, Stead said, "In the final crunch, this may well call for such drastic measures as direct curtailment of the combustion of fossil fuel in motor vehicles by gas rationing or the complete exclusion of vehicles from certain urban areas."

Stead also proposed that local air pollution control districts require construction and operating permits for public and industrial sources of air pollution.

The state also should set up a system of testing stations to check vehicle smog controls and car owners should be required to prove their vehicles comply with smog standards at the time of registration, according to Stead.

Finally, Stead urged regional land use plans to prevent air basins from being overloaded by pollution.

The state's so-called "implementation plan" required by the federal government from all states must be filed in Washington by Jan. 30. A public hearing on the final 400-page version will be held in Sacramento by the board on Jan. 19.

Failure In Italy

ROME (UPI) — Parliament failed for the 18th time in 12 days today to end an ideological deadlock between Roman Catholic and Marxist candidates by choosing one or the other as Italy's sixth president.

Children Concerned Over Vandalism

Children at Santa Margarita School in the Dixie School District have become so disturbed over vandalism that they are starting to write letters to the editor about it.

Letters were received by the Independent-Journal today from three fifth grade pupils at the school, telling of extensive damage by vandals.

Leslie Lembo wrote:

"I would like you to be aware of the vandalism that is going on in my school.

"Almost 51 windows have been broken and smashed in the last five months. This is only one of the very many things that are going on in my school.

"We have taken $2,250 out of the school budget for these windows. This takes away all our luxuries like P. E. equipment, teacher aids, and special COMA projects, etc.

"This has been going on in many of the schools in this district, and has affected many of them badly."

Another letter-writing pupil, Kyle Orr, reported the number of windows broken as 44, with the latest being three on Dec. 7 and two on Dec. 4. "And that's not all," he wrote, "we had six all fiberglass rafters kicked down from the roof. And we had two glass doors damaged."

The third pupil, T. J. Gadient, also reported ventilators had been kicked down. "I am very angry about the vandalism and I wish it would stop because everyone pays," he wrote.

Joseph B. Goff, assistant superintendent of Dixie School District, said the letters probably resulted from a campaign in the schools to make pupils aware of the cost of vandalism.

Goff said there has been "a bad rash of vandalism" this school year. "Santa Margarita probably has not been hit any harder than some of the others," he said.

There have been "some nasty intrusions" at Bernard Hoffman School, with vandalism inside the building, Goff said. The principal's office at Dixie School was broken into, and there have been break-ins also at Don Timoteo, Lucas Valley and Nova Albion Schools since the start of the school year. At the new Oak View School, a contractor's shed was burned while the building was under construction. The fire alarm has been tampered with at Vallecito School.

As to the pupils' reports of loss of physical education equipment, field trips and teacher aids because of the vandalism's cost, Goff said: "We're certainly not going to punish a school because of a maintenance problem. But if we run out of money . . . "

Some of the Dixie District schools are in San Rafael, others — including Santa Margarita — in the unincorporated territory. Undersheriff Sidney Stinson said the only report of vandalism at Santa Magarita to his department was of three windows in the kindergarten room broken on Dec. 7.

'Hope Walk' Set In The County

A "Hope Walk" to benefit the international health agency which sends the hospital ship Hope around the world, will be held Feb. 27 by Marin County Junior and senior high school students.

The 20-mile hike will start at 8:30 a.m. from the College of Marin, go through the Greenbrae hills and San Rafael to San Rafael High School. It will cross San Rafael, down the Miracle Mile to San Anselmo, then to Ross and back to the College of Marin, according to Frances Mills, publicity chairman.

Students will get sponsors to pay them for each mile they walk, she said.

Armed Pair Rob Station Attendant

A San Rafael service station attendant was robbed of his wallet and watch last night by two armed men — one carrying a gun, the other a hunting knife.

Kenneth J. Burns, 18, told police he was in the office at the Disco service station, 555 Francisco Boulevard, when the two men entered at about 9 p.m. with nylon stockings pulled over the tops of their heads and faces.

They demanded money and unsuccessfully attempted to open a floor safe, Burns told police, before taking his possessions and forcing him to lie face down on the floor with the threat by one of the men, "I'll blow your head off."

Burns described the robbers as black, both about 20 years old and about five feet-10 inches tall. One weighed about 150 pounds, and the other about 170 pounds, he said.

Broderick To Preside Over Court

Henry J. Broderick will be presiding judge of Marin Superior Court beginning Jan. 3.

Judge Broderick will succeed Samuel W. Gardiner, who will take the criminal calendar which was handled by Judge E. Warren McGuire this year.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson will continue as probate and juvenile court judge.

These assignments are made each year by the five superior court judges, who get together to discuss and agree on who gets what duties.

Council To Study Speeding Law

The Novato City Council tomorrow night will consider an ordinance to regulate rapid acceleration and automobile speed contests on private property open to public use. The council meets at 8 p.m. at the Novato Community House.

The ordinance would cover areas such as shopping center parking lots, school parking lots, drive-ins and service stations, according to Police Chief A.V. Klemme.

There is no state law or city ordinance covering such property, he said. This has created a safety problem and has made policing of such areas difficult, the chief reported.

Supervisors Will Meet Tomorrow

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9 a.m. at Civic Center, will consider an ordinance creating a county emergency services organization.

The organization, to be governed by a "disaster council" under the board of supervisors, would carry out plans for the protection of persons and property within Marin in the event of a disaster.

The new agency, authorized under state law, would be concerned primarily with implementation of the recently drafted county emergency plan, also up for board approval.

Frank Kirby, currently a health planner with the Department of Health Services, has been recommended to head the agency.

His pay would increase from $1,084 per month to $1,111.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also is expected:

HOSPITAL — To consider a proposal from Marin General Hospital that county morgue and laboratory facilities be included in the hospital's new master plan.

DRUG ABUSE — To review a so-called countywide community drug abuse control plan, which is a collection of historical data on county drug abuse programs.

VEHICLE INHABITATION — To consider again an ordinance banning sleeping or living in a motor vehicle. A similar ordinance was shelved months ago but will be reintroduced at the insistence of West Marin residents.

GRADING ORDINANCE — To consider an amendment to the new emergency ordinance on road grading. The amendment would create a special committee to review all applications for new road grading.

Ballfield Request To Be Studied

The development of an additional little league field and winter swimming-pool use will be considered at the Petaluma City Council meeting today at 7:30 p.m.

City little leagues seek permission to build a new diamond on the La Tercera School grounds and an expanded field for senior play at Lucchesi Park. Use of the swimming pool for January, February and March by the Petaluma Swim Club also will be considered, along with a fee schedule.

New President For Health Unit

Jack D. Williams, Kentfield School District psychologist, has been selected chairman of the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board for 1972.

Williams, vice-chairman this year, succeeds Peter Palmer.

George Monardo was named by the board Wednesday as new vice-chairman.

In other business, the board endorsed a broad plan for attacking drug abuse in Marin that was submitted by Lloyd Churgin, County alcohol and drug abuse coordinator. Emphasis of the plan is on maintaining small antidrug programs and obtaining local funding for projects.

Bachelor Degrees To Six Marinites

Six Marin County students have received their bachelor of arts or science degrees for the fall semester from the University of California at Davis.

Those who received degrees were: David B. Smith of Kentfield, Bruce M. Thomson of Mill Valley, Adrienne A. Ardito of San Anselmo, Julianne M. Karlonas of San Rafael and Diana S. Epstein and Frederick W. Fickert of Tiburon.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Oral Contracts Also Are Valid

Oral contracts are just as valid as written ones, with a few exceptions. The main problem is proof. It is more difficult to prove an oral contract, especially when the words are in dispute.

The "statue of frauds" requires that some contracts be in writing. One common provision involves the sale of goods valued at more than $500. Such contracts should be written. But even here, if there is a "memorandum" or some "part performance," the contract can be enforced.

In a recent case Mike saw an ad for a used Rolls Royce for $11,000. He answered the ad and dickered with the owner to buy the car for the asking price. Mike made a down payment of $100 and was to get a bank loan for the rest. All of the agreements were oral.

The owner changed his mind and decided not to sell. He returned the $100 to Mike and tried to cancel the deal. Mike sued, and was met with the defense that the contract was oral and for more than $500, and, therefore, could not be enforced. Mike won in court. The down payment was part performance, thus showing the contract was made.

Similarly, if part of the goods have been delivered or accepted, that shows that an oral contract has been made. The oral agreement for more than $500 is then enforceable.

In another case, an oral contract was made for the sale of standing timber. The buyer agreed to cut it and pay a percentage of the sale price for the logs. The owner of the land tried to back out. But the buyer was able to enforce the oral contract because he had already, with the owner's knowledge and permission, started to cut the trees.

If there is a signed or intialed "memorandum" — any writing that identifies that parties, the subject matter and some of the terms of the promise — the oral agreement is enforceable.

Oral agreements dealing with real property, leases for over a year, a guarantee of another's promise or the mailing of a will are all subject to the statute of frauds. All should be in writing. Reliance on "exceptions" to the statute of frauds is dangerous. Get it in writing.

Ridge Preservation Plan to Be Heard

The Corte Madera Town Council will hear a town planning commission recommendation on preservation of ridge tops at its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at town hall.

The council also will consider an ordinance and three resolutions on emergency preparedness, two permits for home businesses and rezoning of a parcel at Corte Madera Avenue and First Street from apartment to local shopping.

Theft Suspect Set To Appear

Stone Marston Uhl, 20, of San Geronimo, is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Jan. 14 on charges of burglary and concealing stolen property.

A preliminary hearing will be set at that time.

Uhl was arrested Nov. 24 and charged with the Nov. 23 burglary of the William Ronald Gray home at 3 Shell Road in Mill Valley and the Aug. 30 burglary of the Sally Scullion home at 75 Mountain View, Fairfax. He also is charged with concealing property stolen from the two homes.

For Muskie

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan will endorse Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine for the Democratic presidential nomination, it was learned today.

'Massive Demonstration' Just Never Materialized

Marin County law officers braced themselves in Sausalito over the weekend for a threatened massive labor demonstration that never came to pass.

Target of the demonstration was to have been a Sausalito liquor store which sells wines made from nonunion grapes, according to city officials and police who said they had been told representatives of Caesar Chavez's United Farm Workers Organizing Committee would mass at noon Saturday in front of the Bottle Shop, 771 Bridgeway.

According to Sausalito Police Chief James D. Wright, the farm labor grove also planned to picket "numerous establishments" throughout the county selling wines made from nonunion grapes including wines from Charles Krug, Mondavi, Wente and Berringer Brothers.

But Wright said representatives of the labor organization had said the largest demonstration was planned for Sausalito.

Scattered picketing of stores selling liquor did take place in some Marin communities, including San Rafael and Mill Valley, the Independent-Journal learned today.

Except for one incident in San Rafael where police were called to stop pickets from harassing customers at the Bourbon Shop, 280 Northgate, owners and managers of stores said the demonstrations were small and orderly.

At 10 a.m., Wright said, representatives from the police department and Sausalito Mayor Alexander R. Imlay met with demonstration leaders at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley to ask about their plans and "set up ground rules" for the rally.

By 11 a.m., he said approximately 50 law officers from all police departments in Marin, including the sheriff's department, had gathered in downtown Sausalito. The officers, including 19 Sausalito policemen, were equipped with riot gear, including helmets and jumpsuits, the chief said.

A command post, complete with radio communications equipment and a video tape camera, had been set up atop the Bank of America building across from the Bottle Shop, at the corner of Bridgeway and Anchor Street.

Merchants and property owners in the area had been notified of the expected demonstration, according to Wright, and police settled back to wait.

They waited for nearly two and a half hours, but not one demonstrator or picket appeared, Wright said. At 1:30 p.m. the additional policemen who had been called to duty through the countywide mutual aid system were sent home, according to the chief.

Representatives of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee in San Francisco could not be reached for comment.

Approximately 15 persons picketed the Redhill liquor store at 67 Throckmorton in Mill Valley and the Mill Valley Market across the street, according to Redhill owner Si Weil. He said the pickets, who remained from noon to about 1 p.m., were "very quiet" and caused no problems.

About 10 demonstrators picketed the Bourbon Shop in Northgate, owner John Gay reported, but he said there was no picketing at his four other outlets in San Rafael and Corte Madera.

Police were called briefly, he said, when the pickets began shouting taunts at customers entering the store.

About two weeks ago merchants selling nonunion wines were presented with leaflets from the farm workers union, threatening them with picketing if they continued to sell the wines.

Safety Council Estimates Road Deaths For Yule

CHICAGO (UPI) —The National Safety Council has predicted that between 520 and 620 persons will die in traffic accidents during the three-day, 78-hour Christmas weekend which begins at 6 p.m. local time Thursday and ends at midnight Sunday.

The council estimated that another 25,000 to 29,000 persons would be injured in traffic acci Last year, 504 persons died in traffic accidents during the Christmas weekend.

Council President Howard Pyle, in an announcement released Saturday, estimated Americans will travel 9.5 billion vehicle miles over the Christmas weekend.

Car, Cash Taken From Garage

A 1958 Mercedes Benz and $25 in cash were stolen in a burglary of a San Rafael garage last Saturday or early yesterday morning, San Rafael police reported today.

Police said the car and money were taken from the Daniele and Orlandi Body Shop, 1556 Fourth Street.

They were seeking the owner of the car, David L. Boese, 23, no known address, for questioning about the theft, officers said.

Man Of La Mancha Effort Pays In Bridge Tourneys

Part of the secret of winning a national pair championship is to get to some unmakable contracts and make them. You don't try this against your best opponents, but you do step out if the opponents seem flustered or timid or upset with each other.

Today's hand is a prime example of what you have to do to win the National Mixed Pair Championship.

If you think that Lew and Eugenie Mathe overbid the North-South hands, you might try calling them up to tell them so. Mrs. Mathe should have been down two at four hearts doubled, but West came to her rescue.

West opened the four of diamonds for reasons that will always remain obscure. East covered dummy's eight with the nine, and declarer took the jack and then the ace of diamonds. She next led a club, hoping to reach dummy with the king.

East captured the king of clubs with the ace and couldn't wait to fire back a diamond.

Declarer discarded her other club, and West ruffed with the ten.

SPADE SHIFT

West now switched mysteriously to the ten of spades, and East put up the king. Mrs. Mathe, South, played the deuce of spades; and East returned the six of spades on the assumption that his partner had the ace.

Mrs. Mathe took the ace of spades and prayerfully led the ace of hearts.

The king of hearts dropped, and declarer promptly ran the rest of her hearts. At the 12th trick West had to decide whether to save the jack of spades or the queen of clubs.

WRONG GUESS

West guessed wrong, and Mrs. Mathe won the last trick with the five of spades, making her doubled contract for a top score.

Yes, dear reader, the Mathe bid and played most of their hands in more orthodox style, but they wouldn't have won the title if they hadn't clobbered their weaker opponents.

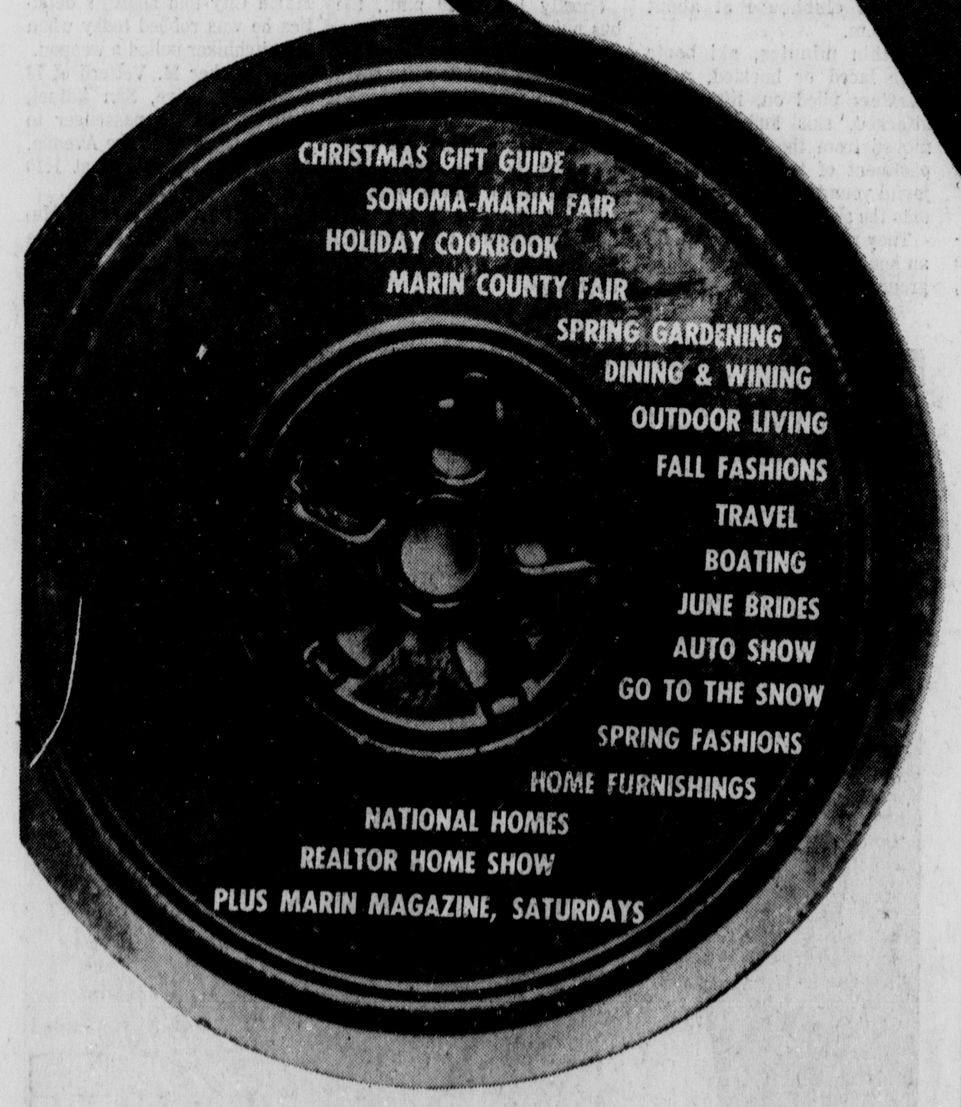
We couldn't get all the I-J Special Sections in the picture — too many of them. But this gives you the idea.



Your other newspaper within the I-J

A year-round parade of Special Sections written for your personal interests

These Special Sections lend an extra dimension to your reading and enjoyment . . . over and beyond the news. For each presents information and new ideas on a specific subject such as Travel, Dining & Wining, or Homes.

We publish more of them than most daily suburban and even metropolitan newspapers yet each is handcrafted by our own I-J reporters and editors with a taste for your tastes, your personal interests.

In the course of a year this "other newspaper within the I-J" amounts to some 500 pages, many in color, all designed to keep you better informed.

TWO WEEKS TO TWO MONTHS TO WRITE AND DEVELOP ONE SPECIAL SECTION

The job is a painstaking one. You might describe it as putting out a newspaper devoted to a single subject. Involves planning, research, photography, art, design, and sometimes, headaches. (Aren't you glad that all you have to do is read?)

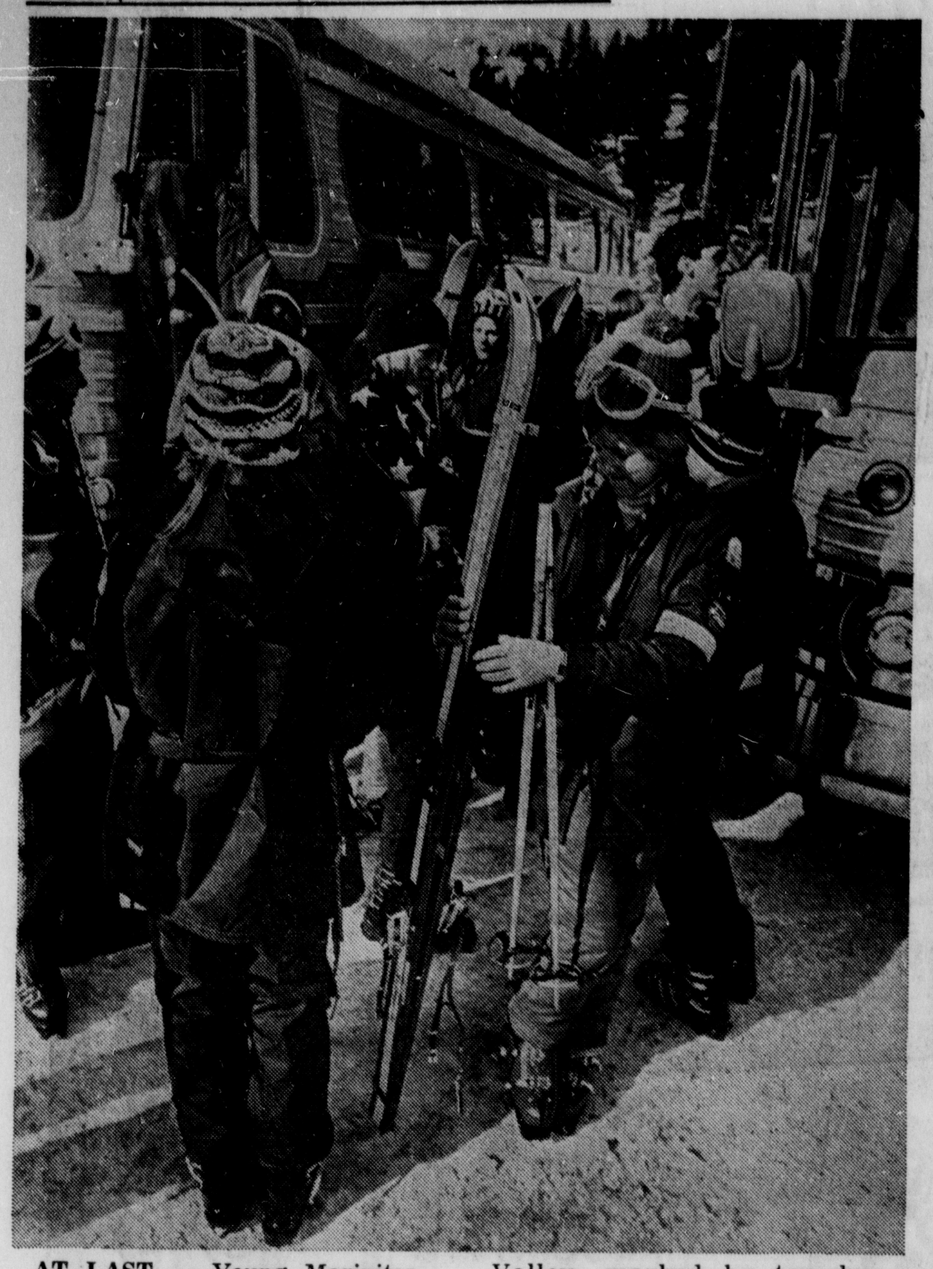
INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL



AT LAST — Young Marinites, boots and extra sweaters already on, unload their skis and prepare to hit the slopes following a seven-hour bus ride to Squaw Valley, marked by two bus breakdowns. Mechanical difficulties were forgotten in the excitement of finally being able to ski.

SUNSET — Snow flies from beneath the skis of a few of the more advanced skiers in the Mogul Ski Club as they come over a ridge as the sun — already down behind the mountains — shoots its late afternoon rays into the sky. Lessons are given to the young skiers in small groups based on their ability.

A Day In The Squaw Valley Snow

By C. P. McCARTHY

The best-laid plans often go astray and that's the way it went Saturday for about 35 Marin youngsters on a chartered bus to Squaw Valley.

A Marin Transit System bus — one of 18 chartered from various bus companies by the Mogul Ski Club for trips to Squaw Valley and Alpine Meadows Saturday — suffered two engine failures and pulled into Squaw seven hours after its 5 a.m. departure from the Bon Air shopping Center in Greenbrae.

The twice-as-long-as-usual bus ride didn't seem to bother the young skiers much. Cheers greeted the news on their arrival at Squaw that they would be able to ski an extra hour, and the main concern expressed about getting back to Marin an hour late appeared to be that they would be missing "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

The 12-hour bus ride was worth it to the young people even if they did get in only five hours of skiing. One youngster noted the 12 hours was equivalent to two school days, and added, "I'd rather be in a bus than in school."

The 17-hour day began with a 4:45 a.m. rendezvous at Greenbrae for the Squaw Valley group. Skiers going to Alpine Meadows met at Lions's coffee shop on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Highway 101. Youngsters from Northern Marin met at Northgate shopping center and were picked up by one of the two buses headed for Squaw Valley.

One of the buses was only 10 minutes past Hamilton Air Force Base, when a shout from the rear of the bus was asking, "Are we almost there yet?"

The skiers were quiet as the bus sped through the darkness, and fog and frost went unnoticed by sleeping passengers as the sun rose outside Sacramento.

Into the Sierra foothills, however, they began awakening and voices that will never sell a million records began warming up with such soothing melodies as "A Thousand Bottles of Beer on the Wall," "Bang Bang Lulu" and "Jesus Christ Superstar."

An ambitious attempt at "A Billion Bottles of Beer on the Wall" fizzled with about 999,999,997 bottles of beer still left on the wall.

As the Marin Transit System bus met upgrades tougher than Wolfe Grade, the engine overheated and automatically shut off, and driver Leon Smith pulled it to the side of Highway 80 not far from the state division of highways's Whitmore maintenance station.

While Smith fiddled with the engine, the sounds of "Jingle Bells" and "On the First Day of Christmas Onassis gave to me" filled the bus.

The youngsters stayed patiently in the bus after the Mogul supervisor on board, Mary Lou Fitzmaurice of Mill Valley, told them a California Highway Patrolman had asked they not leave it.

Applause, cheers and whistles greeted the resumption of the trip about 45 minutes later, only to be followed by groans in about 15 minutes more when the bus was again at the side of the road.

It was a better place for stopping, however, and this time the young people were allowed out to romp in the snow as long as they stayed more than 10 feet from the highway.

"But if you get all wet and sloppy, don't complain," Mrs. Fitzmaurice warned them.

Some of them did get all wet and sloppy, but they didn't complain. They frolicked in the white stuff, sliding down hills, throwing snowballs and shoving each other into the powder.

Another round of cheers for a second resumption of the trip, and — with a second bus that had driven back from Squaw in case it was needed following — the bus pulled up in front of Mogul's clubhouse at about 12:15 p.m.

Within minutes, ski boots were laced or buckled, more sweaters piled on, lift tickets attached, skis and poles removed from the storage compartment of the bus, and the joyful young skiers disappeared onto the slopes.

They regathered at 2 p.m. for an hour-long ski lesson in small groups based on their ability.

The rest of the afternoon they skied on their own, before straggling back to the bus exhausted at 4:30 p.m.

Skis and poles were put back in storage, wet clothes changed and boots taken off as the bus left Squaw Valley shortly before dark.

There was time for a nap, with shoeless feet over seats and sticking up in the air, before dinner at a large Sacramento cafeteria.

It might have been the Ritz for the air of excitement as the bus pulled into the restaurant's parking lot. After an hour of hamburgers, milk shakes, pizza, or just candy, the youngsters returned to the bus to say how awful the food was. The joy of arriving at the restaurant and complaints upon leaving are repeated every week, according to Teresa Scavia, secretary to Mogul.

Exhaustion was forgotten on the last leg of the trip, as teenage chatter, yelling, singing, laughing and pushing filled the bus.

Shortly before 10 p.m., the bus pulled back into the Greenbrae shopping center's parking lot. Smiling parents were there to pick up their own, or several, youngsters.

The young people were gone. Miss Scavia went through the bus and picked up the forgotten clothing, glasses and goggles to take to Mogul's San Anselmo headquarters, and the day was done.

Until Thursday, which has been substituted for this coming Saturday's trip because of Christmas.

Mogul, as well as the Blizzard and Huski ski clubs which offer similar programs, gives young people between the ages of nine and 17 from snowless Marin and the rest of the Bay Area the opportunity to ski, even if parents don't ski or don't want to.

Trips are run on Saturdays and Sundays, with a few overnight trips during the ski season, and end with a week-long trip in the spring.

Costs include an initial fee ranging from $35 to $75 plus a charge for transportation and lift tickets on each trip.

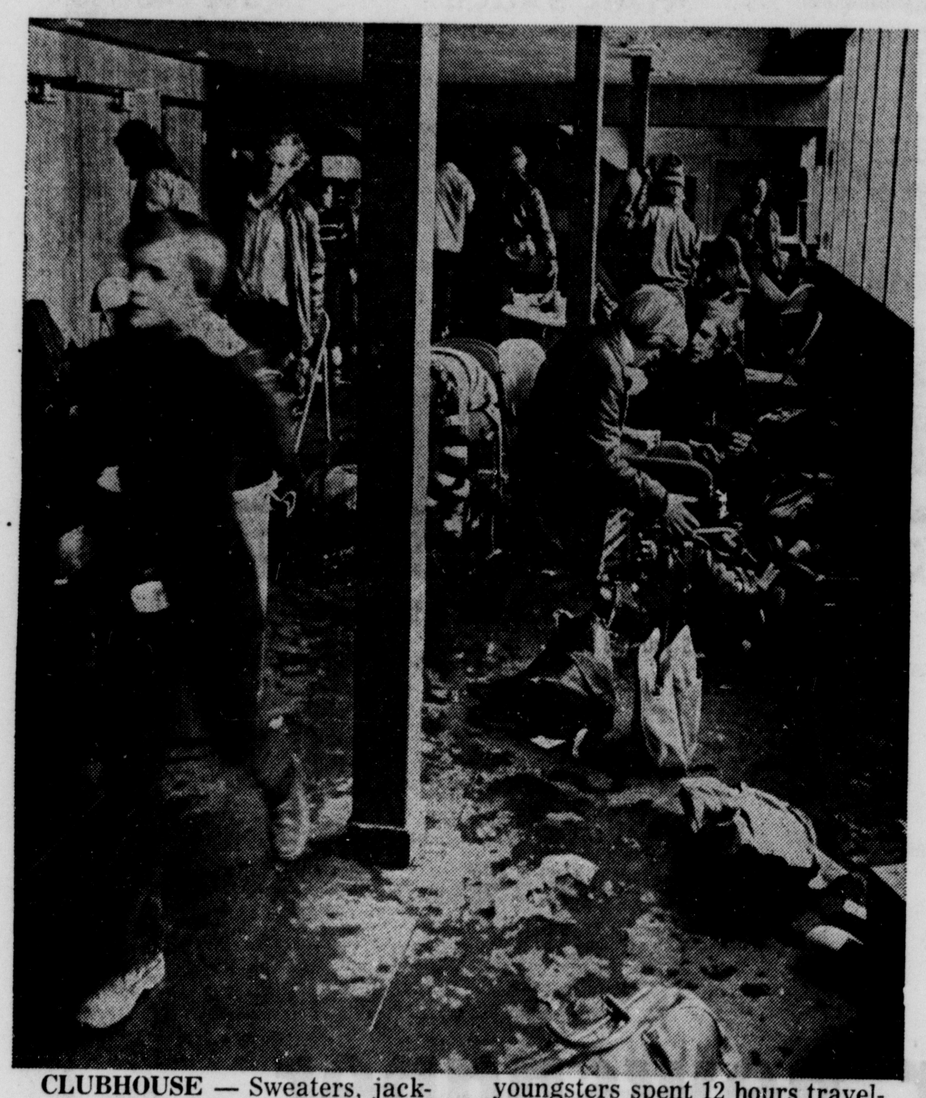
Usually, the buses make it without engine troubles.

Hitchhiker Pulls A Holdup

A motorist who gave a man a ride from San Francisco to Marin City told sheriff's deputies he was robbed today when the hitchhiker pulled a weapon.

Christopher M. Vetterli of 73 Graceland Drive, San Rafael, said he took his passenger to the 100 block of Drake Avenue, where he was robbed at 1:10 a.m.

A sheriff's deputy at the Marin City substation was unsure how much money was taken or what type of weapon was used.



CLUBHOUSE — Sweaters, jackets, boots and shoes decorate the Mogul Ski Clubhouse at Squaw Valley as the young skiers perpare for their departure. The youngsters spent 12 hours traveling Saturday to get in five hours of skiing, and appeared to love every minute of it.

SNOWPLOW — It's toes together, heels apart as a group of Mogul Ski Club beginners learn the basic snowplow, one of the first steps in skiing. The Marin-based ski club has its own staff of instructors for its Saturday and Sunday ski trips throughout the ski season.

(Independent-Journal photos by Alfred M. Arn)

WHAT GOES UP — Ski poles in one hand, a poma lift pole in the other, young Marin skiers are pulled to the top of a beginners slope at Squaw Valley. Many skied down nicely, while others got a taste of the snow.

LESSONS — Bill Kleiser (center), 13, of Kentfield, listens intently to a Mogul Ski Club instructor during a one-hour lesson Saturday at Squaw Valley. Following the words of advice from the instructor, the students headed down the slope with skis together and their weight on the downhill ski, maybe.

New Court: An End To Forced Busing?

By ED ROGERS

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The arrival of two conservative justices on the Supreme Court in a political year has raised speculation that forced school busing may be on its way out.

Oath taking ceremonies will be held Jan. 7 for Lewis F. Powell of Virginia who received a Senate confirmation vote of 89 to 1, and William H. Rehnquist of Arizona, confirmed by a vote of 68 to 26.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., of the Senate Judiciary Committee, a leader of the fight to gain confirmation for Rehnquist, told a law school in a home state speech last week:

"I am hopeful that we are in the process of achieving a better balance in the court. That is what the fights on the court nominations have been all about." He predicted the court may display more "judicial restraint" after Jan. 7 on cases involving "pornography, school desegregation and criminal laws ..."

Some observers believe the issue of forced school busing and the public pressure it has created was alone responsible for the Powell and Rehnquist confirmations.

Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, DIll., a member of the House Education and Labor Committee, predicted the court will reject the concept of busing to achieve racial balance. If the court gets an appropriate case Pucinski believes it will restore the original school desegregation decision of 1954.

In that case, Brown vs. Topeka, Pucinski said, the court merely held there could not be separate schools for whites and blacks and school districts must be fairly drawn. The requirements that each school must have a balanced racial composition has been added since, he said.

Pucinski recently announced he will challenge Sen. Charles H. Percy, a Republican liberal from Illinois, in the 1972 elections. In an interview he told UPI busing is bound to become an issue in that race.

The administration has given no indication of what it will do if the issue spreads to the presidential race.

Last August the President repeated earlier public statements that he opposed busing children from one school zone to another solely for the sake of racial balance.

More recently Senate Republican Whip Robert P. Griffin and House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, both of Michigan, have asked the Justice Department to intervene in federal court cases involving their state.

And Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., plans to make busing "one of the central campaign issues" of his bid for the presidency. A recent campaign statement said Jackson sends his 8-year-old daughter to the Horace Mann public school in Washington which has a black enrollment of about one third.

"I practice what I preach," Jackson said. "But I would not want my child bused out of a good school to a poor school just for the sake of providing racial balance."

Planning Study On Belvedere's Plans Agenda

The Belvedere Planning Commission will discuss the city's new planning study when it meets at 8 p.m. today at city hall.

The study, by the San Francisco planning firm of Livingston and Blayney, recommends a policy of discouraging growth on the island community by more restrictive zoning.

A 90-day building moratorium was approved Dec. 9 by the city council, although construction may be approved by a conditional use permit.

Also on tonight's agenda is a request by the 530 Washington Street Corp. of San Francisco for a use permit to build a new house at 430 Belvedere Avenue.

Schools Merger To Be Studied

The possible merger of the Kentfield and Ross school districts will be considered by Ross district trustees at 7:45 p.m. today in the Ross School library.

The district has received a letter from the Kentfield School District regarding unionization. It recommended that two Ross board members meet with two Kentfield board members to plan a joint meeting of the two boards to discuss unionization of the two districts.

The board also will consider recommendations for making plans for any emergency. It will receive a report on the parent-teacher association activities and plans, the annual audit, and budget report, and will consider renewing the superintendent and principal's contract and hiring one teacher.

Colleges Could Lose $20 Million

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The bill lowering the age of majority in California to 18 could cost the state's community colleges more than $20 million annually.

The California Junior College Association, in a memorandum issued Friday, said the loss could come if large numbers of regular students are reclassified as adult students.

Part of the drop in income would come because the state provides $662 for each regular student taking less than 10 class hours, but $539 for adult students

Troup Drop

SAIGON (UPI)—Some 9,200 U.S. troops were pulled out of Vietnam last week in the largest seven-day withdrawal of Americans since 10,200 servicemen left in a single week in April, 1970, the U.S. command said Monday.

RESOLUTION OF MARIN COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT
RESOLUTION 71/72-14
RESOLUTION OF INTENTION TO TRANSFER REAL PROPERTY

WHEREAS, the COUNTY OF MARIN is desirous of obtaining fee title for roadway purposes to certain property owned by Phillips Petroleum on which the Marin Community College District has an option; and

WHEREAS, said property described is as described in EXHIBIT "A" which is attached hereto and incorporated herein; and

WHEREAS, this sale to the COUNTY OF MARIN is agreeable to Phillips Petroleum, however, pursuant to the Option Agreement, the Marin Community College District must concur in and receive the benefit from any sale of the optioned property.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED AS FOLLOWS:

1. That it is the intention of the Board of Trustees of the Marin Community College District to approve said sale to the County of Marin for the sum of $4,875.00, which amount, pursuant to the Option Agreement, shall be credited to the total purchase price of the optioned property.

2. That Wednesday, the 5th day of January, 1971, at 8:00 o'clock P.M., is hereby set as the time for a public hearing upon the question of the granting of said easment.

3. That the Clerk of this Board is hereby directed to cause notice of said hearing to be made by posting this Resolution in three public places in the District not less then ten (10) days before the date of the meeting and by publishing this Resolution once, not less than five (5) days before the date of the meeting, in a newspaper of general circulation published in the District if there is one, or if there is no such newspaper published in the District, then in a newspaper published in the County in which the district is situated and having a general circulation in the District.

The foregoing Resolution was passed and adopted at a regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Marin Community College District, County of Marin, State of California, on the 9th day of December, 1971, by the following vote, to-wit:

AYES: Best, Compton, Dean, Felt, Oliver, Wellman
NOES: Gray

NOTICE INVITING SEALED PROPOSALS OR BIDS
OCEANA MARIN UNIT 5
ASSESSMENT DISTRICT

Pursuant to the Municipal Improvement Act of 1913 and the resolution directing this notice adopted on December 7, 1971 by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, said Board invites sealed proposals or bids for the construction of sanitary sewerage and water distribution facilities, underground electric facilities and necessary auxiliary work, as more particularly described in Resolution of Intention No. 71-147, adopted by said Board on June 21, 1971, which resolutions are on file in the office of the County Clerk and to which reference is hereby expressly made for a more particular description of the work to be done.

All of said work is to be done at the places and in the particular locations, of the forms, sizes, dimensions and materials and to the lines, grades and elevations as shown and delineated upon the plans, profiles and specifications made therefor and preliminarily approved by said Board on December 7, 1971.

Payments will be made in cash by said County to the contractor in accordance with the provisions of the specifications and on itemized estimates duly certified and approved by the Engineer of Work submitted in accordance therewith, based on labor and materials incorporated into said work during the preceding month by the contractor.

Notice is hereby given that on December 7, 1971, the Board adopted a resolution determining the general prevailing rate of per diem wages to be paid to the various craftsmen and laborers required to construct said improvements, a copy of which wage scale is contained in and made a part of the specifications for said work, and is also on file in the office of the County Clerk and open to public inspection, to which reference is hereby made for further particulars.

All proposals or bids shall be accompanied by cash, cashier's or certified check payable to the order of the County Clerk, amounting to 10% of the bid, or by a bond in said amount and payable to said Clerk signed by the bidder and a corporate surety, or by the bidder and two sureties who shall justify before any officer competent to administer an oath, in double said amount and over and above all statutory exemptions. The amount so posted shall be forfeited to said County in case the bidder depositing the same does not, within fifteen days after written notice that the contract has been awarded to him, enter into a contract with the County.

Contractor shall furnish to County a faithful performance bond and labor and material bond as required in said specifications.

Said sealed proposals shall be delivered to Kenneth M. Allen, Engineer of Work of the County of Marin, at the office of Benjamin P. Bonelli, 935 Lootens Place, San Rafael, California (94901), on or before 10:00 o'clock A.M. of the 6th day of January, 1972, said time being at least fourteen days from the time of first publication of this notice. Bids will be publicly opened, examined and declared on said day and hour and referred to and considered by the Board of Supervisors at its meeting at 1:45 o'clock P.M. on January 11, 1972.

A copy of the plans and specifications may be obtained from the office of Kenneth M. Allen Engineers, 2301 South El Camino Real, San Mateo, California (94403), upon deposit therefor of $25.00, which will not be refunded.

Dated: December 7, 1971.

GOLDEN GATE TRANSIT ROUTES

Beginning Jan. 1, the Golden Gate Bridge District will replace operations of Greyhound Lines between Santa Rosa and San Francisco with its own bus transit service. The map shows the two routes to be followed in San Francisco: one through the financial district and the other serving the civic center. The new Golden Gate Transit routes are designed to bring most commuters within walking distance of their San Francisco offices. In Marin and Southern Sonoma counties the bus routes will extend into the neighborhoods. San Francisco routes and stops were developed in cooperation with the Department of Public Works and Municipal Railway. Golden Gate Transit will provide service to and from the north around-the-clock, with as many as 130 buses operating during peak hours on weekdays.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Drooling Is Caused Mainly By A Person's Inability To Swallow

Drooling (sialorrhea) is normal in babies and usually subsides when the infant learns how to retain and swallow the saliva. Children with cerebral palsy may drool for months (or years) because the nerves involved in swallowing are damaged. When an adult drools, a neurological disorder, such as Parkinson's disease, nerve palsy or stroke usually is responsible. Facial disfigurement or a blocked esophagus is a mechanical cause of sialorrhea.

A PERSON with too much saliva is not necessarily a drooler. The salivary glands become more active during pregnancy or when irritated by an oral infection or poorly fitted dentures. But there will be no drooling unless the individual is unable to hold the secretions within the mouth or the ability to swallow is impaired.

From 80 to 90 per cent of all saliva is manufactured by the two large glands on each side of the jaw. The parotid gland is located in front and slightly below the ear. It is the gland usually involved in mumps. The other, submandibular, is so named because it is under the jaw (mandible). The one and a half quarts of saliva produced daily contribute to the mechanical and chemical digestion of food. These juices also cleanse the mouth. Without normal salivary function the teeth decay.

AS WE SAID, drooling is caused mainly by the inability to swallow rather than by the amount of saliva present. But the causes of drooling are almost impossible to remedy. The next best procedure is to lessen the flow of saliva with medicines or surgery. Unfortunately, drugs cannot be used continuously.

One of the operations for drooling involves severing the nerves going to the glands. In another technic, the surgeon ties off the ducts that bring saliva to the mouth. The submandibular glands also can be removed or destroyed via X-ray.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

DERMATOGLYPHICS

E.W. writes: According to a student of the occult, the lines in the palm of the hand tell many things about life, including health trends and longevity. Do doctors support this belief?

REPLY

Every 10 years or so it is fun to listen to a strangely garbed lady tell you what you want to hear. The complex designs of the lines in the palms have been correlated with a variety of congenital defects resulting from sex chromosome anomalies. There is no reason to believe they indicate luck in love, long life, or good judgment.

SENSITIVE TO ALCOHOL

B.J. writes: Ten minutes after I've had a cocktail my fingers and feet swell. Why does this happen?

REPLY

The simplest explanation for the symptom is allergy to alcohol. One of the other ingredients may also be responsible. There is undue sensitivity to alcohol in such rare disorders as Hodgkin's disease, carcinoid tumors, and porphyria.

SEWING AND THE HEART

R.L. writes: Is sewing hard on the heart of an elderly woman? I enjoy working with my hands but have an enlarged heart and get tired quite easily.

REPLY

No. Sewing is a great hobby for persons with heart disease.

TUMMY SLEEPING

Mrs. M. S. writes: What do you think about a baby sleeping on his stomach day and night? Our daughter in law lets our grandson sleep in this position, without ever changing. The older one had to be given X-ray for a thymus condition which I felt was caused by too much strain on his throat from sleeping on the stomach.

REPLY

Sleeping on the tummy is the recommended position for babies. It is more natural and has its advantages in case the youngster spits up or vomits. Sleeping posture has nothing to do with the thymus gland which, we now know, is largest in infancy and seldom causes symptoms.

DRIED-UP GLANDS

Mrs. K. D. wirtes: I'm 66 years old and have to take pills because my endocrine glands are dried up. Why did they dry up?

REPLY

Age. The endocrine glands begin to atrophy sooner in some than in others and a pill a day is a small price to pay for replacement of a natural deficiency.

NO PREVENTIVE

F. D. F. writes: Is there a medicine to prevent diabetes?

REPLY

No, but diet, pills, and shots are available to keep the disease under control. The best preventive is to maintain normal weight.

'GRASSY' VITAMINS

W.T. writes: Is it true that babies should be allowed to walk on the grass barefoot because they get certain vitamins in the way?

REPLY

No, and the same can be said if the child waded through a bed of vitamin capsules or floated about in a tank of cod liver oil. There are vitamins in grass, but we can't expect the child to absorb them through the soles of the feet. Toddling about in bare feet, however, will strengthen the arches.

EFFECT OF FEAR

H.C. writes: Can fear of a heart attack cause the worrier to have one?

REPLY

Emotions have a powerful influence on the body and any type of anxiety could act as a contributing factor to a heart attack.

SWOLLEN NECK

R.D. writes: Can swelling in the front of the neck be caused by anything but goiter?

REPLY

Yes — the Adam's apple in men — but goiter or tumor is the cause in 98 per cent of all cases.

SUMMONS
Case No. 61907

Superior Court of California, County of Marin

Plaintiff: ALLEN BLAIR
vs.
Defendants: FRANK R. SAYRE and JOHN FRANKLIN

To the Defendants:

A civil complaint has been filed by the plaintiff against you. If you wish to defend this lawsuit, you must file in this court a written pleading in response to the complaint (or a written or oral pleading, if a Justice Court) within 30 days after this summons is served on you. Otherwise, your default will be entered on application by the plaintiff and the court may enter a judgment against you for the money or other relief requested in the complaint.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your pleading, if any, may be filed on time.

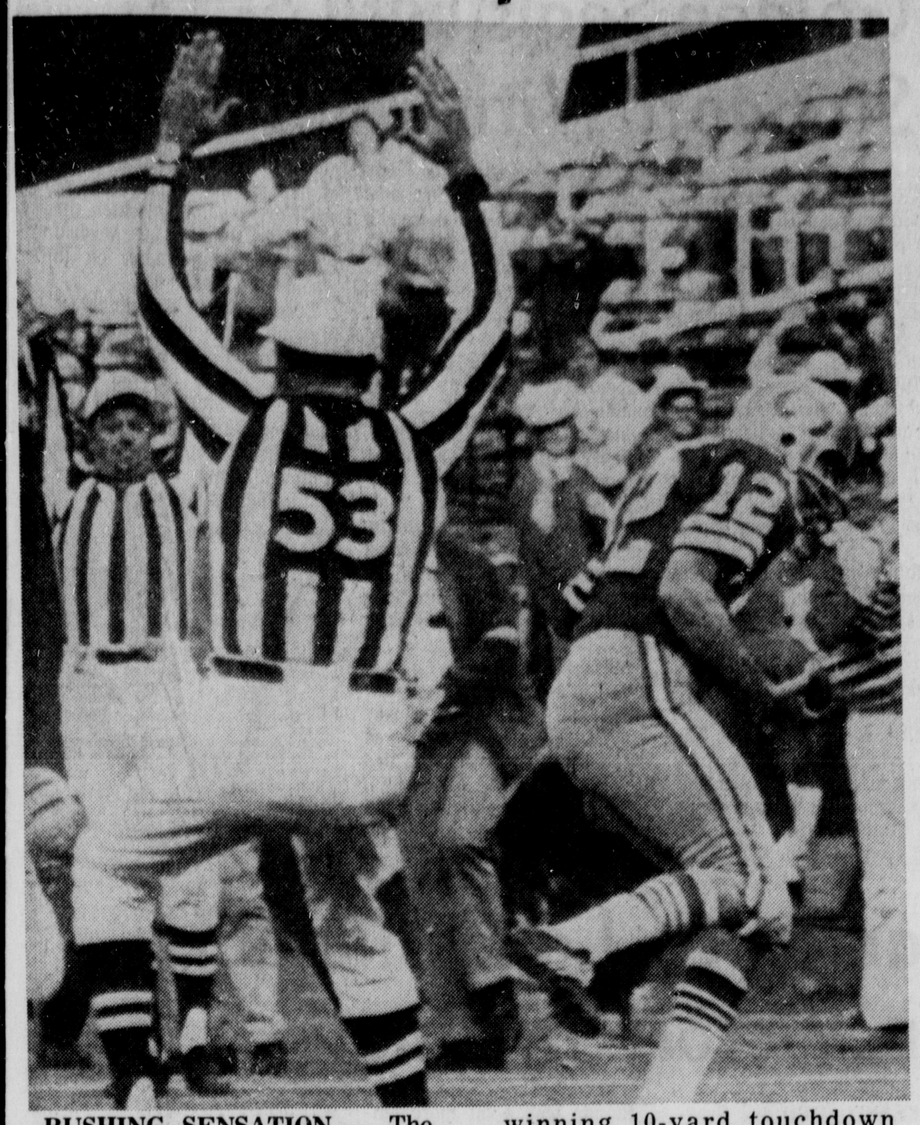
49ers Dump Detroit To Take Divisional Crown, 31-27



RUSHING SENSATION — The 49ers' John Brodie (12), who lately has taken to running with the ball in key spots, scored the winning 10-yard touchdown against Detroit in the fourth quarter yesterday.

John Brodie Runs For Winning Score

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— John Brodie, a bum two weeks ago when the Kansas City Chiefs upended the San Francisco 49ers and seemingly left them for dead, was a real, live hero today.

That's because the 15-year pro was able to come back with two sterling performances — over the Atlanta Falcons and, Detroit Lions —and personally carry the 49ers to their second consecutive NFC West title.

Sunday, he enjoyed perhaps his finest hour, throwing for three touchdowns and running over for a fourth as the 49ers came on to defeat the Lions, 3127, and clinch a spot in the National Football League playoffs.

"Maybe it wasn't his best game ever," said San Francisco coach Dick Nolan, "but it has to rate right up there. He called a great game, took advantage of weaknesses and came up with the big play when it was needed.

"While I don't want to take anything away from John," Nolan continued, "It should be pointed out that our offensive line played a big part in the victory over Detroit. I'll tell you, those boys blew some people out of there and helped us with the running game."

Brodie completed 14 of 20 passes for 186 yards and his scoring throws covered 12 yards to Dick Witcher, 10 to Ken Willard and 30 to Gene Washington. That gave him 18 TDs for the year, and 202 for his career. Brodie thus became the seventh quarterback in pro history to complete 200 or more scoring throws, a real enviable record, but he shrugged it off.

"Records are fine," Brodie said, "but winning is better."

Asked how he felt about his play calling against Detroit, Brodie seemed a bit perplexed.

"There was no brilliance in the play calling," he said. "We discovered early in the game we could run the ball so we stuck with it."

Willard, the workhorse San Francisco fullback, was nearly as brilliant as Brodie, especially during a fourth-quarter, time-killing drive when he carried the ball 11 times and helped kill off more than eight minutes.

"What can I say about Willard that I haven't said before," Nolan asked by way of replying to a question. "His running, and that of Vic Washington and Larry Schreiber gave us the best balanced attack we've had in many years."

Willard carried the ball 15 times against the Lions for 81 yards, while Washington gained 38 in 14 carries and Schrieber 42 in seven. That gave Willard 855 yards for the year and Washington 811.

"You know you've got a pretty good offense when two guys go for more than 800 yards," said Nolan. "Last year we depended too much on the passing game and that is not a good

COME BACK HERE — Dick Witcher (88) of the 49ers let a John Brodie pass bounce off his chest yesterday, but retrieved it for a 25-yard gain. Detroit's Wayne Rasmussen (47) watched helplessly.

SPORT NOTES

49er Star Nunley Clutches Cigar, Pass

By RALPH CHATOIAN

There was the jubilant Frank Nunley, sitting in his stall in the 49er dressing room, pulling off pads and ripping tape from his socks. There he was, clutching his usual victory cigar, still in its metal container.

Moments before he had intercepted à Greg Landry pass with just a little more than a minute left in the game, insuring a 31-27 victory over the Detroit Lions and a second straight NFC Western Division title.

"THAT WAS THE first one I caught all year," said the man called "Fudgehammer" by his teammates. "And I had dropped three this year." After his interception and return of seven yards, Nunley was swarmed over by his teammates. "I couldn't get off the ground. Everyone was jumping on me."

Explaing his interception, Nunley said the 49ers were in a zone defense. "I just went as deep as possible and the ball just came to me. Dave Wilcox was right in back of me and told me he would have got the ball if I hadn't."

"It's just great," shouted 49er special team standout Elmer Collett who learned his football at Tamalpais High in Mill Valley before his days at College of Marin and San Francisco State. "It's just like last year. We had to beat the Raiders in the last game and this time we had to beat the Lions. I had a feeling of confidence before the game, just like last year.

HOW DID COLLETT feel when the 49ers had to give up the ball to the Lions with a minute and a half left, the ball on the S.F. 28-yard line? "I was a little scared then, but then Frank came up with that interception. Man, I'm one happy fellow."

Collett, 6-foot-4 and 240 pounds but usually the first man downfield on punts and kickoffs, said he is confident the 49ers will beat the Washington Redskins in the first playoff game next Sunday at Candlestick.

"And I think Minnesota will beat Dallas," he said about the other NFC playoff game. "Why? I think the Minnesota defense will stop the Dallas offense." Collett also thinks the momentum gives the 49ers a decided edge going into the playoffs. "We're riding high. Other playoff teams are just resting on their laurels and we really have the momentum going for us."

That's the truth. The 49ers have played their best football of the season in their last two outings, games in which they had to win to get to the title. They were tough in that 24-3 triumph over Atlanta and had to come from behind three times yesterday in the win over the Lions.

LARRY SCHREIBER, sitting on the bench throughout the season, got his chance to play the past two games, spelling fullback Ken Willard. And he's been great. He and Willard were shuttling back and forth in the fourth quarter while quarterback John Brodie was using the clock yesterday. Willard ended the day with 81 yards in 15 carries and Schreiber had 42 yards in seven carries.

Said Willard after the game: "Without a doubt it was one of our best ground games since I have been with the 49ers (seven years). We just went out and played football. I wish I could say something philosophical but I can't. We just played good football today."

Schreiber said they were basically using just two

Marin Tars Win Easily; Await Laney

The scorekeeper, manager and ball boy did not play for College of Marin Saturday night, but everybody else did, as the basketball Tars ganged up on Sierra College for a 99-56 victory in Rocklin.

The triumph elevated the Tars' record to 11-1 and gave them the elusive "momentum" they'll need Thursday night when they play powerful Laney College in Oakland.

Twelve different Marin players found their way into the scoring column Saturday night. Top man was Joe Smith, who pumped in 24. One other starter was in double figures —Joe DeMaestri with 11.

"Only two of the players who started the first half started the second," said coach John Panagakis. "After five minutes, they were out, too. It was a really fine team performance."

Pat Purcell came off the bench to score 14 points. Ron Small was good for another nine.

"Our press forced 18 turnovers in the first half," said Panagakis. "They couldn't recover from that." Marin led at halftime, 56-25, and coasted.

It was the Tars' fourth consecutive victory following a two-point upset loss to Reedley College in the College of Marin tournament.

HEMINGWAY GETS 3RD IN CONTEST

Novato's David Hemingway finished third in the national punt-pass-and-kick semifinals yesterday at the Astrodome in Houston, Tex.

Hemingway's total distance was 201 feet, eight feet behind the winner and five feet behind the runner-up. It was his best distance in competition.

The competition was held at the San Diego Chargers-Houston Oilers football game. Thirteen youths, one from each American Football Conference city, competed.

David, representing the Raiders, won the competition at the Oakland Coliseum Oct. 24 to qualify for Houston.

Canoe Winners

Marin Canoe Club members won six events at Lake Merritt in Oakland Saturday. Class winners were Sara Ferandini, Todd, Paul and John Gulick, Nancy Reichard, Lowell Dwyer, Bud and Larry Busby, Paul Thoelecke, and Gordon Young.

San Rafael Visits Terra Nova Domain

This week's high school basketball schedule will be light or heavy, depending on how you look at it.

It will be light because only nine games are scheduled for the entire week. It will be heavy because some of the opposition is among the finest to be found in the Bay Area.

It will also be unusual, with three 1 p.m. games and two alumni games on tap.

San Rafael (4-4) will travel to Terra Nova of Pacifica at 1 o'clock tomorrow. The Bulldogs will be trying to rebound from a 69-65 overtime defeat to Vallejo last weekend. San Rafael has been following a definite pattern all year — win one, lose one, win one, etc. It's their turn to win this one.

Redwood (9-0) and Marin Catholic (4-5) play the first part of a split doubleheader tomorrow at Lowell High in San Francisco. Marin Catholic plays Sacred Heart at 7 p.m. and Redwood plays Lowell at 8. Next week, they switch opponents and play at Redwood.

On Wednesday, Novato (4-6) travels to San Mateo at 1 p.m. The Hornets salvaged seventh place in the Rose City tournament with a 51-38 triumph over Piner of Santa Rosa Saturday. Tamalpais (5-4), its bid to conquer the Peninsula thwarted by two defeats in the El Camino tournament, plays its first home game after nine road clashes, hosting Galileo of San Francisco at 8:15.

Two alumni games are also set for Wednesday. Drake's is at 6:45 and Redwood's is at 8.

Marin Catholic plays El Camino in South San Francisco Thursday at 1 p.m., and Terra Linda (4-5) takes on the College of Marin junior varsity in Kentfield at 4.

Redwood Wallops Yuba; Novato Smashes Piner

The results of another road test are in, and it looks like the 1972 model of the Big Red Machine is running smoother, louder and longer than any of its predecessors.

Redwood High School demolished Yuba City, 68-45, Saturday night to win the championship of the Yuba City basketball tournament. The victory ran the Giants' season record to 9-0, their best start in history.

In other action involving Marin County Athletic League teams, Novato captured seventh place in the Rose City tournament in Santa Rosa by defeating Piner of Santa Rosa, 51-38; Marin Catholic lost the consolation game in the same tournament to Mt. Eden of Hayward, 60-46; and Tamalpais was massacred by St. Ignatius of San Francisco in the consolation game of the El Camino tournament in South San Francisco, 72-42.

Never in serious trouble, Redwood led by eight points at the end of three quarters and broke the game open with a 31-16 fourth period. Tim Hennessy scored 21 points and Steve McGee added 19 as both made the all-tournament team.

"We've found our shooting eye," said coach Dick Hart, whose Giants sank 46 per cent of their shots, 28 of 61. "We made very few turnovers again," he continued, "only eight this time."

Novato (4-6) permitted a weak Piner team only five field goals in the last three periods and was never really challenged. "We played better man-on-man defense," said coach Jim Caranica, "although we still have a way to go."

Marin Catholic (4-5) led Mt. Eden at halftime, 27-24, but ran into foul trouble in the second half and the game slipped away. Mt. Eden made 26 of 36 from the line, while the Wildcats had only six of 11.

"We're substituting a lot, trying to find our best five," said coach Dave Gonsalves. "That accounts for a lot of the fouls." In the three-game tournament, the Wildcats committed 69 gouls to their foes' 43.

Jim Sullivan scored 16 points and Tim Stone came off the bench to add 10 Saturday.

Tamalpais (5-4) anticipated another close game with St. Ignatius, which edged the Indians by one earlier this year. Instead it was a rout, with S.I. ahead 53-23 at the end of three quarters.

"We had to play catchup basketball, and it backfired," said Tam coach Bernie Schneider. "We were down 7-0, 9-2, 13-3, that kind of thing. It's like in football — you get behind and start throwing long passes, and you either get back in the game or you don't. We didn't."

Will Garner and Jimmie Brown each scored 10 points for the Indians.

spot to be in. It puts too much pressure on a few guys."

With Brodie hitting on nine of 12 attempts, the 49ers took a 17-13 halftime lead against the Lions but Detroit, which finished the year with a disappointing 7-6-1 record, went in front with the opening kickoff of the second half as Steve Owens crashed a yard for the score.

Brodie got the lead back again at 24-20 when he found Gene Washington with a bomb, but Detroit bounced back for a 27-24 edge on a six yard pass from Greg Landry to Charlie Sanders.

The Lions had the ball in their own end and were moving along the ground when they got bogged down on the 40 early in the final quarter. The Lions were inches short of a first down at their own and gambled on fourth down. The San Francisco defense stacked up Landry at the line short of the first down and that proved the break the 49ers needed.

Brodie marched them the distance for the go-ahead score, dashing 10 yards up the middle untouched on a broken pass play for the clinching TD.

Joe Schmidt, the Lions coach, defended his gamble for a first down and said he didn't see how Landry missed getting it.

"It was a good move and I'd do it again," said Schmidt. "We wanted to control the ball and I'm convinced in my mind Landry made it for the first down."

The Lions couldn't move again after San Francisco's final score and punted to the 49ers 15. That's when Brodie and Willard chewed up the clock and the yardage before turning over the ball on the Detroit 24. The Lions had one more chance with 1:35 left but on the first play Frank Nunley intercepted a Landry pass and that sealed San Francisco's ninth victory compared to five losses.

For the record, the 49ers finished up a half game ahead of the Los Angeles Rams in the NFC West race.

Now they have to play the Washington Redskinu next Sunday in the first round of the NFL playoffs.

"Washington has a lot of fine players, is well coached and has a veteran defense which doesn't make mistakes," Nolan said of the Redskins. "We know we are going to be up against a very fine team, but if we can come back with our best game we have a great chance."

Rose Bowl Rivals Head To Pasadena

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Rose Bowl football rivals Michigan and Stanford headed for Pasadena today to finish preparations for their New Year's Day encounter between the champions of the Big Ten and the Pacific-8 conferences.

The Wolverines arrive shortly before noon and participate in a noon reception at Tournament House. Following the formal welcoming ceremonies, the team will hold a picture day practice session at East Los Angeles Junior College, where Michigan will practice.

The Stanford players, many of whom are from Southern California, convene at Long Beach where they will maintain their headquarters for the next two weeks. The Indians will practice at Cal State Long Beach, with some of the workouts to be held at Blair Field, training camp for the Los Angeles Rams.

fullback plays through the middle of the Lions' defensive line. "The guy who made those plays go was Vic Washington," said rookie runner Schreiber about rookie runner Washington. "He was knocking hell out of that linebacker."

"I HAVE ALWAYS been able to block," Washington said. "It is something in your heart, not your size, that makes you block. They think because of my size (5-10, 195) they can run over me. They find out different."

Brodie said of his touchdown run that was the winning TD, "Both men on the left and right were covered and there was that big hole in the middle, so I just ran."

Head coach Dick Nolan called this year's 49er team better than last year's champion team. "Ted (Kwalick) and Vic (Washington) make it a better team," he said.

About that halftime show, the 49ers of years past staged their own version of a punt, pass and kick contest, since many former 49ers were on hand at Alumni Day. Y. A. tittle won the passing, Gordy Soltau won both kicking events, and Leo Nomellini lost everything. Among the alums were Bruno Banducci, Marin Catholic High School football coach and Al Endriss, athletic director at Redwood High.

Khayat, Svare Get New Pacts

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Ed Khayat and Harland Svare, who took over troubled National Football League teams in mid-season, were rehired as head coaches yesterday by their respective clubs.

Khayat, whose Philadelphia Eagles went 6-2-1 in their last nine games under his direction, received a two-year contract from owner Leonard Tose. So did general manager Pete Retzlaff.

Svare, whose San Diego Chargers scored two upsets to go 2-2 under his leadership, was rehired for one year, according to Chargers president Eugene Klein. Klein said he would name a new general manager today.

NEW YORK — Gridiron buffs tuned in to the National Broadcasting Company's (NBC) Washington Redskins-Cleveland Browns game were suddenly cut off from the action in the second period and when the program resumed they were watching the Baltimore Colts-New England Patriots contest.

Irate viewers flooded local stations with telephone calls asking the reason for the switch and were told that NBC failed to provide prior notification of a program change.

Golf

ATLANTA — Three days before he died, golfing great Bobby Jones was baptized into the Roman Catholic faith.

Today the same priest who baptized Jones, winner of golf's "Grand Slam" in 1930, presided at private graveside services at Oakland Cemetary.

Speed Skating

WEST ALLIS, Wis. — Ann Henning, a 16-year-old high school junior from Northbrook, Ill., yesterday took first place in two speed skating events in qualifying races to decide the United States' representatives in the 1972 winter Olympics. The events were the women's 500 and 1,000 meter races.

Warriors Host Knicks Tomorrow At Oakland

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors were preparing today for a Tuesday night matchup against the New York Knicks in the Oakland Coliseum arena.

The Warriors have won two of their last three games, with the loss coming to NBA Pacific Division leader Los Angeles, after a dismal losing streak that began earlier this month.

In their last outing, the Warriors continued their dominance over Detroit as they took a 129-102 decision Saturday night in posting their seventh straight victory over the Pistons.

But the Warriors are struggling to stay in the West division race as they are 2 ½ games behind second place Seattle and 12 ½ behind the Lakers.

Warriors coach Al Attles has just about conceded the division title to the Lakers.

"With the Lakers off to a good start," Attles said Friday night after Los Angeles had routed the Warriors, 129-99, "our hopes are in the fight for second place."

Texas A & M Gets Bellard As Coach

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Emory Bellard, a young offensive assistant to Darrell Royal at the University of Texas for the past six years, today was hired as athletic director and head football coach at Texas A& M University under a five-year contract.

Bellard, who had a remarkable record in Texas high school circles before joining Royal at Texas in 1966, succeeds Gene Stallings, who was fired on Thanksgiving Day after his Aggies had lost to traditional rival Texas in a game which might have saved Stallings job if he won.

The new Aggie mentor accepted the hot spot assignment just three days after his birthday.

Bellard, who compiled a 136-37-4 record in 15 years of high school coaching after his graduation from Southwest Texas State University, said he has two immediate jobs.

"My primary tasks now are to organize a coaching staff and get busy recruiting," he said. "I'm sure the young athletes of Texas will understand why Texas A&M is a bit tardy in contacting them."

Bellard's acceptance came less than 36 hours after Louisiana State Coach Charles McClendon apparently had rejected a lucrative offer which some sources say could have reached the $1 million level.

It had been rumored strongly that McClendon was the No. 1 choice for the vacancy and that he would be named immediately after LSU's game Saturday in the Sun Bowl against Iowa State.

McClendon told writers in the dressing room after the game that he was interested and had been contacted by Texas A&M people but had not received "a bona fide offer."

Several hours later he told a gathering of Louisiana writers at his motel that he had "rejected" an offer from Texas A& M and was staying at LSU.

Dr. Jack Williams, president of Texas A&M, said the school was "indeed pleased to secure the services of such an outstanding football man" as Bellard, 44, who had been prominently mentioned as a potential candidate at Aggieland and also at Baylor University, where Bill Beall was fired after the past season.

"His football coaching record in Texas high school ranks and as a college assistant are excellent," Williams said. "His interest in all other competitive sports is equally outstanding. We know he will be warmly welcomed to Aggieland by students, faculty and alumni."

Texas Longhorn teams have won 48 and lost 11 games since he joined Royal's staff and had two national championship unbeaten seasons in 1969 and 1970. This year's Texas team had an 8-2 record, but won the Southwest Conference championship and will be playing in its fourth Cotton Bowl when it meets Penn State Jan. 1.

Golden Seals Earn 3-3 Standoff With Montreal

By DAVID DIETZ

OAKLAND — In a game that started ignominously but ended on a prosperous note, the California Golden Seals tied the Montreal Canadiens, 3-3, last night and strengthened their hold on third place in the National Hockey League's Western Division.

The Seals, who are unbeaten in their last five games, twice wiped out deficits to gain a two-point edge over Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, tied for fourth place in the divisional standings.

From the way the game started, no one in the Oakland Coliseum crowd of 5,660 would have remotely expected such an outcome. The Canadiens, defending Stanley Cup champions, had a 2-0 lead before the match was three minutes old, and it looked as if the final score would depend only on how many Montreal shots the young Seal goalie, Gilles Meloche, could keep out of the net.

It took Montreal just 15 seconds, in fact, to get its first goal as speedy Jacques Lemaire slid in front of the Seals' net and poked the puck past Meloche. At 2:36, with Meloche sprawled on the ice, Henri Richard, the gray-haired veteran, converted a rebound, and the Canadiens appeared on their way to easy pickings.

Not so, however. The Seals' defense, which had crumbled like so many tinkertoys in similar games earlier this year, stiffened. Finally, California tied the score in the second period as first Walt McKechnie and then Stan Gilbertson beat Canadien goalie Ken Dryden.

Montreal's Clause LaRose made it 3-2 five minutes after Gilbertson scored, but husky Wayne Carleton, who played standout hockey last night, tied it for good at 1:26 of the final period on a 40-footer that whistled by Dryden's glove.

The comeback cheered Seals' coach Vic Stasiuk, who obviously had gloomy recollections of the Nov. 5 game in which the New York Rangers got several early goals and went on to trounce the Seals, 8-1.

"They deserve a helluva lot of credit for coming back like that, especially being down, 2-0, to the Candiens," he said.

"We just started taking the man and playing our position," said Seals' defenseman Dick Redmond. "We weren't doing that in the first period."

Score by periods:

Lamonica Leads Raiders To Victory In Finale

OAKLAND (UPI) — Gray-haired George Blanda and talented Floyd Little are having second thoughts about retiring from pro football.

In recent weeks, it had been rumored that the 44-year old Blanda, quarterback of the Oakland Raiders, and Little, the 29-year-old running back of the Denver Broncos, might call it quits after this season. Both said it will be a long time before they make up their minds following Oakland's 21-13 win over Denver Sunday in the season finale for both teams.

Little rushed for 79 yards in 24 tries to wind up as the top rusher in pro football with 1,133 yards, 29 more than Green Bay's John Brockington. It also was the second straight rushing title for Little in the American Football Conference.

Completing his fifth year in the pros, Little gave all the credit to Denver's offensive line.

"I bought them Hamburgers earlier in the season but now I owe them each a steak dinner," said the 198-pound speedster from Syracuse. "They are a dedicated bunch of guys, they did everything they could for me. When I got near the record, they got tougher."

Little also said he would wait until next summer before making a final determination on whether he would continue to play pro football.

"It's been a touch year for us as a team (4-9-1)," said Little. "Physically, I felt fine outside of a shoulder injury that kept me out of one game. But I'm going to wait until August and see how my legs and I feel before I decide whether I'll retire."

Blanda was a bit more emphatic.

"I don't know where they come up with the baloney about me wanting to retire," said the Raiders' "miracle man" who won or saved half a dozen games for Oakland last season with his field goals or quarterbacking.

Daryle Lamonica hit tight end Ray Chester on a 67-yard scoring pass in the first period; running back Charlie Smith dashed over from the one in the second period and Pete Banaszak plunged over from the two with 2:12 remaining for the Oakland touchdowns against Denver.

After a pass interception and fumble recovery, Jim Turner booted field goals of 29 and 14 yards for the Broncos, and Clem Turner scored Denver's only touchdown on a seven-yard pass from Steve Ramsey with 18 seconds remaining.

Wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff of Oakland caught two passes in the first half and emerged as the top pass receiver in pro football this season with 61. Runnerup was Bob Tucker of the New York Giants with 59.

"I'd be lying if I said I wasn't happy about the record," said the former Florida State star. "It's what everyone wants to do. But I'd rather be going to the Super Bowl."

"I'm unhappy because the season is over," said Raiders coach John Madden. "I'll be spending Christmas at home but not because I want to."

Madden said he tried a new offensive alignment against the Broncos with two tight ends, Chester and Bob Moore. Both played the entire game on offense.

"Denver didn't do anything that surprised us," said Madden. "They played solid football and tried to overpower us."

NFL ROUNDUP

Stanford's Pros Shine

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The National Football League's regular season wind-up proved to be a day of glory for Stanford alumni.

On the East Coast, two members of Stanford's class of '70 — Jim Plunkett and Randy Vutaha — combined their talents to lead the New England Patriots to a stunning 21-17 upset of the Baltimore Colts. Plunkett threw two TD passes to Vataha, the second an 88-yard play — as the Patriots toppled the Colts from the AFC Eastern Division title.

The Colt loss, combined with Miami's 27-6 rout of Green Bay, gave the Dolphins the Eastern title and dropped the Colts to second, though Baltimore still qualifies for the playoffs as best second place team.

PLAYOFFS

The playoff picture up this way:

In the National Conference, Minnesota, the Central winner, plays host to Dallas, which wrapped up the Eastern crown Saturday with a 31-12 triumph over St. Louis, on Christmas Day. The Vikings are early three-point favorites.

And Washington, the "wild card" team with the best second place finish in the NFC is at San Francisco Sunday, with the Forty Niners an early line four-point choice.

In the AFC, Miami is at Kansas City Christmas Day, with the Chiefs a four-point pick, and Cleveland plays host to Baltimore Sunday, with the Colts favored by four.

OTHER GAMES

In other NFL action Sunday, Cleveland upset Washington 20-13, Philadelphia routed the New York Giants 41-28, Atlanta edged New Orleans 24-20, Minnesota downed Chicago 27-10, the New York Jets defeated Cincinnati 35-21, Kansas City whipped Buffalo 22-9, and Houston outlasted San Diego 49-33.

Plunkett, whose 19 TD passes set a season record for an NFL rookie, hit Vataha with the 88-yard bomb on a third-and-11 situation on the New England 12 and caught the Colts completely by surprise. "As I walked up to the line, I thought, damn, what did I do," said Plunkett. "But then I figured if he was covered I could throw it away."

Vataha outraced rookie cornerback Rex Kern and set a club reception record with 51.

RUSHING

Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick drove over for one-yard TDs in the third period to help Miami over Green Bay and give the Dolphins the Eastern title. Csonka's 67 yards gave him 1,051—the first time a Miami player has surpassed the 1,000-yard mark. Green Bay's John Brockington gained 73 yards to finish with 1,099 and break the rookie record set by Cookie Gilchrist by three yards.

Duane Thomas' four TDs Saturday carried the Cowboys to their sixth straight title. Thomas scored three times on three-yard rushes and added a 53-yard run.

Roger Williams' 57-yard kickoff return, an interception by Coy Bacon and Gene Howard's fumble recovery set up 13 first quarter points as the Rams beat the Steelers to force San Francisco into a win-or-else situation.

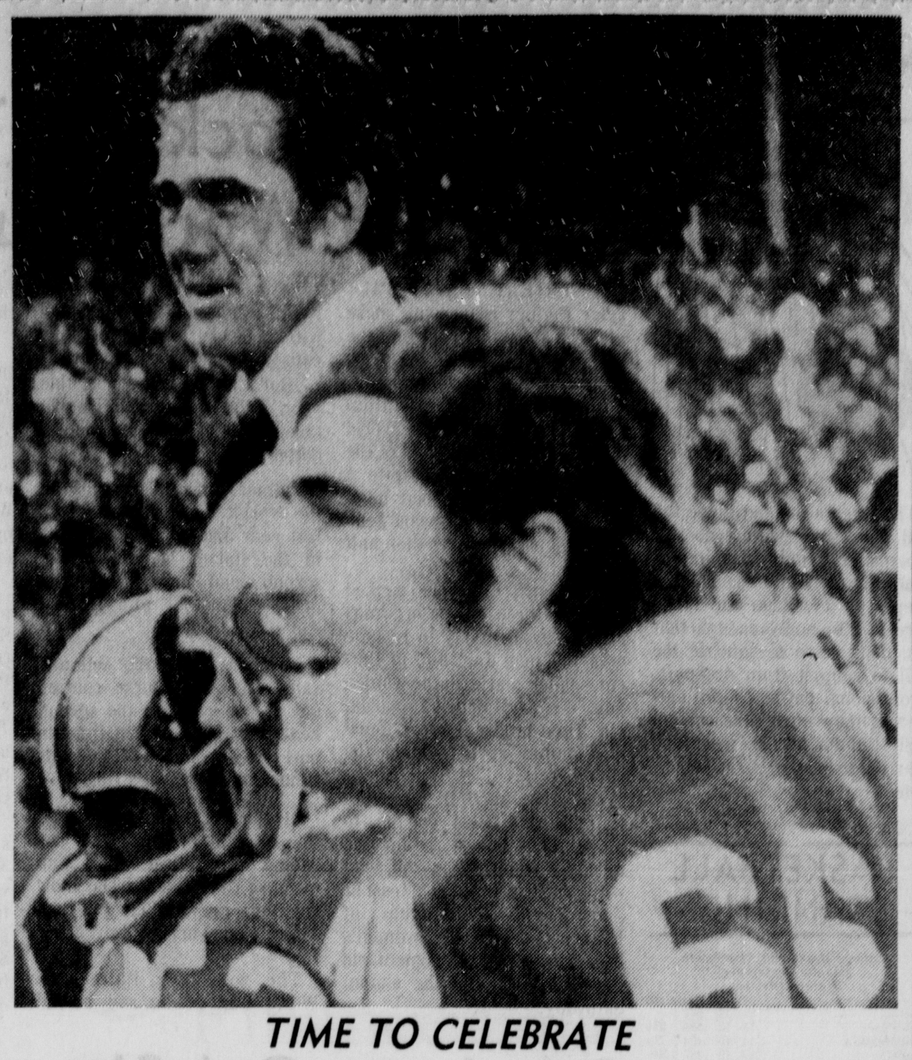
INTERCEPTION

Mike Howell's 68-yard return with an interception set up a game-winning TD pass from Bill Nelsen to Chip Glass as the Browns beat Washington and Pete Liske threw three TD passes as the Eagles put on their biggest offensive show of the season in routing the Giants.

Bob Berry threw a 22-yard TD pass to Ken Burrow with 34 seconds left as Atlanta downed the Saints and Bob Lee threw a pair of scoring passes to Bob Grim in the Vikings' victory over the Bears.

Joe Namath threw two touchdown passes, including a 74-yarder to Don Maynard and little-used Clifford McClain streaked 63 yards for another score as the Jets bombed Cincinnati and Bobby Bell provided the game's only TD as he ran 26 yards with an intercepted pass in the Chiefs' triumph over Buffalo, the Bills' 13th loss in 14 games.

Ken Houston set two records by returning a pair of interceptions for TDs within 34 seconds in the Oilers' upset of San Diego. Houston's TDs gave him a record 10 for his career and four this season.



TIME TO CELEBRATE

Mill Valley's Elmer Collett (66) joined the celebration as the San Francisco 49ers rejoiced over their defeat of Detroit yesterday. Skip Vanderbundt (52) hoisted coach Dick Nolan on his shoulders. The 49ers clinched the National Football Conference West title.

Len Eshmont Award Given To Ed Beard

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Line-backer Ed Beard is the 1971 winner of the Len Eshmont Award.

The award is made by the San Francisco 49ers to the player deemed by his teammates to have been the most courageous and inspirational during the entire season.

Beard, in his seventh year as a pro, was a regular linebacker until two years ago when he was made captain of the 49er special teams. He is credited by coach Dick Nolan with making those units the most efficient in the National Football League.

"Ed is certainly a fine choice for the Eshmont Award," said Nolan. "He has led mostly by hard work and example, and his special teams have made a great contribution to the overall team picture."

Beard was named for the award Sunday minutes before the kickoff for the game against the Detroit Lions, which the 49ers won, 31-27, to clinch a spot in the NFL playoffs.

"Winning the award is one of the finest things that can happen to you," said Beard, "but when your teammates single you out, it really has a very special meaning."

49ers Announce Ticket Policy For Playoff

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco 49ers announced Sunday that season ticket holders will get first crack at tickets for next Sunday's National Football League playoff against the Washington Redskins.

Tickets will be offered first to the ticket holders for the same seats they held during the regular season, but must be purchased at the Cow Palace on Monday and Tuesday between 8 a.m. and 9 p.m. No tickets will be handled through the mail because of the holiday crush.

Out of area purchasers unable to make the trip to the Cow Palace can order their tickets via Western Union telegram to the 49ers office at 1255 Post St.

All playoff tickets are $10 each. There will be no public sale of any tickets, the club said.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Tennessee, Arkansas Vie In Liberty Bowl Tonight

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Tonight's Liberty Bowl encounter between Arkansas and Tennessee could well be called "Cotton Bo vl by proxy".

Both teams manhandled opponents for the more prestigious Cotton Bowl, scheduled in Dallas New Year's Day. Arkansas, which blew an almost certain Southwest Conference title with a late-season foldup, crushed Texas, the conference representative in the bowl, 31-7 while Tennessee, beaten only by Southeastern Conference powerhouses Alabama and Auburn, routed Penn State 31-11.

Tonight's meeting will be the first since 1907 for the two schools and will be televised nationally beginning at 9 p.m. EST. Both teams have offensive stars who will play injured.

WATSON

Tennessee's Curt Watson, the Vols' star tailback, suffered broken ribs in the season finale against Penn State but should be ready for action. "He'll suit up," said Tennessee Coach Bill Battle. "He says he feels fine but we'll have to wait for a late doctor's report."

Joe Ferguson, Arkansas' quarterback and one of the better passers in the nation, has a sore right shoulder but will play. Ferguson threw 11 touchdown passes during the regular season and passed for 2,203 yards.

Ferguson will be without his leading receiver, however. Mike Reppond, who caught 56 passes for 987 yards and three TDs, is out with a calcium deposit on his leg.

TOUCH DEFENSE

Tennessee features one of the toughest defenses in the nation, spearheaded by Linebacker Jackie Walker and safetyman Bobby Majors.

Two bowl games were played during the weekend, with Louisiana State crushing Iowa State 33-15 in the Sun Bowl and Memphis State ripping San Jose State 28-9 in the Pasadena Bowl.

Bert Jones threw three TD passes in the second half to spark LSU past Iowa State. Jones passed 37 yards to Andy Hamilton, 21 to Gerald Keigley and six to Jay Michaelson to break open the game. Jones also plunged across for another TD and earned Most Valuable Player honors.

Charlie McClendon, the OSU coach, said he had rejected a million dollar offer from Texas A&M to take over as head coach. McClendon was overjoyed at his team's performance.

'PROUD'

"I can't say enough about our seniors," said the LSU coach. "They made me extremely proud. They won 27 games in three years—that's the winningest group I've had in my 10 years as a head coach."

Iowa State Coach Johnny Majors, whose younger brother will be performing tonight in the Liberty Bowl, said he was "disappointed but proud. Our players wanted to look good—and they did. There were so many things our players did that I've never seen done in a college football game before. I'll never forget the way they hit or the way they kept coming back.

Iowa State, appearing in its first bowl game ever, was hurt by three crucial turnovers early in the game.

BLOCKED PUNT

Tom Carlsen blocked a punt and recovered it in the end zone and later intercepted a pass as Memphis State ripped San Jose State. Dornell Harris carried for 87 yards to spark the attack.

"Our defense has been super all year," said Billy "Spook" Murphy, the Memphis State coach. "You might say we lived on our defense. Up to this game, we just had trouble holding on to the ball. The blocked punt was the turning point in the game.

Only 15,244 fans—the smallest crowd in the four-year history of the Pasadena Bowl—turned out for the game, played in the Rose Bowl.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

The fingers lift and guide the ball, but that certainly doesn't mean the thumb is unimportant. Insert it into the hole as deeply as it will go and make sure it fits snugly enough that you don't have to squeeze the ball to keep it from dropping. Professional bowlers learn early that they must take care of their thumb, for the wear and tear it receives make it vulnerable.

FOOTGEAR HELPS IN SLALOM

Palmer 'Socks' It To 'Em To Win World Cup Title

SESTRIERE, Italy (UPI)—Tyler Palmer is wearing socks when he skies this year and the early results indicate he is pleased with the change.

Palmer, America's slalom specialist, won the first World Cup special men's slalom of the new season Sunday despite a near fall on the second heat, defeating French stalwart Jean Noel Augueri by more than half a second.

The world Cup tour packed up for a three week Christmas holiday break today to resume with the men Jan. 9-10 in Berchtesgaden and with the women Jan. 6-7 in Maribor, Yugoslavia. The Christmas break found new names at the top of the standings.

Augert's second place to Palmer was good enough to move them into a tie for the men's World Cup overall lead with Austria's Heini Messner and Francoise Macchi of France took over the women's lead from Austria's Annemarie Proell by winning the slalom Saturday.

Palmer, from Kearsaege, N.H., confessed that he skied without socks last season "because my shoes were too little."

"But I'm wearing socks this year," the red-haired, freckle faced Palmer said. "I like it better so far."

Palmer, who finished 10th in the overall World Cup standings last year and won all his points in the slalom, carried a one second lead into the second heat of Sunday's race against Auguert.

However, he nearly fell and skied wide off course coming out of one gate on the second heat but recovered in time to post an overall 115.30 seconds time against Augert's 115.84.

"I thought I had lost it up there," said Palmer, who was racing in his first World Cup event of the season. "The snow was very icy and fast. But then I can't ski unless I'm going fast."

The win gave Palmer 25 World Cup points and moved him into a tie for sixth place in the Overall Cup standings.

Austria's Harald Rofner took third place in the slalom Sunday with a time of 116.15 The Italian brother team of Gustavo and Rolando Thoeni placed fourth and fifth with the younger Roland edging defending World Cup champion Gustavo by 13-100ths of a second for fourth place.

France's Herni Duvillard placed fifth in 116.65 and Spain's Francesco Fernandez Ochoa came in sixth in 118.02. Poland's Andrezej Bachleda was seventh in 118.33. Otto Tschudi of Norway and Admundo Bruggmann of Switzerland tied for ninth place with identical times of 118.45.

The men did not race a scheduled downhill event at Sestriere because of a controversial decision by the International Ski Federation (Fis) delegate Fredy Fuchs of Switzerland to cancel the event because the course was too dangerous.

Former NBA Star Dies Of Cancer

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)— Former pro basketball star Jackie Moreland died at his home Sunday following lengthy treatment for cancer. He was 33.

Moreland, a high school standout at Minden, La., went on to all-America honors at Louisiana Tech before going professional.

He was the No. 1 draft choice of the National Basketball Assosiation Detroit Pistons in 1960 and stayed in the NBA five years. After a brief retirement, Moreland played for the New Orleans Buccaneers of the American Basketball Association.

When the Buccaneers moved to Memphis in 1970, Moreland retired.

He is survived by a wife and two children.

Barry MacKay Ranked First In Singles

Barry MacKay of Ross is rated first in the men's singles, according to tentative rankings released by the Northern California Tennis Association board of directors.

Terry Moor of Sausalito is ranked 15th and Jerry Suyderhoud of San Anselmo 32nd in the men's singles.

In senior 45 singles, Bob Seymour of Mill Valley is eighth, and in senior 60 singles, Earl Kissinger of Tiburon is sixth. Seymour and partner Bill Beale are top-rated in the senior 45 doubles; Kissinger and partner Stan Maloney are first in the senior 60 doubles.

The men's doubles team of Moor and Andy Moffat, Mill Valley, is rated ninth.

Southern Cal Shows Might In 87-77 Win Over Kansas

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

In case anybody is wondering, the other team in the Pacific-8 Conference —Southern California —has established itself as a solid contender to break UCLA's basketball domination.

The Trojans knocked off Kansas 87-77 Saturday night for the Jayhawk Classic title in Lawrence, Kan., the first time in three years that Kansas has failed to win its own tournament. It was USC's fifth straight victory after losing its opener to Arizona State. UCLA was idle over the weekend.

Meanwhile, Washington State and California had their troubles in other holiday tournaments, but Stanford, Oregon State, Washington and Oregon posted victories.

Utah's fast break ran Washington State off the court in the second half as the Cougars fell 75-60 to the Redskins in the finals of the Utah Classic. California traveled to the Kentucky Invitational with a 3-1 record and lost to Princeton on Friday and to Missouri 82-70 Saturday night.

Washington also showed it is going to give UCLA a run for its money by rolling to its sixth straight victory, 75-66, over Kansas State for the second win in two nights over the Wildcats. Senior center Steve Hawes led a late Husky rally and finished with 23 points and 14 rebounds.

Stanford got a 19-point performance from guard Claude Terry and broke a three -game losing streak by defeating San Jose State, 65-59.

Sam Whitehead and Freddy Boyd each bagged 17 points as Oregon State (5-2) won its fifth straight game in an 88-58 rout of Portland. Oregon (4-2) needed two free throws from Ken Strand with 10 seconds remaining to edge Weber State 69-67 and hand the Wildcats their first loss in five outings.

Eighth-ranked USC got 48 points from forwards Joe Mackey and Ron Riley to keep ahead of Kansas.

Missouri and Cal swapped the lead 10 times in the first half, with the Tigers leading by one at intermission. But Missouri outscored the Bears 46-35 in the second half, leading by as much as 16 at one time. Harry Brown score 17 points to lead Cal and teammate John Coughran added 16.

In other games, the University of Pacific won its 28th straight game at home by thumping San Fernando Valley State, 97-59; Byron Jones hit 23 points to lead San Francisco past Loyola of Chicago, 87-73, for third place in the Sun Bowl; sophomore William Averitt scored 38 points as Pepperdine downed South Alabama, 97-93; St. Mary's rallied from a four-point deficit in the final four minutes to edge Southern Oregon, 95-92; and Nevada-Las Vegas survived a 35-point explosion by Portland State's Willie Stoudamire to defeat the Vikings 97-91.

Hawaii was awarded a weird 30-10 win over visiting Florida State when Seminole coach Hugh Durham refused to leave the floor after being banished from the game by the referree for arguing. There was 11:43 left in the first half when the game was called.

NBA ROUNDUP

Lakers Capture 25th Straight; Chamberlain Scores 32 Points

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Wilt Chamberlain remembered when he was a scoring kingpin and it helped the Los Angeles Lakers extend their National Basketball Association winning streak to 25 games.

Chamberlain, content to block shots, help with the board work and hurl long down-court passes in the Lakers' new run-and shoot game, had one of his better offensive nights this season as he scored 32 points in leading the Lakers to a 154-132 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

Los Angeles last lost a game on Oct. 31 to the Golden State Warriors and seem certain to extend its record-shattering skein to at least 27 with games against Buffalo and Baltimore this week. Actually, the Lakers don't have a correspondingly tough opponent until they meet the Milwaukee Bucks on Jan. 9. If they keep the streak intact until then, it will reach 33 games.

Two strong surges carried the Lakers to victory. They mounted a 41-point first period and, when Philadelphia got within two points at 121-119, with 6:48 to play, Los Angeles hit 16 straight points enroute to a 45-point last quarter and a club record-tying 154 points.

Chamberlain was superb under the boards as he hauled down 34 rebounds, converted some of the recoveries into assists and blocked 12 shots on the defense board. Los Angeles' brilliant backcourt tandem ably assisted in the L.A. attack as Gail Goodrich scored 31 points and Jerry West added 24.

Philadelphia was paced by Bob Rule's 33 points and Billy Cunningham's 28.

Milwaukee, with a 30-4 record that is second only to Los Angeles' 31-3, won its 10th straight by beating Baltimore 111-96; Portland nipped Detroit 114-113 and Seattle beat Phoenix 130-127 in overtime.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar connected on 15 floor shots and scored a game-high 34 points for the Bucks, who led Baltimore by a slim 50-47 margin at halftime. Archie Clark posted a high of 22 points for the Bullets.

Bob Love scored 36 points and Chet Walker added 26 to the Chicago total against Cleveland. The Cavs edged to within 37-36 with 4:45 left in the second quarter, but Love then scored 13 of Chicago's next 15 points to put the game out of reach. Bobby Smith paced Cleveland with 23.

Atlanta built an early lead and then held off a Cincinnati fourth-quarter spurt as the Hawks could only score 15 points in the final period. Pete Maravich's 27 points and Walt Bellamy made the difference for the Hawks. Tom Van Arsdale led the Royals with 23.

Stan McKenzie's two insurance foul shots with three seconds left proved to be the margin of victory for Portland as Bob Lanier scored for Detroit with one second left. Lanier played only the second half and scored a game high 33 points. Sidney Wicks led Portland with 26.

Seattle took advantage of three straight jump shots by Spencer Haywood during the overtime to stop the Suns. Haywood, who had 35 points, hit for eight of the Sonics' 14 overtime points. Paul Silas led Phoenix with 29.

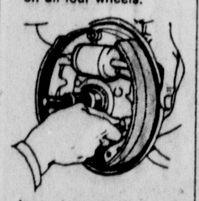
Guaranteed Brake Reline

$29.70
Drum-type Brakes
Any American Car and Most Foreign Cars.

We do a lot more than reline your brakes...here's what we do:

We replace your worn linings with new bonded brake linings on all four wheels.



Inspect your brake drums for contact with the linings.

We examine your wheel cylinders and master cylinder for leaks.

Brake shoe return springs are checked for proper tension.

Next, we inspect the brake fluid lines for leaks or weak points.

Because wheel bearings can be badly damaged if the original grease has dried and caked, we clean and repack the outer bearings on both front wheels.

The final step is to add heavy duty brake fluid and road test your car.

As you can see . . . your money goes a long way at Firestone. It buys you prompt and dependable brake service by expert brake mechanics. Why not give us a try?

GUARANTEED 30,000 MILES OR 3 YEARS
We guarantee our brake lining, used in normal passenger car service, for the specified number of miles or years from date of installation, whichever comes first. Guarantee will be honored by Firestone Dealer or Store performing the original work and adjustments prorated on mileage and based on prices current at time of adjustment.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, CPA

New Rules Govern The Deduction On Business Automobile Expenses

Now is the time to take a good hard look at your business automobile expense for 1971.

Under the new rules you can deduct 12 cents per mile for the first 15,000 miles of business use of your automobile, plus nine cents per mile for every business mile thereafter.

If you have been itemizing your automobile expenses and they don't amount to 12 cents a mile including straight line depreciation then perhaps you should consider using 12 cents per mile this year instead of itemizing.

On the other hand, suppose you had been using the old 10 cents per mile allowance and you find this year that you have a big bill for repairs, tires, transmission or something, then you might change to itemizing. You can change each year on the same or different cars provided you have not previously taken the extra first year depreciation allowance on your car or if you have not depreciated by one of the accelerated methods.

STRAIGHT LINE

You must always use the straight line method of depreciation in the years in which you itemize, and you must figure that you have used the straight line method of depreciation for the years you took the standard deduction.

If you are going to itemize this year then have all that needed repair work done, buy those new tires and get the old bus in shape so that next year you will have no expenses on the car and can use the standard rate profitably.

If your itemized expense records are not complete, then you could be better off to use the mileage rate because all you have to prove here is the number of miles traveled and the business use of the car.

DEDUCT 12 CENTS

If you are reimbursed for the business use of your car by your employer at less than 12 cents a mile you can include the reimbursement in income and deduct 12 cents a mile up to the first 15,000 miles and nine cents a mile thereafter.

If your reimbursement is over 12 cents a mile but not over 15 cents a mile you wouldn't use this system as you do not have to account for your automobile expenses because you are considered to have accounted to your employer. If your reimbursement is over 15 cents a mile, you will have to include the reimbursement in income and itemize your automobile expneses.

You can use this system and in addition deduct parking fees, bridge tolls, etc.

Also, the mileage allowance for use of your car for charitable purposes or for medical purposes is now six cents a mile.

Dollar Devaluation Pushes Market Up

NEW YORK (UPI(—Devaluation of the dollar, announced over the weekend, pushed prices sharply higher in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange today.

Shortly before the closing bell, the Dow Jones industrial average was up 9.63 to 883.43, somewhat off its earlier level. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index jumped 1.26 to 101.52.

Volume was around 23-million shares, the best since Aug. 17, two days after President Nixon announced a temporary program of economic controls. First hour volume of 8.87 million shares was a record.

Analysts said the market's surge was not unexpected. For one thing, the weekend development resolved some of the uncertainty involving the world's currency problems, and elimination of major uncertainties involving money or economics traditionally is bullish for wall street.

Of the 1,763 issues on the tape, there were 1,198 advances, 344 declines.

Gold stocks were one of the few areas which failed to go along with the uptrend. Homestake Mining and Campbell Red Lake were point-size losers throughout most of the session.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were higher in active trading.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Two High-Rated Convertible Bonds Which Have Good Future

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q- Could you recommend some "A" or higher rated convertible bonds selling to yield 5 to 6 per cent? The main consideration would be the possibility of worthwhile capital gains 5 to 10 years out. — J.B.

A- High-rated convertible bonds are few and far between. The largest number carrying this rating and yield are utility convertibles which are trading primarily on a straight yield basis with the conversion feature largely ignored. There are two issues which should work out in line with your capital gain objective although you will have to give up some interest income.

Federal National Mortgage 4⅜s of 1996 is trading at an 8 per cent premium over conversion value and returns 4 per cent current income. Now trading about 109, this bond which is convertible into 12.73 common shares, has a current conversion value of $1,014. Standard Oil of Indiana 5s of 1996 yields currently 4.6 per cent. A 15 per cent conversion premium results from the bond price of 109½, common price of 67 and the conversion ratio of 14.18 shares.

Q- I have 200 shares of American Can (NYSE) which were purchased at $45 in the summer of 1970. Do you think at $30 the shares are worth holding? I am 66 and interested in income and appreciation. — C.A.

A- These shares moved lower on strike-reduced earnings in the first half of 1971. In spite of a turnaround in third quarter net this year, share price failed to rally. Even the sharp market correction was unable to generate an upmove for American Can. The weight of market opinion anticipating a dividend cut in December was simply too heavy to penetrate.

It would appear that some of this pessimism is overdone. An upsurge in demand for containers as a result of bumper fruit and vegetable crops plus a narrowing in losses from two problem areas — printing and chemicals — are both bullish. With the uncertainty on the dividend now resolved, price action should begin to reflect earnings recovery. Hold.

A Giant Increase

NEW YORK (UPI)—Plastic bottle production in the first six months of 1971 totaled 2.7 billion, an increase of 62.3 million bottles over the corresponding period of 1970, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce.

10-Cent Dividend Declared

Directors of Commerce Clearing House, Inc. have declared a fourth quarter cash dividend of 10 cents per share, payable Jan. 26, 1972, to stockholders of record on Dec. 31.

After adjustment for the increased number of shares outstanding, following the three-for-two split of the common stock last April, the aggregate dividend payment during the 1971 calendar year will be 33.3 cents per share.

It is anticipated that one or more of the subsequent 1972 dividend payments will be in reduced amounts per share to be within the limitation imposed by the 1972 general dividend guideline as released by the Committee on Interest and Dividends, unless there is an intervening change of federal government policy.

Commerce Clearing House has its western regional headquarters in San Rafael.

Liquor Market's Whopping Sales

NEW YORK (UP I)—Marketers will wrap up this year in a $2 billion package, literally, according to a study by the research department of a leading Scotch whisky distillery.

That figure represents the cost of gift packaging for 1971. An estimated $750 million of it is spent in the Thanksgiving New Year's season, the study shows. After Santa Claus comes Dad, Father's Day ranking second in gift giving, followed by Mother's Day, Easter and St. Valentine's Day.

The actual gift-buying factor in the Christmas shopping season can't be pinned down precisely, but Black & White estimates that 32 per cent of the liquor industry's annual sales are made in the period running from just before Thanksgiving to New Year's Day. The National Retail Merchants Association says 35 per cent of annual sales volume is represented by Christmas shopping.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

New Furniture Refinishing Firm Opens Doors In San Rafael

A new furniture refinishing and repairing business has been opened at 517 Jacoby Street, San Rafael by Jack Bennett of Mill Valley in the Ghilotti Bros. new building.

He has been doing refinishing for 10 years for Marin County furniture stores and individuals, working on everything from chairs, wood and metal office pieces to pianos and antiques.

The Ghilottis' building, which also houses the offices and shops of the Golden Gate Highway and Transportation District, with a parking area for the new buses, still has 7,296 square feet available for shops and warehousing.

All leases are being handled through Herman Deitch, Realtor.

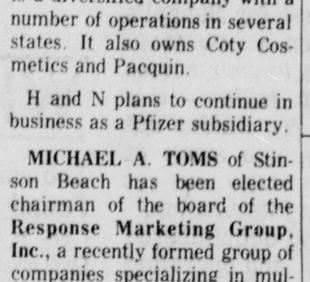
REPORTED in the process of being sold is the H and N of California, Inc. hatchery at Seventh and F Streets, Petaluma.

The purchaser, Pfizer, Inc. of New York and San Francisco, is a diversified company with a number of operations in several states. It also owns Coty Cosmetics and Pacquin.

H and N plans to continue in business as a Pfizer subsidiary.

MICHAEL A. TOMS of Stinson Beach has been elected chairman of the board of the Response Marketing Group, Inc., a recently formed group of companies specializing in multi-media response advertising. He is also president of Creative Marketing Associates, San Francisco, a multi-media response advertising agency.

R. MICHAEL WALTZ of Marinwood, assistant manager of Wells Fargo Bank's New Montgomery office in San Francisco, has been named an assistant vice president. He has been with the bank since 1966 and at the New Montgomery office since last July. Previously he served at Mill Valley, Sausalito and Hollywood offices.



Waltz Levin

NEW TO SAN RAFAEL is Fred H. Levin, who has been appointed northwest regional manager of land-mobile sales and systems for the Hallicrafters Co. of Illinois. He was formerly commercial and industrial sales manager for Northrop Page Communications Engineers, Inc. in Washington, D.C. for over six years. Previously he was self-employed as a market research consultant to patent drug manufacturers.

JOHN J. KOSS of Novato, an agent with the Robert Maney agency in San Francisco for State Mutual Life Assurance Co. of America, has been licensed as a registered representative of SMA Equities, Inc., broker-dealer for mutual funds, and American Annuity Life Assurance Co., which handles individual and group annuity contracts.

WHEN DOMINICAN COLLEGE in San Rafael became coeducational last September, young men were added to the roster of students seeking part-time employment.

The Dominican placement office now has a long list of men and women seeking jobs as typists, researchers, housekeepers, baby-sitters, gardeners and other opportunities, casual or part-time, to help pay their college expenses. Placement officer Mrs. Pamela Bourke reports that several students have schedules that allow them to be permanent part-time employees. Many are willing to work during their free hours, on weekends or full-time during the semester break now in effect until Jan. 18.

New Nation Is Born With Doubtful Future

A new nation has been born in Southeast Asia. Its birth was violent and its future is darkly clouded.

The creation of Bangla Desh is the latest in a long series of upheavals that have followed the partition of India in 1947 into India and Pakistan.

THE VISION came about because of insistence by Moslem leaders that a separate nation be created to embrace the areas of British India, and of its 570-odd semi-autonomous princely states, in which the Mohammedan religion predominated. It created a Moslem Pakistan divided into two parts, between which lay hundreds of miles of India. East Pakistan, thus separated from the seat of government in the west, comprised most of what had been the province of Bengal, a densely populated land laced by the myriad streams that flow into the mouths of the Ganges River system, from the Hooghly on the west to the Karnaphuli on the east. Jute was the principal crop; and most of the industry of Bengal was lost to India in the partition which included Calcutta and its surrounding area in the Hindu nation.

One of the greatest mass migrations in world history followed the partition, with Hindus from Pakistan fleeing into India, and Moslems from India crossing into Pakistan. A blood bath accompanied the migration. How many hundreds of thousands died in it, no one knows. But even when it was over, there remained some 35 million Moslems in India — more than half as many as in Pakistan.

Despite its sorry beginnings, there was high hope for the success of the new nation of Pakistan. In the partition, it won approximately half of "India's breadbasket" in the Punjab. It had some industry around Karachi on its far western border, and major ports there and at Chittagong in the east. And it was not hampered by the Hindu caste system that has been the heavy drag on development of a modern India.

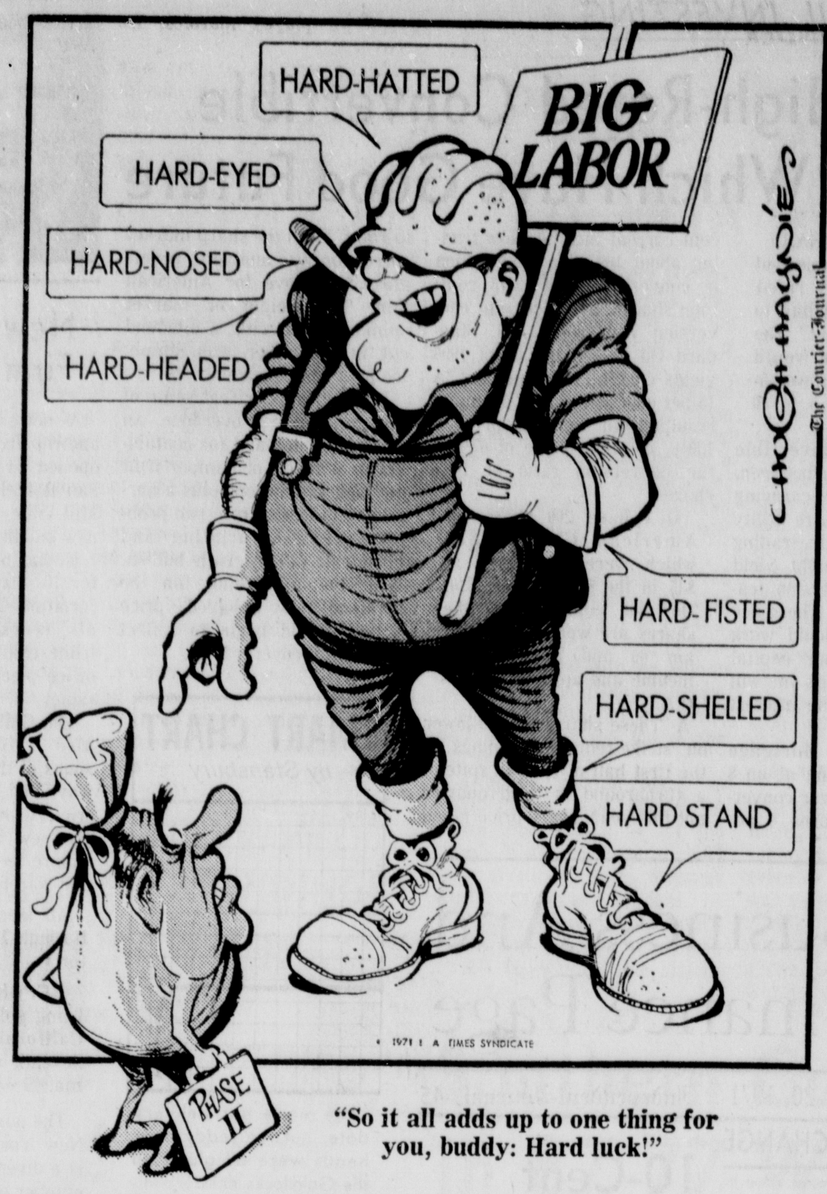
BUT INDEPENDENCE from Hindu rule seemed of less and less value to the Bengali people as the years passed. They found themselves ruled instead from a West Pakistan that was for them a foreign land. the ties of religion were not alone enough.

Last year, the Awami League, dedicated to independence for East Pakistan as Bangla Desh, elected a majority of the members of the Pakistan Parliament. But President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan stifled this move for a new, peaceful partition by refusing to convene parliament and instituting military government. The stage was set for Bengal's revolt. And when a new mass migration began to pour across the borders into India — this time to escape not Hindus but fellow Moslems, the army of Pakistan — the stage was set again, for Indian intervention.

Surrounded and outnumbered by Indian forces, and operating among bitterly hostile people, the army in East Pakistan had little chance. And so, amid bombs and gunfire, Bangla Desh was born.

HOW MUCH INDEPENDENCE Bangla Desh now can achieve depends largely on India. The Bengali people are indebted for their freedom to the very land they once fought to escape. Their new country borders no other country except India and, for a very small stretch, Burma.

It might be expected that the United States, with its tradition of self-chosen freedom, would support Bangla Desh. But so far, our government has instead supported Pakistan — whose president acted at least as arbitrarily as George III when he dissolved parliament.



"So it all adds up to one thing for you, buddy: Hard luck!"

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Snowmobile Advocate Found Unconvincing

Mr. P. T. Hanna, public relations man for snowmobile manufacturers, wrote a naive article about how nice the snowmobile is. He says nearly all snowmobiling is done on government land.

I am an average reader. I have not taken the trouble to make a file of the many articles I have read about the snowmobile. They do not agree with the lovely picture Mr. Hanna paints. A fairly recent magazine showed a picture taken of two snowmobiles evidently stopped and an exhausted deer in deep snow in front of them.

I believe the last thing the world needs today is more mechanical contrivances buzzing around, even tho' they may be no noisier than a roomful of typewriters, as Mr. Hanna said.

As more machines are being sold their nuisance value is increasing by leaps and bounds. Except in special cases, our government should stop the sale of any more of them.

Mr. Furgurson is an excellent and thoughtful writer and a good man. I believe what he said and his sincere motive in saying it. It is a safe guess that the snowmobilers did not read it, and seeing the snowmobilers in films, I can think only of one word: Infantile.

'Because The Food Bill Was Too High'

I refer to a news broadcast heard this morning over a local radio station which stated that several lions and leopards in a Japanese zoo were greeted at feeding time not with their daily meal, but a bullet through their brains. Apparently one leopard was so frightened by the noise of the shotgun that he lay cowering on his sleeping mat as the gun was aimed at his head.

The explanation given for this action was that the $3,100 per month food bill was too high and the dead animals' skins could be sold at a premium.

I bring this story to other readers' attention because I feel that in this day of wage-price control and budget-squeezing, this Japanese zoo has set us all a fine example.

I myself have several dogs and cats. Surely if I greeted them in the morning with a bullet through their brains, I might sell their skins for a few precious dollars. Perhaps I could even sell their bodies to a taxidermist, as they are all fine specimens.

All too frequently of late I am ashamed to be a part of the human race. Indifferent, callous, expedient and greedy as we are, even in this season of brotherhood and "joy to the world," do we not have some sensitivity, some semblance of dignity left?

E.E. Cummings has said it much better than I:

"When the oak begs permission of the birch to make an acorn - valleys accuse their mountains of having altitude - and March denounces April as a saboteur then we'll believe in that incredible unanimal mankind
(and not until)."

Guerrant Resignation Shock To Associates

Dr. John Guerrant's resignation was a shock, I am sure, to all of us who had the pleasure of working with him.

Having had the opportunity for numerous consultations with him as part of my duties as chairman of the Mental Health Advisory Board, I was impressed with his ability to provide the leadership necessary to consolidate a cooperative effort involving professional and lay persons in establishing an integrated planning process for Marin. This has been a notable achievement, to say the least, in view of some of the problems he inherited when he was first appointed program chief and center director.

Marin will also benefit from his efforts to have recruited a highly competent staff who will continue to provide outstanding mental health services.

On behalf of the Mental Health Advisory Board, I wish to express our appreciation for a job well done and to wish him every success in his future work.

George Meany Has Strong Hand In High-Steaks Political Poker

HOW GREAT IS MEANY'S POLITICAL MUSCLE? It's formidable — and Nixon knows it. Its power comes not from Meany's public rhetoric but from the massive influence the AFL-CIO has on Capitol Hill.

Meany has a near-veto over much of Nixon's high-priority legislative program and he'll use it at the critical time.

WHERE DOES THIS POLITICAL POWER COME FROM? It comes from grass-roots campaigning at election time and financial contributions at the moment when the help of a few thousand dollars can make the difference between defeat and victory.

Political reporters estimate that no fewer than 200 members of Congress count labor support-money and manpower — as a major factor in their election.

Meany can usually cash in his IOUs when he needs to and the AFL-CIO can put some 80 lobbyists on the hill when it wants to mobilize to pass or block legislation.

BUT IN HIS WAGE-PRICE FEUD WITH NIXON, Meany is at a disadvantage. The high cards are with the President:

1—All the polls show that while wage-price controls are distasteful, most people feel they are necessary and want to make them work.

2—Although Meany is vigorously attacking the administration's new economic policies, a Gallup survey finds that 42 per cent of union families approve what Nixon is doing.

3—Rank-and-file labor did not at all like the discourteous treatment which the President received at the AFL-CIO Miami convention. An Opinion Research poll showed 63 per cent disapproved.

WILL LABOR QUIT THE WAGE-PRICE BOARDS? Almost certainly not. Union leaders figure they can win more from sitting on them than by heckling from the sidelines.

BUT THE MEANY-NIXON FEUD WILL CONTINUE. It will color next year's Congress and the next year's election. Earlier Nixon-Meany cordiality has vanished and been replaced by such bitterness on both sides that repair is unlikely.

Unless the Democrats nominate a man totally unacceptable, Meany will see that the AFL-CIO goes all out to undercut the administration's legislative program — including revenue sharing and the family assistance program — and to defeat Nixon In November.

With a ceiling on campaign spending, labor's huge volunteer manpower would be a big boon to the Democrats.

CAMPAIGN SPENDING — ONLY HALF A BILL. The new legislation designed to cut the high costs of political campaigning will come to a vote in the House early next month after it passes the Senate.

At this stage it is no more than half a reform. Reason: It has strong provisions for putting a lid on TV and radio advertising and calling for detailed and prompt disclosure of contributions and expenditures, but it contains woefully weak provisions for enforcement.

Unless the House improves the bill, as seems unlikely, enforcement of the spending-and-reporting law would be in the hands of employees who will benefit by casual enforcement — the clerk of the House and the secretary of the Senate.

This is like putting enforcement of the antitrust laws in the hands of the presidents of General Motors and Dupont.

ECOLOGICAL NOTE — THE DISAPPEARING SPECIES. Of the 8,600 species of birds and 4,000 of mammals which once inhabited the earth, the World Wildlife Fund reports that 150 varieties of birds and 120 mammals have already disappeared.

The culprit? Primarily man's refusal to live in harmony with his environment.

In addition, there are more than 900 other endangered species now nearing extinction.

Commercial greed is also taking its toll. Some 42,000 of the world's waning population of whales were killed last year. In violation of quota restrictions, Russian and Japanese fishing fleets slaughtered 84 per cent of all the whales killed in 1971.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Taft's Yuletide Amnesty For The Draft Dodgers

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — In the spirit of the season, Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, has laid before the Judiciary Committee a bill that would offer forgiveness to the approximately 70,000 young Americans who fled their country rather than do military service during the Vietnamese war. Unlike the idea of outright and unconditional amnesty, Taft's proposal deserves serious consideration because it provides that the draft dodgers must do a stretch of active penance before their crime is paid for.

Instead of being sloughed off as just another pitch for the college vote, this bill will draw both public and legislative support, because it is a form of compromise submitted by a moderate Republican rather than by someone who has made a career of second-guessing the administration on the war.

But, I rush to add despite the tinkle of Salvation Army bells outside and the smell of money burning in the swank store across the corner, Taft's measure still is not tough enough.

TAFT WOULD ALLOW the evaders to return to this country without prosecution if, within a year after his bill becomes law, they "volunteer" either for military duty or for civilian service in an agency such as VISTA, the Veterans' Administration or the Public Health Service. After three years of this service, they could return to normal civilian life with no stigma except that on their own consciences.

His bill would include the 500 or so now in federal prisons or draft evasion, but specifically not those who deserted once in military service. Nor would it cover the additional legal problems brought on themselves by the relatively few youths who not only fled the country but also renounced their United States citizenship.

On the House side, Rep. Edward Koch, D-N.Y., has introduced a pair of bills that would legalize conscientious objector status for potential draftees who object to a particular war rather than to war in general, and retrospectively allow those who have fled to come home and appeal as COs under this provision. This is no form of compromise, but a bit of legislative legerdemain that would condone what the offenders knew was a crime when they committed it.

Compared to it, Taft's proposal has a ring of reasonableness and might even constitute a fallback position for Mr. Nixon in case the public opinion polls dictate some months from now that he soften his currently stated opposition to amnesty.

THE SENATOR SEEMS to have designed his suggestion in part for maximum impression on the draft dodgers' consciences — by proposing that one type of penance could be service for the Veterans' Administration. It is likely that anyone who fled military service and has any conscience at all would undergo some deep self-examination as he lay in bed at night, if his job all day was to take care of wounded veterans of the war he himself had avoided. But, by the very fact of his draft evasion, it seems equally likely that his overriding emotion would not be a stricken conscience but renewed self-congratulation at not taking the chance of being wounded himself.

In truth, there simply is no way to put a draft dodger through what his brothers endured when they willingly took their chances. Not all of them were killed or wounded, and many of them never saw blood or heard shots fired in combat. Some of them never slept in a hole in the mud or even did without a hot meal. But all of them to some extent laid their lives on the line when their country, however faulty its judgment, asked them to make the same sacrifice millions of others had made before them.

While they were in basic training or boot camp and on active duty in Vietnam or elsewhere, those who fled have been living the footloose life, in communes in Toronto or bundling with Svenska flickas in Stockholm at Swedish government expense. Now that it is increasingly safe for them to come home, under Taft's bill they will have the option of noncombat military service or other socially useful work — at minimum pay, to be sure, but without any of the rigors or dangers they intentionally ran away from. Under such conditions, the next time a wartime army must be raised, the entire draft-age population will be tempted to flee.

TAFT'S BILL COMBINES compassion with sternness, and may be the attitude with which the nation winds up, after Vietnam involvement is totally ended. Yet some among the evaders in Canada already have sneered at it, insisting they need no forgiveness from their country and have a moral right to repatriation. When they do so, they are sneering at all those other young Americans who perceived their duty differently.

It does no violence to the spirit of Christmas to suggest that for those enjoying the holidays in such expatriation, amnesty should neither come so soon nor be so easy.

San Francisco Steamroller In Bridge District Action

Peculiar doings at the Golden Gate Bridge District are nothing new, so San Francisco Supervisor Ronald Pelosi was right at home when he used a little sleight of hand involving more than $500,000 in insurance premiums.

The district traditionally relies on its committeees to get into details before their recommendations reach the full board, and the insurance committee had worked almost a year to come up with a way to improve the district's insurance plan.

It hired a consultant, held extensive hearings, and finally recommended unanimously bringing in new brokers who had challenged brokers Marsh and McLennan, who have had the business since the span was built.

BUT WHEN the committee's recommendation came before the full board this month, and was moved for adoption, Pelosi suddenly produced from his pocket a typed substitute motion to kill the recommendation. Steamrolled with the support of six other San Francisco directors (remember, that's the city whose supervisors were so loyal to the Plumbers Union that they jeopardized all federal urban renewal funds by opposing plastic pipe) and some of the "cow county" directors from the north, Pelosi won, 12-5.

Only San Francisco Supervisor Peter Tamaras bolted the Pelosi phalanx to vote with the minority against sticking with Marsh and McLennan. The ninth San Franciscan, Ben K. Lerer, was absent.

The vote so clearly was rigged in advance that few of the directors even bothered to explain the move, which none of them had even hinted at when they attended insurance committee meetings. Some pointed to a telegram from a London broker warning that a change could cause cancellation of policies, but director Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley (himself an insurance man) noted the threat was "pretty natural" since it came from one of Marsh and McLennan's own London brokers.

Meyer, long a campaigner for reforming the district's insurance plan, angrily charged the vote was "just plain disgraceful." Also voting against the Pelosi motion were Marin's other representatives, Supervisor Michael Wornum and San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini (also an insurance man).

MEYER ARGUED unsuccessfully that the district's insurance consultants had recommended the change in brokers, at least to the extent that a new broker be brought in.

The consultants had found the present insurance plan under Marsh and McLennan "intolerable. It's an awful lot of premium going out for nothing," they said especially of the $200,000 a year in premiums for disaster coverage. This policy covers less than 16 per cent of the $200 million cost in event of total loss of the span.

Meyer summed up Pelosi's action: "It smells."

Relation Of Jobs To Prices Seems Obscure To Union Leaders

(Reprinted from Wall Street Journal)

The relationship between wages and jobs ought to be obvious, and yet it's one that some people, such as labor union leaders, sometimes seem to overlook.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said the other day that the "relentless tendency" of wages to rise faster than productivity "is the single greatest reason for excessive rates of unemployment in many industrial nations today."

ONE REASON why the job-destroying effect of out-sized wage increases is less clear than it should be is that, for a time, it can be obscured by inflation. If a government inflates the economy an employer can pass along higher wage costs to consumers in higher prices.

Sooner or later, though, nearly everyone gets pretty sick of inflation. If the government tightens up its financial policies at all, there is less room for those offsetting price increases. That's what has been happening in the U.S.

"Faced with sharp declines in profits after taxes," Mr. McCracken said, "employers are forced to be extremely cautious about additions to payrolls, and those at the outer margins of the labor market have been particularly hard hit by this process."

SO FAR, HOWEVER, there's little indication that labor unions are getting the message. They continue to press for wage increases that bear no relationship at all to productivity, and their leaders rage at the Pay Board whenever it shows even a hint of restraint.

At the end of the year Mr. McCracken returns to the University of Michigan to resume teaching economics to young men and women. Perhaps sometime someone will find a way to impart similar wisdom to labor leaders.

New Mystery About 'The Book': Disappearance Of All 35 Copies

The flap over "The Book" at San Rafael High School seems to be over, with teacher Virginia Franklin having received permission from the school board this week to mimeograph portions of "The Movement Toward a New America" for her class in propaganda.

There will still be a few copies of the "revolution handbook" in the school library, but it is a mystery, according to Supt. John F. Plank, what has happened to the 35 copies of the massive book originally issued to a social studies class.

"They have simply disappeared," he said.

Apparently the students in the class no longer have the books, which became a very hot item at the school.

WHETHER THE BOOKS disappeared in some sort of a black market or were simply snitched is not clear. There is one in our garage — where it has reposed since it was found in the car one morning just before work.

There is nobody at our house in the class — and nobody claims knowledge of how the juicy document got there. If it's returned to the high school, it will probably save some student a $5.95 bill. (San Rafael High has a system of no returning the books, no grades, which isn't terribly impressive to those students who'd rather not know how they did.)

THE SANTA CLARA COUNTY sheriff's department, new to the game of handling the press mob that follows Angela Davis, got high marks on their first attempt in Palo Alto.

To the delight of the printed word people as well as television types, an undersheriff completely put down a radio reporter. The radio man wanted the sheriff to read aloud a press release "because a written paper is no good on the radio." The lawman responded, "I thought you at least had someone at that station who could read."

THE BITTER-ENDER

No Place For Marbles In Our Ordered Society

By ED BRANDER

My youngest son came in one day with a bagfull of marbles (a plastic bag, naturally). He had been to the variety store, had some money in his pocket which (of course) was burning a hole, saw the marbles and bought them.

He showed me the bag. I opened it and poured out the marbles.

"You have quite an assortment here," I remarked. "Glassies, onicks, com-babes. And here's an agate, but it's not a very good one."

He was all interest immediately. "Which are onicks?" he wanted to know.

I WAS TAKEN ABACK for a moment. Here was a kid in fourth grade, doing pretty well in school, not a "loner" by any means — a kid who, I would guess, is "with it" as the younger generation says. But he didn't know an onick from a com-babe.

I didn't let on. I showed him each type of marble and named it for him. Then I explained that, although I didn't know how the kids do nowadays, when I was a boy a glassie was worth 10 or more com-babes, depending on the size of the glassie; an onick was worth a little more than a glassie of the same size, etc. It was all news to him.

"Let's see what you have that you could use for a taw," I said. I fished around among the marbles and found an onick that seemed about the right size. "Maybe this would do," I said. "The trouble with onicks is that they chip. I wish you had a flint — or a steelie. Steelies are the best if you want to spin in the middle."

"What's a taw?" he wanted to know.

I hope he didn't notice how my face fell. I had to explain the whole thing to him — lagging for turn, shooting, "Knucks up" and "knucks down," everything.

But he was interested. After I got through, we went out in the back yard and I drew a circle and we played marbles. He beat me.

When we came in, my wife said: "Look at your hands! Look how grimy your knuckles are! Go and scrub them, both of you. I wish you wouldn't play marbles."

It took me back. I remember how my mother used to say the same thing.

THE YOUNGEST SON didn't mention the marbles to me again. That was all right. I figured he was introducing his chums to the game, and naturally wasn't interested in playing with the old man.

But a couple of months later I was in his room and saw the plastic bag of marbles back in the corner of a shelf. I poured them out on the bed. A couple had got chipped while we were playing. The rest were as perfect as the day he bought them. Obviously they hadn't been played with.

I sighed and put them back. Awhile later I happened to mention to one of his teachers that it seemed the boys don't play marbles any more.

"We discourage it," said the teacher. "It teaches them to gamble."

GAMBLE! MY SAINTED AUNT! Any marble game kids ever played is a game of skill. And it's a game that requires no special equipment, no great expense, and no supervision.

No supervision! I suppose that's the key. Nowadays, boys aren't supposed to know how to play games without some adult standing around and telling them what to do.

And then we complain because they don't know what to do with their spare time and wind up getting into trouble!

Session Canceled

Tomorrow's regular Reed School District board meeting has been canceled due to the approaching Christmas holiday. The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Jan. 4 at Bel Aire School.

Party Row; Husband Held In Wife-Beating

A party in San Rafael early yesterday morning ended with the hostess injured and her husband booked into jail on suspicion of felony wife-beating.

Evelyn Gisela Imler, 22, of 133 Tamal Vista, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut left eyelid and both eyes blackened, hospital officials reported. Her husband, John Daniel Imler, 23, same address, was held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

Police reported that Mr. and Mrs. Imler quarreled and went into the bedroom to settle it. Moments later, guests hearing screams entered the room and pulled Imler away from her.

She was treated at the hospital and returned to the party, where a second fight broke out between the guests and Imler out in the yard, according to police. He went into the house and returned with a .22-caliber rifle. It was taken from him and dropped to the driveway, discharging one shot.

Rice For Korea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department today announced plans for shipment of $29.2 million worth of U.S. rice to Korea under the Food for Peace program.

A CRUSADER

Cancer Claims Russian Writer

MOSCOW (UPI)—Poet editor Alexander Tvardovsky, the crusader who led Russia's writers through the censorship barriers a decade ago and paid for it when times changed, died Saturday of cancer. He was 61.

For disillusioned Soviet liberals, he had come to symbolize what might have been, had Nikita S. Khrushchev permitted the brief post-Stalin experiment with greater freedom of expression to continue.

Friends said Tvardovsky, former editor of Novy Mir literary magazine and a well-known poet, died in a country cottage near Moscow. He had previously been hospitalized with lung cancer, cirrhosis of the liver and a brain tumor.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, and dozens of literary proteges whom he championed against conservative hostility in his heyday as editor.

Tvardovsky published firebrand poets and heavyweight critics the conservative journals shied from, including Yevgeny Yevtushenko.

But his master stroke was discovery of an unknown writer named Alexander Solzhenistsyn who was trying to peddle a dynamite expose of Stalin's prison camps called " One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich."

No other editor would touch it, but Novy Mir published it in 1962.

Then the times changed and a Powwerful conservative backlash smothered men like Solzhenitsyn and, eventually, Tvardovsky.

He was dropped from the Communist Party Central Committee in 1966. He quit his Novy Mir editorship in February 1970, when he was in failing health and surrounded by opponents on his own editorial board.

Hub Planners Meet Tonight

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will consider use permits for two bars when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the city hall.

To be weighed are revocation of the use permit of the Lion's Share at 60 Red Hill Avenue, held by Michael Considine, and an application to operate a bar called Tale of the Tiger at 726 San Anselmo Avenue, sought by Peter Montalbano.

Other items on the brief agenda include amendments to the zoning ordinance, a request by John Komo to rezone from duplex to apartment the lots at 154-158 Tunstead Avenue, and an application of James A. and Angela Gonsman to conduct a nursery school at 1509 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Peace Officer Group Elects

Lt. Maurice D. Lafferty of the Novato Police Department was elected 1972 president of the Marin County Peace Officers Association Friday night.

He will succeed Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales.

Other officers selected were Sgt. Stan Laffsa of San Quentin, first vice-president; Officer Arthur Olson of the California Highway Patrol, second vice-president; Sgt. Henry Ingwersen of the San Rafael police, third vice-president; and Arthur H. Fellows, former San Rafael police sergeant, secretary-treasurer.

Nightmare Tucson Blaze Recalled: 28 Were Killed

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—At 12:21 a.m., Dec. 20, 1970, it was a cold 43 degrees in Tucson. Christmas lights decorated the downtown streets and partygoers were gulping down their last drinks before the bars sealed for the night.

A number of Mexicans, from the nearby state of Sonora, were in town for last minute shopping and, as usual, a great many were staying at the historic Pioneer International Hotel.

At that moment in Fire Station No. 1 a five-second blast sounded over the public address heralding the ominous announcement of a full alarm. It was the start of the worst land disaster in Arizona. A fire that claimed 28 lives, injured 35 others and caused $1.5 million in damage had broken out in the Pioneer.

The fire was a nightmare from the beginning. Occupants in the top eight stories of the hotel were caught in an inferno that blocked hallways and stairwells and gave them the terrible choice of death by asphyxiation or in a plunge to the street below.

It was miraculous that the death toll did not run higher. There were 112 guests in the 200-room hotel and another 640 were attending functions when the blaze started. Their lives were saved by the fact that the fire started on the fourth floor above them.

Others never had a chance.

The fire spread with devastating speed, making a mockery of carpets and doors that were supposed to be fireproof. The firemen pleaded with those trapped to stay on the small ledges outside some of the rooms and then saw their words go unheeded as panicstruck victims flung themselves downward.

The list of the dead included the wife and five children of the chief of Sonor's police, a prominent Tucson department store owner and his wife, and residents of seven states and Mexico.

Police later arrested Louis C. Taylor, then 16, and charged him with arson and 28 counts of murder. Taylor, a slightly built youth, has been in and out of juvenile centers for several years.

His forthcoming trial, and the multitude of legal maneuvers that have accompanied it, has been moved to Phoenix because of publicity. Taylor, who now goes to school at a boys ranch here, is free on $10,000 bond while attorneys argue pre-trial motions.

Earlier this week the 18th lawsuit was filed against the hotel and others in connection with the fire.

The 41-year-old Pioneer, whose steel and concrete shell never crumpled, has been remodeled and reopened this month. The refurbishing cost $1 million and included a sophisicated fire detecting and automatic sprinkler system, inclosed stairways and improved fire exits.

Plea Entered By Olema Man

Sidney Edward Eschenback, 23, of Olema, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of receiving stolen goods.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set Dec. 30 for a preliminary hearing.

Eschenback was arrested by the California Highway Patrol on Dec. 12.

NOT BAD AT ALL

Kerri Kirst of Kentfield, comes up smiling after a head first plunge into the snow. Twelve-year-old Kerri was among a group of young people who trekked Saturday from snowless Marin to the powdery stuff of the Sierra. Her plunge here was made with the assistance of friends who shoved her from a rock as the youngsters romped during a bus breakdown on Highway 80. Story and more photos on page 30. Demo Remap Plan Passes — Legislature Adjourns

Legality Questioned; Reagan Veto Predicted

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A weary California Legislature adjourned for the year at 2:17 a.m. today after passing Democratic reapportionment bills of questionable legality that Gov. Ronald Reagan vowed to veto.

Bitterly divided to the end after a record 348 calendar days in regular and special sessions that outlasted Congress, the 1971 legislature anticlimactically wrapped up its affairs in an unprecedented week-end-before-Christmas meeting spread over odd hours.

Holiday cheer was noticeably absent from the legislative chambers, which reverberated with anger and name calling.

"This heavy handedness has not been equalled since (former speaker Jess) Unruh locked up the Assembly in '63," charged Senate Republican Caucus Chairman John L. Harmer of Glendale.

"That's just a damn lie," snapped Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys. "I was never heavy handed with anybody."

Moretti added, "Not only am I not ashamed of this session of the legislature, but I'm proud of it."

The legislature will convene its 1972 session in just two weeks, on Jan. 3.

The reapportionment bill for the Senate was designed to preserve the upper house's 21-19 Democratic majority, with special emphasis on protecting all Democrats. The Assembly plan would boost that House's 42-37 Democratic domination (one vacancy) to 44-36.

The congressional plan would increase California's seats from 38 to 43 because of the population boom of the '60s. It would politically protect the present 20 Democrats and 18 Republicans. Of the five new districts, Democrats said two were designed for themselves, two for Republicans and one was a tossup. Republicans argued the plan was more heavily weighted toward Democrats.

The voting took place long after midnight.

The Senate plan passed the Assembly 41-26, then the Senate 21-17. The Assembly plan was voted final passage by the Senate 21-17. And the congressional bill cleared the Senate 22-16, then the Assembly 42-24.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-4th Dist., voted against the assembly reapportionment plan, the senate reapportionment plan, and the senate plan for congressional reapportionment. Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-7th Dist., voted against the Democratic-sponsored reapportionment plan for California's congressional delegations, and against the Democratic plan for Senate reapportionment.

Only one Republican in the legislatuure voted for any of the plans. Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, supported the congressional bill, explaining that Republican Rep. William S. Mailliard of San Francisco favored it.

During a brief floor debate, Harmer said "I guess we've proven by this debacle that the legislature is incapable of reapportioning itself. We're a colossal failure."

Harmer told newsmen, "My recommendation to the governor is to veto all three bills." He predicted Reagan will follow that advice. The governor already had said he would veto the Senate and Assembly plans.

There was little doubt, however, the final arbiter of reapportionment would be the courts.

Democrats declared they will contest Reagan's promised vetoes, contending the legislature can reapportion itself without gubernatorial interference.

"This is a legislative prerogative," said Moretti. "It is not for the governor to tell us what we can and cannot do. What we are really fighting for now is the right to know whether the legislative branch of government is a separate and equal branch."

He added, "I think there is a landmark decision in the making. We're going to establish freedom for legislatures across the country."

Republican Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke maintained the legislature forfeited its reapportionment rights by not passing bills

10 Pct. Import Surcharge Ended

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) —President Nixon conferred with British Prime Minister Edward Heath today in the last of his "little summit" meetings and announced that he had removed the 10 per cent surcharge on imports.

Nixon's action removing the levy on foreign goods imposed to help shore up the U. S. balance of payments, was effective immediately. Nixon started his two days of talks with Heath within a half hour after arriving from Washington at this British-owned island resort.

A few minutes after their first meeting, Nixon emerged and told newsmen gathered on the lawn of the Government House on a hilltop overlooking the island that he had signed a proclamation removing the surcharge.

"I have today made the first decision implementing the agreement that was reached over the weekend by the group of ten in their meetings in Washington, Nixon said.

The United States agreed to cancel the surcharge Saturday night as part of a far-reaching international monetary agreement by the major free-world trading partners.

"I have just had my first meeting with the Prime Minister," Nixon said. "He felt that it would be well that I make this announcement prior to the time that we go into our more extended meeting this afternoon," Nixon said.

Nixon imposed the surcharge Aug. 15. It was levied across the board, making no distinction between the major powers and the underdeveloped nations.

The administration had argued that the surcharge was a temporary tool that would speed movement toward freer world trade. But opponents said its effect was the opposite — that other nations would have

BETTER THAN PUTTING FOOT IN HIS MOUTH

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — A secret Service agent, checking the rafters of Government House before the start of the Nixon-Heath summit, put his feet through the ceiling of the Prime Minister's bathroom, it was reported today.

The incident occurred before Prime Minister Edward Heath arrived late Friday to meet today and tomorrow with President Nixon, sources said. The ceiling was quickly repaired.

A white House staff member said the report was amusing but untrue, but both British and Bermuda sources confirmed it.

3 On C-7 Survive Sea Crash

An Air Force pilot who had brought his cargo plane more than 500 miles on one enging before ditching it in the sea was pulled to safety yesterday moments before the aircraft sank in the Pacific. (See photo page 10.)

The pilot, Capt. Donald Henderson, 25, tried to bring the disabled plane to land but 22 miles off the California coast he ran out of fuel and had to crash. The crash forced metal against Henderson and he was trapped in the cockpit.

Staff Sgt. Michael Fish, 25, of Oswego, Ore., one of a team of paramedics from Hamilton Air Force Base there to help with the rescue, jumped into the water, shattered the cockpit window and pulled out Henderson from water which had already reached his chin.

"Just as we pulled him out of the airplane the water came over the airplane and we were just sitting in the water on top of the plane," Fish said.

The two other crewmen aboard, Lt. Jim Breitenstine, 24, Akron, Ohio, and Staff Sgt. Richard E. Jackson, 23, Elizabeth City, N.C., stepped out the back of the ditched air plane into a waiting life raft. They were not hurt.

The propeller-driven cargo plane, originally from Cam Ranh Bay in Viet Nam, was one of 12 heading back to the United States for overhaul. It had stopped at Hickham Air Force Base, Hawaii, and was scheduled for another stop at McClellan Air Force Base near Sacramento, before going to its final destination of Langley Air Force Base, Va.

After taking off from Hawaii and about 500 to 700 miles from the California coast, Breitenstine said the plane developed engine trouble. One engine was turned off and the plane went the rest of the way on the other engine.

Yahya Quits; Bhutto Takes Over

KARACHI (UPI)—President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan resigned today on a wake of unpopularity brought by the loss of East Pakistan in the war with India. Anti-Yahya demonstrations broke out in Karachi and Rawalpindi where a mock trial sentenced him to hang.

Leftist political leader Zulfiqar Ali Bhutto took over as president and chief martial law administrator, technically ending 13 years of military rule, but his takeover had no effect on the crowds who stoned the Russian Aeroflot office, set three bars on fire and tried to march on the Indian High Commission (Embassy).

In Rawalpindi, the capital, about 500 persons converged in cars and trucks on Yahya Khan's residence and held a mock trial. They listed his crimes—principally leading Pakistan into a losing war with India—and sentenced him either to hanging or to be given to India in exchange for Pakistani troops being held as prisoners of war.

The crowds expressed anger, frustration and puzzlement by Yahya's agreement last Friday to a cease-fire on the 2,000-mile western front after losing all of East Pakistan to Indian troops the day before.

A crowd of several hundred in Karachi tried to march on the Indian high commission building and the Soviet consulate but were turned back by police. Police also cordoned off the Empress Market area to prevent demonstrations from converging there into a mass movement that could get out of control.

The fact that Bhutto was named as martial law administrator was strong indication that Pakistan's generals were still in control as they have been since 1958.

Bhutto, who returned this weekend from the United States where he staged a dramatic walkout from the U.N. Security Council at the height of the India-Pakistan War, began im-

Judge Smallman In Fuss Over Contempt Of Court

Marin Municipal Court Judge Robert A. Smallman today faced the possibility of a jail term for contempt of court in refusing to appoint a private attorney for a burglary suspect.

However, the jail term appeared unlikely, as County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney moved in to defend Judge Smallman against an order by Superior Court Judge Henry J. Broderick.

Judge Broderick himself conceded that he has no intention of citing Judge Smallman for contempt, although that was one of two possibilities. "The other alternative is to have him take an appeal to the district court of appeals, and I understand that is what the county counsel plans to do," said Broderick.

The wrangle started in October in the case of Stone Marston Uhl, 20, of San Geronimo, who is accused of burglary of a Fairfax home and concealing stolen property.

Uhl said he could not afford a

New Development Battle At Seashore

By ERIK M. INGRAM

New battle lines for yet another fight between developers and conservationists appear to be forming along the border of Point Reyes National Seashore.

The prize at stake this time is Inverness ridgeland overlooking the 64,000-acre park, with panoramic views of the Pacific Ocean to the west and Tomales Bay to the east.

To the developers who own the properties, the hillcrests are financial plums ripe for picking. Only interim county zoning and lack of approved access stand in the way.

To conservationists and park officials, development of the ridgeland looms as a threat to the serenity and beauty of the seashore.

In a letter to county officials, park superintendent John L. Sansing last week urged the drafting of a specific plan for the properties to prevent "inordinate development."

Of immediate concern, he said, are private lands adjacent to the park between Inverness Park and Inverness. Development would be readily visible from inside the park.

"This plan," Sansing wrote, "hopefully would enhance the esthetic values (of the park) by preventing inordinate development and by providing the proper controls for access, sanitation and erosion control."

The idea for such a plan drew support from county planning director Werner Von Gundell, who said county controls on development in the area are now "uncomfortably weak."

A specific plan, he said, would give the county greater control over what could be developed and at what density.

The proposal, however, drew a bitter reaction from West Marin developer David S. Adams Sr., a veteran of many battles with conservationists over the seashore park.

"They want to make the whole damn county a park," the 68-year-old developer told the Independent-Journal. "I'm almost to the point where I

Jackson Forms New Unity Group

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Rev. Jesse Jackson officially ended his three-year feud with the Rev. Ralph Abernathy and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference during the weekend by announcing the formation of his own civil rights organization —operation PUSH.

Jackson's announcement came Saturday —15 days after he was suspended as head of the SCLC's Operation Breadbasket by Abernathy for alleged "administrative improprieties". Thousands of Jackson's supporters lined the halls and balconies of the south side Metropolitan Theater to hear the announcement.

PUSH—People United to Save Humanity—will formally come into being next Saturday, Christmas Day, Jackson said, and will be as active and militant as necessary.

"This organization will unite people, provide action, urgency, and pushing," the young minister said. "When people see us picketing and ask 'who are they?' say they are people united to save humanity. A movement is about to be born. The umbilical cord was broken (when he was suspended from SCLC) two weeks ago. We feel the pain. The blood has been spilled ... we are gathered in the waiting room, waiting for the baby to be born."

Jackson left little doubt that his group will be economically and politically orientated.

"We have too many sociologists in the community studying the family structure when what we need are economists," Jackson said.

"Power must not be blind, it must be used ... to picket, vote, and, if necessary, to engage in civil disobedience," he said. "The courts are too slow, the judges are too corrupt. We are going to move in direct actions. We will be as nonviolent as we can be, and as violent as we must be."

'Bigfoot' Believer Tracks Russians

MOSCOW (UPI) —A persistent Canadian with a suitcase full of giant footprints sought Russian help today in tracking down the elusive "abominable snowman."

Rene Dahinden of Vancoucer, B.C., has spent a week in Moscow calling on Soviet scientists to present evidence of the existence of a giant, hairy manlike species of beast which roams remote mountain wildernesses from northern California to the Soviet Caucasus.

Such half-man, half-gorilla creatures have been reported in the Soviet Union, and some Soviet scientists have carried out expeditions to the Pamirs and Caucasus ranges, the highest mountains in the Soviet Union.

"They are skeptical, but open-minded," Dahinden said. "They are willing to look, to listen, and they will analyze the evidence to see if there is anything there. That is all I ask."

Dahinden said officials of the Soviet Academy of Sciences have arranged for experts to study a film of an alleged snowman, taken in 1967 by a California rancher named Roger Patterson. The film clip shows a black-haired creature loping across a forest clearing.

Dahinden said analysts in Canada and the United States judged the beast, if he is genuine, to be seven and one-half feet in height, and 800 pounds in weight. But no scientists have been willing to declare that they believe the beast to be genuine, he said.

Dahinden, 40, said he spends most of his time and money in trying to track down the snowman.

Short Truce Times Set By Saigon

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu announced plans tonight for a 24-hour truce throughout South Vietnam for Christmas, New Year's Day and the Tet lunar new year.

A communique issued by Thieu rejected a Communist proposal for three-day truces for Christmas and New Year's Day and four days for Tet.

The president accused the Communists of asking for extended cease-fires "to take advantage of the truce to recover their fighting potential, and at the same time to increase their infiltration in men and weapons from the north."

Thieu singled out "large infiltrations" in recent weeks in the Central Highlands.

Allied intelligence experts have predicted a major Communist thrust in the highlands around Tet, which falls on Feb. 15.

Thieu, in the communique, reiterated his frequent calls "to the Communist side to end the fighting immediately and completely to have prompt and serious discussions in order to seek leads to peace."

Open Briefings Urged On Labor Statistics

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House Government Operations Committee has advised the administration it should resume its controversial monthly briefing on unemployment statistics and avoid any appearance of using the official figures for "partisan purposes."

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson ordered the briefings halted on March 19 to "avoid the awkwardness of subjecting the professional staff of the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) to questions with policy implications." But he said the staff would be available for telephone interviews with newsmen.

"It is the conclusion of the committee, however, that the press and the public are better served by the use of press conferences as previously, than by individual telephonic inquiries," the House panel said in a report.

The committee said the order was "criticized in the press and elsewhere as being politically motivated."

The report, based on hearings by the panel's freedom of information subcommittee, said a BLS economist described the January statistics, which showed a 0.2 per cent drop in unemployment, as "marginally significant," while Hodgson was telling a White House news conference the drop had "great significance."

"The committee is concerned over the implications of the BLS action," the report said. "It (the committee) similarly stresses the absolute necessity to keep data free from any cloud of suspicion of management of government statistics for partisan purposes."

The report called on Hodgson to "immediately reinstitute the monthly press briefings."

However, five committee Republicans rejected the panel's conclusion and filed a minority report which was written by Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Ill. It said the subcommittee hearings failed to produce any evidence that the public's right to know was violated or affected by Hodgson's order.

Deadly Pills Found In Reno

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Deadly seconal pills, possibly as many as 30,000, may be in circulation in the Reno area, narcotics officers warned Sunday.

Police said the pills might be laced with poisonous strychnine.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Blasts In Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A chain of explosions ripped through stores and offices in downtown Belfast today, scattering crowds of Christmas shoppers, the army said.

An army spokesman said "miraculously" only three persons were injured.

He said there were at least 13 explosions, seven of them in the downtown shopping area.

The spokesman said two bombs went off at the front and rear of a television rental firm office in Linenhall Street, only a few blocks from Belfast City Hall. firemen arrived within seconds to put out a blaze which swept the block.

Other blasts heavily damaged an antique shop, an automobile showroom, a furniture store, a cafe and part of an insurance firm.

Berlin Pact

BERLIN (UPI) — West Berlin and East Germany signed an agreement today that will give West Berliners the right to make regular visits to the east for the first time since the wall was built 10 years ago.

The agreement will not go into effect until some time next year after Big Four approval, and the wall will remain closed over Christmas for the sixth year.

West Berliners will not get holiday wall passes to visit their East Berlin relatives.

Tito Warning

BELGRADE (UPI) — President Tito is prepared to use troops and police to put down regional strife in Yugoslavia but has warned the Soviet Union not to intervene.

Tito said Saturday that unless local Communist party leaders in the Yugoslav Republic of Croatia had been purged "perhaps in six months even shooting would have broken out" and the region would have been plunged into "civil war."

He said the ouster of Croatian party leaders last week was his government's "first blow to the class enemy" in his drive to keep Croatia and the other Yugoslav republics united as one nation.

Asked To Quit

CHICAGO (UPI) — Cook County State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan, under indictment on a charge of conspiring to obstruct justice in the Chicago Black Panther case, has been asked by Democratic leaders to withdraw from the 1972 ticket.

Hanrahan, who was endorsed by the Democratic slatemakers on Dec. 7 over strong objections from many blacks and white liberals, met yesterday for more than two hours with party leaders.

Withdrawal papers were presented but party leaders had received no reaction from Hanrahan on the request.

Caroler Killed

BOYD, Tex. (UPI) — A car plowed into a group of children singing Christmas carols outside a church late yesterday, killing a 9-year-old girl. Seven other children and a 19-year-old girl were injured.

"They were scattered all over the ditch," said the Rev. R. L. Swanner, pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church in this town north of Fort Worth.

The group was standing between the church and the state Highway 114, and some were near the shoulder of the highway. They planned to sing carols for about half an hour.

Carolyn Irene Blevins, 9, was killed by a car driven by a 19-year-old who was questioned and released. The case will be sent to the grand jury.

Supreme Court Appoints Marshal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today announced the appointment of Frank M. Hepler, 52, a marine corps colonel and native of Pennsylvania, to be marshal of the court effective Jan. 1.

Hepler, who ended active military service in 1968, has been serving as director of administration for Federal Judicial Center, a research and training agency for the federal court system.

Dilemma: Too Many Army Men

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Army, which only a few years ago was rounding up as many men as it could recruit and draft, now finds itself with too many men —and is forcing thousands of them out up to six months before their scheduled discharges.

Some of them don't especially want out early, both because it's tough to find a job these days and because military pay rates have been going up.

The early retirement, which will affect at least 60,000 soldiers, covers only men in their first year of duty — two-year draftees and three-year volunteers. They can avoid being tossed out six months early if they re-enlist, which usually means at least two more years in uniform.

"A few years ago men were trying to find loopholes to get out of the Army," said one personnel planner. "Now they're trying to find loopholes to stay in."

Unemployment nationally stands at 6 per cent, although it is higher —8.2 per cent —for veterans in the 20-29 age bracket.

The cut is being made because Congress approved a manpower ceiling for the Army, the first such limit ever put into law. The Army had a Vietnam war high of 1.6 million men in 1968 but now is down to just over 1 million. It had planned to chop its size to 942,000 by next June 30 but Congress ordered an even bigger reduction.

Those being forced out early receive neither severance pay nor advance notice.

Almost 3 million tons of barge traffic moved along the Missouri River in 1970, says the National Geographic.

Diggs Quits U.N. Delegation

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Rep. Charles C. Diggs, D-Mich., resigned as a member of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations Friday because of President Nixon's recent announcement to continue maintaining an American military base in the Azores.

Diggs, who is chairman of the house subcommittee on Africa, said the base would give Portugal a "bonus" of a half billion dollars a year and help it pursue its "colonial war" against blacks in Africa.

Diggs said the U.S. delegation to the United Nations, acting on instructions from the White House, has been casting votes against blacks that would help eliminate white minority regimes in Southern Africa and fight apartheid—South Africa's segregation policy.

For years the Portugese have fought African guerrillas in their territories of Angola, Mozambique and Bissau.

Environmental Design Plan Due Review

The proposed environmental design plan will be reviewed by the Petaluma Planning Commission tomorrow at 7: 30 p.m.

Planning consultants William and Mocine of San Francisco will present the plan based on recommendations by six citizen study committees. All suggested that the plan set maximum city growth at 500 new homes per year so that planning and financing of schools, parks and other city services can keep pace with development.

U.S., Cuba In A Test Of Nerves

MIAMI (UPI)—The United States and Cuba maintained their tough positions today in a test of nerve over the free use of international shipping lanes around the Caribbean Island.

There was no word so far on the fate of 28 crewmen aboard two Panamanian-registered cargo ships seized by Cuban gunboats this month, including Cuban-born skipper Jose Villa of the Johnny Express, a naturalized U.S. citizen.

The Department of Defense ordered U.S. Naval and air units in the Caribbean area on alert following the machinegunning and seizure of the unarmed Johnny Express last Wednesday in the Bahamas.

In response, Cuba's Communist party newspaper announced that some Cuban air and naval units were placed on alert. Cuban Defense Minister Raul Castro, brother of Premier Fidel Castro, said in a speech reported by Radio Havana that "not even the littlest of our pioneers (a preteen Communist youth group) loses any sleep over Mr. Nixon's threats."

President Nixon had expressed personal concern for the fate of Villa and the United States has requested his return through the Swiss Embassy in Havana. Villa had radioed his home office shortly before capture that he and several others among the 14 crewmen were wounded.

A State Department spokesman said Friday the United States "is prepared to take all measures under international law to protect U.S. citizens and freedom of the seas" against attacks in the Caribbean area.

An official Cuban government statement following the seizure of the Johnny Express acknowledged the action took place 120 miles from Cuba's coast, but accused the ship of "pirate" activities against the island. The statement said Cuba would seize such ships anywhere it found them. Earlier this month, a sister ship, the Layla Express, was captured in the same general area. Both are owned by a Miami firm operated by Cuban exiles.

In Miami, several hundred enraged Cuban exiles staged a protest march in the city's "Little Havana" section Saturday night, chanting "Guerra, Guerra, guerra" (War, war, war) and demanding U.S. permission to wage war on Cuba.

Tire, Tools Stolen

A tire and tools worth $257 were taken from the car of Diana R. Lefebure of 11 Highland Court, Larkspur, between Wednesday and Friday, Larkspur police said today.

U.C. Is Taking Applications In Some Categories

BERKELEY (UPI) —The University of California announced Sunday all campuses are taking applicants in some categories for fall 1972 admissions with the exception of UC Santa Cruz.

Berkeley is closed for freshmen and lower division transfer students applying to the College of Letters and Science. It is also closed for lower division transfers in the School of Environmental Design.

Upper division transfers are closed in criminology, forestry, optometry, and for the College of Letters and Science except languages, literature and physical sciences.

Davis is closed at all levels for the College of Letters and Science but is open at all levels in engineering. It is closed to all lower division applications in the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences while open to most upper division applications.

Irvine is open except for Freshmen in the schools of Biological and Physical Sciences and advanced standing applications for biological sciences.

UCLA, Santa Barbara and Riverside are open until quotas are reached and Santa Cruz is full.

FDA Commissioner To Intensify Criticism Of Consumer Activists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Charles C. Edwards, commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), indicates he has no intention of letting up he has no intention of letting up on his recent criticism of consumer activists such as Ralph Nader.

"Who kicks us in the rear the hardest?" Edwards asked rhetorically in an interview. "You name me one so-called consumerist who has ever gone before Congress and asked them to do something for the FDA."

Industry groups such as the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, the Grocery Manufacturers of America and the National Canners Association have gone to bat for the FDA, urging Congress to give the agency more funds, he said.

"While I'm not pro industry, I've been around long enough to know they're not all bad. You have to work with the responsible leaders in industry. We've got the Naders on one side and industry on the other and somehow we have to straighten it out," Edwards said.

Edwards, in his prepared texts, does not name individuals; but he departed from a printed speech Nov. 17 to single out Nader and Washington Post investigative reporter Morton Mintz.

Edwards said Nader and his allies were leading con-sumers "down the primrose path" toward an impossible goal of completely safe foods and drugs. In this speech and others, he said such a goal would cripple scientific development and product innovation.

Edwards did not cite specific issues on which he felt Nader or Mintz erred, although Nader has criticized a number of FDA decisions.

NIXON

to build higher tariff barriers in self-defense.

Nixon told newsmen it would now be possible to move on to other trade agrements that are involved in the whole revision of the international monetary system.

Nixon, accompanied by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr., landed in the "spirit of 76" jetliner at the U. S. Naval Air Station at Kindley Field on St. George's Island after a one hour 42 minute flight from Washington.

Four U. S. Marine helicopters ferried the presidential party the 10 miles from the airport to the grounds of government house, the hilltop residence of Bermuda Gov. Lord Martonmbe where the two heads of state meet today and Tuesday.

Nixon touched down in balmy weather with temperatures in the 60s. A wind ruffled the two union jacks, one bearing the coat of arms of Bermuda flying from the 79 year old Italianinate mansion of gray Bermuda limestone. Royal marines, Bermuda bobbies and U. S. Secret Servicemen kept all but authorized personnel from the 70 acres of landscaped grounds which slope down to the Azure Ocean.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters aboard the jet that "We think there is a solid basis for a new and more equal partnership in which the interests of both sides are benefited."

It was the fourth in a series of consultative meetings Nixon has scheduled throughout yuletide with major allies before he travels to Peking and Moscow next year. Still to come are talks with West German Chancellor Willy Brandt in Key Biscayne, Fla. Dec. 28-29 and with Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato in San Clemente, Calif. Jan. 6-7.

JUDGE

lawyer, and on Oct. 4, Smallman referred him to the public defender. But deputy public defender Peter Muzio said he could not represent Uhl because of a conflict of interest with other defendants that the public defender must defend. Muzio explained he could not reveal the nature of that conflict because this would be a breach of the confidence between clients and their attorneys.

When Judge Smallman still refused to appoint a private attorney for Uhl, Muzio asked Superior Court for a writ of mandate ordering Smallman to act. Judge Broderick, on Nov. 16, asked Judge Smallman to reconsider, and on Dec. 6 issued a writ of mandate ordering Smallman to appoint a lawyer for Uhl or else.

The "or else" will probably not be carried out, at least for a while, because Maloney said he has asked for a time extension to prepare for Smallman's defense.

"Yes, technically Judge Smallman could go to jail if the order is refused, but that's highly unlikely," smiled Maloney. He said there is a legal precedent handed down by another Marin Superior Court judge, Samuel W. Gardiner, which sustains the right of the Municipal Court judge to get an explanation of a conflict of interest before a private attorney is appointed at public expense.

Countywide Plan Before Council

The preliminary countywide plan for Marin will be the subject of further discussion by the San Anselmo City Council when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow at city hall.

The council gave a vague general approval to the plan at a meeting last month, but may make specific recommendations for changes in the plan at tomorrow's meeting.

The council is also scheduled tomorrow to award a bid for purchase of a new fire engine and discuss a proposed ordinance regulating the use of motorcycles on private property.

Schools Survey May Circulate

San Anselmo School District trustees will consider a survey of district residents when they meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the library at Red Hill School.

District students would circulate a questionnaire asking residents' opinions on district affairs.

Other items to be considered by the board include the appointment of a citizens study committee, taxation of unused school lands, a report on the general fund and approval of a salary schedule.

Superintendent Report Is Due

A formal evaluation report on the performance of Fairfax School District Supt. H. Reginald Hammond will be made at a meeting of the district's board at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow at White Hill School.

The board agreed following an evaluation of Hammond last month to renew his contract, but continued until tomorrow discussion of details, including salary, of the contract.

The evaluation report will be made by the board president, Dr. George C. Stone.

don't give a damn what they do. . ."

Adams, who won a court case against the county over his right to build the controversial Paradise Estates subdivision near Inverness, owns about 400 acres of the choice Inverness ridgeland property.

"We have no immediate plans for our property," he said. Adams added, however, that he would like to see it developed someday with single-family homes on small lots.

(Subdivision maps for the Adams property already have been drafted but development is stalled due to lack of county approval for roads to the property.

(The property is zoned for agricultural use with minimum lot size ranging from two acres to 60 acres under the county's interim zoning ordinance.)

"I'm disgusted with Marin County and its goddam subdivision ordinance," Adams said.

"The park ends at the boundary (the ridge)," he continued, adding that his property is designated in Inverness area county plans for expansion.

The developer said pressure from conservationists to keep the property as open space was unfair to him. "If they want it, let them buy it."

Harold Gregg, executive director of the Marin Conservation League said, "Any development there would be a tremendous tragedy."

He said a valley leading down from the ridge is matched in beauty and lush growth only by south sea islands.

Gregg was supported by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni, who said high-density development — as proposed by Adams — would be "over my dead body."

Besides the visual impact of any future development, both Gregg and park superintendent Sansing expressed concern over the traffic which new developments would generate.

"We know there are owners of property outside the park boundary who have automobile access to it from within the park," Sansing wrote. "This will not be particularly inappropriate until the owners subdivide and sell their land."

He urged the county to insist that developers provide outside access before subdividing their land.

When the county will actually begin specific planning for the area is not known.

Planning director Von Gundell said limited staff time may delay the project for some time unless other project priorities are shifted.

CRASH

ton Air Force Base met the crippled plane and escorted it toward land for four hours. Other aircraft concentrated along the California coast in case they could help.

Stinson Beach had been cleared for a possible emergency landing there. But the sputtering aircraft could not get close enough and dropped in the sea approximately 22 miles from the mainland.

"It was just one big splash and that was it," Breintenstine said. "We walked out the back and jumped into the life raft."

Coast Guard and Air Force rescue had massed eight ships and two helicopters in the area. They quickly picked up the crewmen in their little raft.

Fish, riding in an Air Force helicopter, said he could see Henderson waving his arm out the window.

"I went down the hoist first and into the water and slammed through the windshield of the airplane," he said. "The water level was up to his chin."

Henderson gasped, "Do you have any air?" Fish said, "he was taking a lot of water through his mouth. I told him I didn't have any air and that I was going to get him out as fast as I could."

Henderson was wrenched free of the cockpit and ferried by helicopter to waiting medical facilities at Hamilton.

CAPITOL

during the regular session, which ended Dec. 4, and now a special commission he chairs holds jurisdiction.

The State Supreme Court, acting at the request of Democrats, has ordered Reinecke's commission at least temporarily not to adopt a redistricting plan.

"The average citizen, following this confusing drama in his local newspaper, could be forgiven for likening state government to a three-ring circus," said absent Assembly Republican Leader Robert T. Monagan in a prepared statement.

Reapportionment — required by law every 10 years to bring districts in line with changing population figures—was added by Reagan to the agenda of a special session he originally called in hopes the legislature would pass a withholding tax bill, which it did.

The Senate reapportionment plan would create a predominately Mexican-American district in East Los Angeles and throw Republicans Peter H. Behr of San Rafael and Milton Marks of San Francisco into the same district where they would have to run against each other or retire.

Under the Assembly plan, Republicans Charles Conrad of Sherman Oaks and Floyd Wakefield of South Gate—who has been advocating that legislators' salaries be reduced — would be reapportioned out of office. So would Democrat John F. Foran of San Francisco because of declining population in the Bay City. Republicans Kenneth L. Maddy of Fresno and Ernest M. Mobley of Sanger would be placed in the same district.

The congressional plan would create new districts in San Mateo-Santa Clara-Santa Cruz counties, central Los Angeles, San Bernardino-Riverside-Los Angeles counties, Orange-San Diego counties and San Luis Obispo-Kings-Kern counties.

The Senate and Assembly on straight party line votes passed their own reapportionment plans Saturday and sent them to the opposite house for final action.

The legislature met Sunday night and formally "read" the bills. Then lawmakers patiently waited until midnight—officially the next legislative day—when they were entitled to vote final passage to the measures.

"As long as we're here we might as well keep going," Moretti told newsmen when asked why the legislature didn't just recess until mid-morning today. "There's no use spending another day around here staring at each other."

Democratic leaders, however, had trouble rounding up votes from some of their balky brethren until after 2 a.m.

Assemblyman Walter W. Powers, D-Sacramento, refused to vote for the Senate bill in an effort to apply pressure on fellow Democrats to carve out a senate district for Foran, who was losing his Assembly seat. The strategy didn't work.

WAR

mediate consultations today with the U.S. and Communist Chinese ambassadors.

Bhutto, a long time foreign minister, is head of the Pakistan People's party, the most powerful political group in the country. He had been famous for his strong pro-Peking policies and his anti-American stance but swung toward the United States when Washington supported Pakistan's position in the 14-day war.

He called in the chief of the Pakistan Air Force and the chief of the general staff of the Pakistani Army and announced he would address the nation tonight.

There was sharp contrast to life in Pakistan and India: Radio Pakistan announced that the blackout would be continued; India reported life returning to normal with international flights resuming to Calcutta's Dum Dum airport and domestic flights resuming to Srinigar, the capital of Kashmir.

Turmoil continued in what was once East Pakistan and which calls itself the People's Republic of Bangla Desh, and All India Radio said 21 intellectuals in Dacca have demanded trial by a military tribunal of the West Pakistanis responsible for the recent mass slaying of East Pakistani intellectuals outside Dacca.

Sporadic revenge slayings have been reported in the East as the Bangla Desh people turned their wrath on those who had collaborated with the West Pakistani army. But today the Bangla Desh government asked all employes who left their jobs after West Pakistan's military crackdown last March to return to their jobs.

OBITUARIES

Yacht Club Land Donor H. J. Prien

Funeral for Henry J. Prien of San Francisco, donor of the land on which the San Francisco Yacht Club now stands and the oldest member of the club, will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Carew and English Funeral Home, San Francisco.

Burial at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park, Colma, will follow the service at the funeral home, 350 Masonic Avenue.

Prien died Saturday at a San Francisco hospital. He was 91.

Prien donated the land at 98 Beach Road where the century-old yacht club built its present facility, about 1934.

He was a bank executive for 50 years before his retirement in 1946.

In 1908, he was an engineer on the first steam car built in California.

Prien was born in San Francisco and was the only son of a ship-builder who came to California in 1852.

Surviving are a son, Henry I. Prien, and a daughter, Antoinette Madill, both of San Francisco.

CHP drinking driver arrests UP . . . accident rate DOWN

California Highway Patrol Officers approach a vehicle stopped after the officers observed it weaving in and out of the middle traffic lane.

For your own protection, if you drive don't drink

In order to assist and protect the individual from the "other" driver, the California Highway Patrol has a hard-hitting enforcement program aimed at the primary accident causing violations. We know this to be an effective weapon. For example, in Marin County during the past two years we have increased drinking driver arrests from 879 in 1969 to 1824 in 1971. During the same period reportable accidents have been reduced each year. Further, 253 fewer persons were killed or injured last year than in 1969. This is in the face of a 13% increase in traffic. To us this is a very real and tangible aspect of traffic safety.

The year 1972 promises to be even safer for Marin's motorists. As of this date, accidents are down 8% over 1970. Coincidentally, drinking driver arrests are up nearly 40% over last year.

WILLIAM S. BLOOMER, Captain

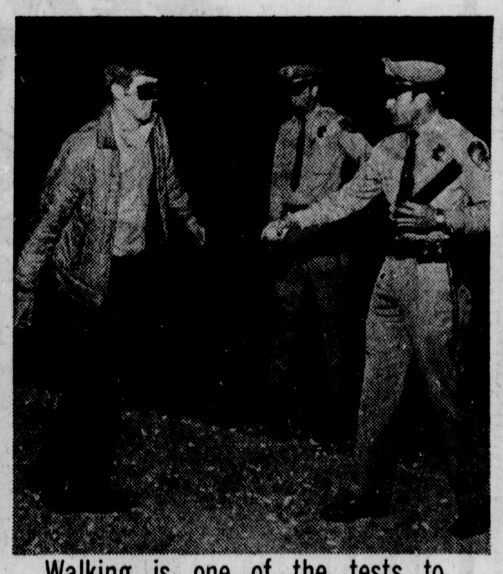
23102 DRIVING UNDER INFLUENCE
(a) VC It is unlawful for any person who is under the influence of intoxicating liquor, or under the combined influence of intoxicating liquor and any drug to drive a vehicle upon any highway. (misdemeanor).

What happens when a driver is stopped for suspected drunk driving:

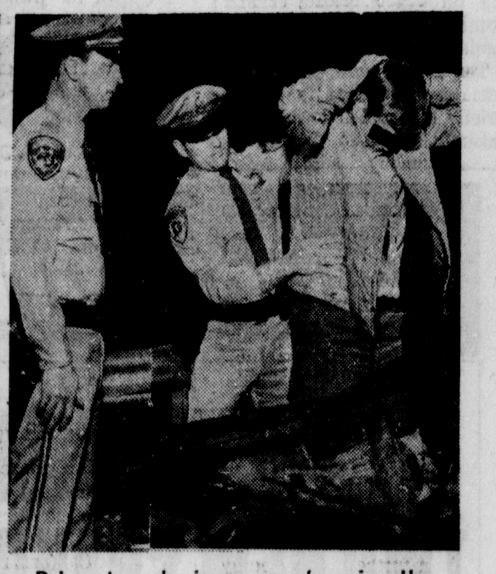
After being advised of why he was stopped the erratic driver is requested to produce his driver's license.

Upon obtaining driver's license, driver is asked to get out of his vehicle and submit to field balance tests (with eyes closed — touch top of index finger to tip of nose).

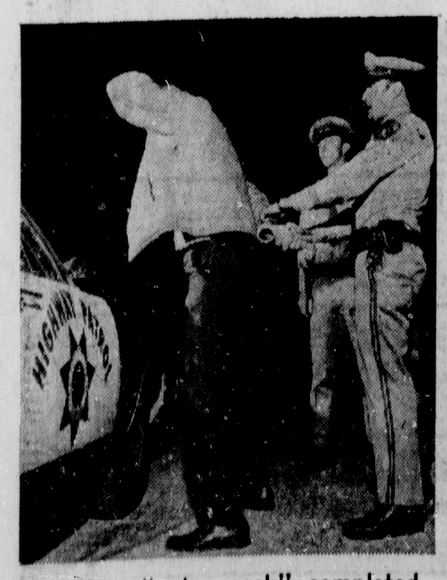


Walking is one of the tests to determine the driver's balance and coordination (walk approx. straight line placing heel of one shoe against the toe of the other).

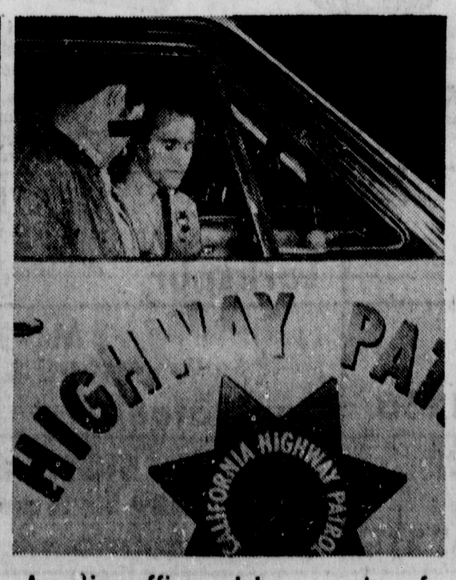
Officer arrests driver for driving under the influence of an intoxicating liquor. He advises driver of his constitutional rights.



Prior to placing arrestee in the patrol car, he is "pat searched" for possible weapons.



With the "pat search" completed, he is handcuffed.



Arresting officer advises arrestee of the implied consent law requirement of submitting to a chemical test of his blood, breath, or urine.

The breathalyzer is used to obtain and analyze a breath sample for blood alcohol content.

After complete test arresting officers stand by while Marin Co. Deputy Sheriffs book arrestee into jail facility.

BUILDING A BALL FIELD

A fleet of earth moving equipment, looming as large as prehistoric monsters, moved across the Olive School playground in Novato to Saturday to create a little league ballfield. Labor and about $500,000 worth of equipment was contributed by members of the Engineering Graders Contractors Association with 11 Marin and Southern Sonoma firms participating in the joint project with the city public works department.

Cave-In Breaks Water Main

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Part of a street caved in Sunday night and hundreds of homes were without water when a 16-inch water main broke near the Laguna Honda Home for the Aged.

The break caused a 25-by-40 foot section to collapse and sent thousand of gallons of water rushing down the street.

Larkspur Man, 24, Found Dead In Home

A 24-year-old Larkspur man was found dead in his home yesterday, apparently having taken his own life, according to police.

Larkspur police said they found David Markham dead on a bed in the master bedroom of his home at 160 Madrone Avenue at 8:15 a.m. after a telephoned report of a possible suicide.

The cause of death was unknown today, according to coroner's deputy Donald L. Cornish. An autopsy was to be performed.

Markham's friend, Lynne C. Blaikie, 26, of the same address said he had been despondent over losing custody of his daughter and the impending loss of his home, police said. She said Markham had been threatening suicide for about a month saying he would take "Big Reds," but no pills were found, police said.

She told police she awoke about 5 a.m. and heard Markham breathing oddly, but thought nothing of it because he had broken his nose recently. However, she said she tried to wake him at 7:30 a.m. and was unable to.

She told police she then went to a friend's home and called them.

Markham is survived by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Rex Mincheff of Los Angeles.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Avoid traffic. Swim to Dominic's.

If we're to keep up with the competition in the restaurant business these days, we have to offer an advantage of some kind besides just truly superior food and drink. One day someone noticed that our location on the San Rafael Yacht Harbor meant customers could swim directly to our private docks from almost any point in the Bay Area. We checked to see if any of our competitors were stressing this, and none were. So if you don't want to fight traffic getting to a fine restaurant, now you know what to do.

Hub Residents In Hospital After Crash

Two San Anselmo residents injured Saturday in a one-car crash on Highway 101 were reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital.

The driver, Kevin J. Fitzpatrick, 20, of 17 Morningside Avenue, suffered a fractured left arm and shoulder. A passenger, Deborah Privitt, 13, of 9 Lansdale Avenue, suffered a fractured spine.

The California Highway Patrol said their car was northbound on Highway 101 in Greenbrae at 11:50 p.m. Saturday at a high rate of speed when it braked to avoid another vehicle.

The patrol quoted witnesses as saying the car swerved to the left, then to the right, crashing through a guardrail and coming to rest on its side against a utility pole.

The patrol said Fitzpatrick was pinned behind the wheel briefly before being freed and taken to the hospital.

There's Still A Santa Even Though Virginia Gone

By WILLIAM S. STEVENS

NORTH CHATHAM, N.Y. (UPI)–A bright link with Christmases past is gone, but Laura Virginia O'Hanlon Douglas would not in any way want the joy of this season diminished because of it.

Mrs. Douglas was the 8-year-old girl who wrote a letter 74 years ago to the New York Sun saying her friends told her there was no Santa Claus and received the famed reply, "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus."

She died May 13 of this year at the age of 81. She had lived with relatives here for about 15 years before her death, and one of the annual pleasures of the season for this reporter was a discussion with her about Christmas and her contribution to its beauty.

A cheerful and witty woman who frequently suffered ill health in her later years, Mrs. Douglas always insisted that it was Francis P. Church, the editorial writer who replied to her letter, who most deserved remembrance. Church, an assistant editor for the former New York Sun, died in 1916.

Mrs. Douglas always said it was Church who spelled out the "philosophy of hope and love," but persons who spoke to her about it years later always came away from the conversation believing that she too expressed and felt that same philosophy.

A school teacher in New York City for about 45 years before she retired and moved to upstate New York, Mrs. Douglas once said, "The Christmas season is one of such great joy and the sharing of it makes me very happy and contented. If only the spirit of it were all over the world, what a wonderful place it would be."

That, she explained, was an adult way of saying what Church had told her nearly three-quarters of a century ago in his editorial:

"Is There a Santa Claus?

"We take pleasure in answering at once and thus prominently the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of the Sun:

"Dear Editor:

"I am 8 years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says 'If you see it in the Sun it's so.' Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?"

Virginia O'Hanlon
115 West 95th Street

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except what they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable their existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

"You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, not even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

"No Santa Claus! Thank God he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart."

Ties With Media Are Severed

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier says he will no longer answer any questions asked by reporters from the Milwaukee Journal, the Milwaukee Sentinel or the Journal company's television and radio stations.

His announcement Friday put Maier completely out of touch with Journal Co. reporters. Since May, 1960, reporters for the two Journal-owned papers have had limited access to Maier, who has been critical of the way the Journal covers city government and his administration.

The final break with all Journal reporters was sparked earlier this week when Maier told the Journal he was going to discontinue his weekly column in the paper because Journal editors deleted two paragraphs from one of those columns.

Journal editor Richard H. Leonard said Thursday the paragraphs were deleted and an editors' note inserted because the material was considered libelous by Journal attorneys. It was a criticism of Joel McNally, a Journal city hall reporter.

Brandeis University Has Named New President

WALTHAM, Mass. (UPI) — Marver H. Bernstein, former dean of Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, was named Friday as next president of Brandeis University.

Bernstein, 52, a native of Mankato, Minn., will take over in September, 1972, with the resignation of Charles I. Schottland, who has served as president of Brandeis since March 1970.

Bernstein was dean of the Woodrow Wilson School from 1964 to 1969 and has directed the school's graduate program. He has served in a number of governmental and academic posts and has written three books.

"Dr. Bernstein will not only bring to Brandeis an excellent background and profound knowledge of the American university but, additionally, a knowledge of the American Jewish community," board of trustees chairman Jacob Hiatt said Friday in making the appointment.

Yacht Clubs Burglarized

Two Belvedere yacht clubs were burglarized on consecutive days, police reported Saturday.

In almost identical burglaries, $185 was taken from the San Francisco Yacht Club between 9:30 p.m. Thursday and 7 a.m. Friday and $198 was taken from the Corinthian Yacht Club between 2 and 8 a.m. Saturday, police said.

In each case, the burglars pried open an outside door hidden from general view, then jimmied doors and cabinets inside looking for money, police said.

$70 Million Jolt For Parents In New Tax Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There's a $70 million jolt in the new tax law for parents who have been providing for their children's education while cutting their own tax liability.

Affected by the change are those who have set aside funds for childrens' use by outright gifts of money, securities or property, or by setting up certain kinds of trust funds.

Under present law, all or some of the investment's return could be sheltered from taxation because the child, in filing a tax return, could claim both a personal exemption for himself and a standard deduction.

In 1971, up to $1,700 per child escape the taxman that way. The maximum of tax-free income would have reached $2,050 in 1972.

The new law signed by President Nixon Dec. 10 whittles the tax-free income down to no more than $750 per child per year. The change is effective on 1972 income.

If a child is under 19 or a college student of any age, and if his parents provide more than one half his support, both he and his parents can claim him for a personal exemption.

He qualifies whether his income is earned by his own labor or is "unearned" —that is, income from investments held in his name.

But under the new law, he no longer will qualify for a standard deduction taken against unearned income or for a standard deduction that exceeds the amount of his income from wages.

To see how these provisions operate, take a student named Joe, who has $2,500 income from securities given to him and who, by working next summer, earns $600.

Against his total $3,100 income, Joe under present law could have claimed a $750 exemption plus a minimum standard deduction of $1,300. That would have left him with a taxable income of $1,050 — and taxes of $153.

Under the new law, however, Joe can claim only the $750 exemption plus a $600 deduction since his deduction can no longer exceed his wage income. That leaves him with a taxable income of $1,750 —and taxes of $267.50.

Joe's father probably still gets quite a tax break by transferring securities ownership of his son because in most cases he would be in a higher tax bracket than the son.

RESCUED FROM DITCHED PLANE

Capt. Donald Henderson, 25, is carried from a rescue helicopter at Hamilton Air Force Base after being pulled from a disabled Air Force light cargo plane which ditched in calm seas 20 miles off the Golden Gate. Two other crewmen left the floating plane — which ditched yesterday afternoon — and jumped into a raft. Carrying Henderson are T/Sgt. Lou Craig (left) and Mike Fish, an Air Force paramedic. More U.S. Jobs Seen In $ Change

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The administration believes the new agreement to devalue the dollar and adjust international currency exchange rates will eventually produce more than half a million new jobs for American workers.

President Nixon, in hailing the weekend settlement as "the most significant monetary agreement in the history of the world" stressed international economic stability rather than domestic dividends.

But members of his administration stepped in to offer the unemployment-fighting aspects of the arrangement under which the United States will devalue the dollar by 7.89 per cent and the major free world traders will up the exchange value of their currencies by an average of 12 per cent. The dollar devaluation —to be accomplished by raising the price of gold from $35 an ounce to $38 —will take place once Congress approves, presumably early next year.

Both Peter B. Peterson, Nixon's assistant for international economic affairs, and Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Cost of Living Council, agreed that between 500,000 and 667,000 American jobs could be created. Peterson said the total might eventually reach three-quarters of a million.

Peterson told newsmen Sunday he based his jobs estimate on the theory that 60,000 to 80,000 jobs will be created for every $1 billion improvement in the U.S. trade balance.

Most estimates of the impact of Saturday's agreement among the 10 wealthiest noncommunist nations calculate a $9 billion improvement in the U.S. trade balance. This should occur once the country starts selling more than it is buying from abroad.

The devaluation of the dollar and upward valuation of the other currencies are intended to narrow the gap that has existed for years between the dollar and other currencies when it comes to international exchange. The development will have little impact on what the dollar is worth domestically — although imports ranging from German cars to Japanese color TV sets will cost American buyers more.

Travel overseas will cost Americans more also —but that may persuade more people to take stateside vacations, improving both the trade balance and the domestic economy. Exporters will find U.S. products more competitive in overseas markets, a situation which should result in more sales and more jobs.

Dr. Paul A. Samuelson, Harvard professor and Nobel prize winner, said the increase in valuation for foreign currencies is important "because now American factories and workers will become 12 per cent more competitive in selling goods abroad. American jobs at home can better be preserved against competition from Japanese or German imports now that the dollar is no longer an overvalued currency."

More foreign exchange markets in the countries party to the new agreement were closed today while the impact of the decisions was absorbed and studied. The executive directors of the international monetary fund met in Washington Sunday and agreed to establish a temporary set of standards under which currency exchange rates will be allowed to fluctuate under the new agreement.

$51,000 Grant For Mill Valley

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The California Division of Highways has approved $51,000 for improvements to Dolan's Corners in Mill Valley.

The project specifications call for widening Almonte Boulevard to provide two southbound lanes, widening shoreline Highway and installing a traffic signal system.

The Marin County Public Works Department is to administer the work at the busy junction and the county will chip in $15,000, according to the state Department of Public Works.

Blaze In L.A.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Fire erupted shortly after midnight today in a two-story brick commercial building and caused an estimated $20,000 damage, officials said.

Man, Woman Arrested; Speed Cache Seized

A Tamalpais Valley man and a young woman volunteer worker for the San Francisco probation department were arrested early Saturday after drug agents seized speed valued at $27,000 in street prices and equipment for manufacturing it.

Marin and San Francisco narcotics officers raided the home of William Roger Adair, 23, and Nancy Ellen Flyer, 22, at 396 Pinehill Road after a long investigation.

The agents, who had a search warrant, said they found about a pound and a half of methamphetamine and a small quantity of marijuana. Also seized was laboratory equipment.

An agent said Adair had been under investigation since September in connection with the sale in the East of large quantity of a chemical used in making speed.

Both Adaire, who has a prior conviction for sale of drugs, according to agents, and Miss Flyer, who does volunteer work in connection with releasing persons from jail on their own recognizance, were booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing speed for sale and possessing pot.

She posted $2,500 bail and is to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow. He was held in lieu of $12,500 bail and was to go to court today.

ACCIDENTS TRIGGERED BY WOMAN

While Patricia L. Mantele, 28, of 718 B Street, Apt. 6, San Rafael, lies beneath coats and blankets (top photo) on D street, an ambulance on the way to get her stood at the intersection of D and Second streets (bottom photo) following a collision. Police said the accidents were triggered when the woman walked into a car driven by John F. Roberts, 20, of Petaluma, shortly after 10 a.m. yestereday near Antonette Avenue. She was treated at Marin General Hospital for a scraped right knee. The United ambulance, driven by Kenneth A. Kristensen, 17, collided minutes later with a station wagon driven by Dennis C. Hoaglin, 31, of 12 Upper Fremont Drive, San Rafael. A 10-year-old boy in Hoaglin's car was reported in "fair to satisfactory" condition today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco, and three other children in the car were treated at the Kaiser hospital in San Rafael.

'SURGE OF CREATIVITY'

New Hollywood Film Freedom

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"The public howls for family movies, but nobody will pay to see them at any price."

The words are those of producer-director Ralph Nelson whose "Flight of the Doves," a worthwhile film made for the family trade, failed to attract large audiences.

One explanation, Nelson and other knowledgeable film makers agree, is that the motion picture theater has lost its place as a suitable rendezvous for entire families.

In the shifting morality and standards of society, movies are made today by a new breed bent on overthrowing tradition.

Right or wrong they are succeeding.

In 1972 all pretense of observing the so-called "rating system" will be abandoned. Perhaps the move is warranted.

Three films almost certain to be recognized by Motion Picture Academy voters—"The French Connection," "The Last Picture Show" and "Klute"—signal what lies ahead for movie-goers.

Call it 'cinema verite,' realism or "telling it like it is, baby," brutality, clinical sex, profanity and vulgarity have become acceptable picture fare to today's audiences.

Post-pubescent middle class Americans have accepted films which treat base subjects with a touch of esthetic verisimilitude—an attitude long since adopted by intellectuals and avant-garde youth.

Thus a naked Jane Fonda at sex play on the screen is accepted, and so is the language of a teen-age actress mouthing obscenities formerly restricted to restroom walls. The 1970s promise more of what is being called "artistic freedom" in movies, while simultaneously inviting government censorship.

The nub of the matter, the argument goes here, is that motion pictures have been forced into daring, sometimes tasteless, often astounding areas by television. Films, the producers say, must give audiences entertainment or exhibition which cannot be seen on the tube. If not, they claim, feature films for theaters will perish.

This thrust has created a curious dichotomy in Hollywood. Major studios have been reduced for the most part to rental agencies for feature films to independent producers and into production of monotonous television movies for the home viewer.

The new-found freedom has brought a fresh surge of creativity to Hollywood, wresting leadership from Italy, England and Sweden. Young producers, writers, directors and actors are flooding the city.

If Hollywood has been in the doldrums for a decade, it is looking to brighter horizons. European production is at an all time low.

Resurgence of activity on the old lots will mean less production abroad, partly because the cost of movie-making in Europe has approached parity with Hollywood.

More rigid censorship abroad, too, has inhibited picture makers.

Many a GP or R rated American film would be banned in Italy, for instance. And the X rated movie has become an absurdity.

When does a sex act, photographed by respected directors with name stars, become pornographic? Neither movie czar Jack Valenti nor anyone else can say.

Independent producer Walter Seltzer says, "I think gratuitous nudity and vulgarity are on their way out. But the language and sex emphasis will be with us for a long time. Pictures reflect our society. Television doesn't. That's the difference."

Seltzer indicated today's movies are not seeking to reconvert former movie-goers but are creating new audiences, especially among young adults.

Elmo Williams, production chief of 20th Century-Fox, recognizes the trendy quality of movies but says he sees a diminishing boxoffice value in sex and nudity.

"We have to rely on entertaining people instead of shocking them," he said. "Eventually they become shock-proof. Movies still have more latitude on subject matter, language and nudity than television but these elements will be played down to some degree in the coming year."

The wife of a Los Angeles architect hopes so: "I stay home and watch television movies because they're getting better. I'd rather go to a theater and see a good picture just to get out of the house and away from the numbing effects of TV. But I can't find good movies."

A 24-year-old housewife in Westwood, Calif., near the UCLA campus, took an opposing point of view:

"Thank God for movies. Television is for kids and idiots. Flicks are the only medium that has its head on straight. The cameras look inside people and tell you what they're all about. Books, magazines and television don't have anywhere near as much relevancy."

An engineer at Lockheed Corp., is 50 years old and fed up with current movies.

"I'm no square," he said. "I've been around, heard all the words and so has my wife. But I'll be damned if I want to sit in a theater with hundreds of strangers while my wife and I are assaulted by filth on the screen. I've just quit going to movies."

Otto Preminger, always in the van of controversy, will release "Such Good Friends" in 1972. It is the story of a young widow who discovers a diary of her dead husband's conquests among her friends.

Jews Planning Hunger Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Union of Councils for Soviet Jews said today that 23 Soviet Jewish prisoners convicted in the Leningrad hijacking trials would stage a 24-hour hunger strike Christmas Eve.

Union Vice Chairman Harold B. Light said he received word of the protest action from a Tel Aviv woman in communication with Jews in Russia.

Light said the 23 prisoners were appealing their sentences and were requesting the Soviet supreme to renounce their Soviet citizenship so they could emigrate to Israel.

The prisoners are in Potma Prison 300 miles east of Moscow, the vice chairman said. They were convicted on Dec. 24, 1970, for an attempt to hijack a Russian airliner.

Mercedes-Benz of North America, Inc./158 Linwood Plaza/Fort Lee, New Jersey

"If you judge all the cars in the world on the basis of engineering, construction integrity, reliability and the degree of perfection with which they fill their intended function, then the ten best cars in the world are probably all built by Mercedes-Benz."

That was the opinion of one of Road & Track's editors as they pooled 93 years of automotive experience in compiling a list of the world's ten best cars.

His five associates were, in their words, "not prepared to go quite that far." Other factors such as list price, they insisted, would have to be considered.

Still, the panel agreed that two Mercedes-Benz models, the legendary 300SEL 6.3 and the new 350SL belonged among the ten best. The only manufacturer to be so honored. And a third Mercedes-Benz, the 280SE, was judged the world's best sedan in the $6,000 to $10,000 price category.

But don't simply take Road & Track's word, or ours. Come in. Look at any model on the basis of engineering, construction integrity, reliability and the degree to which it fulfills its intended function.

Judge for yourself.

PRACTICING — Kevin Meiswinkel and Roger Backstedt, two College of Marin students living at the Kentfield fire house, practice preparing for a fire with fireman Rodney Biddleman, taking the driver's seat of a fire engine. The two students earn their keep at the fire department as volunteer firemen while they get an education across the street.

CLEANING HOUSE — Bob Ahrens straightens a bedspread leaving the mopping to Bill Andrade as the two clean up their quarters at the Kentfield fire station. They and four others earn their keep fighting fires and cleaning up around the fire station. Four of the live-ins go across the street to the College of Marin for classes each week day. HOP, SKIP AND A SLIDE

Students As Firemen— Marriage Of Convenience

By LARRY MOWELL

The trip to school is just a hop, skip and a short slide down the fire pole for four students at the College of Marin.

The students are live-in volunteer firemen for the Kentfield Fire Department.

It is a marriage of convenience for both sides. The fire department gets volunteer firefighters available at all times. The students get a free bed across the street from the college.

Actually, six college-age volunteers live at the department, but one is waiting to start College of Marin and another has transferred from the junior college in Kentfield to San Francisco State College, according to Fire Chief Kenneth T. Kamp.

The six bunk in a neat little dormitory on the second floor of the department's three-year-old station. They must get up at 8 a.m. daily to clean the kitchen, television room, meeting room and their quarters, but this minor irritant doesn't deter applicants, Kamp said.

"I've got a whole file in there full of applications from students wanting to be sleepers," Kamp said pointing to his filing cabinet. "If I had a barracks out back, I could fill it."

It is a good deal for the students, who save rent money and the considerable difficulties of finding a place to live in Marin's tight housing market. But it is also a bargain for the fire department, Kamp said.

The live-in program began in 1961 because the department couldn't enlist enough volunteers otherwise, Kamp said.

Traditionally the manpower shortage for volunteer departments comes during daylight hours because a lot of the volunteers are working, in many cases out of town. However, the Kentfield department has filled this gap in fire protection with college students. Of the 22 volunteers, Kamp said, four are live-ins from College of Marin and four others also attend the college.

"If they are at school and there is a general alarm, they respond to the fire," Kamp said.

Kevin J. Meiswinkel, 19, and Roger W. Backstedt, 20, two of the live-ins, said they have arrangements with their teachers to leave class when the alarm sounds at the station across the street, but have not had to do so to date.

Backstedt has been living at the firehouse since July; Meiswinkel slightly longer. Two others, Victor and Melvin Saulenas, have been volunteers for three or four years, the chief said.

The live-ins cook their own meals at the firehouse and have use of a television set and a pool table. They even have a room set aside for studying.

The live-in volunteers are trained each Tuesday night with the other volunteers and in at least two cases have gone on to become full-time firemen in other departments, Kamp said.

Meiswinkel and Backstedt, both sons of San Francisco firemen, hope to follow in their fathers' footsteps. They are studying fire science at the college as well as learning on the job.

Meiswinkel is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School. Backstedt went to Novato High School.

Backstedt said he has always wanted to be a fireman, but Meiswinkel did not make up his mind until he moved into the firehouse. He said he was studying to be a dentist and as late as the summer was thinking about returning to a four-year college.

However, he said he decided the fireman's life is better than the student's. "The pay is not much, but the people are happy," he said.

12 Jailed In Bookie Raids

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A dozen persons —including an employe of the California Highway Patrol—have been arrested in a crackdown on bookmaking.

Sheriff's deputies and police made the arrests in coordinated raids Saturday. A spokesman for the sheriff's office said the raids broke up gambling operations believed to be grossing $1 million annually.

Most of the gambling, according to authorities, was in illegal football pools, horse racing and major sporting events. The alleged bookmakers were described as "independent operators" by police and not as members of a gambling ring.

Among those arrested was Mrs. Norma Jane Sanders, 44, an auditor with the Highway Patrol, who was taken into custody aboard a converted minesweeper docked on the Sacramento River.

Theft Suspect Due In Court

An 18-year-old Black Point youth, arrested Friday on suspicion of vehicle theft, was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

The California Highway Patrol said Herbert Daniel Rama, of 50 Glenn Road, was stopped by officers at 5:20 p.m. on Glenn Lane. Officers said he was on a motorcycle stolen Wednesday from the William Nelson residence, 187 Crest Road, Black Point.

He was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of vehicle theft and engaging in a speed contest and was held in lieu of 1,350 bail. Officers were unable to say why he was booked on the latter count.

A second youth, Danny Asa Judd, 16, of 1207 Chase Street, Black Point, said by officers to be an accomplice of Rama, was booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall, also on suspicion of vehicle theft.

Extension Of Ferry Plea On Tap

A request by the Golden Gate Bridge District for a 120-day extension of its conditional use permit to operate a ferry to and from Sausalito will be considered by the Sausalito Council at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

The bridge district is seeking the extension to gain more time to complete plans for two ferry terminals, one in downtown Sausalito and another in the Marinship area.

The original permit was granted in July of 1970. Since that time the district has asked for and received several extensions.

The council will also hold a public hearing on an appeal by Joseph Duffel of a planning commission denial of his request for a 12-month extension of a conditional use permit to construct a 431-unit apartment development in Sausalito.

Duffel, whose original permit was issued in February of 1970 and extended for six months in March of this year, hopes to build the development on the site of the old American distillery property in Marinship.

The council will hold a second public hearing on a variance application from Joseph Scoma seeking relief from city off-street parking requirements upon increasing the floor area of Scoma's restaurant by 53 feet and the seating capacity by 16.

RARE OLD FIRE ENGINE

A real antique, this 1922 Arrens Fox fire engine is one of the more rare types of fire engine around. Dr. Harvey L. Carter, of Shreveport, La., who now owns the truck, cleans part of the pump before the engine is towed into a firehouse behind his home where it will be put back into working condition. The truck was found by accident a few weeks ago inside a Longview, Texas, garage.

Court To Rule On Sex Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court agreed today to determine whether California state officials may prohibit live entertainment and films depicting sexual conduct in places holding liquor licenses.

Arguments on a lower court opinion banning such a prohibition will be heard later in the term. A written opinion will follow.

The opinion by a panel of three judges was appealed to the high court by the California Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, which defended its regulations as a proper exercise of the state's police powers.

The panel of three U. S. District Court judges, in a 2-1 opinion handed down on April 7, said the state agency was trying to circumvent U. S. and California Supreme Court decisions defining obscenity.

The lower court said the state could prohibit obscene movies and live entertainment if it could show they were obscene under standards set by the courts. But it said the state department's regulations were prompted by "improper motives" in an effort to make it unnecessary for state officials to get proof of obscenity.

The court said further that the California Supreme Court had held that dancing and live theatric performances were protected by the free speech provisions of the Constitution.

In a brief, state officials disputed the lower court's finding. They contended the lower court had erred in assuming that dancing and entertainment were "speech" and "expression" protected by the First Amendment.

In prohibiting certain sexual conduct in entertainment provided in bars and nightclubs, the state's brief said, the department was merely seeking to prevent conditions resulting in "serious and grave injuries to the public welfare and morals of the people of California."

The brief said the department's regulations prohibited certain "non-verbal acts" on premises licensed to serve liquor. Such prohibited acts included sexual intercourse and other sexual activities as well as films depicting such acts.

Acts and conduct which the department sought to prohibit, the state's brief said, had followed the advent of so-called "topless waitresses" in state-licensed bars and nightclubs. It said the progression "to nudes, to live sexual acts and conduct, and to visual displays (by motion pictures) of such sexual acts and conduct" had resulted in increased "public welfare and morals problems" in places where liquor is sold.

Ackbarri, Fisher Enter Innocent Pleas

John Ackbarri, 33, of Novato, and Rochelle Louis Fisher, 21, of San Rafael, have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of concealing stolen property.

A preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 4.

They are accused of concealing carloads of furniture stolen in San Francisco between April and September this year. San Francisco police said they found some of the loot at Ackbarri's home on Oct. 14.

TOP COURT RULING

States Cannot Hold U.S. Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court declared unanimously today that states using federal funds for aid to dependent children and other social security programs must abide by the eligibility standards set up under federal law.

Specifically, the Court held that Illinois was not entitled to restrict help under the Aid to Dependent Children program to eligible 18 to 20 year olds who attended high school or vocational school but deny it to those attending college.

The Social Security Act allows use of federal funds for needy youths in that age group who are full-time college students. The Health, Education and Welfare Department (HEW) has interpreted the law as not mandatorily listing those who must be included under state programs but merely as a broad definition of those for whom the government was willing to make matching payments.

Illinois authorities argued that the federal law permitted states to vary their eligibility requirements from federal standards.

A special three-judge federal court in Chicago held in April that there was a rational basis for Illinois to distinguish between the different categories of students.

This was reversed by today's Supreme Court opinion. It said there was no basis to believe that Congress gave the states the option of "tailoring" their eligibility standards within a specific group and exclude those entitled to payments under federal standards.

The Court took these other actions:

Refused to hear an appeal from lower court rulings which held that consumers who are victimized by fraudulent advertising or shoddy products are not entitled to sue for damages under a 25-year-old federal law. A group of students from Hempstead, N.Y., brought suit against a ski tour operator under the 1946 Lanham Act which allowed a businessman to obtain damages against an unscrupulous competitor. Lower federal courts ruled the law was designed "exclusively" to protect businessmen even though it says "any person" may sue.

Affirmed an order revoking federal tax exemptions of white academies in Mississippi unless they can establish they are pursuing non-discriminatory racial policies. The lower court order, which had been unsuccessfully appealed twice before to the Supreme Court, was challenged by Dan Coit, a white parent from Meridian whose children were sent to an all-white academy. A three-judge appeals court held that such schools are denied tax exemption on their profits if they perpetuate segregation nor can parents or other donors claim deductions on their income taxes for payments made to the schools.

The challenge of the Illinois law was brought to the high court by Georgia Townsend and Loverta Alexander of Chicago, whose children attended junior colleges.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr., in delivering the unanimous decision, noted that Illinois state officials claimed that Congress authorized states to vary eligibility requirements from federal standards.

"Our examination of the legislative history has uncovered no evidence that Congress granted the asserted authority," Brennan declared. "On the contrary, we are persuaded that the history supports the conclusion that Congress meant to continue financial assistance for AFDC programs for the age group only in states that conformed their eligibility requirements to the federal eligibility standards."

"There is no legislative history," Brennan added, "to support the proposition that Congress also gave to the individual states an option to tailor eligibility standards within the age group, and thus exclude children eligible under the federal standards."

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said in a separate concurring opinion that in some instances "Congress has used the 'power of the purse' to force states to adhere to its wishes to a certain extent."

But he said state participation under the social security act was not mandatory and the only question to be considered was "whether the state has indeed adhered to the provisions and is accordingly entitled to utilize federal funds in support of its program. I agree that the answer to that inquiry in this case must be in the negative."

Carmen McRae To Sing Here

Singer Carmen McRae will make her first Marin appearance with two New Year's Eve performances at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The two shows, at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m., will feature songs from 1945, according to the show's producer, Melvin L. Goldblatt of Tiburon.

Each performance will last about 80 minutes, he said.

The singer has appeared all over the world and on television, but never before in Marin.

Tickets went on sale today at the Marin Civic Center auditorium's box office at Macy's, at Greyhound terminals in Novato, Mill Valley and Petaluma, and at other box offices in San Francisco, Oakland and Sonoma County.

Cook County Hearing Barred

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI)— The Illinois Supreme Court Friday barred a planned Cook County criminal court hearing to determine whether a special prosecutor exerted undue pressure on grand jurors to indict state's attorney Edward V. Hanrahan and 13 others on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice.

The court, on a 4-3 vote, upheld the contention of prosecutor Barnabas Sears that criminal court Judge Philip Romiti would violate the sanctity of the grand jury if he allowed defense attorney to question grand jurors in court.

The ruling was a setback for Hanrahan, political protege of Chicago mayor Richard J. Daley, in his court battle to quash the charges that he, an assistant state's attorney and 12 policemen conspired to cover up the facts of a police raid in which Black Panther leaders Fred Hampton and Mark Clark were killed on Dec. 4, 1969.

INVITE FRIENDS for brunch and serve them elegant leftovers. Cubed turkey or chicken in a rich wine sauce surrounded by delicate crepes, makes a marvelous Brunch Casserole. Pour plenty of sparkling champagne and you have a party.

FOR A BRUNCH PARTY

Crepes, Casserole, Wine Sauce

A midday brunch makes a good change-of-pace party. Preparations are not as elaborate as those for lunch often are. Brunch can be a good starting point for an afternoon activity. And it offers a good excuse to fix a dish that's a little out of the ordinary - and to pop the top on some champagne.

A casserole of chicken or turkey-filled crepes is delicious to eat and easy to make. The thin French pancakes are baked in a small skillet from a simple batter which you can make in your blender or by hand. Delicate as they seem, the crepes are hearty enough to spend the night in the refrigerator if you find it convenient to make them the day before the brunch.

The creamy filling is a good way to use up leftover turkey or chicken. Cubed, sauced and flavored with sauterne, it's barely recognizable as the bird which graced the festive board a few days ago. With canned mushroom soup, mayonnaise, and chicken stock base to speed things along, the rich sauce only tastes as if you've been cooking since dawn to please your guests.

BRUNCH CASSEROLE

(Serves 6)

1 can cream of mushroom soup (10½ oz.)
½ cup sauterne
½ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon chicken stock base
½ teaspoon basil, crushed
¼ teaspoon celery salt
Dash pepper
3½ cups diced cooked turkey or chicken (1-inch cubes)
2 tablespoons diced pimiento
10 (6-inch) crepes

Turn undiluted soup into saucepan, and stir in sauterne, mayonnaise, chicken stock base, basil, celery salt and pepper, and stir over moderate heat until smooth. Add turkey and pimiento and mix well. Line a shallow 1-quart baking dish with crepes, letting them turn out over edge of dish. Fill center with turkey mixture. Fold crepes loosely over top. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees) about 25 minutes, until thoroughly heated.

Crepes: Combine two eggs, two-thirds cup milk, one-half cup sifted all-purpose flour, two tablespoons melted butter or margarine, and one-half teaspoon salt and beat until smooth. Heat a seven-inch crepe pan, and brush lightly with butter. Turn in two tablespoons batter, and tilt quickly to spread over bottom of pan. Cook over moderate heat until top is set and bottom lightly browned. Turn out, and repeat until all batter is baked. Crepes may be made a day ahead, layered with squares of waxed paper between, and placed in a plastic bag in refrigerator. Makes about 10 to 12 crepes.

Your favorite fruit salad makes a good go-along with the brunch casserole. Or fix a spicy compote of fresh and dried fruits sparked with sauterne or port.

Creole Nut Treat For Coffees

In the bayou country of south Louisiana, the hospitality of the holidays in many families is extended with the simple pleasure of coffee and cake. A traditional favorite of the area is in the recipe below for Creole Pecan Cake with Brown Sugar Frosting.

CREOLE PECAN CAKE

This has been a holiday favorite with Southern families for many years, delightful to serve with chicory coffee.

¾ cup butter
2 cups sugar
3 egg yolks
3 cups cake flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
6 egg whites
1¼ cups pecans, chopped
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves

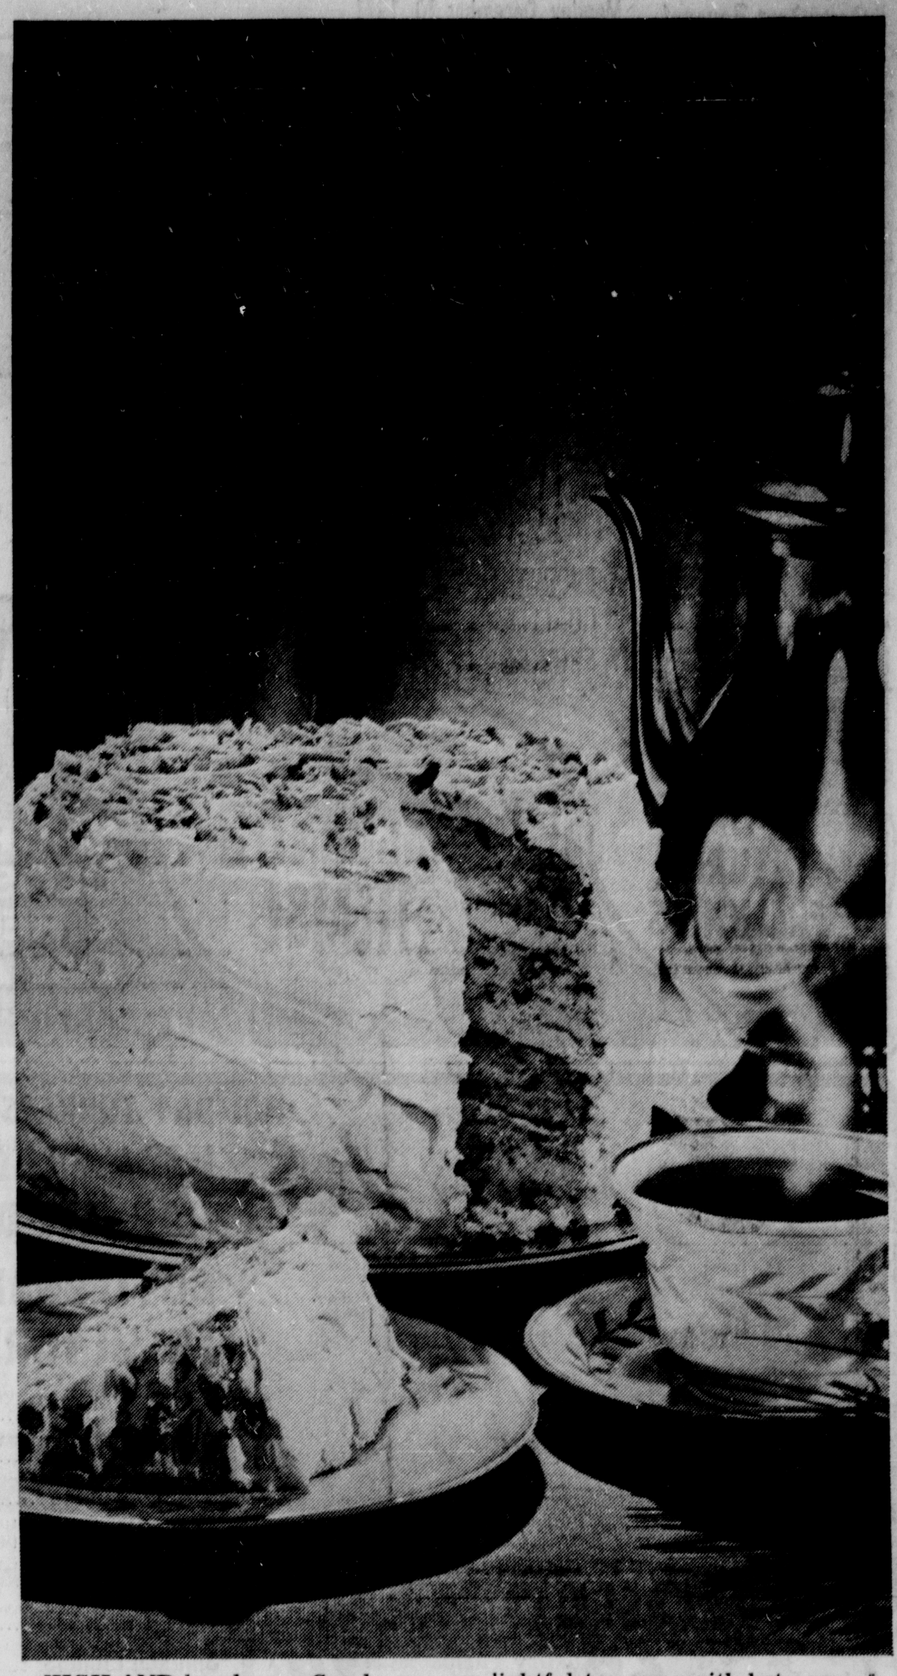
Cream butter, gradually add 2 cups sugar. Cream together well. Beat in egg yolks. Sift flour three times - the last time with the salt and baking powder. Add to mixture alternately with milk and vanilla. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Now, divide dough mixture in half. Add chopped pecans to one half dough. Add cinnamon and cloves to remaining half. Grease and flour four 8-inch round layer pans. (Put nut batter in two pans, spice batter in the other two.) Bake at 375 degrees 25 to 30 minutes. Frost when cool with the following:

BOILED BROWN SUGAR FROSTING

Boil four cups brown sugar and one-half cup water water just past the soft ball stage. Beat into stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Add one teaspoon vanilla. After frosting sprinkle top and sides of cake with finely chopped pecans.

Dry Milk Idea

Added nutrition needed for hurry-up-and-go youngsters? Add equal quantities of non-fat dry milk and cereal when preparing hot cereal for an extra nutritious breakfast.



HIGH AND handsome Creole pecan cake with brown sugar frosting, a Southern favorite, is delightful to serve with hot cups of chicory coffee.

A COOK'S REPUTATION can be built on a steamed cranberry pudding, yet the secret to success with this holiday favorite is yours for the trying. Plenty of fresh cranberries, packaged mincemeat and a judicious eye on the clock while it steams in the oven are the chief ingredients for this dramatic dessert. Serve warm with hard sauce; add a bright garnish of candied cranberries.

Cranberry Pudding Is Elegant For Yule Dinner

For those with an eye for the traditional and the elegant, here is the finish to your Christmas dinner.

CRANBERRY MINCEMEAT PUDDING

(Makes eight servings)

2 cups boiling water
2 cups fresh cranberries, halved, rinsed and drained
1 package (9 ounces) concentrated mincemeat, crumbled
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup molasses
3½ cups sifted regular all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking soda

Combine water, cranberries and mincemeat; let stand 10 minutes. Cream butter, then stir in sugar and molasses. Sift dry ingredients and stir into butter alternately with cranberry mixture, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Pour mixture into a greased 2½-quart mold.

Cover with greased lid or foil. Bake at 350 degrees for about one and one-half hours or until pudding tests done. (Cake tester inserted in center will come out clean.) Cool in mold about 15 minutes, then tap to loosen and unmold on a serving platter.

Serve warm with hard sauce, garnished with spiced or candied cranberries, if desired.

Late? Try This Quick Fruit Cake

If you're late in making your fruit cakes this year, this recipe is the one for your. It mellows quickly, so it will be at its flavorful best in a very few days, When baked in muffin tins, instead of in one large cake, this batter produces rich little confections called fruitcake bon bons.

FRUITCAKE BON BONS

(Makes 4 dozen tiny cakes, 1 loaf cake.)

1½ cups raisins
1½ cups currants
1½ cups candied cherries
1½ cups candied pineapple
1½ cups citron
1 cup pitted dates
2 cups pecans
½ cup California Port
¾ cup soft butter or margarine
1 cup dark brown sugar
3 teaspoons cinnamon
1½ Teaspoons nutmeg
½ teaspoon allspice
½ teaspoon ginger
3 eggs, well beaten
2¼ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup molasses
1 cup (10-oz. jar) strawberry jam

Rinse and drain raisins and currants; quarter cherries; thinly slice pineapple, citron and dates; chop pecans. Pour on wine and mix well with fruits and nuts; set aside. Cream butter, sugar and spices together until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs thoroughly. Resift flour with baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture; blend in molasses and jam. Add fruit mixture and stir until well combined. Spoon about 5 cups batter into a well greased and floured 8½ x 4½ x 2¾ inch loaf pan. Spoon remaining batter (about 3 cups) into tiny well greased muffin tins 1¾ x ¾ inches. Bake loaf in a slow oven (300 degrees), two and one-half hours; bake tiny cakes about one hour.

Marin Women

Monday, December 20, 1971 Independent-Journal, 19

IDENTICAL WAILS were let out by 2-year-old twins Melissa and Stephanie Clark when hoisted to Santa's knee. The pair were among the twins at the Christmas party given by the Marin Mothers of Twins Club in Novato. They are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Clark. Santa Claus (Edward Weber of Novato) took the tears in stride.

GIRLS FROM the YWCA Youth Program in Marin made cookies for the "Sweet Shop" they ran at the Holiday Fair of the YWCA in San Francisco. Here a trio — Debby Friedman, Cheri Bell and Carol Anderson — get the cookie baking underway at Cheri's home in Sleepy Hollow. Girls from the Marin City Y Debs also participated in the "Sweet Shop".

AHOY: SANTA arrives by boat to bring gifts and Christmas cheer to the youngsters during the Loch Lomond Yacht Club's Christmas party for children. Santa's arrival by water has become a Yuletide tradition for yacht club children in Marin.

A HOLIDAY house tour to benefit the junior class of St. Vincent de Paul High School of Petaluma was held yesterday in Petaluma. Seen here is Dr. and Mrs. John Bihn's formal living room decorated for Christmas week. One of five homes on the tour, the two story, Victorian house at 920 D Street was built in 1879 and contains 23 rooms.

CATHOLIC COMMUNITY Service of Petaluma sponsored "A Visit to Santa's Cottage" last week for the public. Treats for the children, a wishbook and pictures with Santa were available to visitors. Andrew Crinella, left, is reminding Santa he wants a toy while his brother, Peter Crinella, is offered a cookie by Mrs. William Bianchini, Santa's helper. The boys are sons of Dr. and Mrs. Francis Crinella of Petaluma.

FOOD FADDISM

Nutritionists At Fault?

By FREDRICK J. STARE, M.D., CHAIRMAN, AND CYNTHIA FORD, M.S.
Department of Nutrition
Harvard University

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Why is food faddism flourishing with millions being spent on health foods and phony diet schemes? Highly successful food and nutrition columnist Dr. Frederick J. Stare has produced a series of five articles analyzing the current craze. In his first installment he warns against the hazards of following food faddists whose claims have no supporting scientific evidence.)

For years nutritionists have emphasized the importance of diet for good health. Now people are concerned. America seems to have discovered nutrition. While many people are beginning to realize the importance of consuming certain essential nutrients, they are unsure of just which nutrients they may lack, how much of each they need and just what they do.

Unfortunately nutrition education has not been very successful in providing answers to these questions. Concern, without knowledge, creates an atmosphere in which the quack or food faddist most effectively functions. Quick to capitalize on the slightest public interest, he adapts scientific information to suit his personal whims and for profit.

A faddist, according to Webster, is "one who indulges in fads." And a fad is defined as "a silly thing, followed for a time with an exaggerated zeal."

A QUACK, according to Webster, is "a boastful pretender to medical skill, a medical charlatan. One who professes skill or knowledge in any matter of which he knows little or nothing." Why do so many people turn to quackery instead of to common sense nutrition?

Quackery directs its appeal to the emotions rather than to the intellect and offers both a promise of hope and the apparent understanding of the victim's needs. Not all who succumb to the lure of the quack are ill. Many are suffering from emotional upsets that manifest themselves in an overconcern for their physical health. A basic fear or uncertainty is usually present, whether real or neurotic. Food is a means by which many individuals seek temporary releif.

Eating habits are deeply rooted in our past. In early childhood food becomes associated with security. When one is physically sick and/or emotionally upset, childish feelings frequently return and the person is easily vulnerable to the faddist's appeal. Assurances, even "guarantees" to "protect," "strengthen" or to "purify" suddenly become significant.

FAD DIETS may appear to offer a shortcut to health, playing upon superstition, personal fetishes or the ever-continuing search for youth. Dissatisfaction with one's image may cause a person to fall prey to the faddist who convinces his followers that he alone can provide the "magic" formula for beauty and success.

For those facing serious or fatal illness, the allure of the quack may represent an attempt, however futile, to do something in a positive way — to seek improvement or to find new hope — beyond that which medical science can provide.

Easy for the faddist and quack is the task of assigning magical curative powers for a wide variety of essential nutrients. Hard for the scientist is the task of establishing proof of such power. Quick to capitalize on the scientific tenet that requires careful verification of data, the pseudoscientist utilizes the advantage of being able to extol the virtues of a food or nutrient without a shred of proof.

This allows the food cultist to make extravagant claims which, though completley unproved, make him appear to have some vast secret knowledge of which nutritional or medical scientists either choose to ignore or have not yet discovered.

The self-styled nutritional expert can promote miraculous cures for nearly any condition or disease and imply that many special foods have magical properties over and above their nutritional value. He frequently has the pills or the foods for sale.

THE PSEUDOHEALTH specialists, as well as those who collect and promote their teachings, are doing you no service. The valuable time and money wasted in following their silly advice serves only to delay people from receiving adequate medical treatment that might spare their suffering or save their lives. These quasi-scientific experts prey on the emotions of people, already fearful of illness or even death, and who are willing to try anything that offers even a hint of cure.

Proponents of food faddism can count many individuals from all income groups among their followers. A fad is usually followed only for a time, but then another one comes along. While new approaches in nutrition education can play a part, along with improved social and economic conditions, further understanding of elementary behavior patterns will help deter a person from following the quack.

Nutritionists may have depended too much on a factual approach and have not presented nutritional information in terms of personal needs.

We're not out to sell a cause — only to expose some myths and methods common to the faddist and the quack. From this you may be better able to evaluate their claims and to determine, for yourself, their merits.

Canada Trip Follows Nicol-Saunders Rites

Stephanie Page Saunders of Larkspur and Robert Stewart Nicol of Mill Palley were married Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Saunders, in Greenbrae.

The bride's sister, Sharon G. Shope of Corte Madera, was matron of honor, and Barrett W. Nicol of San Anselmo was his brother's best man.

Following a reception at the Saunders' home the couple left on a wedding trip to British Columbia, Canada. They will live in Larkspur.

Stephanie was graduated from Redwood High School and attends College of Marin and Sonoma State College. She is employed by Red Robin Caterers. Stuart D. Saunders of Travis Air Force Base is her brother.

Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur D. Nicol of San Anselmo. He was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School, attended College of Marin and is a student at Sonoma State College. He is employed by White Glove Maintenance in San Rafael and Red Robin Caterers. Stephen O. Nicol, who is in the Navy, is also his brother.

San Diego Is Site For Marriage Rite

The Kensington Community Church in San Diego was the setting for the marriage Saturday afternoon of Kathryn Kopf of San Diego, formerly of Mill Valley, and Craig Schroers of San Diego. A reception was held at the church immediately after the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Brown of Nairobi, Kenya, East Africa, formerly of Mill Valley, and the parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schroers of San Diego. Mrs. Brown flew from Nairobi for the wedding.

Kathy Schroers of San Diego, the bridegroom's sister, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. John H. Griffin Jr. of San Diego and Janet Oates of Mill Valley, the bride's sisters.

Best man was Larry Ayo of Lemon Grove. Ushers were Dave Flock of San Diego and Dave Barkin of Beverly Hills.

After a wedding trip to Sun Valley, Idaho, the couple will live in San Diego.

A graduate of Redwood High School, the bride attended Tamalpais High School and San Diego State College. She is employed with John Lenore and Co. in San Diego. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Ruth Doud of Nairobi, formerly of Mill Valley.

The bridegroom was graduated from Crawford High School in San Diego, attended San Diego State College and is employed with Stanley Andrews in San Diego.

Ross Family Spending Holidays In Mexico

By MOLLY MARIN

Mr. and Mrs. William Richardson of Ross and their four children are in La Paz, Mexico, and will spend Christmas there with Mrs. Richardson's parents, who have come from Cincinnati.

The Richardsons, who will return the day after Christmas plan a New Year's Eve party for friends and neighbors. Children are invited in the early evening for refreshments and a pinata breaking and then will return home. Their parents will stay for dinner and champagne at midnight.

THE WEEKEND was a busy one for holiday party-goers. Many Marin families opened their homes to relatives, friends and neighbors, sharing the warmth of the festive season ...

Forty-four guests at a punch bowl party Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stotter in Tiburon enjoyed the sophisticated humor of an adult puppet show ...

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Middendorf celebrated their first Christmas in Tiburon's Reedlands by giving an open house for 36 neighbors yesterday afternoon ...

The John Burnhams of Mill Valley also had an open house yesterday and hosted friends from the entire Bay Area ...

Yachting friends and neighbors were invited for cocktails Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Witzel to their home in Belvedere ...

Also hosts at a cocktail party Saturday were Dr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of Mill Valley ...

Mrs. Harrison Leppo entertained a group of friends at a luncheon Friday at her home in Mill Valley ...

And a party held Wednesday at the Belvedere Tennis Club for the team mates of Mrs. Judy Haskins expanded to a gather for 60 friends who later had a cocktail buffet at Mrs. Haskin's home in Belvedere.

PLANS FOR next weekend include a Boxing Day open house for 75 friends, relatives and neighbors Sunday from 4 to 7 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Quinn Jr. in Tiburon.

The host's father, Cmdr. (ret.) David Quinn of Washington, D.C., will be the guest of honor.

Boxing Day is a traditional British holiday. It began in Medieval England when peasants were given the day after Christmas as a day off. The lord of the manors, who had celebrated on Christmas Day, boxed up leftovers and gave them to the servants.

PARTIES PLANNED for the New Year's weekend include a buffet dinner on New Year's Eve at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Denis Rice in Tiburon.

Members of the San Francisco Yacht Club are planning a New Year's Eve party featuring dancing, snacks, steaks and breakfast and will come in a variety of dress to the party at the clubhouse in Belvedere.

Vows Are Repeated In Denver

Frederic dePeyster Teller III of Ross wed Carol J. Haasis of Davis on Sunday in a ceremony at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Denver, Colo. A reception followed at the Cherry Creek Inn in Denver.

The bride's attendants were Kate Lawson of San Diego, Johnni Prince of St. Louis, Mo., and Michele Stone of Kentfield. The bridegroom's brother-in-law, Joseph Stone of Kentfield, was best man.

Carol is the daughter of Lt. Col. (ret.) and Mrs. L. C. Haasis of Denver. She was graduated from Drury College and is a graduate student at the University of California at Davis.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic dePeyster Teller of Ross. He was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and U.C. at Davis. Frederic is the brother of Mrs. Joseph Stone of Kentfield, Peter Ivancovich Teller of Hawaii and Anne Ornani of Bologna, Italy.

The couple will live in the Bay Area.

Seattle Church Is Scene Of Wedding

Jill C. Yates of Kirkland, Wash., became the bride of Joseph C. Tafoya of Espanola, N.M., Saturday in a ceremony at Blessed Sacrament Church in Seattle, Wash.

Mrs. Jaxan Christensen of San Carlos was matron of honor, and bridesmaid was Mary Pearson of Seattle. Francis Tafoya of Espanola was his brother's best man, and another brother of the bridegroom, Leon Tafoya, also of Espanola, ushered.

A reception in the parish hall of the church followed the ceremony.

Jill is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School. She is employed by the U.S. Office of Education in Seattle. Jeff S. Yates of San Anselmo is her brother.

Joseph was graduated from high school in Santa Fe, N.M., and attended New Mexico Highlands University. Charles Tafoya of Alburquerque, N.M., and Gilbert Tafoya of Espanola are also his brothers.

The newlyweds are living in Seattle.

Ham, Chive Dip

For a tasty chip or cracker dip, combine finely diced ready-to-serve meat, ham or dried beef with sour cream and chopped chives.

Sour Cream

Use dairy sour cream as a topping or dressing for fruits and vegetables; in a sauce or gravy for poultry and meat. Experiment by adding different seasonings you may rarely use. Try a touch of dill weed, a sprinkle of celery seed with a dab of honey, or a spoonful of chili sauce for starters.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Sunday School Mishaps Irk Grandmother Dressmaker

DEAR HELEN:

I spend days making beautiful dresses for my granddaughter and love seeing her look pretty.

But after a trip to Sunday school, she comes home with a ruined dress. Why do Sunday school teachers feel children must have orangeade, grape juice — food or drink that permanently stains clothes? After all, they are only there for an hour or so, and they get food at home. — GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA:

If you can't turn off the juice (after all, fruit drinks are good for kids) then how about sending along a plastic dress protector with your granddaughter? It would come in handy for other Sunday school activities too — youngsters no longer sit quietly and listen to Bible verses these days. They participate! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Each time I read about another appropriation for some idiotic thing or some monumental mistake that has cost us taxpayers money, I think: if over half our congressmen and senators were women, I'll bet the country would not be running in the red. This goes for state and local government, too.

Women are budgeters. They like to get their money's worth, and they are sharp bargainers. They also, for the most part, see how ridiculous it is to throw good money after bad — and they wouldn't be so susceptible to lobbyists for they've had great experience in "seeing through" men's little con games.

If women would only start trusting other women, they could join forces and elect female candidates — for we surpass men in population as well as brains. Come on, gals, get political! And men, if you want your taxes lowered, vote for women! — LEAGUE MEMBER

DEAR MEMBER:

I'm all for the women in politics — but before we can vote for them, we must persuade them to run for office. Many won't — though they are highly qualified — because they're convinced a woman can't win that their own sex won't stand behind them.

Until we females learn to see each other as persons, not adversaries, we haven't got much chance at the polls.

. . . Pity! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm the confused and frustrated wife of a man I recently learned is a homosexual.

He is a devoted father (we have three lovely children), a good provider, and appears very masculine in every way. I couldn't ask for a better husband — and I continue to love him — but, though he's tried psychiatry and prayer, and has continuing affection for me, he can't change.

He has tired to make me understand his feelings. He goes once a week. All other times, he is a devoted family man.

When I first learned about it, we separated. Now we're back together, for I realize how much the children and I need him. They were devastated when he left — and of course they'll never know why. To them, he's the greatest Dad of all.

Presently, we're "just friends." My husband is very good to me. I know I could never be happy with another man, for my whole life revolves around him and the children. I can't hate him. But can I continue to live this way ? And am I the only wife in the world with this problem? — CONFUSED WIFE

DEAR WIFE:

More wives than you realize face this situation — and many, like you, stay with it — for the same reasons which brought you and your husband together again.

The question you may ask yourself is: "Can I live with my problem or will it eventually destroy me?" If the good in your life outweighs the misery, then perhaps you can — but only you can make the decision. — H.

Christmas Trees Need Special Coat

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — It is an unfortunate fact that the number of household fires goes up every Christmas because of the extra fire hazards presented by holiday decorations.

Some accidents will happen regardless of all precautions taken. But many mishaps could be prevented and much damage could be avoided if certain simple precautions are taken.

One of the simplest and most effective steps is to reduce the flammability of the Christmas tree by letting it sit in a special solution. Tests conducted by the National Fire Protection Association have proven the value of the solution.

THE FORMULA is relatively simple: To one gallon of boiling water, add and mix four teaspoons of chlorinated bleach, two cups of light sugar syrup and four tablespoons of micronized iron. The last item is availabel at most garden supply stores, florists and hardware outlets.

For best results, the trunk should be cut again at the base and slashed freely with a hatchet in order to open up the fibers. The tree also should be allowed to stand in the solution, starting out hot, for about 12 hours before decorating is begun.

The discoverer of the process is Harold C. Cook of Dixon, Ill. He says the formula not only reduces the fire hazard but makes a tree look better and last longer.

He explains that the bleach keeps the water fresh without formation of algae, the syrup acts like glycerine in the preserving process and the micronized iron activates elements in the tissues of the tree and tends to keep the needles soft and pliable.

Another way to reduce the fire hazard is to coat the tree with a flame retardant. But neither method would be likely to eliminate any fire hazard, only reduce the possibility. Some artificial trees — but not all — are resistant to flames.

Even a metal tree can present a shock hazard when trimmed with electric lights, according to the Fire Journal, a monthly publication of the NFPA.

SOME LIGHTS are safer than others. Perhaps the least hazardous are the miniature bulbs that often come in the shape of tiny candles. They use less electricity than larger bulbs and can thus burn at lower temperatures. This reduces the chance of fire if a piece of tinsel makes an electric contact.

But the wire should be relatively heavy, according to experts on the subject at Underwriters' Laboratories Inc., home of the famed "UL" seal that signifies that products bearing it meet certain safety standards. Make sure that any artificial tree or set of lights has a "UL" tag.

UL experts also caution against stringing too many sets of lights together on one circuit. No more than 10 strings of eight miniature lights (80 bulbs in all) or 50 of the regular (7.5-watt) bulbs should be combined on a single electric socket.

Overloading can increase wire temperatures to the point where insulation is melted away. This process may occur gradually and may not become known until a shock or fire results.

Columnist Clarifies Indictment Target

The indictment for mail fraud in selling magazines, described in the Smart Shopper column for Dec. 8, was directed against a franchise of the Hearst Corp., not the corporation itself.

The franchise is International Magazine Service of Mid-Atlantic, Inc., based in Baltimore, Md., according to the columnist Arthur E. Rowse.

DANCE REVIEW

Fine 'Nutcracker' By Civic Ballet

By MARIE RAMEAU

Marin Civic Ballet is getting bigger and better all the time, as measured by the opening of its annual "Nutcracker" yesterday at Marin Veterans' Memorial Auditorium. An enthusiastic, near-capacity audience, some coming from as far away as Berkeley, also indicated that this young, growing company is finally beginning to get the support it deserves and needs.

The Christmas party of scene one was well put together, the pantomime being well co-ordinated and the production itself smoothly integrated with the action on stage. The little ones were well-rehearsed as the children, and were lively in their dancing and acting.

The Harlequin (Craig Randolph) and Columbines (Mindy Jones, Christina Rolling and Michelle Shibata) were pert and precise, even though the latter were difficult to see from my seat toward the side. The petite heroine Clara (Michelle Sabella) and her naughty brother Fritz (Lauren Doyle) were particularly spirited, with never a pause in their animated movements. Being merely youngsters, too, they related surprisingly well to the rest of the cast.

Unfortunately a lighting and sound gap marred the potentially fluent transition from the party scene to the snow scene, with which the first act ends. Even larger companies must often solve this built-in problem by the use of extra scenery so that the audience isn't left wondering in the dark. It was not a serious shortcoming, and was soon followed by the enchantingly wintry snow forest designed by Charles Hoeppner.

The corps de ballet as snowflakes were quite light, although not being on pointe somewhat diminished this interlude's other-worldliness. As they did not dance much, they did not quite succeed in evoking the image of a flurry of snowflakes in a soft, yet blizzardy snowfall. Their arm movements, however, were beautifully coached, combining numerous ports de bras with changing directions of the body.

With the Snow pas de deux I was less happy. Kathi McCormick as the snow queen, with her splendid extensions and classical lines, could have provided more brilliance, and I would have enjoyed her performance more if she had not looked so careful. With a little more warmth and abandon, she could be a very exciting dancer. Charles Perrier as the snow prince gave the part his cool, reserved best and was completely at ease, due to his outstanding skill as a partner and a strong stage presence.

Act two was somewhat brief, but I applauded until my hands were sore for two very professional-looking young ballerinas, Cynthia Harvey and Jane Thelen. The latter was seen only later in the principal role of the sugar plum fairy, but the former introduced the act as the soloist who subsequently dazzled the audience with her leaps in the "Waltz of the Flowers." Miss Harvey is an up-and-coming artist of exceptional talent, who projects a joyousness through everything she dances. With her fine placement and huge arches, too, she should soon be a spectacular performer.

Some very theatrical and exciting divertissements followed — Spanish, Chinese, Arabian, Russian, Ribbon Candy and a Circus to top it all. The Spanish dancers (Debbie Farb, Martha Fietz and Bridget Mullens) gave their fiery number all the style and temperament it needs, and the delicate Ribbon Candy dolls (Jody Martin and Laura Przetak) displayed refined, intricate pointe work in the catchy steps of this "Nutcracker" favorite.

At last came the demanding pas de deux of the sugar plum fairy and her Prince Charming (Jane Thelen and David White). Miss Thelen has come a long way since I first saw her last year, and she attacked both pas de deux and variation with the utmost assurance and grace. White was also very professional, with never a flaw in their many lifts and turns, and he rendered his own variation with brilliance and aplomb. Both these dancers are also unusually musical, as evidenced by their split-second timing in the fireworks of the coda.

One aim of this company is to bridge the gap between the ballet school and the professional performing company, and judging from yesterday's performance, they are well on their way to fulfilling this goal. Marin Civic Ballet's "Nutcracker" will be repeated tomorrow at the Veterans' Auditorium at 2 p.m. matinee.

Resigned Nixon Aide To ABC Post

NEW YORK (UPI) —Eugene S. Cowen, who resigned last week as a deputy assistant to President Nixon, was elected Sunday as a vice president of the American Broadcasting Co.

Cowen will head the Washington, D.C. office for the broadcasting division, replacing Alfred R. Beckman, who is retiring.

PLAY WILL BE SATIRE ON SUPERVISORS

A satirical play about the Marin County Board of Supervisors will be presented by Marin Alternative Dec. 29 when the group celebrates its first birthday.

The musical review, "B.O.S. Superstars," by Judy Ainsworth of San Anselmo, will debut at 9 p.m. at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley. Preceding the show will be a refreshments hours.

The cast includes David Zakim as Papa John (John F. McInnis), Stewart N. Boxer as Pistol Pete (Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.), Parland R. Johnstone as Bud Bark (Louis H. Baar), Kenneth Howard as Sir Michael (Michael Wornum,) Dennis R. Beall as Fair-Haired Arnold (Arnold Baptiste, Lewis W. Stewart as Doug Malarkey (County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney) and Richard R. Seminario as Sheriff Lou (Louis P. Mountanos, county sheriff.)

Admission will be free to members, but there will be a charge for nonmembers, according to Mrs. Johnstone, corresponding secretary of the group.

Blacks In Israel May Be Deported

JERUSALEM (UPI)—A government official said today self-styled members of the American Black Hebrewite Nation could appeal deportation orders served on them Sunday within three days.

"They have to go to the supreme court," an Interior Ministry spokesman said, "They have three days to do so."

The spokesman said Interior Minister Joseph Burg signed deportation orders on Friday.

The orders apply to eight American Negro familes who arrived in Israel in October and received one-month tourist visas, but failed to renew them.

Burg said deportation orders soon would be served on seven more such families that were detained Sunday on charges of taking up residence in a restricted military area. They had lived in Jericho, in the occupied west bank of the Jordan.

$1.12 Million Robbery Gang Knew The Bank's Operation

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI)—The four "polite" bandits who staged Canada's biggest bank robbery—$1,129,000 in Canadian and U.S. curency--apparently new the operation of the Royal Bank of Canada down to the smallest detail.

The four, wearing ski masks and brightly colored coveralls, were in and out of the downtown bank in less than 15 minutes Saturday morning and had a 90-minute headstart on police. The best clue police had today was the green station wagon they were seen in after leaving through a side entrance.

"It was a high professional job," said Police Chief Gordon Preston. "These men knew exactly where to go, and exactly what to do. The whole thing had obviously been planned well in advance."

The $1,129,000 was the receipts of the Windsor Raceway which normally draws large crowds from Detroit and neighboring U.S. cities across the Detroit River. The bandits missed another $800,000 which had already been counted and put in a vault in the bank which was not open for public business.

The four, once in the bank, did not refer to each other by name, but rather by the numbers "one" through "four".

"This thing was beautifully planned. There's no question about that," said Preston. A number of houses here were searched and a number of persons "who could have been involved in this type of crime" were questioned, Preston added.

It was the biggest cash theft in Canadian history. A robbery in 1970 from a Toronto bank netted $6.7 million in nonnegotiable bonds and $1.2 million in bonds was taken from a Montreal bank in 1965. The money in both those holdups was recovered.

Despite being robbed, the bank empgoyees—11 women and two men—had praise for how polite the men were.

"They could have done anything to to us, but they were very nice," said employe Coleen Bielich, 20, of Windsor. She said they joked with the women and wished them a merry Christmas before taking them upstairs and handcuffing them to water pipes.

The bank's manager, Kenneth Moore, walked into the middle of the robbery and thought one of the four men serving as a lookout outside the counting room was an employe. Then the man pulled down his stocking mask which had been partially lifted and Moore saw his gun.

"They were very polite to me," Moore said.

The four apparently knew the receipts from the track were to be delivered by armored truck at 9:30. They showed up five minutes after it left. They entered the bank building without being challenged, apparently with keys that got them through two locked doors and into the counting room. There the women — hired specifically to work on Saturday mornings when the track receipts were brought to the bank—were counting the money and stacking it.

Sex Perversion Innocent Plea

William Thomas Hutchings, 28, of Woodacre, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of sex perversion and indecent exposure.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set Jan. 11 for a preliminary hearing.

Hutchings was arrested Dec. 7 and charged with committing lewd acts upon a 13-year-old girl in San Anselmo last March and exposing himself to an 11-year-old girl in San Rafael on Nov. 21.

Tactics 'Appall' Young Mayor

NEWCOMERSTOWN, Ohio (UPI) — Ron Hooker, the teenage mayor-elect of this community of 4,300, says he has turned down bribes and job offers of up to $28,000-a-year since he won last November's election.

The 19-year-old college student, who was elected by a landslide write-in vote last November, will be sworn in tonight. He says he is shocked and appalled by such practices.

"I've been approached by people offering me money to see that something was done," he said Sunday. "People have offered me money to mention their names during interviews and things of this sort.

"Well, I didn't do it and I'm not going to do it. I couldn't believe it happened. It shocked me. I was appalled."

Thief Smashes Window, Takes Cash

A San Rafael youth told Corte Madera police yesterday that a thief smashed a window of his car and took his wallet and $120 in cash from the front seat late Saturday.

Thomas W. Magliulo of 170 Alpine Drive told the police the theft occurred between 9 p.m. and midnight while he attended a function at the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

HOMEWARD BOUND — Four-year old Dana Wagner leads parents Ron and Carol Wagner out of the thicket, heading home with the trophy of their annual hunt: a Christmas tree. Unlike many families the Wagners search for a tree was a matter of a few minutes this week, questions of size and shape vanishing on sight of this five-footer at the Bolinas Bay Christmas Tree Ranch.

Selecting A Tree In Stinson Beach

By PAT ANGLE

Like Santa Claus, Charles E. Hancock of Stinson Beach spends all year preparing for Christmas.

His "workshop" is the Bolinas Bay Christmas Tree Ranch, a verdant stand of pines, firs and redwoods nestled in the hills above the Bolinas Lagoon about two miles north of Stinson on Highway 1.

Although tree hunters come to the ranch from as far away as the East Bay, according to Hancock, the trip was only a hop, skip and a jump for the Ronald Wagner family of Stinson Beach who had just arrived for their first tree cutting expe-rience.

"In the past, we've always bought live trees and planted them, but now our yard is being overtaken by old Christmas trees," Mrs. Wagner said with a smile.

The Wagners found plenty of trees to choose from since the personable Hancock said a year's worth of weeding, trimming and spraying has paid off in a bumper crop of trees.

As the big holiday approaches, an almost steady stream of persons makes its way to the ranch, all inspired to choose and cut their own trees.

On clear, crisp December weekends, Hancock said the graveled entrace to the ranch resembles a supermarket parking lot with a definitely festive air as as many as 200 persons set off into the hills in search of the perfect tree.

Hancock and his crew of four, which includes his two sons, Mike and Dries, hand out saws and maps and give directions to the choicest stands of various kinds of pines and firs, but he tries to stay away from families choosing their "green things."

The selection of Christmas trees can be a pretty controversial matter, Hancock said with a grin, and there can be heated discussion about the merits of one tree over another. "I try to stay out of fights," he said with a laugh. "Whenever I hear loud voices in the distance, I make it a policy to walk the other way."

He learned the hard way. "I used to go up to the couple or family and try to restore the holidy cheer, but I found myself called on to intervene in the fights as a 'Christmas tree expert' and now I steer clear of the whole thing."

The Wagners, however, had no such difficulties and spent only five minutes finding "their tree," a five-foot fir. "Everyone, even our dog, knew that was the tree we wanted as soon as we saw it," Mrs. Wagner said. They left about 20 minutes later, pausing only long enough to lash the tree to their camper and eat homemade cake and drink coffee which Mrs. Wagner had prepared for the jaunt.

Fortunately, he said, even the most vivid arguments usually work themselves out as soon as a tree is agreed upon and the people always leave —well, almost always — "happy, smiling and satisfied."

The leaving process, complete with motor vehicle and tree, has provided some of the most humorous moments for Hancock and his workers. "You'd be absolutely amazed at what people try to fit into their cars," he said.

CHARLES C. HANCOCK
Avoids being referee

Last weekend, for example, a couple in a Volkswagen sedan with a sun roof bought two large trees (each tree on the ranch is $5.95 no matter what size or kind) and spent the next hour and a half trying to fit the trees to the vehicle. "It was incredible," Hancock recalled. "It was really touch and go for a long time and, frankly, I didn't think they'd make it."

The Christmas tree rancher is still bemused and amused by the man who labored diligently — but unsuccessfully —to put a 25-foot tree into a camper. Hancock still bursts into laughter when he thinks about what happened that time: "After wrestling with the problem for a long, long time, he proceeded to cut every branch off the tree and stick them into the camper. He even cut the stump in two because it wouldn't fit, then smiled and drove away. It was a real mind blower!"

Barney the goat, which went to a new home last week, also used to offer a few laughs, according to Hancock. Barney's peak performance, however, came when he climbed onto the roof of an auto and began eating the Christmas tree tied there while the lady buyer was paying for it. "That lady really screamed when she saw him," he said.

Although he gave Barney to a Los Ranchitos couple who were delighted to get him, Hancock has a strong hunch that the popular goat will indeed return. "By this time he has probably eaten all the trees in their backyard and they'll really be sorry they took him," he said.

Despite the fact that almost all activity on the 840-acre ranch takes place between Thanksgiving and Christmas Eve, there are some surprising off-season sales, occasionally to individuals films Christmas commercial for television months in advance.

Once Hancock, who is acting chairman of the Bolinas-Stinson School District board, air-freighted about a dozen trees to Australia in August and is still puzzled about why they were wanted. "Maybe they were filming Australian Christmas commercials," he quipped.

But one of his favorite customers is the fellow who buys two Christmas trees a year, one at the regular time and another in July. "He keeps his tree up all year round because he has a real thing on Christmas trees," he said. "He assures me a tree will last for six months if it's kept in water.

"This guy is convinced having a tree up all year keeps him in a loving Christmas spirit," Hancock said and added with a grin: "You know, I should probably check that out; if it's true, think what it would do for business."

'Drastic' Smog Measures Needed, State Warned

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — State officials were warned today that California cannot meet federal clean air requirements without "drastic measures" such as rationing gasoline or banning vehicles from urban areas.

The warning came from Frank M. Stead, former state head of environmental health, in a hearing before the state Air Resources Board.

The hearing was one in a series on blueprints by Bay Area and state smog officials to clean up air pollution.

Stead, in testimony prepared for the hearing, said the combined state and local programs will "fall far short" of meeting the deadline for federal air quality standards by 1975.

Underscoring Stead's argument was separate testimony by the top administrator of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, D. J. Callaghan, who said all of the federal standards would not be met in the Bay Area until 1985.

Stead, representing the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association of California, said new federal law no longer would allow California to compromise air pollution control on the basis of economics, politics or industiral impact.

"The federal standards together with their timetable, are now the law of the land, and both the state and local air pollution control agencies in California are now, for the first time, facing an inflexible mandate," he declared.

The board also was warned by Stead that California could lose its right to have independent air quality standards if it fails to meet the federal time table.

Arguing for the need to rewrite California's air pollution control program to meet the 1975 deadline, Stead said, "In the final crunch, this may well call for such drastic measures as direct curtailment of the combustion of fossil fuel in motor vehicles by gas rationing or the complete exclusion of vehicles from certain urban areas."

Stead also proposed that local air pollution control districts require construction and operating permits for public and industrial sources of air pollution.

The state also should set up a system of testing stations to check vehicle smog controls and car owners should be required to prove their vehicles comply with smog standards at the time of registration, according to Stead.

Finally, Stead urged regional land use plans to prevent air basins from being overloaded by pollution.

The state's so-called "implementation plan" required by the federal government from all states must be filed in Washington by Jan. 30. A public hearing on the final 400-page version will be held in Sacramento by the board on Jan. 19.

Failure In Italy

ROME (UPI) — Parliament failed for the 18th time in 12 days today to end an ideological deadlock between Roman Catholic and Marxist candidates by choosing one or the other as Italy's sixth president.

Children Concerned Over Vandalism

Children at Santa Margarita School in the Dixie School District have become so disturbed over vandalism that they are starting to write letters to the editor about it.

Letters were received by the Independent-Journal today from three fifth grade pupils at the school, telling of extensive damage by vandals.

Leslie Lembo wrote:

"I would like you to be aware of the vandalism that is going on in my school.

"Almost 51 windows have been broken and smashed in the last five months. This is only one of the very many things that are going on in my school.

"We have taken $2,250 out of the school budget for these windows. This takes away all our luxuries like P. E. equipment, teacher aids, and special COMA projects, etc.

"This has been going on in many of the schools in this district, and has affected many of them badly."

Another letter-writing pupil, Kyle Orr, reported the number of windows broken as 44, with the latest being three on Dec. 7 and two on Dec. 4. "And that's not all," he wrote, "we had six all fiberglass rafters kicked down from the roof. And we had two glass doors damaged."

The third pupil, T. J. Gadient, also reported ventilators had been kicked down. "I am very angry about the vandalism and I wish it would stop because everyone pays," he wrote.

Joseph B. Goff, assistant superintendent of Dixie School District, said the letters probably resulted from a campaign in the schools to make pupils aware of the cost of vandalism.

Goff said there has been "a bad rash of vandalism" this school year. "Santa Margarita probably has not been hit any harder than some of the others," he said.

There have been "some nasty intrusions" at Bernard Hoffman School, with vandalism inside the building, Goff said. The principal's office at Dixie School was broken into, and there have been break-ins also at Don Timoteo, Lucas Valley and Nova Albion Schools since the start of the school year. At the new Oak View School, a contractor's shed was burned while the building was under construction. The fire alarm has been tampered with at Vallecito School.

As to the pupils' reports of loss of physical education equipment, field trips and teacher aids because of the vandalism's cost, Goff said: "We're certainly not going to punish a school because of a maintenance problem. But if we run out of money . . . "

Some of the Dixie District schools are in San Rafael, others — including Santa Margarita — in the unincorporated territory. Undersheriff Sidney Stinson said the only report of vandalism at Santa Magarita to his department was of three windows in the kindergarten room broken on Dec. 7.

'Hope Walk' Set In The County

A "Hope Walk" to benefit the international health agency which sends the hospital ship Hope around the world, will be held Feb. 27 by Marin County Junior and senior high school students.

The 20-mile hike will start at 8:30 a.m. from the College of Marin, go through the Greenbrae hills and San Rafael to San Rafael High School. It will cross San Rafael, down the Miracle Mile to San Anselmo, then to Ross and back to the College of Marin, according to Frances Mills, publicity chairman.

Students will get sponsors to pay them for each mile they walk, she said.

Armed Pair Rob Station Attendant

A San Rafael service station attendant was robbed of his wallet and watch last night by two armed men — one carrying a gun, the other a hunting knife.

Kenneth J. Burns, 18, told police he was in the office at the Disco service station, 555 Francisco Boulevard, when the two men entered at about 9 p.m. with nylon stockings pulled over the tops of their heads and faces.

They demanded money and unsuccessfully attempted to open a floor safe, Burns told police, before taking his possessions and forcing him to lie face down on the floor with the threat by one of the men, "I'll blow your head off."

Burns described the robbers as black, both about 20 years old and about five feet-10 inches tall. One weighed about 150 pounds, and the other about 170 pounds, he said.

Broderick To Preside Over Court

Henry J. Broderick will be presiding judge of Marin Superior Court beginning Jan. 3.

Judge Broderick will succeed Samuel W. Gardiner, who will take the criminal calendar which was handled by Judge E. Warren McGuire this year.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson will continue as probate and juvenile court judge.

These assignments are made each year by the five superior court judges, who get together to discuss and agree on who gets what duties.

Council To Study Speeding Law

The Novato City Council tomorrow night will consider an ordinance to regulate rapid acceleration and automobile speed contests on private property open to public use. The council meets at 8 p.m. at the Novato Community House.

The ordinance would cover areas such as shopping center parking lots, school parking lots, drive-ins and service stations, according to Police Chief A.V. Klemme.

There is no state law or city ordinance covering such property, he said. This has created a safety problem and has made policing of such areas difficult, the chief reported.

Supervisors Will Meet Tomorrow

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9 a.m. at Civic Center, will consider an ordinance creating a county emergency services organization.

The organization, to be governed by a "disaster council" under the board of supervisors, would carry out plans for the protection of persons and property within Marin in the event of a disaster.

The new agency, authorized under state law, would be concerned primarily with implementation of the recently drafted county emergency plan, also up for board approval.

Frank Kirby, currently a health planner with the Department of Health Services, has been recommended to head the agency.

His pay would increase from $1,084 per month to $1,111.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also is expected:

HOSPITAL — To consider a proposal from Marin General Hospital that county morgue and laboratory facilities be included in the hospital's new master plan.

DRUG ABUSE — To review a so-called countywide community drug abuse control plan, which is a collection of historical data on county drug abuse programs.

VEHICLE INHABITATION — To consider again an ordinance banning sleeping or living in a motor vehicle. A similar ordinance was shelved months ago but will be reintroduced at the insistence of West Marin residents.

GRADING ORDINANCE — To consider an amendment to the new emergency ordinance on road grading. The amendment would create a special committee to review all applications for new road grading.

Bailfield Request To Be Studied

The development of an additional little league field and winter swimming-pool use will be considered at the Petaluma City Council meeting today at 7:30 p.m.

City little leagues seek permission to build a new diamond on the La Tercera School grounds and an expanded field for senior play at Lucchesi Park. Use of the swimming pool for January, February and March by the Petaluma Swim Club also will be considered, along with a fee schedule.

New President For Health Unit

Jack D. Williams, Kentfield School District psychologist, has been selected chairman of the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board for 1972.

Williams, vice-chairman this year, succeeds Peter Palmer.

George Monardo was named by the board Wednesday as new vice-chairman.

In other business, the board endorsed a broad plan for attacking drug abuse in Marin that was submitted by Lloyd Churgin, County alcohol and drug abuse coordinator. Emphasis of the plan is on maintaining small antidrug programs and obtaining local funding for projects.

Bachelor Degrees To Six Marinites

Six Marin County students have received their bachelor of arts or science degrees for the fall semester from the University of California at Davis.

Those who received degrees were: David B. Smith of Kentfield, Bruce M. Thomson of Mill Valley, Adrienne A. Ardito of San Anselmo, Julianne M. Karlonas of San Rafael and Diana S. Epstein and Frederick W. Fickert of Tiburon.

LAW IN ACTION

Oral Contracts Also Are Valid

Oral contracts are just as valid as written ones, with a few exceptions. The main problem is proof. It is more difficult to prove an oral contract, especially when the words are in dispute.

The "statue of frauds" requires that some contracts be in writing. One common provision involves the sale of goods valued at more than $500. Such contracts should be written. But even here, if there is a "memorandum" or some "part performance," the contract can be enforced.

In a recent case Mike saw an ad for a used Rolls Royce for $11,000. He answered the ad and dickered with the owner to buy the car for the asking price. Mike made a down payment of $100 and was to get a bank loan for the rest. All of the agreements were oral.

The owner changed his mind and decided not to sell. He returned the $100 to Mike and tried to cancel the deal. Mike sued, and was met with the defense that the contract was oral and for more than $500, and, therefore, could not be enforced. Mike won in court. The down payment was part performance, thus showing the contract was made.

Similarly, if part of the goods have been delivered or accepted, that shows that an oral contract has been made. The oral agreement for more than $500 is then enforceable.

In another case, an oral contract was made for the sale of standing timber. The buyer agreed to cut it and pay a percentage of the sale price for the logs. The owner of the land tried to back out. But the buyer was able to enforce the oral contract because he had already, with the owner's knowledge and permission, started to cut the trees.

If there is a signed or intialed "memorandum" — any writing that identifies that parties, the subject matter and some of the terms of the promise — the oral agreement is enforceable.

Oral agreements dealing with real property, leases for over a year, a guarantee of another's promise or the mailing of a will are all subject to the statute of frauds. All should be in writing. Reliance on "exceptions" to the statute of frauds is dangerous. Get it in writing.

Ridge Preservation Plan to Be Heard

The Corte Madera Town Council will hear a town planning commission recommendation on preservation of ridge tops at its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at town hall.

The council also will consider an ordinance and three resolutions on emergency preparedness, two permits for home businesses and rezoning of a parcel at Corte Madera Avenue and First Street from apartment to local shopping.

Theft Suspect Set To Appear

Stone Marston Uhl, 20, of San Geronimo, is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Jan. 14 on charges of burglary and concealing stolen property.

A preliminary hearing will be set at that time.

Uhl was arrested Nov. 24 and charged with the Nov. 23 burglary of the William Ronald Gray home at 3 Shell Road in Mill Valley and the Aug. 30 burglary of the Sally Scullion home at 75 Mountain View, Fairfax. He also is charged with concealing property stolen from the two homes.

For Muskie

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan will endorse Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine for the Democratic presidential nomination, it was learned today.

'Massive Demonstration' Just Never Materialized

Marin County law officers braced themselves in Sausalito over the weekend for a threatened massive labor demonstration that never came to pass.

Target of the demonstration was to have been a Sausalito liquor store which sells wines made from nonunion grapes, according to city officials and police who said they had been told representatives of Caesar Chavez's United Farm Workers Organizing Committee would mass at noon Saturday in front of the Bottle Shop, 771 Bridgeway.

According to Sausalito Police Chief James D. Wright, the farm labor grove also planned to picket "numerous establishments" throughout the county selling wines made from nonunion grapes including wines from Charles Krug, Mondavi, Wente and Berringer Brothers.

But Wright said representatives of the labor organization had said the largest demonstration was planned for Sausalito.

Scattered picketing of stores selling liquor did take place in some Marin communities, including San Rafael and Mill Valley, the Independent-Journal learned today.

Except for one incident in San Rafael where police were called to stop pickets from harassing customers at the Bourbon Shop, 280 Northgate, owners and managers of stores said the demonstrations were small and orderly.

At 10 a.m., Wright said, representatives from the police department and Sausalito Mayor Alexander R. Imlay met with demonstration leaders at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley to ask about their plans and "set up ground rules" for the rally.

By 11 a.m., he said approximately 50 law officers from all police departments in Marin, including the sheriff's department, had gathered in downtown Sausalito. The officers, including 19 Sausalito policemen, were equipped with riot gear, including helmets and jumpsuits, the chief said.

A command post, complete with radio communications equipment and a video tape camera, had been set up atop the Bank of America building across from the Bottle Shop, at the corner of Bridgeway and Anchor Street.

Merchants and property owners in the area had been notified of the expected demonstration, according to Wright, and police settled back to wait.

They waited for nearly two and a half hours, but not one demonstrator or picket appeared, Wright said. At 1:30 p.m. the additional policemen who had been called to duty through the countywide mutual aid system were sent home, according to the chief.

Representatives of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee in San Francisco could not be reached for comment.

Approximately 15 persons picketed the Redhill liquor store at 67 Throckmorton in Mill Valley and the Mill Valley Market across the street, according to Redhill owner Si Weil. He said the pickets, who remained from noon to about 1 p.m., were "very quiet" and caused no problems.

About 10 demonstrators picketed the Bourbon Shop in Northgate, owner John Gay reported, but he said there was no picketing at his four other outlets in San Rafael and Corte Madera.

Police were called briefly, he said, when the pickets began shouting taunts at customers entering the store.

About two weeks ago merchants selling nonunion wines were presented with leaflets from the farm workers union, threatening them with picketing if they continued to sell the wines.

Safety Council Estimates Road Deaths For Yule

CHICAGO (UPI) —The National Safety Council has predicted that between 520 and 620 persons will die in traffic accidents during the three-day, 78-hour Christmas weekend which begins at 6 p.m. local time Thursday and ends at midnight Sunday.

The council estimated that another 25,000 to 29,000 persons would be injured in traffic acci Last year, 504 persons died in traffic accidents during the Christmas weekend.

Council President Howard Pyle, in an announcement released Saturday, estimated Americans will travel 9.5 billion vehicle miles over the Christmas weekend.

Car, Cash Taken From Garage

A 1958 Mercedes Benz and $25 in cash were stolen in a burglary of a San Rafael garage last Saturday or early yesterday morning, San Rafael police reported today.

Police said the car and money were taken from the Daniele and Orlandi Body Shop, 1556 Fourth Street.

They were seeking the owner of the car, David L. Boese, 23, no known address, for questioning about the theft, officers said.

Man Of La Mancha Effort Pays In Bridge Tourneys

Part of the secret of winning a national pair championship is to get to some unmakable contracts and make them. You don't try this against your best opponents, but you do step out if the opponents seem flustered or timid or upset with each other.

Today's hand is a prime example of what you have to do to win the National Mixed Pair Championship.

Opening lead — ◇ 4

If you think that Lew and Eugenie Mathe overbid the North-South hands, you might try calling them up to tell them so. Mrs. Mathe should have been down two at four hearts doubled, but West came to her rescue.

West opened the four of diamonds for reasons that will always remain obscure. East covered dummy's eight with the nine, and declarer took the jack and then the ace of diamonds. She next led a club, hoping to reach dummy with the king.

East captured the king of clubs with the ace and couldn't wait to fire back a diamond.

Declarer discarded her other club, and West ruffed with the ten.

SPADE SHIFT

West now switched mysteriously to the ten of spades, and East put up the king. Mrs. Mathe, South, played the deuce of spades; and East returned the six of spades on the assumption that his partner had the ace.

Mrs. Mathe took the ace of spades and prayerfully led the ace of hearts.

The king of hearts dropped, and declarer promptly ran the rest of her hearts. At the 12th trick West had to decide whether to save the jack of spades or the queen of clubs.

WRONG GUESS

West guessed wrong, and Mrs. Mathe won the last trick with the five of spades, making her doubled contract for a top score.

Yes, dear reader, the Mathe bid and played most of their hands in more orthodox style, but they wouldn't have won the title if they hadn't clobbered their weaker opponents.

We couldn't get all the I-J Special Sections in the picture — too many of them. But this gives you the idea.

Your other newspaper within the I-J

A year-round parade of Special Sections written for your personal interests

These Special Sections lend an extra dimension to your reading and enjoyment . . . over and beyond the news. For each presents information and new ideas on a specific subject such as Travel, Dining & Wining, or Homes.

We publish more of them than most daily suburban and even metropolitan newspapers yet each is handcrafted by our own I-J reporters and editors with a taste for your tastes, your personal interests.

In the course of a year this "other newspaper within the I-J" amounts to some 500 pages, many in color, all designed to keep you better informed.

TWO WEEKS TO TWO MONTHS TO WRITE AND DEVELOP ONE SPECIAL SECTION

The job is a painstaking one. You might describe it as putting out a newspaper devoted to a single subject. Involves planning, research, photography, art, design, and sometimes, headaches. (Aren't you glad that all you have to do is read?)

INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL

AT LAST — Young Marinites, boots and extra sweaters already on, unload their skis and prepare to hit the slopes following a seven-hour bus ride to Squaw Valley, marked by two bus breakdowns. Mechanical difficulties were forgotten in the excitement of finally being able to ski.

SUNSET — Snow flies from beneath the skis of a few of the more advanced skiers in the Mogul Ski Club as they come over a ridge as the sun — already down behind the mountains — shoots its late afternoon rays into the sky. Lessons are given to the young skiers in small groups based on their ability.

A Day In The Squaw Valley Snow

By C. P. McCARTHY

The best-laid plans often go astray and that's the way it went Saturday for about 35 Marin youngsters on a chartered bus to Squaw Valley.

A Marin Transit System bus — one of 18 chartered from various bus companies by the Mogul Ski Club for trips to Squaw Valley and Alpine Meadows Saturday — suffered two engine failures and pulled into Squaw seven hours after its 5 a.m. departure from the Bon Air shopping Center in Greenbrae.

The twice-as-long-as-usual bus ride didn't seem to bother the young skiers much. Cheers greeted the news on their arrival at Squaw that they would be able to ski an extra hour, and the main concern expressed about getting back to Marin an hour late appeared to be that they would be missing "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

The 12-hour bus ride was worth it to the young people even if they did get in only five hours of skiing. One youngster noted the 12 hours was equivalent to two school days, and added, "I'd rather be in a bus than in school."

The 17-hour day began with a 4:45 a.m. rendezvous at Greenbrae for the Squaw Valley group. Skiers going to Alpine Meadows met at Lions's coffee shop on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Highway 101. Youngsters from Northern Marin met at Northgate shopping center and were picked up by one of the two buses headed for Squaw Valley.

One of the buses was only 10 minutes past Hamilton Air Force Base, when a shout from the rear of the bus was asking, "Are we almost there yet?"

The skiers were quiet as the bus sped through the darkness, and fog and frost went unnoticed by sleeping passengers as the sun rose outside Sacramento.

Into the Sierra foothills, however, they began awakening and voices that will never sell a million records began warming up with such soothing melodies as "A Thousand Bottles of Beer on the Wall," "Bang Bang Lulu" and "Jesus Christ Superstar."

An ambitious attempt at "A Billion Bottles of Beer on the Wall" fizzled with about 999,999,997 bottles of beer still left on the wall.

As the Marin Transit System bus met upgrades tougher than Wolfe Grade, the engine overheated and automatically shut off, and driver Leon Smith pulled it to the side of Highway 80 not far from the state division of highways's Whitmore maintenance station.

While Smith fiddled with the engine, the sounds of "Jingle Bells" and "On the First Day of Christmas Onassis gave to me" filled the bus.

The youngsters stayed patiently in the bus after the Mogul supervisor on board, Mary Lou Fitzmaurice of Mill Valley, told them a California Highway Patrolman had asked they not leave it.

Applause, cheers and whistles greeted the resumption of the trip about 45 minutes later, only to be followed by groans in about 15 minutes more when the bus was again at the side of the road.

It was a better place for stopping, however, and this time the young people were allowed out to romp in the snow as long as they stayed more than 10 feet from the highway.

"But if you get all wet and sloppy, don't complain," Mrs. Fitzmaurice warned them.

Some of them did get all wet and sloppy, but they didn't complain. They frolicked in the white stuff, sliding down hills, throwing snowballs and shoving each other into the powder.

Another round of cheers for a second resumption of the trip, and — with a second bus that had driven back from Squaw in case it was needed following — the bus pulled up in front of Mogul's clubhouse at about 12:15 p.m.

Within minutes, ski boots were laced or buckled, more sweaters piled on, lift tickets attached, skis and poles removed from the storage compartment of the bus, and the joyful young skiers disappeared onto the slopes.

They regathered at 2 p.m. for an hour-long ski lesson in small groups based on their ability.

The rest of the afternoon they skied on their own, before straggling back to the bus exhausted at 4:30 p.m.

Skis and poles were put back in storage, wet clothes changed and boots taken off as the bus left Squaw Valley shortly before dark.

There was time for a nap, with shoeless feet over seats and sticking up in the air, before dinner at a large Sacramento cafeteria.

It might have been the Ritz for the air of excitement as the bus pulled into the restaurant's parking lot. After an hour of hamburgers, milk shakes, pizza, or just candy, the youngsters returned to the bus to say how awful the food was. The joy of arriving at the restaurant and complaints upon leaving are repeated every week, according to Teresa Scavia, secretary to Mogul.

Exhaustion was forgotten on the last leg of the trip, as teenage chatter, yelling, singing, laughing and pushing filled the bus.

Shortly before 10 p.m., the bus pulled back into the Greenbrae shopping center's parking lot. Smiling parents were there to pick up their own, or several, youngsters.

The young people were gone. Miss Scavia went through the bus and picked up the forgotten clothing, glasses and goggles to take to Mogul's San Anselmo headquarters, and the day was done.

Until Thursday, which has been substituted for this coming Saturday's trip because of Christmas.

Mogul, as well as the Blizzard and Huski ski clubs which offer similar programs, gives young people between the ages of nine and 17 from snowless Marin and the rest of the Bay Area the opportunity to ski, even if parents don't ski or don't want to.

Trips are run on Saturdays and Sundays, with a few overnight trips during the ski season, and end with a week-long trip in the spring.

Costs include an initial fee ranging from $35 to $75 plus a charge for transportation and lift tickets on each trip.

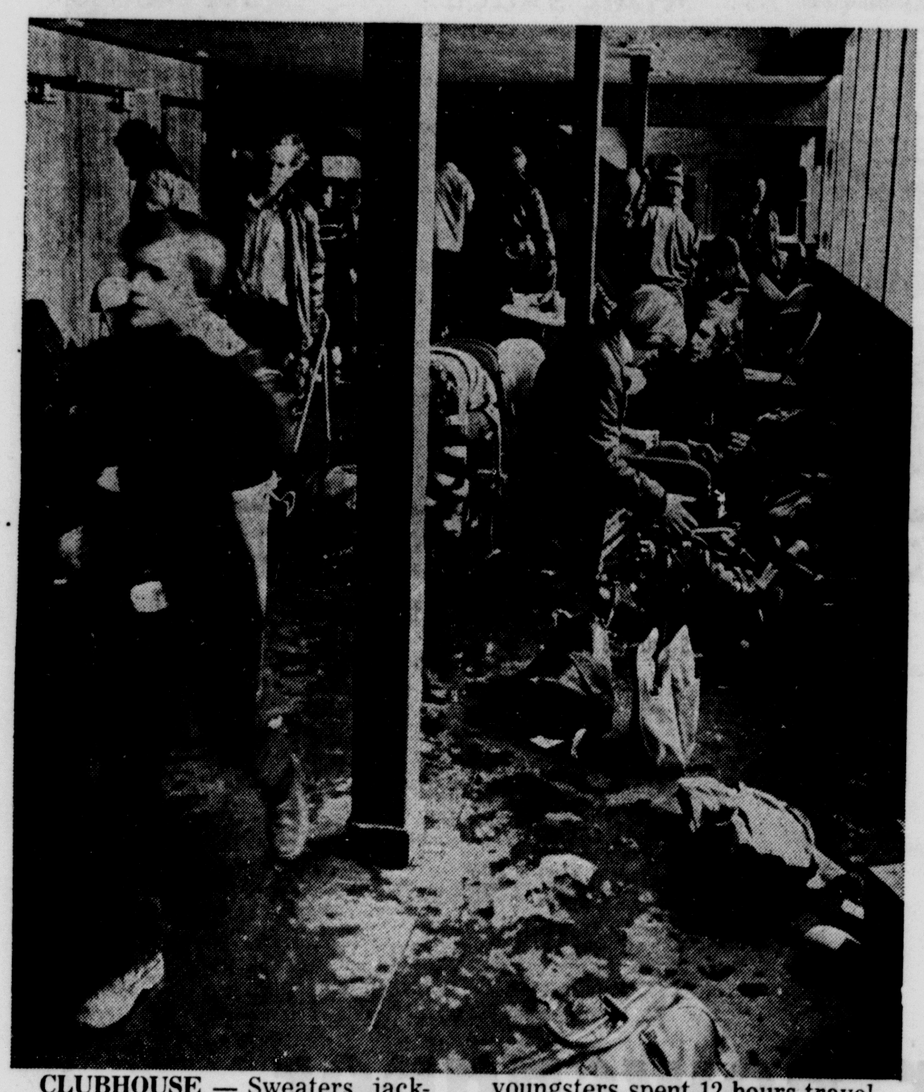
Usually, the buses make it without engine troubles.

Hitchhiker Pulls A Holdup

A motorist who gave a man a ride from San Francisco to Marin City told sheriff's deputies he was robbed today when the hitchhiker pulled a weapon.

Christopher M. Vetterli of 73 Graceland Drive, San Rafael, said he took his passenger to the 100 block of Drake Avenue, where he was robbed at 1:10 a.m.

A sheriff's deputy at the Marin City substation was unsure how much money was taken or what type of weapon was used.



CLUBHOUSE — Sweaters, jackets, boots and shoes decorate the Mogul Ski Clubhouse at Squaw Valley as the young skiers perpare for their departure. The youngsters spent 12 hours traveling Saturday to get in five hours of skiing, and appeared to love every minute of it.

SNOWPLOW — It's toes together, heels apart as a group of Mogul Ski Club beginners learn the basic snowplow, one of the first steps in skiing. The Marin-based ski club has its own staff of instructors for its Saturday and Sunday ski trips throughout the ski season.

(Independent-Journal photos by Alfred M. Arn)

WHAT GOES UP — Ski poles in one hand, a poma lift pole in the other, young Marin skiers are pulled to the top of a beginners slope at Squaw Valley. Many skied down nicely, while others got a taste of the snow.

LESSONS — Bill Kleiser (center), 13, of Kentfield, listens intently to a Mogul Ski Club instructor during a one-hour lesson Saturday at Squaw Valley. Following the words of advice from the instructor, the students headed down the slope with skis together and their weight on the downhill ski, maybe.

New Court: An End To Forced Busing?

By ED ROGERS

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The arrival of two conservative justices on the Supreme Court in a political year has raised speculation that forced school busing may be on its way out.

Oath taking ceremonies will be held Jan. 7 for Lewis F. Powell of Virginia who received a Senate confirmation vote of 89 to 1, and William H. Rehnquist of Arizona, confirmed by a vote of 68 to 26.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., of the Senate Judiciary Committee, a leader of the fight to gain confirmation for Rehnquist, told a law school in a home state speech last week:

"I am hopeful that we are in the process of achieving a better balance in the court. That is what the fights on the court nominations have been all about." He predicted the court may display more "judicial restraint" after Jan. 7 on cases involving "pornography, school desegregation and criminal laws ..."

Some observers believe the issue of forced school busing and the public pressure it has created was alone responsible for the Powell and Rehnquist confirmations.

Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, DIll., a member of the House Education and Labor Committee, predicted the court will reject the concept of busing to achieve racial balance. If the court gets an appropriate case Pucinski believes it will restore the original school desegregation decision of 1954.

In that case, Brown vs. Topeka, Pucinski said, the court merely held there could not be separate schools for whites and blacks and school districts must be fairly drawn. The requirements that each school must have a balanced racial composition has been added since, he said.

Pucinski recently announced he will challenge Sen. Charles H. Percy, a Republican liberal from Illinois, in the 1972 elections. In an interview he told UPI busing is bound to become an issue in that race.

The administration has given no indication of what it will do if the issue spreads to the presidential race.

Last August the President repeated earlier public statements that he opposed busing children from one school zone to another solely for the sake of racial balance.

More recently Senate Republican Whip Robert P. Griffin and House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, both of Michigan, have asked the Justice Department to intervene in federal court cases involving their state.

And Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., plans to make busing "one of the central campaign issues" of his bid for the presidency. A recent campaign statement said Jackson sends his 8-year-old daughter to the Horace Mann public school in Washington which has a black enrollment of about one third.

"I practice what I preach," Jackson said. "But I would not want my child bused out of a good school to a poor school just for the sake of providing racial balance."

Planning Study On Belvedere's Plans Agenda

The Belvedere Planning Commission will discuss the city's new planning study when it meets at 8 p.m. today at city hall.

The study, by the San Francisco planning firm of Livingston and Blayney, recommends a policy of discouraging growth on the island community by more restrictive zoning.

A 90-day building moratorium was approved Dec. 9 by the city council, although construction may be approved by a conditional use permit.

Also on tonight's agenda is a request by the 530 Washington Street Corp. of San Francisco for a use permit to build a new house at 430 Belvedere Avenue.

Schools Merger To Be Studied

The possible merger of the Kentfield and Ross school districts will be considered by Ross district trustees at 7:45 p.m. today in the Ross School library.

The district has received a letter from the Kentfield School District regarding unionization. It recommended that two Ross board members meet with two Kentfield board members to plan a joint meeting of the two boards to discuss unionization of the two districts.

The board also will consider recommendations for making plans for any emergency. It will receive a report on the parent-teacher association activities and plans, the annual audit, and budget report, and will consider renewing the superintendent and principal's contract and hiring one teacher.

Colleges Could Lose $20 Million

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The bill lowering the age of majority in California to 18 could cost the state's community colleges more than $20 million annually.

The California Junior College Association, in a memorandum issued Friday, said the loss could come if large numbers of regular students are reclassified as adult students.

Part of the drop in income would come because the state provides $662 for each regular student taking less than 10 class hours, but $539 for adult students

Troup Drop

SAIGON (UPI)—Some 9,200 U.S. troops were pulled out of Vietnam last week in the largest seven-day withdrawal of Americans since 10,200 servicemen left in a single week in April, 1970, the U.S. command said Monday.

RESOLUTION OF MARIN COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT
RESOLUTION 71/72-14
RESOLUTION OF INTENTION TO TRANSFER REAL PROPERTY

WHEREAS, the COUNTY OF MARIN is desirous of obtaining fee title for roadway purposes to certain property owned by Phillips Petroleum on which the Marin Community College District has an option; and

WHEREAS, said property described is as described in EXHIBIT "A" which is attached hereto and incorporated herein; and

WHEREAS, this sale to the COUNTY OF MARIN is agreeable to Phillips Petroleum, however, pursuant to the Option Agreement, the Marin Community College District must concur in and receive the benefit from any sale of the optioned property.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED AS FOLLOWS:

1. That it is the intention of the Board of Trustees of the Marin Community College District to approve said sale to the County of Marin for the sum of $4,875.00, which amount, pursuant to the Option Agreement, shall be credited to the total purchase price of the optioned property.

2. That Wednesday, the 5th day of January, 1971, at 8:00 o'clock P.M., is hereby set as the time for a public hearing upon the question of the granting of said easment.

3. That the Clerk of this Board is hereby directed to cause notice of said hearing to be made by posting this Resolution in three public places in the District not less then ten (10) days before the date of the meeting and by publishing this Resolution once, not less than five (5) days before the date of the meeting, in a newspaper of general circulation published in the District if there is one, or if there is no such newspaper published in the District, then in a newspaper published in the County in which the district is situated and having a general circulation in the District.

The foregoing Resolution was passed and adopted at a regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Marin Community College District, County of Marin, State of California, on the 9th day of December, 1971, by the following vote, to-wit:

AYES: Best, Compton, Dean, Felt, Oliver, Wellman
NOES: Gray

NOTICE INVITING SEALED PROPOSALS OR BIDS
OCEANA MARIN UNIT 5 ASSESSMENT DISTRICT

Pursuant to the Municipal Improvement Act of 1913 and the resolution directing this notice adopted on December 7, 1971 by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, said Board invites sealed proposals or bids for the construction of sanitary sewerage and water distribution facilities, underground electric facilities and necessary auxiliary work, as more particularly described in Resolution of Intention No. 71-147, adopted by said Board on June 21, 1971, which resolutions are on file in the office of the County Clerk and to which reference is hereby expressly made for a more particular description of the work to be done.

All of said work is to be done at the places and in the particular locations, of the forms, sizes, dimensions and materials and to the lines, grades and elevations as shown and delineated upon the plans, profiles and specifications made therefor and preliminarily approved by said Board on December 7, 1971.

Payments will be made in cash by said County to the contractor in accordance with the provisions of the specifications and on itemized estimates duly certified and approved by the Engineer of Work submitted in accordance therewith, based on labor and materials incorporated into said work during the preceding month by the contractor.

Notice is hereby given that on December 7, 1971, the Board adopted a resolution determining the general prevailing rate of per diem wages to be paid to the various craftsmen and laborers required to construct said improvements, a copy of which wage scale is contained in and made a part of the specifications for said work, and is also on file in the office of the County Clerk and open to public inspection, to which reference is hereby made for further particulars.

All proposals or bids shall be accompanied by cash, cashier's or certified check payable to the order of the County Clerk, amounting to 10% of the bid, or by a bond in said amount and payable to said Clerk signed by the bidder and a corporate surety, or by the bidder and two sureties who shall justify before any officer competent to administer an oath, in double said amount and over and above all statutory exemptions. The amount so posted shall be forfeited to said County in case the bidder depositing the same does not, within fifteen days after written notice that the contract has been awarded to him, enter into a contract with the County.

Contractor shall furnish to County a faithful performance bond and labor and material bond as required in said specifications.

Said sealed proposals shall be delivered to Kenneth M. Allen, Engineer of Work of the County of Marin, at the office of Benjamin P. Bonelli, 935 Lootens Place, San Rafael, California (94901), on or before 10:00 o'clock A.M. of the 6th day of January, 1972, said time being at least fourteen days from the time of first publication of this notice. Bids will be publicly opened, examined and declared on said day and hour and referred to and considered by the Board of Supervisors at its meeting at 1:45 o'clock P.M. on January 11, 1972.

A copy of the plans and specifications may be obtained from the office of Kenneth M. Allen Engineers, 2301 South El Camino Real, San Mateo, California (94403), upon deposit therefor of $25.00, which will not be refunded.

GOLDEN GATE TRANSIT ROUTES

Beginning Jan. 1, the Golden Gate Bridge District will replace operations of Greyhound Lines between Santa Rosa and San Francisco with its own bus transit service. The map shows the two routes to be followed in San Francisco: one through the financial district and the other serving the civic center. The new Golden Gate Transit routes are designed to bring most commuters within walking distance of their San Francisco offices. In Marin and Southern Sonoma counties the bus routes will extend into the neighborhoods. San Francisco routes and stops were developed in cooperation with the Department of Public Works and Municipal Railway. Golden Gate Transit will provide service to and from the north around-the-clock, with as many as 130 buses operating during peak hours on weekdays.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Drooling Is Caused Mainly By A Person's Inability To Swallow

Drooling (sialorrhea) is normal in babies and usually subsides when the infant learns how to retain and swallow the saliva. Children with cerebral palsy may drool for months (or years) because the nerves involved in swallowing are damaged. When an adult drools, a neurological disorder, such as Parkinson's disease, nerve palsy or stroke usually is responsible. Facial disfigurement or a blocked esophagus is a mechanical cause of sialorrhea.

A PERSON with too much saliva is not necessarily a drooler. The salivary glands become more active during pregnancy or when irritated by an oral infection or poorly fitted dentures. But there will be no drooling unless the individual is unable to hold the secretions within the mouth or the ability to swallow is impaired.

From 80 to 90 per cent of all saliva is manufactured by the two large glands on each side of the jaw. The parotid gland is located in front and slightly below the ear. It is the gland usually involved in mumps. The other, submandibular, is so named because it is under the jaw (mandible). The one and a half quarts of saliva produced daily contribute to the mechanical and chemical digestion of food. These juices also cleanse the mouth. Without normal salivary function the teeth decay.

AS WE SAID, drooling is caused mainly by the inability to swallow rather than by the amount of saliva present. But the causes of drooling are almost impossible to remedy. The next best procedure is to lessen the flow of saliva with medicines or surgery. Unfortunately, drugs cannot be used continuously.

One of the operations for drooling involves severing the nerves going to the glands. In another technic, the surgeon ties off the ducts that bring saliva to the mouth. The submandibular glands also can be removed or destroyed via X-ray.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

DERMATOGLYPHICS

E.W. writes: According to a student of the occult, the lines in the palm of the hand tell many things about life, including health trends and longevity. Do doctors support this belief?

REPLY

Every 10 years or so it is fun to listen to a strangely garbed lady tell you what you want to hear. The complex designs of the lines in the palms have been correlated with a variety of congenital defects resulting from sex chromosome anomalies. There is no reason to believe they indicate luck in love, long life, or good judgment.

SENSITIVE TO ALCOHOL

B.J. writes: Ten minutes after I've had a cocktail my fingers and feet swell. Why does this happen?

REPLY

The simplest explanation for the symptom is allergy to alcohol. One of the other ingredients may also be responsible. There is undue sensitivity to alcohol in such rare disorders as Hodgkin's disease, carcinoid tumors, and porphyria.

SEWING AND THE HEART

R.L. writes: Is sewing hard on the heart of an elderly woman? I enjoy working with my hands but have an enlarged heart and get tired quite easily.

REPLY

No. Sewing is a great hobby for persons with heart disease.

TUMMY SLEEPING

Mrs. M. S. writes: What do you think about a baby sleeping on his stomach day and night? Our daughter in law lets our grandson sleep in this position, without ever changing. The older one had to be given X-ray for a thymus condition which I felt was caused by too much strain on his throat from sleeping on the stomach.

REPLY

Sleeping on the tummy is the recommended position for babies. It is more natural and has its advantages in case the youngster spits up or vomits. Sleeping posture has nothing to do with the thymus gland which, we now know, is largest in infancy and seldom causes symptoms.

DRIED-UP GLANDS

Mrs. K. D. wirtes: I'm 66 years old and have to take pills because my endocrine glands are dried up. Why did they dry up?

REPLY

Age. The endocrine glands begin to atrophy sooner in some than in others and a pill a day is a small price to pay for replacement of a natural deficiency.

NO PREVENTIVE

F. D. F. writes: Is there a medicine to prevent diabetes?

REPLY

No, but diet, pills, and shots are available to keep the disease under control. The best preventive is to maintain normal weight.

'GRASSY' VITAMINS

W.T. writes: Is it true that babies should be allowed to walk on the grass barefoot because they get certain vitamins in the way?

REPLY

No, and the same can be said if the child waded through a bed of vitamin capsules or floated about in a tank of cod liver oil. There are vitamins in grass, but we can't expect the child to absorb them through the soles of the feet. Toddling about in bare feet, however, will strengthen the arches.

EFFECT OF FEAR

H.C. writes: Can fear of a heart attack cause the worrier to have one?

REPLY

Emotions have a powerful influence on the body and any type of anxiety could act as a contributing factor to a heart attack.

SWOLLEN NECK

R.D. writes: Can swelling in the front of the neck be caused by anything but goiter?

REPLY

Yes — the Adam's apple in men — but goiter or tumor is the cause in 98 per cent of all cases.

SUMMONS
Case No. 61907

Superior Court of California, County of Marin

vs.
Defendants: FRANK R. SAYRE and JOHN FRANKLIN

To the Defendants:

A civil complaint has been filed by the plaintiff against you. If you wish to defend this lawsuit, you must file in this court a written pleading in response to the complaint (or a written or oral pleading, if a Justice Court) within 30 days after this summons is served on you. Otherwise, your default will be entered on application by the plaintiff and the court may enter a judgment against you for the money or other relief requested in the complaint.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your pleading, if any, may be filed on time.

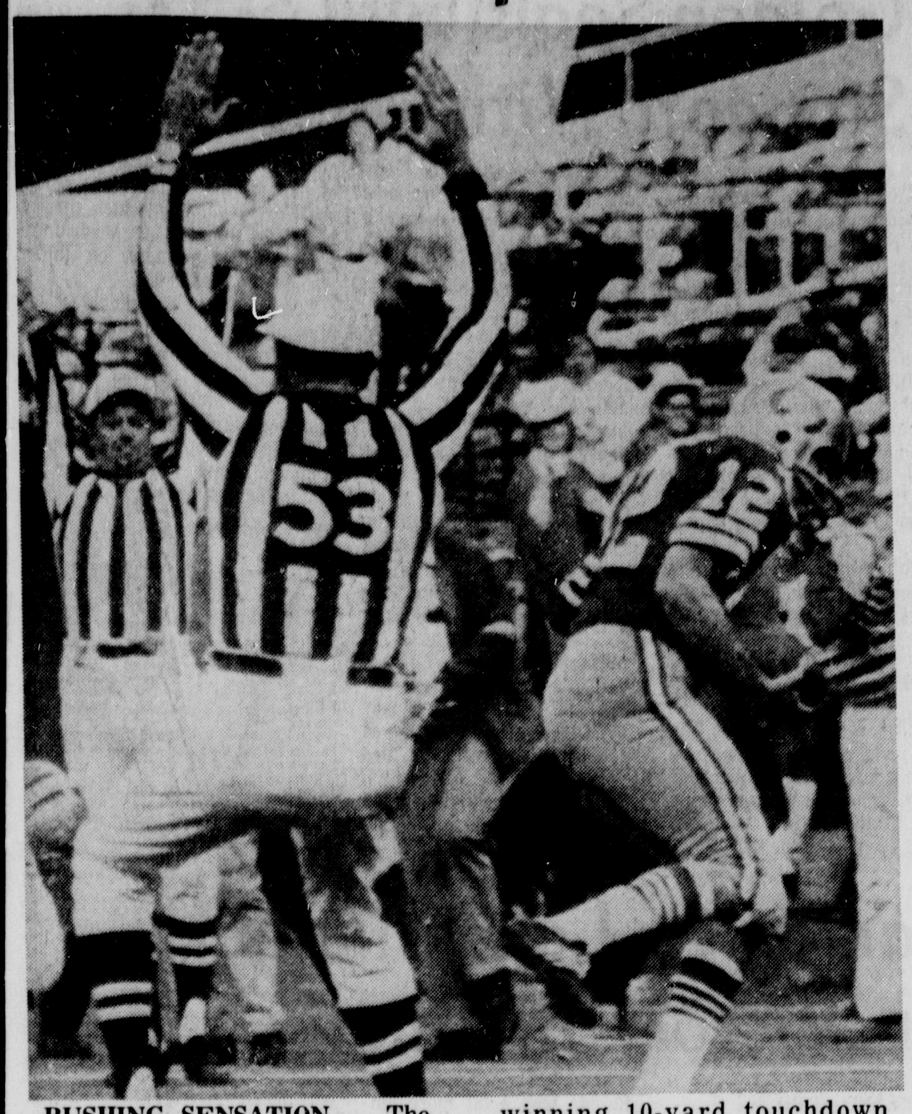
49ers Dump Detroit To Take Divisional Crown, 31-27



RUSHING SENSATION — The 49ers' John Brodie (12), who lately has taken to running with the ball in key spots, scored the winning 10-yard touchdown against Detroit in the fourth quarter yesterday.

John Brodie Runs For Winning Score

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— John Brodie, a bum two weeks ago when the Kansas City Chiefs upended the San Francisco 49ers and seemingly left them for dead, was a real, live hero today.

That's because the 15-year pro was able to come back with two sterling performances — over the Atlanta Falcons and, Detroit Lions —and personally carry the 49ers to their second consecutive NFC West title.

Sunday, he enjoyed perhaps his finest hour, throwing for three touchdowns and running over for a fourth as the 49ers came on to defeat the Lions, 3127, and clinch a spot in the National Football League playoffs.

"Maybe it wasn't his best game ever," said San Francisco coach Dick Nolan, "but it has to rate right up there. He called a great game, took advantage of weaknesses and came up with the big play when it was needed.

"While I don't want to take anything away from John," Nolan continued, "It should be pointed out that our offensive line played a big part in the victory over Detroit. I'll tell you, those boys blew some people out of there and helped us with the running game."

Brodie completed 14 of 20 passes for 186 yards and his scoring throws covered 12 yards to Dick Witcher, 10 to Ken Willard and 30 to Gene Washington. That gave him 18 TDs for the year, and 202 for his career. Brodie thus became the seventh quarterback in pro history to complete 200 or more scoring throws, a real enviable record, but he shrugged it off.

"Records are fine," Brodie said, "but winning is better."

Asked how he felt about his play calling against Detroit, Brodie seemed a bit perplexed.

"There was no brilliance in the play calling," he said. "We discovered early in the game we could run the ball so we stuck with it."

Willard, the workhorse San Francisco fullback, was nearly as brilliant as Brodie, especially during a fourth-quarter, time-killing drive when he carried the ball 11 times and helped kill off more than eight minutes.

"What can I say about Willard that I haven't said before," Nolan asked by way of replying to a question. "His running, and that of Vic Washington and Larry Schreiber gave us the best balanced attack we've had in many years."

Willard carried the ball 15 times against the Lions for 81 yards, while Washington gained 38 in 14 carries and Schrieber 42 in seven. That gave Willard 855 yards for the year and Washington 811.

"You know you've got a pretty good offense when two guys go for more than 800 yards," said Nolan. "Last year we depended too much on the passing game and that is not a good

COME BACK HERE — Dick Witcher (88) of the 49ers let a John Brodie pass bounce off his chest yesterday, but retrieved it for a 25-yard gain. Detroit's Wayne Rasmussen (47) watched helplessly.

SPORT NOTES

49er Star Nunley Clutches Cigar, Pass

By RALPH CHATOIAN

There was the jubilant Frank Nunley, sitting in his stall in the 49er dressing room, pulling off pads and ripping tape from his socks. There he was, clutching his usual victory cigar, still in its metal container.

Moments before he had intercepted a Greg Landry pass with just a little more than a minute left in the game, insuring a 31-27 victory over the Detroit Lions and a second straight NFC Western Division title.

"THAT WAS THE first one I caught all year," said the man called "Fudgehammer" by his teammates. "And I had dropped three this year." After his interception and return of seven yards, Nunley was swarmed over by his teammates. "I couldn't get off the ground. Everyone was jumping on me."

Explaing his interception, Nunley said the 49ers were in a zone defense. "I just went as deep as possible and the ball just came to me. Dave Wilcox was right in back of me and told me he would have got the ball if I hadn't."

"It's just great," shouted 49er special team standout Elmer Collett who learned his football at Tamalpais High in Mill Valley before his days at College of Marin and San Francisco State. "It's just like last year. We had to beat the Raiders in the last game and this time we had to beat the Lions. I had a feeling of confidence before the game, just like last year.

HOW DID COLLETT feel when the 49ers had to give up the ball to the Lions with a minute and a half left, the ball on the S.F. 28-yard line? "I was a little scared then, but then Frank came up with that interception. Man, I'm one happy fellow."

Collett, 6-foot-4 and 240 pounds but usually the first man downfield on punts and kickoffs, said he is confident the 49ers will beat the Washington Redskins in the first playoff game next Sunday at Candlestick.

"And I think Minnesota will beat Dallas," he said about the other NFC playoff game. "Why? I think the Minnesota defense will stop the Dallas offense." Collett also thinks the momentum gives the 49ers a decided edge going into the playoffs. "We're riding high. Other playoff teams are just resting on their laurels and we really have the momentum going for us."

That's the truth. The 49ers have played their best football of the season in their last two outings, games in which they had to win to get to the title. They were tough in that 24-3 triumph over Atlanta and had to come from behind three times yesterday in the win over the Lions.

LARRY SCHREIBER, sitting on the bench throughout the season, got his chance to play the past two games, spelling fullback Ken Willard. And he's been great. He and Willard were shuttling back and forth in the fourth quarter while quarterback John Brodie was using the clock yesterday. Willard ended the day with 81 yards in 15 carries and Schreiber had 42 yards in seven carries.

Said Willard after the game: "Without a doubt it was one of our best ground games since I have been with the 49ers (seven years). We just went out and played football. I wish I could say something philosophical but I can't. We just played good football today."

Schreiber said they were basically using just two

Marin Tars Win Easily; Await Laney

The scorekeeper, manager and ball boy did not play for College of Marin Saturday night, but everybody else did, as the basketball Tars ganged up on Sierra College for a 99-56 victory in Rocklin.

The triumph elevated the Tars' record to 11-1 and gave them the elusive "momentum" they'll need Thursday night when they play powerful Laney College in Oakland.

Twelve different Marin players found their way into the scoring column Saturday night. Top man was Joe Smith, who pumped in 24. One other starter was in double figures —Joe DeMaestri with 11.

"Only two of the players who started the first half started the second," said coach John Panagakis. "After five minutes, they were out, too. It was a really fine team performance."

Pat Purcell came off the bench to score 14 points. Ron Small was good for another nine.

"Our press forced 18 turnovers in the first half," said Panagakis. "They couldn't recover from that." Marin led at halftime, 56-25, and coasted.

It was the Tars' fourth consecutive victory following a two-point upset loss to Reedley College in the College of Marin tournament.

HEMINGWAY GETS 3RD IN CONTEST

Novato's David Hemingway finished third in the national punt-pass-and-kick semifinals yesterday at the Astrodome in Houston, Tex.

Hemingway's total distance was 201 feet, eight feet behind the winner and five feet behind the runner-up. It was his best distance in competition.

The competition was held at the San Diego Chargers-Houston Oilers football game. Thirteen youths, one from each American Football Conference city, competed.

David, representing the Raiders, won the competition at the Oakland Coliseum Oct. 24 to qualify for Houston.

Canoe Winners

Marin Canoe Club members won six events at Lake Merritt in Oakland Saturday. Class winners were Sara Ferandini, Todd, Paul and John Gulick, Nancy Reichard, Lowell Dwyer, Bud and Larry Busby, Paul Thoelecke, and Gordon Young.

Sports

San Rafael Visits Terra Nova Domain

This week's high school basketball schedule will be light or heavy, depending on how you look at it.

It will be light because only nine games are scheduled for the entire week. It will be heavy because some of the opposition is among the finest to be found in the Bay Area.

It will also be unusual, with three 1 p.m. games and two alumni games on tap.

San Rafael (4-4) will travel to Terra Nova of Pacifica at 1 o'clock tomorrow. The Bulldogs will be trying to rebound from a 69-65 overtime defeat to Vallejo last weekend. San Rafael has been following a definite pattern all year — win one, lose one, win one, etc. It's their turn to win this one.

Redwood (9-0) and Marin Catholic (4-5) play the first part of a split doubleheader tomorrow at Lowell High in San Francisco. Marin Catholic plays Sacred Heart at 7 p.m. and Redwood plays Lowell at 8. Next week, they switch opponents and play at Redwood.

On Wednesday, Novato (4-6) travels to San Mateo at 1 p.m. The Hornets salvaged seventh place in the Rose City tournament with a 51-38 triumph over Piner of Santa Rosa Saturday. Tamalpais (5-4), its bid to conquer the Peninsula thwarted by two defeats in the El Camino tournament, plays its first home game after nine road clashes, hosting Galileo of San Francisco at 8:15.

Two alumni games are also set for Wednesday. Drake's is at 6:45 and Redwood's is at 8.

Marin Catholic plays El Camino in South San Francisco Thursday at 1 p.m., and Terra Linda (4-5) takes on the College of Marin junior varsity in Kentfield at 4.

Redwood Wallops Yuba; Novato Smashes Piner

The results of another road test are in, and it looks like the 1972 model of the Big Red Machine is running smoother, louder and longer than any of its predecessors.

Redwood High School demolished Yuba City, 68-45, Saturday night to win the championship of the Yuba City basketball tournament. The victory ran the Giants' season record to 9-0, their best start in history.

In other action involving Marin County Athletic League teams, Novato captured seventh place in the Rose City tournament in Santa Rosa by defeating Piner of Santa Rosa, 51-38; Marin Catholic lost the consolation game in the same tournament to Mt. Eden of Hayward, 60-46; and Tamalpais was massacred by St. Ignatius of San Francisco in the consolation game of the El Camino tournament in South San Francisco, 72-42.

Never in serious trouble, Redwood led by eight points at the end of three quarters and broke the game open with a 31-16 fourth period. Tim Hennessy scored 21 points and Steve McGee added 19 as both made the all-tournament team.

"We've found our shooting eye," said coach Dick Hart, whose Giants sank 46 per cent of their shots, 28 of 61. "We made very few turnovers again," he continued, "only eight this time."

Novato (4-6) permitted a weak Piner team only five field goals in the last three periods and was never really challenged. "We played better man-on-man defense," said coach Jim Caranica, "although we still have a way to go."

Marin Catholic (4-5) led Mt. Eden at halftime, 27-24, but ran into foul trouble in the second half and the game slipped away. Mt. Eden made 26 of 36 from the line, while the Wildcats had only six of 11.

"We're substituting a lot, trying to find our best five," said coach Dave Gonsalves. "That accounts for a lot of the fouls." In the three-game tournament, the Wildcats committed 69 gouls to their foes' 43.

Jim Sullivan scored 16 points and Tim Stone came off the bench to add 10 Saturday.

Tamalpais (5-4) anticipated another close game with St. Ignatius, which edged the Indians by one earlier this year. Instead it was a rout, with S.I. ahead 53-23 at the end of three quarters.

"We had to play catchup basketball, and it backfired," said Tam coach Bernie Schneider. "We were down 7-0, 9-2, 13-3, that kind of thing. It's like in football — you get behind and start throwing long passes, and you either get back in the game or you don't. We didn't."

Will Garner and Jimmie Brown each scored 10 points for the Indians.

spot to be in. It puts too much pressure on a few guys."

With Brodie hitting on nine of 12 attempts, the 49ers took a 17-13 halftime lead against the Lions but Detroit, which finished the year with a disappointing 7-6-1 record, went in front with the opening kickoff of the second half as Steve Owens crashed a yard for the score.

Brodie got the lead back again at 24-20 when he found Gene Washington with a bomb, but Detroit bounced back for a 27-24 edge on a six yard pass from Greg Landry to Charlie Sanders.

The Lions had the ball in their own end and were moving along the ground when they got bogged down on the 40 early in the final quarter. The Lions were inches short of a first down at their own and gambled on fourth down. The San Francisco defense stacked up Landry at the line short of the first down and that proved the break the 49ers needed.

Brodie marched them the distance for the go-ahead score, dashing 10 yards up the middle untouched on a broken pass play for the clinching TD.

Joe Schmidt, the Lions coach, defended his gamble for a first down and said he didn't see how Landry missed getting it.

"It was a good move and I'd do it again," said Schmidt. "We wanted to control the ball and I'm convinced in my mind Landry made it for the first down."

The Lions couldn't move again after San Francisco's final score and punted to the 49ers 15. That's when Brodie and Willard chewed up the clock and the yardage before turning over the ball on the Detroit 24. The Lions had one more chance with 1:35 left but on the first play Frank Nunley intercepted a Landry pass and that sealed San Francisco's ninth victory compared to five losses.

For the record, the 49ers finished up a half game ahead of the Los Angeles Rams in the NFC West race.

Now they have to play the Washington Redskinu next Sunday in the first round of the NFL playoffs.

"Washington has a lot of fine players, is well coached and has a veteran defense which doesn't make mistakes," Nolan said of the Redskins. "We know we are going to be up against a very fine team, but if we can come back with our best game we have a great chance."

Rose Bowl Rivals Head To Pasadena

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Rose Bowl football rivals Michigan and Stanford headed for Pasadena today to finish preparations for their New Year's Day encounter between the champions of the Big Ten and the Pacific-8 conferences.

The Wolverines arrive shortly before noon and participate in a noon reception at Tournament House. Following the formal welcoming ceremonies, the team will hold a picture day practice session at East Los Angeles Junior College, where Michigan will practice.

The Stanford players, many of whom are from Southern California, convene at Long Beach where they will maintain their headquarters for the next two weeks. The Indians will practice at Cal State Long Beach, with some of the workouts to be held at Blair Field, training camp for the Los Angeles Rams.

fullback plays through the middle of the Lions' defensive line. "The guy who made those plays go was Vic Washington," said rookie runner Schreiber about rookie runner Washington. "He was knocking hell out of that linebacker."

"I HAVE ALWAYS been able to block," Washington said. "It is something in your heart, not your size, that makes you block. They think because of my size (5-10, 195) they can run over me. They find out different."

Brodie said of his touchdown run that was the winning TD, "Both men on the left and right were covered and there was that big hole in the middle, so I just ran."

Head coach Dick Nolan called this year's 49er team better than last year's champion team. "Ted (Kwalick) and Vic (Washington) make it a better team," he said.

About that halftime show, the 49ers of years past staged their own version of a punt, pass and kick contest, since many former 49ers were on hand at Alumni Day. Y. A. tittle won the passing, Gordy Soltau won both kicking events, and Leo Nomellini lost everything. Among the alums were Bruno Banducci, Marin Catholic High School football coach and Al Endriss, athletic director at Redwood High.

Khayat, Svare Get New Pacts

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Ed Khayat and Harland Svare, who took over troubled National Football League teams in mid-season, were rehired as head coaches yesterday by their respective clubs.

Khayat, whose Philadelphia Eagles went 6-2-1 in their last nine games under his direction, received a two-year contract from owner Leonard Tose. So did general manager Pete Retzlaff.

Svare, whose San Diego Chargers scored two upsets to go 2-2 under his leadership, was rehired for one year, according to Chargers president Eugene Klein. Klein said he would name a new general manager today.

NEW YORK — Gridiron buffs tuned in to the National Broadcasting Company's (NBC) Washington Redskins-Cleveland Browns game were suddenly cut off from the action in the second period and when the program resumed they were watching the Baltimore Colts-New England Patriots contest.

Irate viewers flooded local stations with telephone calls asking the reason for the switch and were told that NBC failed to provide prior notification of a program change.

ATLANTA — Three days before he died, golfing great Bobby Jones was baptized into the Roman Catholic faith.

Today the same priest who baptized Jones, winner of golf's "Grand Slam" in 1930, presided at private graveside services at Oakland Cemetary.

Speed Skating

WEST ALLIS, Wis. — Ann Henning, a 16-year-old high school junior from Northbrook, Ill., yesterday took first place in two speed skating events in qualifying races to decide the United States' representatives in the 1972 winter Olympics. The events were the women's 500 and 1,000 meter races.

Warriors Host Knicks Tomorrow At Oakland

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors were preparing today for a Tuesday night matchup against the New York Knicks in the Oakland Coliseum arena.

The Warriors have won two of their last three games, with the loss coming to NBA Pacific Division leader Los Angeles, after a dismal losing streak that began earlier this month.

In their last outing, the Warriors continued their dominance over Detroit as they took a 129-102 decision Saturday night in posting their seventh straight victory over the Pistons.

But the Warriors are struggling to stay in the West division race as they are 2 ½ games behind second place Seattle and 12 ½ behind the Lakers.

Warriors coach Al Attles has just about conceded the division title to the Lakers.

"With the Lakers off to a good start," Attles said Friday night after Los Angeles had routed the Warriors, 129-99, "our hopes are in the fight for second place."

Texas A & M Gets Bellard As Coach

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Emory Bellard, a young offensive assistant to Darrell Royal at the University of Texas for the past six years, today was hired as athletic director and head football coach at Texas A& M University under a five-year contract.

Bellard, who had a remarkable record in Texas high school circles before joining Royal at Texas in 1966, succeeds Gene Stallings, who was fired on Thanksgiving Day after his Aggies had lost to traditional rival Texas in a game which might have saved Stallings job if he won.

The new Aggie mentor accepted the hot spot assignment just three days after his birthday.

Bellard, who compiled a 136-37-4 record in 15 years of high school coaching after his graduation from Southwest Texas State University, said he has two immediate jobs.

"My primary tasks now are to organize a coaching staff and get busy recruiting," he said. "I'm sure the young athletes of Texas will understand why Texas A&M is a bit tardy in contacting them."

Bellard's acceptance came less than 36 hours after Louisiana State Coach Charles McClendon apparently had rejected a lucrative offer which some sources say could have reached the $1 million level.

It had been rumored strongly that McClendon was the No. 1 choice for the vacancy and that he would be named immediately after LSU's game Saturday in the Sun Bowl against Iowa State.

McClendon told writers in the dressing room after the game that he was interested and had been contacted by Texas A&M people but had not received "a bona fide offer."

Several hours later he told a gathering of Louisiana writers at his motel that he had "rejected" an offer from Texas A& M and was staying at LSU.

Dr. Jack Williams, president of Texas A&M, said the school was "indeed pleased to secure the services of such an outstanding football man" as Bellard, 44, who had been prominently mentioned as a potential candidate at Aggieland and also at Baylor University, where Bill Beall was fired after the past season.

"His football coaching record in Texas high school ranks and as a college assistant are excellent," Williams said. "His interest in all other competitive sports is equally outstanding. We know he will be warmly welcomed to Aggieland by students, faculty and alumni."

Texas Longhorn teams have won 48 and lost 11 games since he joined Royal's staff and had two national championship unbeaten seasons in 1969 and 1970. This year's Texas team had an 8-2 record, but won the Southwest Conference championship and will be playing in its fourth Cotton Bowl when it meets Penn State Jan. 1.

Golden Seals Earn 3-3 Standoff With Montreal

By DAVID DIETZ

OAKLAND — In a game that started ignominously but ended on a prosperous note, the California Golden Seals tied the Montreal Canadiens, 3-3, last night and strengthened their hold on third place in the National Hockey League's Western Division.

The Seals, who are unbeaten in their last five games, twice wiped out deficits to gain a two-point edge over Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, tied for fourth place in the divisional standings.

From the way the game started, no one in the Oakland Coliseum crowd of 5,660 would have remotely expected such an outcome. The Canadiens, defending Stanley Cup champions, had a 2-0 lead before the match was three minutes old, and it looked as if the final score would depend only on how many Montreal shots the young Seal goalie, Gilles Meloche, could keep out of the net.

It took Montreal just 15 seconds, in fact, to get its first goal as speedy Jacques Lemaire slid in front of the Seals' net and poked the puck past Meloche. At 2:36, with Meloche sprawled on the ice, Henri Richard, the gray-haired veteran, converted a rebound, and the Canadiens appeared on their way to easy pickings.

Not so, however. The Seals' defense, which had crumbled like so many tinkertoys in similar games earlier this year, stiffened. Finally, California tied the score in the second period as first Walt McKechnie and then Stan Gilbertson beat Canadien goalie Ken Dryden.

Montreal's Clause LaRose made it 3-2 five minutes after Gilbertson scored, but husky Wayne Carleton, who played standout hockey last night, tied it for good at 1:26 of the final period on a 40-footer that whistled by Dryden's glove.

The comeback cheered Seals' coach Vic Stasiuk, who obviously had gloomy recollections of the Nov. 5 game in which the New York Rangers got several early goals and went on to trounce the Seals, 8-1.

"They deserve a helluva lot of credit for coming back like that, especially being down, 2-0, to the Candiens," he said.

"We just started taking the man and playing our position," said Seals' defenseman Dick Redmond. "We weren't doing that in the first period."

Score by periods:

Montreal	2	1	0	—3
California	0	2	1	—3

Lamonica Leads Raiders To Victory In Finale

OAKLAND (UPI) — Gray-haired George Blanda and talented Floyd Little are having second thoughts about retiring from pro football.

In recent weeks, it had been rumored that the 44-year old Blanda, quarterback of the Oakland Raiders, and Little, the 29-year-old running back of the Denver Broncos, might call it quits after this season. Both said it will be a long time before they make up their minds following Oakland's 21-13 win over Denver Sunday in the season finale for both teams.

Little rushed for 79 yards in 24 tries to wind up as the top rusher in pro football with 1,133 yards, 29 more than Green Bay's John Brockington. It also was the second straight rushing title for Little in the American Football Conference.

Completing his fifth year in the pros, Little gave all the credit to Denver's offensive line.

"I bought them Hamburgers earlier in the season but now I owe them each a steak dinner," said the 198-pound speedster from Syracuse. "They are a dedicated bunch of guys, they did everything they could for me. When I got near the record, they got tougher."

Little also said he would wait until next summer before making a final determination on whether he would continue to play pro football.

"It's been a touch year for us as a team (4-9-1)," said Little. "Physically, I felt fine outside of a shoulder injury that kept me out of one game. But I'm going to wait until August and see how my legs and I feel before I decide whether I'll retire."

Blanda was a bit more emphatic.

"I don't know where they come up with the baloney about me wanting to retire," said the Raiders' "miracle man" who won or saved half a dozen games for Oakland last season with his field goals or quarterbacking.

Daryle Lamonica hit tight end Ray Chester on a 67-yard scoring pass in the first period; running back Charlie Smith dashed over from the one in the second period and Pete Banaszak plunged over from the two with 2:12 remaining for the Oakland touchdowns against Denver.

After a pass interception and fumble recovery, Jim Turner booted field goals of 29 and 14 yards for the Broncos, and Clem Turner scored Denver's only touchdown on a seven-yard pass from Steve Ramsey with 18 seconds remaining.

Wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff of Oakland caught two passes in the first half and emerged as the top pass receiver in pro football this season with 61. Runnerup was Bob Tucker of the New York Giants with 59.

"I'd be lying if I said I wasn't happy about the record," said the former Florida State star. "It's what everyone wants to do. But I'd rather be going to the Super Bowl."

"I'm unhappy because the season is over," said Raiders coach John Madden. "I'll be spending Christmas at home but not because I want to."

Madden said he tried a new offensive alignment against the Broncos with two tight ends, Chester and Bob Moore. Both played the entire game on offense.

"Denver didn't do anything that surprised us," said Madden. "They played solid football and tried to overpower us."

NFL ROUNDUP

Stanford's Pros Shine

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The National Football League's regular season wind-up proved to be a day of glory for Stanford alumni.

On the East Coast, two members of Stanford's class of '70 — Jim Plunkett and Randy Vutaha — combined their talents to lead the New England Patriots to a stunning 21-17 upset of the Baltimore Colts. Plunkett threw two TD passes to Vataha, the second an 88-yard play — as the Patriots toppled the Colts from the AFC Eastern Division title.

The Colt loss, combined with Miami's 27-6 rout of Green Bay, gave the Dolphins the Eastern title and dropped the Colts to second, though Baltimore still qualifies for the playoffs as best second place team.

PLAYOFFS

The playoff picture up this way:

In the National Conference, Minnesota, the Central winner, plays host to Dallas, which wrapped up the Eastern crown Saturday with a 31-12 triumph over St. Louis, on Christmas Day. The Vikings are early three-point favorites.

And Washington, the "wild card" team with the best second place finish in the NFC is at San Francisco Sunday, with the Forty Niners an early line four-point choice.

In the AFC, Miami is at Kansas City Christmas Day, with the Chiefs a four-point pick, and Cleveland plays host to Baltimore Sunday, with the Colts favored by four.

OTHER GAMES

In other NFL action Sunday, Cleveland upset Washington 20-13, Philadelphia routed the New York Giants 41-28, Atlanta edged New Orleans 24-20, Minnesota downed Chicago 27-10, the New York Jets defeated Cincinnati 35-21, Kansas City whipped Buffalo 22-9, and Houston outlasted San Diego 49-33.

Plunkett, whose 19 TD passes set a season record for an NFL rookie, hit Vataha with the 88-yard bomb on a third-and-11 situation on the New England 12 and caught the Colts completely by surprise. "As I walked up to the line, I thought, damn, what did I do," said Plunkett. "But then I figured if he was covered I could throw it away."

Vataha outraced rookie cornerback Rex Kern and set a club reception record with 51.

RUSHING

Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick drove over for one-yard TDs in the third period to help Miami over Green Bay and give the Dolphins the Eastern title. Csonka's 67 yards gave him 1,051—the first time a Miami player has surpassed the 1,000-yard mark. Green Bay's John Brockington gained 73 yards to finish with 1,099 and break the rookie record set by Cookie Gilchrist by three yards.

Duane Thomas' four TDs Saturday carried the Cowboys to their sixth straight title. Thomas scored three times on three-yard rushes and added a 53-yard run.

Roger Williams' 57-yard kickoff return, an interception by Coy Bacon and Gene Howard's fumble recovery set up 13 first quarter points as the Rams beat the Steelers to force San Francisco into a win-or-else situation.

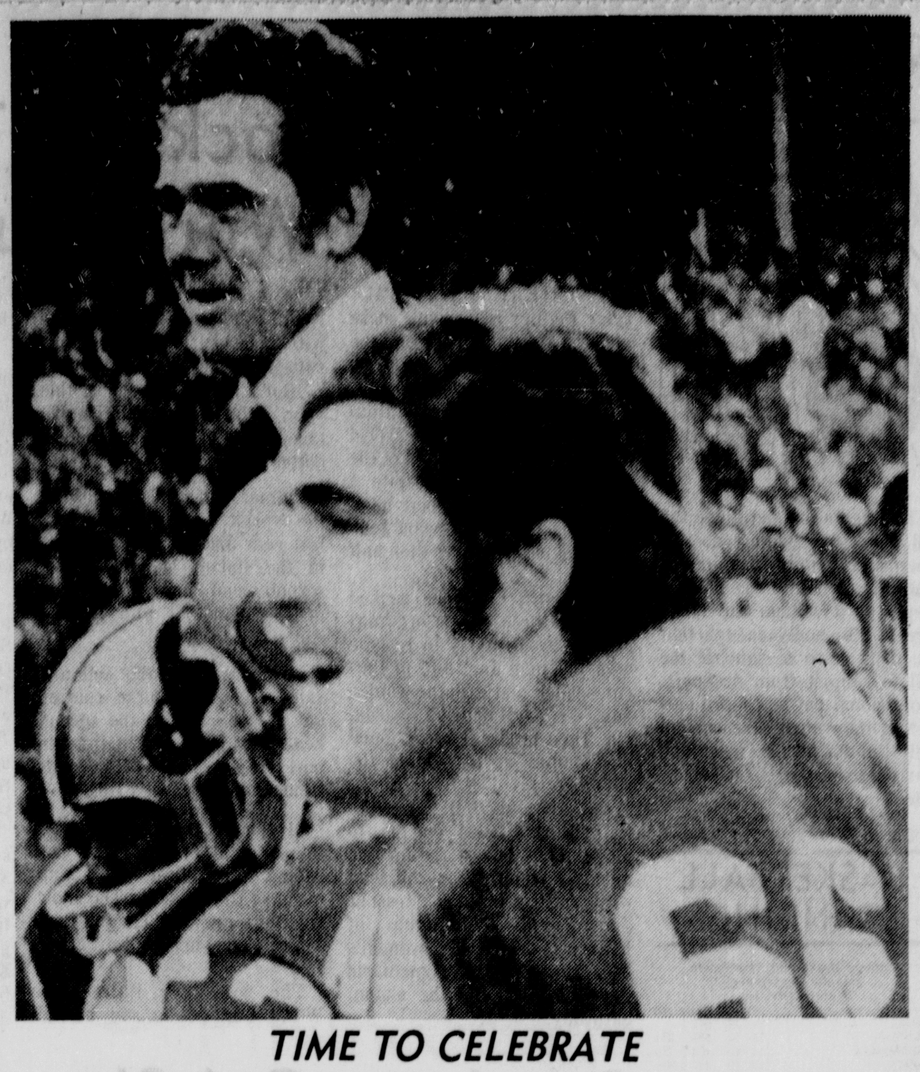
INTERCEPTION

Mike Howell's 68-yard return with an interception set up a game-winning TD pass from Bill Nelsen to Chip Glass as the Browns beat Washington and Pete Liske threw three TD passes as the Eagles put on their biggest offensive show of the season in routing the Giants.

Bob Berry threw a 22-yard TD pass to Ken Burrow with 34 seconds left as Atlanta downed the Saints and Bob Lee threw a pair of scoring passes to Bob Grim in the Vikings' victory over the Bears.

Joe Namath threw two touchdown passes, including a 74-yarder to Don Maynard and little-used Clifford McClain streaked 63 yards for another score as the Jets bombed Cincinnati and Bobby Bell provided the game's only TD as he ran 26 yards with an intercepted pass in the Chiefs' triumph over Buffalo, the Bills' 13th loss in 14 games.

Ken Houston set two records by returning a pair of interceptions for TDs within 34 seconds in the Oilers' upset of San Diego. Houston's TDs gave him a record 10 for his career and four this season.



TIME TO CELEBRATE

Mill Valley's Elmer Collett (66) joined the celebration as the San Francisco 49ers rejoiced over their defeat of Detroit yesterday. Skip Vanderbundt (52) hoisted coach Dick Nolan on his shoulders. The 49ers clinched the National Football Conference West title.

Len Eshmont Award Given To Ed Beard

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Line-backer Ed Beard is the 1971 winner of the Len Eshmont Award.

The award is made by the San Francisco 49ers to the player deemed by his teammates to have been the most courageous and inspirational during the entire season.

Beard, in his seventh year as a pro, was a regular linebacker until two years ago when he was made captain of the 49er special teams. He is credited by coach Dick Nolan with making those units the most efficient in the National Football League.

"Ed is certainly a fine choice for the Eshmont Award," said Nolan. "He has led mostly by hard work and example, and his special teams have made a great contribution to the overall team picture."

Beard was named for the award Sunday minutes before the kickoff for the game against the Detroit Lions, which the 49ers won, 31-27, to clinch a spot in the NFL playoffs.

"Winning the award is one of the finest things that can happen to you," said Beard, "but when your teammates single you out, it really has a very special meaning."

49ers Announce Ticket Policy For Playoff

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco 49ers announced Sunday that season ticket holders will get first crack at tickets for next Sunday's National Football League playoff against the Washington Redskins.

Tickets will be offered first to the ticket holders for the same seats they held during the regular season, but must be purchased at the Cow Palace on Monday and Tuesday between 8 a.m. and 9 p.m. No tickets will be handled through the mail because of the holiday crush.

Out of area purchasers unable to make the trip to the Cow Palace can order their tickets via Western Union telegram to the 49ers office at 1255 Post St.

All playoff tickets are $10 each. There will be no public sale of any tickets, the club said.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Tennessee, Arkansas Vie In Liberty Bowl Tonight

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Tonight's Liberty Bowl encounter between Arkansas and Tennessee could well be called "Cotton Bo vl by proxy".

Both teams manhandled opponents for the more prestigious Cotton Bowl, scheduled in Dallas New Year's Day. Arkansas, which blew an almost certain Southwest Conference title with a late-season foldup, crushed Texas, the conference representative in the bowl, 31-7 while Tennessee, beaten only by Southeastern Conference powerhouses Alabama and Auburn, routed Penn State 31-11.

Tonight's meeting will be the first since 1907 for the two schools and will be televised nationally beginning at 9 p.m. EST. Both teams have offensive stars who will play injured.

WATSON

Tennessee's Curt Watson, the Vols' star tailback, suffered broken ribs in the season finale against Penn State but should be ready for action. "He'll suit up," said Tennessee Coach Bill Battle. "He says he feels fine but we'll have to wait for a late doctor's report."

Joe Ferguson, Arkansas' quarterback and one of the better passers in the nation, has a sore right shoulder but will play. Ferguson threw 11 touchdown passes during the regular season and passed for 2,203 yards.

Ferguson will be without his leading receiver, however. Mike Reppond, who caught 56 passes for 987 yards and three TDs, is out with a calcium deposit on his leg.

TOUCH DEFENSE

Tennessee features one of the toughest defenses in the nation, spearheaded by Linebacker Jackie Walker and safetyman Bobby Majors.

Two bowl games were played during the weekend, with Louisiana State crushing Iowa State 33-15 in the Sun Bowl and Memphis State ripping San Jose State 28-9 in the Pasadena Bowl.

Bert Jones threw three TD passes in the second half to spark LSU past Iowa State. Jones passed 37 yards to Andy Hamilton, 21 to Gerald Keigley and six to Jay Michaelson to break open the game. Jones also plunged across for another TD and earned Most Valuable Player honors.

Charlie McClendon, the OSU coach, said he had rejected a million dollar offer from Texas A&M to take over as head coach. McClendon was overjoyed at his team's performance.

'PROUD'

"I can't say enough about our seniors," said the LSU coach. "They made me extremely proud. They won 27 games in three years—that's the winningest group I've had in my 10 years as a head coach."

Iowa State Coach Johnny Majors, whose younger brother will be performing tonight in the Liberty Bowl, said he was "disappointed but proud. Our players wanted to look good—and they did. There were so many things our players did that I've never seen done in a college football game before. I'll never forget the way they hit or the way they kept coming back.

Iowa State, appearing in its first bowl game ever, was hurt by three crucial turnovers early in the game.

BLOCKED PUNT

Tom Carlsen blocked a punt and recovered it in the end zone and later intercepted a pass as Memphis State ripped San Jose State. Dornell Harris carried for 87 yards to spark the attack.

"Our defense has been super all year," said Billy "Spook" Murphy, the Memphis State coach. "You might say we lived on our defense. Up to this game, we just had trouble holding on to the ball. The blocked punt was the turning point in the game.

Only 15,244 fans—the smallest crowd in the four-year history of the Pasadena Bowl—turned out for the game, played in the Rose Bowl.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

The fingers lift and guide the ball, but that certainly doesn't mean the thumb is unimportant. Insert it into the hole as deeply as it will go and make sure it fits snugly enough that you don't have to squeeze the ball to keep it from dropping. Professional bowlers learn early that they must take care of their thumb, for the wear and tear it receives make it vulnerable.

FOOTGEAR HELPS IN SLALOM

Palmer 'Socks' It To 'Em To Win World Cup Title

SESTRIERE, Italy (UPI)—Tyler Palmer is wearing socks when he skies this year and the early results indicate he is pleased with the change.

Palmer, America's slalom specialist, won the first World Cup special men's slalom of the new season Sunday despite a near fall on the second heat, defeating French stalwart Jean Noel Augueri by more than half a second.

The world Cup tour packed up for a three week Christmas holiday break today to resume with the men Jan. 9-10 in Berchtesgaden and with the women Jan. 6-7 in Maribor, Yugoslavia. The Christmas break found new names at the top of the standings.

Augert's second place to Palmer was good enough to move them into a tie for the men's World Cup overall lead with Austria's Heini Messner and Francoise Macchi of France took over the women's lead from Austria's Annemarie Proell by winning the slalom Saturday.

Palmer, from Kearsaege, N.H., confessed that he skied without socks last season "because my shoes were too little."

"But I'm wearing socks this year," the red-haired, freckle faced Palmer said. "I like it better so far."

Palmer, who finished 10th in the overall World Cup standings last year and won all his points in the slalom, carried a one second lead into the second heat of Sunday's race against Auguert.

However, he nearly fell and skied wide off course coming out of one gate on the second heat but recovered in time to post an overall 115.30 seconds time against Augert's 115.84.

"I thought I had lost it up there," said Palmer, who was racing in his first World Cup event of the season. "The snow was very icy and fast. But then I can't ski unless I'm going fast."

The win gave Palmer 25 World Cup points and moved him into a tie for sixth place in the Overall Cup standings.

Austria's Harald Rofner took third place in the slalom Sunday with a time of 116.15 The Italian brother team of Gustavo and Rolando Thoeni placed fourth and fifth with the younger Roland edging defending World Cup champion Gustavo by 13-100ths of a second for fourth place.

France's Herni Duvillard placed fifth in 116.65 and Spain's Francesco Fernandez Ochoa came in sixth in 118.02. Poland's Andrezej Bachleda was seventh in 118.33. Otto Tschudi of Norway and Admundo Bruggmann of Switzerland tied for ninth place with identical times of 118.45.

The men did not race a scheduled downhill event at Sestriere because of a controversial decision by the International Ski Federation (Fis) delegate Fredy Fuchs of Switzerland to cancel the event because the course was too dangerous.

Former NBA Star Dies Of Cancer

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)— Former pro basketball star Jackie Moreland died at his home Sunday following lengthy treatment for cancer. He was 33.

Moreland, a high school standout at Minden, La., went on to all-America honors at Louisiana Tech before going professional.

He was the No. 1 draft choice of the National Basketball Assosiation Detroit Pistons in 1960 and stayed in the NBA five years. After a brief retirement, Moreland played for the New Orleans Buccaneers of the American Basketball Association.

When the Buccaneers moved to Memphis in 1970, Moreland retired.

He is survived by a wife and two children.

Barry MacKay Ranked First In Singles

Barry MacKay of Ross is rated first in the men's singles, according to tentative rankings released by the Northern California Tennis Association board of directors.

Terry Moor of Sausalito is ranked 15th and Jerry Suyderhoud of San Anselmo 32nd in the men's singles.

In senior 45 singles, Bob Seymour of Mill Valley is eighth, and in senior 60 singles, Earl Kissinger of Tiburon is sixth. Seymour and partner Bill Beale are top-rated in the senior 45 doubles; Kissinger and partner Stan Maloney are first in the senior 60 doubles.

The men's doubles team of Moor and Andy Moffat, Mill Valley, is rated ninth.

Southern Cal Shows Might In 87-77 Win Over Kansas

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

In case anybody is wondering, the other team in the Pacific-8 Conference —Southern California —has established itself as a solid contender to break UCLA's basketball domination.

The Trojans knocked off Kansas 87-77 Saturday night for the Jayhawk Classic title in Lawrence, Kan., the first time in three years that Kansas has failed to win its own tournament. It was USC's fifth straight victory after losing its opener to Arizona State. UCLA was idle over the weekend.

Meanwhile, Washington State and California had their troubles in other holiday tournaments, but Stanford, Oregon State, Washington and Oregon posted victories.

Utah's fast break ran Washington State off the court in the second half as the Cougars fell 75-60 to the Redskins in the finals of the Utah Classic. California traveled to the Kentucky Invitational with a 3-1 record and lost to Princeton on Friday and to Missouri 82-70 Saturday night.

Washington also showed it is going to give UCLA a run for its money by rolling to its sixth straight victory, 75-66, over Kansas State for the second win in two nights over the Wildcats. Senior center Steve Hawes led a late Husky rally and finished with 23 points and 14 rebounds.

Stanford got a 19-point performance from guard Claude Terry and broke a three -game losing streak by defeating San Jose State, 65-59.

Sam Whitehead and Freddy Boyd each bagged 17 points as Oregon State (5-2) won its fifth straight game in an 88-58 rout of Portland. Oregon (4-2) needed two free throws from Ken Strand with 10 seconds remaining to edge Weber State 69-67 and hand the Wildcats their first loss in five outings.

Eighth-ranked USC got 48 points from forwards Joe Mackey and Ron Riley to keep ahead of Kansas.

Missouri and Cal swapped the lead 10 times in the first half, with the Tigers leading by one at intermission. But Missouri outscored the Bears 46-35 in the second half, leading by as much as 16 at one time. Harry Brown score 17 points to lead Cal and teammate John Coughran added 16.

In other games, the University of Pacific won its 28th straight game at home by thumping San Fernando Valley State, 97-59; Byron Jones hit 23 points to lead San Francisco past Loyola of Chicago, 87-73, for third place in the Sun Bowl; sophomore William Averitt scored 38 points as Pepperdine downed South Alabama, 97-93; St. Mary's rallied from a four-point deficit in the final four minutes to edge Southern Oregon, 95-92; and Nevada-Las Vegas survived a 35-point explosion by Portland State's Willie Stoudamire to defeat the Vikings 97-91.

Hawaii was awarded a weird 30-10 win over visiting Florida State when Seminole coach Hugh Durham refused to leave the floor after being banished from the game by the referree for arguing. There was 11:43 left in the first half when the game was called.

NBA ROUNDUP

Lakers Capture 25th Straight; Chamberlain Scores 32 Points

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Wilt Chamberlain remembered when he was a scoring kingpin and it helped the Los Angeles Lakers extend their National Basketball Association winning streak to 25 games.

Chamberlain, content to block shots, help with the board work and hurl long down-court passes in the Lakers' new run-and shoot game, had one of his better offensive nights this season as he scored 32 points in leading the Lakers to a 154-132 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

Los Angeles last lost a game on Oct. 31 to the Golden State Warriors and seem certain to extend its record-shattering skein to at least 27 with games against Buffalo and Baltimore this week. Actually, the Lakers don't have a correspondingly tough opponent until they meet the Milwaukee Bucks on Jan. 9. If they keep the streak intact until then, it will reach 33 games.

Two strong surges carried the Lakers to victory. They mounted a 41-point first period and, when Philadelphia got within two points at 121-119, with 6:48 to play, Los Angeles hit 16 straight points enroute to a 45-point last quarter and a club record-tying 154 points.

Chamberlain was superb under the boards as he hauled down 34 rebounds, converted some of the recoveries into assists and blocked 12 shots on the defense board. Los Angeles' brilliant backcourt tandem ably assisted in the L.A. attack as Gail Goodrich scored 31 points and Jerry West added 24.

Philadelphia was paced by Bob Rule's 33 points and Billy Cunningham's 28.

Milwaukee, with a 30-4 record that is second only to Los Angeles' 31-3, won its 10th straight by beating Baltimore 111-96; Portland nipped Detroit 114-113 and Seattle beat Phoenix 130-127 in overtime.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar connected on 15 floor shots and scored a game-high 34 points for the Bucks, who led Baltimore by a slim 50-47 margin at halftime. Archie Clark posted a high of 22 points for the Bullets.

Bob Love scored 36 points and Chet Walker added 26 to the Chicago total against Cleveland. The Cavs edged to within 37-36 with 4:45 left in the second quarter, but Love then scored 13 of Chicago's next 15 points to put the game out of reach. Bobby Smith paced Cleveland with 23.

Atlanta built an early lead and then held off a Cincinnati fourth-quarter spurt as the Hawks could only score 15 points in the final period. Pete Maravich's 27 points and Walt Bellamy made the difference for the Hawks. Tom Van Arsdale led the Royals with 23.

Stan McKenzie's two insurance foul shots with three seconds left proved to be the margin of victory for Portland as Bob Lanier scored for Detroit with one second left. Lanier played only the second half and scored a game high 33 points. Sidney Wicks led Portland with 26.

Seattle took advantage of three straight jump shots by Spencer Haywood during the overtime to stop the Suns. Haywood, who had 35 points, hit for eight of the Sonics' 14 overtime points. Paul Silas led Phoenix with 29.

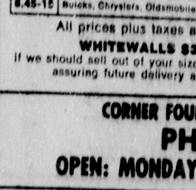
Guaranteed Brake Reline

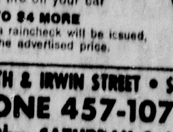
$29.70
Drum-type Brakes
Any American Car and Most Foreign Cars.

We do a lot more than reline your brakes...here's what we do:

We replace your worn linings with new bonded brake linings on all four wheels.



Brake shoe return springs are checked for proper tension.



The final step is to add heavy duty brake fluid and road test your car.

Next, we inspect the brake fluid lines for leaks or weak points.

Inspect your brake drums for contact with the linings.

We examine your wheel cylinders and master cylinder for leaks.

Because wheel bearings can be badly damaged if the original grease has dried and caked, we clean and repack the outer bearings on both front wheels.

As you can see . . . your money goes a long way at Firestone. It buys you prompt and dependable brake service by expert brake mechanics. Why not give us a try?

GUARANTEED 30,000 MILES OR 3 YEARS
We guarantee our brake lining, used in normal passenger car service, for the specified number of miles or years from date of installation, whichever comes first. Guarantee will be honored by Firestone Dealer or Store performing the original work and adjustments prorated on mileage and based on prices current at time of adjustment.

INCOME TAX FACTS

New Rules Govern The Deduction On Business Automobile Expenses

Now is the time to take a good hard look at your business automobile expense for 1971.

Under the new rules you can deduct 12 cents per mile for the first 15,000 miles of business use of your automobile, plus nine cents per mile for every business mile thereafter.

If you have been itemizing your automobile expenses and they don't amount to 12 cents a mile including straight line depreciation then perhaps you should consider using 12 cents per mile this year instead of itemizing.

On the other hand, suppose you had been using the old 10 cents per mile allowance and you find this year that you have a big bill for repairs, tires, transmission or something, then you might change to itemizing. You can change each year on the same or different cars provided you have not previously taken the extra first year depreciation allowance on your car or if you have not depreciated by one of the accelerated methods.

STRAIGHT LINE

You must always use the straight line method of depreciation in the years in which you itemize, and you must figure that you have used the straight line method of depreciation for the years you took the standard deduction.

If you are going to itemize this year then have all that needed repair work done, buy those new tires and get the old bus in shape so that next year you will have no expenses on the car and can use the standard rate profitably.

If your itemized expense records are not complete, then you could be better off to use the mileage rate because all you have to prove here is the number of miles traveled and the business use of the car.

DEDUCT 12 CENTS

If you are reimbursed for the business use of your car by your employer at less than 12 cents a mile you can include the reimbursement in income and deduct 12 cents a mile up to the first 15,000 miles and nine cents a mile thereafter.

If your reimbursement is over 12 cents a mile but not over 15 cents a mile you wouldn't use this system as you do not have to account for your automobile expenses because you are considered to have accounted to your employer. If your reimbursement is over 15 cents a mile, you will have to include the reimbursement in income and itemize your automobile expneses.

You can use this system and in addition deduct parking fees, bridge tolls, etc.

Also, the mileage allowance for use of your car for charitable purposes or for medical purposes is now six cents a mile.

Dollar Devaluation Pushes Market Up

NEW YORK (UPI—Devaluation of the dollar, announced over the weekend, pushed prices sharply higher in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange today.

Shortly before the closing bell, the Dow Jones industrial average was up 9.63 to 883.43, somewhat off its earlier level. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index jumped 1.26 to 101.52.

Volume was around 23-million shares, the best since Aug. 17, two days after President Nixon announced a temporary program of economic controls. First hour volume of 8.87 million shares was a record.

Analysts said the market's surge was not unexpected. For one thing, the weekend development resolved some of the uncertainty involving the world's currency problems, and elimination of major uncertainties involving money or economics traditionally is bullish for wall street.

Of the 1,763 issues on the tape, there were 1,198 advances, 344 declines.

Gold stocks were one of the few areas which failed to go along with the uptrend. Homestake Mining and Campbell Red Lake were point-size losers throughout most of the session.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were higher in active trading.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Two High-Rated Convertible Bonds Which Have Good Future

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q- Could you recommend some "A" or higher rated convertible bonds selling to yield 5 to 6 per cent? The main consideration would be the possibility of worthwhile capital gains 5 to 10 years out. — J.B.

A- High-rated convertible bonds are few and far between. The largest number carrying this rating and yield are utility convertibles which are trading primarily on a straight yield basis with the conversion feature largely ignored. There are two issues which should work out in line with your capital gain objective although you will have to give up some interest income.

Federal National Mortgage 4⅞s of 1996 is trading at an 8 per cent premium over conversion value and returns 4 per cent current income. Now trading about 109, this bond which is convertible into 12.73 common shares, has a current conversion value of $1,014. Standard Oil of Indiana 5s of 1996 yields currently 4.6 per cent. A 15 per cent conversion premium results from the bond price of 109½, common price of 67 and the conversion ratio of 14.18 shares.

Q- I have 200 shares of American Can (NYSE) which were purchased at $45 in the summer of 1970. Do you think at $30 the shares are worth holding? I am 66 and interested in income and appreciation. — C.A.

A- These shares moved lower on strike-reduced earnings in the first half of 1971. In spite of a turnaround in third quarter net this year, share price failed to rally. Even the sharp market correction was unable to generate an upmove for American Can. The weight of market opinion anticipating a dividend cut in December was simply too heavy to penetrate.

It would appear that some of this pessimism is overdone. An upsurge in demand for containers as a result of bumper fruit and vegetable crops plus a narrowing in losses from two problem areas — printing and chemicals — are both bullish. With the uncertainty on the dividend now resolved, price action should begin to reflect earnings recovery. Hold.

10-Cent Dividend Declared

Directors of Commerce Clearing House, Inc. have declared a fourth quarter cash dividend of 10 cents per share, payable Jan. 26, 1972, to stockholders of record on Dec. 31.

After adjustment for the increased number of shares outstanding, following the three-for-two split of the common stock last April, the aggregate dividend payment during the 1971 calendar year will be 33.3 cents per share.

It is anticipated that one or more of the subsequent 1972 dividend payments will be in reduced amounts per share to be within the limitation imposed by the 1972 general dividend guideline as released by the Committee on Interest and Dividends, unless there is an intervening change of federal government policy.

Commerce Clearing House has its western regional headquarters in San Rafael.

A Giant Increase

NEW YORK (UPI)—Plastic bottle production in the first six months of 1971 totaled 2.7 billion, an increase of 62.3 million bottles over the corresponding period of 1970, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Liquor Market's Whopping Sales

NEW YORK (UP I)—Marketers will wrap up this year in a $2 billion package, literally, according to a study by the research department of a leading Scotch whisky distillery.

That figure represents the cost of gift packaging for 1971. An estimated $750 million of it is spent in the Thanksgiving New Year's season, the study shows. After Santa Claus comes Dad, Father's Day ranking second in gift giving, followed by Mother's Day, Easter and St. Valentine's Day.

The actual gift-buying factor in the Christmas shopping season can't be pinned down precisely, but Black & White estimates that 32 per cent of the liquor industry's annual sales are made in the period running from just before Thanksgiving to New Year's Day. The National Retail Merchants Association says 35 per cent of annual sales volume is represented by Christmas shopping.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

New Furniture Refinishing Firm Opens Doors In San Rafael

A new furniture refinishing and repairing business has been opened at 517 Jacoby Street, San Rafael by Jack Bennett of Mill Valley in the Ghilotti Bros. new building.

He has been doing refinishing for 10 years for Marin County furniture stores and individuals, working on everything from chairs, wood and metal office pieces to pianos and antiques.

The Ghilottis' building, which also houses the offices and shops of the Golden Gate Highway and Transportation District, with a parking area for the new buses, still has 7,296 square feet available for shops and warehousing.

All leases are being handled through Herman Deitch, Realtor.

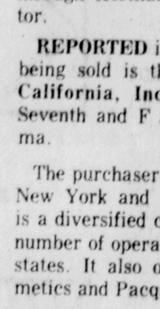
REPORTED in the process of being sold is the H and N of California, Inc. hatchery at Seventh and F Streets, Petaluma.

The purchaser, Pfizer, Inc. of New York and San Francisco, is a diversified company with a number of operations in several states. It also owns Coty Cosmetics and Pacquin.

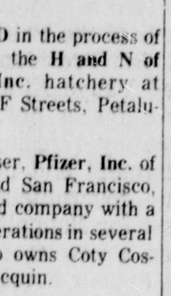
H and N plans to continue in business as a Pfizer subsidiary.

MICHAEL A. TOMS of Stinson Beach has been elected chairman of the board of the Response Marketing Group, Inc., a recently formed group of companies specializing in multi-media response advertising. He is also president of Creative Marketing Associates, San Francisco, a multi-media response advertising agency.

R. MICHAEL WALTZ of Marinwood, assistant manager of Wells Fargo Bank's New Montgomery office in San Francisco, has been named an assistant vice president. He has been with the bank since 1966 and at the New Montgomery office since last July. Previously he served at Mill Valley, Sausalito and Hollywood offices.



Waltz



Levin

NEW TO SAN RAFAEL is Fred H. Levin, who has been appointed northwest regional manager of land-mobile sales and systems for the Hallicrafters Co. of Illinois. He was formerly commercial and industrial sales manager for Northrop Page Communications Engineers, Inc. in Washington, D.C. for over six years. Previously he was self-employed as a market research consultant to patent drug manufacturers.

JOHN J. KOSS of Novato, an agent with the Robert Maney agency in San Francisco for State Mutual Life Assurance Co. of America, has been licensed as a registered representative of SMA Equities, Inc., broker-dealer for mutual funds, and American Annuity Life Assurance Co., which handles individual and group annuity contracts.

WHEN DOMINICAN COLLEGE in San Rafael became coeducational last September, young men were added to the roster of students seeking part-time employment.

The Dominican placement office now has a long list of men and women seeking jobs as typists, researchers, housekeepers, baby-sitters, gardeners and other opportunities, casual or part-time, to help pay their college expenses. Placement officer Mrs. Pamela Bourke reports that several students have schedules that allow them to be permanent part-time employees. Many are willing to work during their free hours, on weekends or full-time during the semester break now in effect until Jan. 18.

New Nation Is Born With Doubtful Future

A new nation has been born in Southeast Asia. Its birth was violent and its future is darkly clouded.

The creation of Bangla Desh is the latest in a long series of upheavals that have followed the partition of India in 1947 into India and Pakistan.

THE VISION came about because of insistence by Moslem leaders that a separate nation be created to embrace the areas of British India, and of its 570-odd semi-autonomous princely states, in which the Mohammedan religion predominated. It created a Moslem Pakistan divided into two parts, between which lay hundreds of miles of India. East Pakistan, thus separated from the seat of government in the west, comprised most of what had been the province of Bengal, a densely populated land laced by the myriad streams that flow into the mouths of the Ganges River system, from the Hooghly on the west to the Karnaphuli on the east. Jute was the principal crop; and most of the industry of Bengal was lost to India in the partition which included Calcutta and its surrounding area in the Hindu nation.

One of the greatest mass migrations in world history followed the partition, with Hindus from Pakistan fleeing into India, and Moslems from India crossing into Pakistan. A blood bath accompanied the migration. How many hundreds of thousands died in it, no one knows. But even when it was over, there remained some 35 million Moslems in India — more than half as many as in Pakistan.

Despite its sorry beginnings, there was high hope for the success of the new nation of Pakistan. In the partition, it won approximately half of "India's breadbasket" in the Punjab. It had some industry around Karachi on its far western border, and major ports there and at Chittagong in the east. And it was not hampered by the Hindu caste system that has been the heavy drag on development of a modern India.

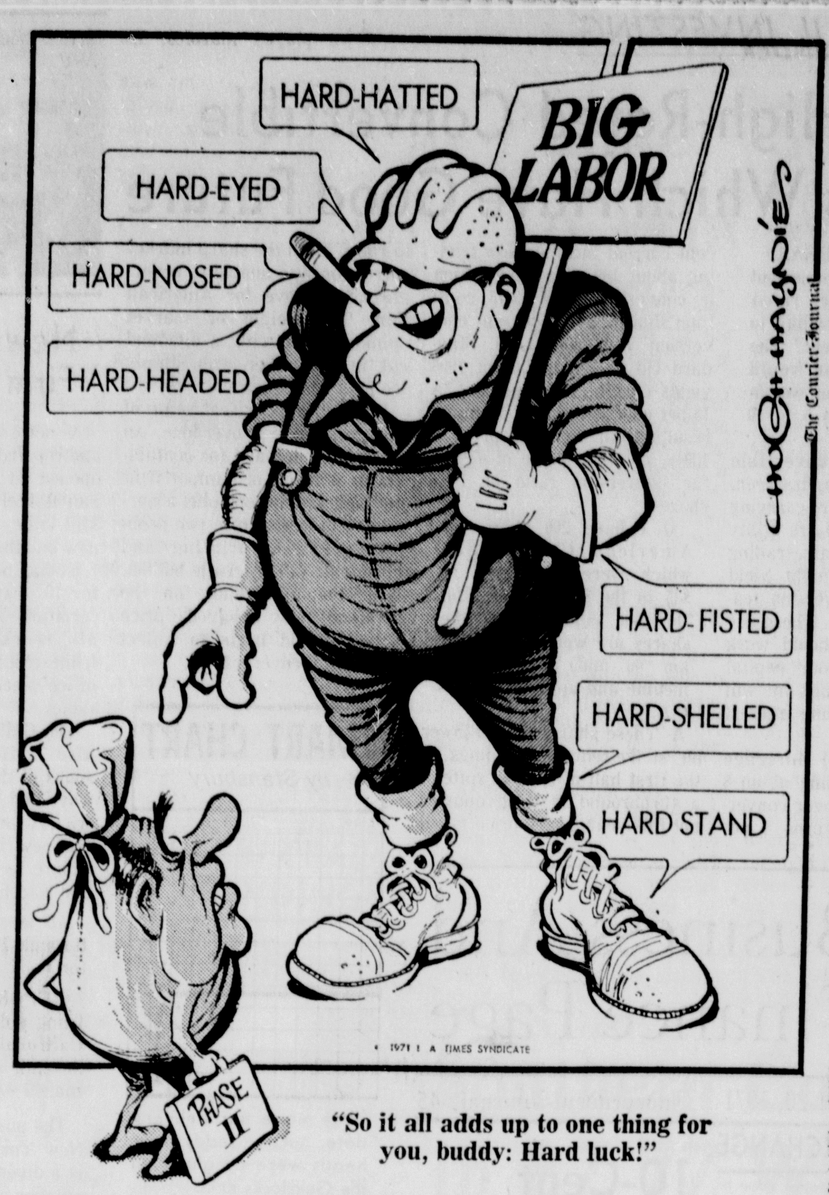
BUT INDEPENDENCE from Hindu rule seemed of less and less value to the Bengali people as the years passed. They found themselves ruled instead from a West Pakistan that was for them a foreign land. the ties of religion were not alone enough.

Last year, the Awami League, dedicated to independence for East Pakistan as Bangla Desh, elected a majority of the members of the Pakistan Parliament. But President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan stifled this move for a new, peaceful partition by refusing to convene parliament and instituting military government. The stage was set for Bengal's revolt. And when a new mass migration began to pour across the borders into India — this time to escape not Hindus but fellow Moslems, the army of Pakistan — the stage was set again, for Indian intervention.

Surrounded and outnumbered by Indian forces, and operating among bitterly hostile people, the army in East Pakistan had little chance. And so, amid bombs and gunfire, Bangla Desh was born.

HOW MUCH INDEPENDENCE Bangla Desh now can achieve depends largely on India. The Bengali people are indebted for their freedom to the very land they once fought to escape. Their new country borders no other country except India and, for a very small stretch, Burma.

It might be expected that the United States, with its tradition of self-chosen freedom, would support Bangla Desh. But so far, our government has instead supported Pakistan — whose president acted at least as arbitrarily as George III when he dissolved parliament.



"So it all adds up to one thing for you, buddy: Hard luck!"

George Meany Has Strong Hand In High-Steaks Political Poker

HOW GREAT IS MEANY'S POLITICAL MUSCLE? It's formidable — and Nixon knows it. Its power comes not from Meany's public rhetoric but from the massive influence the AFL-CIO has on Capitol Hill.

Meany has a near-veto over much of Nixon's high-priority legislative program and he'll use it at the critical time.

WHERE DOES THIS POLITICAL POWER COME FROM? It comes from grass-roots campaigning at election time and financial contributions at the moment when the help of a few thousand dollars can make the difference between defeat and victory.

Political reporters estimate that no fewer than 200 members of Congress count labor support-money and manpower — as a major factor in their election.

Meany can usually cash in his IOUs when he needs to and the AFL-CIO can put some 80 lobbyists on the hill when it wants to mobilize to pass or block legislation.

BUT IN HIS WAGE-PRICE FEUD WITH NIXON, Meany is at a disadvantage. The high cards are with the President:

1—All the polls show that while wage-price controls are distasteful, most people feel they are necessary and want to make them work.

2—Although Meany is vigorously attacking the administration's new economic policies, a Gallup survey finds that 42 per cent of union families approve what Nixon is doing.

3—Rank-and-file labor did not at all like the discourteous treatment which the President received at the AFL-CIO Miami convention. An Opinion Research poll showed 63 per cent disapproved.

WILL LABOR QUIT THE WAGE-PRICE BOARDS? Almost certainly not. Union leaders figure they can win more from sitting on them than by heckling from the sidelines.

BUT THE MEANY-NIXON FEUD WILL CONTINUE. It will color next year's Congress and the next year's election. Earlier Nixon-Meany cordiality has vanished and been replaced by such bitterness on both sides that repair is unlikely.

Unless the Democrats nominate a man totally unacceptable, Meany will see that the AFL-CIO goes all out to undercut the administration's legislative program — including revenue sharing and the family assistance program — and to defeat Nixon In November.

With a ceiling on campaign spending, labor's huge volunteer manpower would be a big boon to the Democrats.

CAMPAIGN SPENDING — ONLY HALF A BILL. The new legislation designed to cut the high costs of political campaigning will come to a vote in the House early next month after it passes the Senate.

At this stage it is no more than half a reform. Reason: It has strong provisions for putting a lid on TV and radio advertising and calling for detailed and prompt disclosure of contributions and expenditures, but it contains woefully weak provisions for enforcement.

Unless the House improves the bill, as seems unlikely, enforcement of the spending-and-reporting law would be in the hands of employees who will benefit by casual enforcement — the clerk of the House and the secretary of the Senate.

This is like putting enforcement of the antitrust laws in the hands of the presidents of General Motors and Dupont.

ECOLOGICAL NOTE — THE DISAPPEARING SPECIES. Of the 8,600 species of birds and 4,000 of mammals which once inhabited the earth, the World Wildlife Fund reports that 150 varieties of birds and 120 mammals have already disappeared.

The culprit? Primarily man's refusal to live in harmony with his environment.

In addition, there are more than 900 other endangered species now nearing extinction.

Commercial greed is also taking its toll. Some 42,000 of the world's waning population of whales were killed last year. In violation of quota restrictions, Russian and Japanese fishing fleets slaughtered 84 per cent of all the whales killed in 1971.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Snowmobile Advocate Found Unconvincing

Mr. P. T. Hanna, public relations man for snowmobile manufacturers, wrote a naive article about how nice the snowmobile is. He says nearly all snowmobiling is done on government land.

I am an average reader. I have not taken the trouble to make a file of the many articles I have read about the snowmobile. They do not agree with the lovely picture Mr. Hanna paints. A fairly recent magazine showed a picture taken of two snowmobiles evidently stopped and an exhausted deer in deep snow in front of them.

I believe the last thing the world needs today is more mechanical contrivances buzzing around, even tho' they may be no noisier than a roomful of typewriters, as Mr. Hanna said.

As more machines are being sold their nuisance value is increasing by leaps and bounds. Except in special cases, our government should stop the sale of any more of them.

Mr. Furgurson is an excellent and thoughtful writer and a good man. I believe what he said and his sincere motive in saying it. It is a safe guess that the snowmobilers did not read it, and seeing the snowmobilers in films, I can think only of one word: Infantile.

'Because The Food Bill Was Too High'

I refer to a news broadcast heard this morning over a local radio station which stated that several lions and leopards in a Japanese zoo were greeted at feeding time not with their daily meal, but a bullet through their brains. Apparently one leopard was so frightened by the noise of the shotgun that he lay cowering on his sleeping mat as the gun was aimed at his head.

The explanation given for this action was that the $3,100 per month food bill was too high and the dead animals' skins could be sold at a premium.

I bring this story to other readers' attention because I feel that in this day of wage-price control and budget-squeezing, this Japanese zoo has set us all a fine example.

I myself have several dogs and cats. Surely if I greeted them in the morning with a bullet through their brains, I might sell their skins for a few precious dollars. Perhaps I could even sell their bodies to a taxidermist, as they are all fine specimens.

All too frequently of late I am ashamed to be a part of the human race. Indifferent, callous, expedient and greedy as we are, even in this season of brotherhood and "joy to the world," do we not have some sensitivity, some semblance of dignity left?

E.E. Cummings has said it much better than I:

"When the oak begs permission of the birch to make an acorn -
valleys accuse their mountains of having altitude -
and March denounces April as a saboteur then we'll believe in that incredible unanimal mankind
(and not until)."

Guerrant Resignation Shock To Associates

Dr. John Guerrant's resignation was a shock, I am sure, to all of us who had the pleasure of working with him.

Having had the opportunity for numerous consultations with him as part of my duties as chairman of the Mental Health Advisory Board, I was impressed with his ability to provide the leadership necessary to consolidate a cooperative effort involving professional and lay persons in establishing an integrated planning process for Marin. This has been a notable achievement, to say the least, in view of some of the problems he inherited when he was first appointed program chief and center director.

Marin will also benefit from his efforts to have recruited a highly competent staff who will continue to provide outstanding mental health services.

On behalf of the Mental Health Advisory Board, I wish to express our appreciation for a job well done and to wish him every success in his future work.

Taft's Yuletide Amnesty For The Draft Dodgers

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — In the spirit of the season, Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, has laid before the Judiciary Committee a bill that would offer forgiveness to the approximately 70,000 young Americans who fled their country rather than do military service during the Vietnamese war. Unlike the idea of outright and unconditional amnesty, Taft's proposal deserves serious consideration because it provides that the draft dodgers must do a stretch of active penance before their crime is paid for.

Instead of being sloughed off as just another pitch for the college vote, this bill will draw both public and legislative support, because it is a form of compromise submitted by a moderate Republican rather than by someone who has made a career of second-guessing the administration on the war.

But, I rush to add despite the tinkle of Salvation Army bells outside and the smell of money burning in the swank store across the corner, Taft's measure still is not tough enough.

TAFT WOULD ALLOW the evaders to return to this country without prosecution if, within a year after his bill becomes law, they "volunteer" either for military duty or for civilian service in an agency such as VISTA, the Veterans' Administration or the Public Health Service. After three years of this service, they could return to normal civilian life with no stigma except that on their own consciences.

His bill would include the 500 or so now in federal prisons or draft evasion, but specifically not those who deserted once in military service. Nor would it cover the additional legal problems brought on themselves by the relatively few youths who not only fled the country but also renounced their United States citizenship.

On the House side, Rep. Edward Koch, D-N.Y., has introduced a pair of bills that would legalize conscientious objector status for potential draftees who object to a particular war rather than to war in general, and retrospectively allow those who have fled to come home and appeal as COs under this provision. This is no form of compromise, but a bit of legislative legerdemain that would condone what the offenders knew was a crime when they committed it.

Compared to it, Taft's proposal has a ring of reasonableness and might even constitute a fallback position for Mr. Nixon in case the public opinion polls dictate some months from now that he soften his currently stated opposition to amnesty.

THE SENATOR SEEMS to have designed his suggestion in part for maximum impression on the draft dodgers' consciences — by proposing that one type of penance could be service for the Veterans' Administration. It is likely that anyone who fled military service and has any conscience at all would undergo some deep self-examination as he lay in bed at night, if his job all day was to take care of wounded veterans of the war he himself had avoided. But, by the very fact of his draft evasion, it seems equally likely that his overriding emotion would not be a stricken conscience but renewed self-congratulation at not taking the chance of being wounded himself.

In truth, there simply is no way to put a draft dodger through what his brothers endured when they willingly took their chances. Not all of them were killed or wounded, and many of them never saw blood or heard shots fired in combat. Some of them never slept in a hole in the mud or even did without a hot meal. But all of them to some extent laid their lives on the line when their country, however faulty its judgment, asked them to make the same sacrifice millions of others had made before them.

While they were in basic training or boot camp and on active duty in Vietnam or elsewhere, those who fled have been living the footloose life, in communes in Toronto or bundling with Svenska flickas in Stockholm at Swedish government expense. Now that it is increasingly safe for them to come home, under Taft's bill they will have the option of noncombat military service or other socially useful work — at minimum pay, to be sure, but without any of the rigors or dangers they intentionally ran away from. Under such conditions, the next time a wartime army must be raised, the entire draft-age population will be tempted to flee.

TAFT'S BILL COMBINES compassion with sternness, and may be the attitude with which the nation winds up, after Vietnam involvement is totally ended. Yet some among the evaders in Canada already have sneered at it, insisting they need no forgiveness from their country and have a moral right to repatriation. When they do so, they are sneering at all those other young Americans who perceived their duty differently.

It does no violence to the spirit of Christmas to suggest that for those enjoying the holidays in such expatriation, amnesty should neither come so soon nor be so easy.

San Francisco Steamroller In Bridge District Action

Peculiar doings at the Golden Gate Bridge District are nothing new, so San Francisco Supervisor Ronald Pelosi was right at home when he used a little sleight of hand involving more than $500,000 in insurance premiums.

The district traditionally relies on its committeees to get into details before their recommendations reach the full board, and the insurance committee had worked almost a year to come up with a way to improve the district's insurance plan.

It hired a consultant, held extensive hearings, and finally recommended unanimously bringing in new brokers who had challenged brokers Marsh and McLennan, who have had the business since the span was built.

BUT WHEN the committee's recommendation came before the full board this month, and was moved for adoption, Pelosi suddenly produced from his pocket a typed substitute motion to kill the recommendation. Steamrolled with the support of six other San Francisco directors (remember, that's the city whose supervisors were so loyal to the Plumbers Union that they jeopardized all federal urban renewal funds by opposing plastic pipe) and some of the "cow county" directors from the north, Pelosi won, 12-5.

Only San Francisco Supervisor Peter Tamaras bolted the Pelosi phalanx to vote with the minority against sticking with Marsh and McLennan. The ninth San Franciscan, Ben K. Lerer, was absent.

The vote so clearly was rigged in advance that few of the directors even bothered to explain the move, which none of them had even hinted at when they attended insurance committee meetings. Some pointed to a telegram from a London broker warning that a change could cause cancellation of policies, but director Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley (himself an insurance man) noted the threat was "pretty natural" since it came from one of Marsh and McLennan's own London brokers.

Meyer, long a campaigner for reforming the district's insurance plan, angrily charged the vote was "just plain disgraceful." Also voting against the Pelosi motion were Marin's other representatives, Supervisor Michael Wornum and San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini (also an insurance man).

MEYER ARGUED unsuccessfully that the district's insurance consultants had recommended the change in brokers, at least to the extent that a new broker be brought in.

The consultants had found the present insurance plan under Marsh and McLennan "intolerable. It's an awful lot of premium going out for nothing," they said especially of the $200,000 a year in premiums for disaster coverage. This policy covers less than 16 per cent of the $200 million cost in event of total loss of the span.

Meyer summed up Pelosi's action: "It smells."

Relation Of Jobs To Prices Seems Obscure To Union Leaders

(Reprinted from Wall Street Journal)

The relationship between wages and jobs ought to be obvious, and yet it's one that some people, such as labor union leaders, sometimes seem to overlook.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said the other day that the "relentless tendency" of wages to rise faster than productivity "is the single greatest reason for excessive rates of unemployment in many industrial nations today."

ONE REASON why the job-destroying effect of out-sized wage increases is less clear than it should be is that, for a time, it can be obscured by inflation. If a government inflates the economy an employer can pass along higher wage costs to consumers in higher prices.

Sooner or later, though, nearly everyone gets pretty sick of inflation. If the government tightens up its financial policies at all, there is less room for those offsetting price increases. That's what has been happening in the U.S.

"Faced with sharp declines in profits after taxes," Mr. McCracken said, "employers are forced to be extremely cautious about additions to payrolls, and those at the outer margins of the labor market have been particularly hard hit by this process."

SO FAR, HOWEVER, there's little indication that labor unions are getting the message. They continue to press for wage increases that bear no relationship at all to productivity, and their leaders rage at the Pay Board whenever it shows even a hint of restraint.

At the end of the year Mr. McCracken returns to the University of Michigan to resume teaching economics to young men and women. Perhaps sometime someone will find a way to impart similar wisdom to labor leaders.

New Mystery About 'The Book': Disappearance Of All 35 Copies

The flap over "The Book" at San Rafael High School seems to be over, with teacher Virginia Franklin having received permission from the school board this week to mimeograph portions of "The Movement Toward a New America" for her class in propaganda.

There will still be a few copies of the "revolution handbook" in the school library, but it is a mystery, according to Supt. John F. Plank, what has happened to the 35 copies of the massive book originally issued to a social studies class.

"They have simply disappeared," he said.

Apparently the students in the class no longer have the books, which became a very hot item at the school.

WHETHER THE BOOKS disappeared in some sort of a black market or were simply snitched is not clear. There is one in our garage — where it has reposed since it was found in the car one morning just before work.

There is nobody at our house in the class — and nobody claims knowledge of how the juicy document got there. If it's returned to the high school, it will probably save some student a $5.95 bill. (San Rafael High has a system of no returning the books, no grades, which isn't terribly impressive to those students who'd rather not know how they did.)

THE SANTA CLARA COUNTY sheriff's department, new to the game of handling the press mob that follows Angela Davis, got high marks on their first attempt in Palo Alto.

To the delight of the printed word people as well as television types, an undersheriff completely put down a radio reporter. The radio man wanted the sheriff to read aloud a press release "because a written paper is no good on the radio." The lawman responded, "I thought you at least had someone at that station who could read."

No Place For Marbles In Our Ordered Society

By ED BRANDER

My youngest son came in one day with a bagfull of marbles (a plastic bag, naturally). He had been to the variety store, had some money in his pocket which (of course) was burning a hole, saw the marbles and bought them.

He showed me the bag. I opened it and poured out the marbles.

"You have quite an assortment here," I remarked. "Glassies, onicks, com-babes. And here's an agate, but it's not a very good one."

He was all interest immediately. "Which are onicks?" he wanted to know.

I WAS TAKEN ABACK for a moment. Here was a kid in fourth grade, doing pretty well in school, not a "loner" by any means — a kid who, I would guess, is "with it"as the younger generation says. But he didn't know an onick from a com-babe.

I didn't let on. I showed him each type of marble and named it for him. Then I explained that, although I didn't know how the kids do nowadays, when I was a boy a glassie was worth 10 or more com-babes, depending on the size of the glassie; an onick was worth a little more than a glassie of the same size, etc. It was all news to him.

"Let's see what you have that you could use for a taw," I said. I fished around among the marbles and found an onick that seemed about the right size. "Maybe this would do," I said. "The trouble with onicks is that they chip. I wish you had a flint — or a steelie. Steelies are the best if you want to spin in the middle."

"What's a taw?" he wanted to know.

I hope he didn't notice how my face fell. I had to explain the whole thing to him — lagging for turn, shooting, "Knucks up" and "knucks down," everything.

But he was interested. After I got through, we went out in the back yard and I drew a circle and we played marbles. He beat me.

When we came in, my wife said: "Look at your hands! Look how grimy your knuckles are! Go and scrub them, both of you. I wish you wouldn't play marbles."

It took me back. I remember how my mother used to say the same thing.

THE YOUNGEST SON didn't mention the marbles to me again. That was all right. I figured he was introducing his chums to the game, and naturally wasn't interested in playing with the old man.

But a couple of months later I was in his room and saw the plastic bag of marbles back in the corner of a shelf. I poured them out on the bed. A couple had got chipped while we were playing. The rest were as perfect as the day he bought them. Obviously they hadn't been played with.

I sighed and put them back. Awhile later I happened to mention to one of his teachers that it seemed the boys don't play marbles any more.

"We discourage it," said the teacher. "It teaches them to gamble."

GAMBLE! MY SAINTED AUNT! Any marble game kids ever played is a game of skill. And it's a game that requires no special equipment, no great expense, and no supervision.

No supervision! I suppose that's the key. Nowadays, boys aren't supposed to know how to play games without some adult standing around and telling them what to do.

And then we complain because they don't know what to do with their spare time and wind up getting into trouble!

Session Canceled

Tomorrow's regular Reed School District board meeting has been canceled due to the approaching Christmas holiday. The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Jan. 4 at Bel Aire School.

Party Row; Husband Held In Wife-Beating

A party in San Rafael early yesterday morning ended with the hostess injured and her husband booked into jail on suspicion of felony wife-beating.

Evelyn Gisela Imler, 22, of 133 Tamal Vista, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut left eyelid and both eyes blackened, hospital officials reported. Her husband, John Daniel Imler, 23, same address, was held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

Police reported that Mr. and Mrs. Imler quarreled and went into the bedroom to settle it. Moments later, guests hearing screams entered the room and pulled Imler away from her.

She was treated at the hospital and returned to the party, where a second fight broke out between the guests and Imler out in the yard, according to police. He went into the house and returned with a .22-caliber rifle. It was taken from him and dropped to the driveway, discharging one shot.

Rice For Korea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department today announced plans for shipment of $29.2 million worth of U.S. rice to Korea under the Food for Peace program.

A CRUSADER

Cancer Claims Russian Writer

MOSCOW (UPI)—Poet editor Alexander Tvardovsky, the crusader who led Russia's writers through the censorship barriers a decade ago and paid for it when times changed, died Saturday of cancer. He was 61.

For disillusioned Soviet liberals, he had come to symbolize what might have been, had Nikita S. Khrushchev permitted the brief post-Stalin experiment with greater freedom of expression to continue.

Friends said Tvardovsky, former editor of Novy Mir literary magazine and a well-known poet, died in a country cottage near Moscow. He had previously been hospitalized with lung cancer, cirrhosis of the liver and a brain tumor.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, and dozens of literary proteges whom he championed against conservative hostility in his heyday as editor.

Tvardovsky published firebrand poets and heavyweight critics the conservative journals shied from, including Yevgeny Yevtushenko.

But his master stroke was discovery of an unknown writer named Alexander Solzhenistsyn who was trying to peddle a dynamite expose of Stalin's prison camps called " One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich."

No other editor would touch it, but Novy Mir published it in 1962.

Then the times changed and a Powwerful conservative backlash smothered men like Solzhenitsyn and, eventually, Tvardovsky.

He was dropped from the Communist Party Central Committee in 1966. He quit his Novy Mir editorship in February 1970, when he was in failing health and surrounded by opponents on his own editorial board.

Hub Planners Meet Tonight

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will consider use permits for two bars when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the city hall.

To be weighed are revocation of the use permit of the Lion's Share at 60 Red Hill Avenue, held by Michael Considine, and an application to operate a bar called Tale of the Tiger at 726 San Anselmo Avenue, sought by Peter Montalbano.

Other items on the brief agenda include amendments to the zoning ordinance, a request by John Komo to rezone from duplex to apartment the lots at 154-158 Tunstead Avenue, and an application of James A. and Angela Gonsman to conduct a nursery school at 1509 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Peace Officer Group Elects

Lt. Maurice D. Lafferty of the Novato Police Department was elected 1972 president of the Marin County Peace Officers Association Friday night.

He will succeed Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales.

Other officers selected were Sgt. Stan Laffsa of San Quentin, first vice-president; Officer Arthur Olson of the California Highway Patrol, second vice-president; Sgt. Henry Ingwersen of the San Rafael police, third vice-president; and Arthur H. Fellows, former San Rafael police sergeant, secretary-treasurer.

Nightmare Tucson Blaze Recalled: 28 Were Killed

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—At 12:21 a.m., Dec. 20, 1970, it was a cold 43 degrees in Tucson. Christmas lights decorated the downtown streets and partygoers were gulping down their last drinks before the bars sealed for the night.

A number of Mexicans, from the nearby state of Sonora, were in town for last minute shopping and, as usual, a great many were staying at the historic Pioneer International Hotel.

At that moment in Fire Station No. 1 a five-second blast sounded over the public address heralding the ominous announcement of a full alarm. It was the start of the worst land disaster in Arizona. A fire that claimed 28 lives, injured 35 others and caused $1.5 million in damage had broken out in the Pioneer.

The fire was a nightmare from the beginning. Occupants in the top eight stories of the hotel were caught in an inferno that blocked hallways and stairwells and gave them the terrible choice of death by asphyxiation or in a plunge to the street below.

It was miraculous that the death toll did not run higher. There were 112 guests in the 200-room hotel and another 640 were attending functions when the blaze started. Their lives were saved by the fact that the fire started on the fourth floor above them.

Others never had a chance.

The fire spread with devastating speed, making a mockery of carpets and doors that were supposed to be fireproof. The firemen pleaded with those trapped to stay on the small ledges outside some of the rooms and then saw their words go unheeded as panicstruck viotims flung themselves downward.

The list of the dead included the wife and five children of the chief of Sonor's police, a prominent Tucson department store owner and his wife, and residents of seven states and Mexico.

Police later arrested Louis C. Taylor, then 16, and charged him with arson and 28 counts of murder. Taylor, a slightly built youth, has been in and out of juvenile centers for several years.

His forthcoming trial, and the multitude of legal maneuvers that have accompanied it, has been moved to Phoenix because of publicity. Taylor, who now goes to school at a boys ranch here, is free on $10,000 bond while attorneys argue pre-trial motions.

Earlier this week the 18th lawsuit was filed against the hotel and others in connection with the fire.

The 41-year-old Pioneer, whose steel and concrete shell never crumpled, has been remodeled and reopened this month. The refurbishing cost $1 million and included a sophisicated fire detecting and automatic sprinkler system, inclosed stairways and improved fire exits.

Plea Entered By Olema Man

Sidney Edward Eschenback, 23, of Olema, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of receiving stolen goods.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set Dec. 30 for a preliminary hearing.

Eschenback was arrested by the California Highway Patrol on Dec. 12.
